ODD FELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY

The Pennsylvania Odd Fellows' Anniversary, which was held at Montoursville Tuesday, was a fine success.

The Reading street bearing the Danville contingent consisting of our four lodges and Memorial Encampment No. 140, was the first to arrive at Montoursville. The train also bore a large delegation from Pottsgrove, the lodge and Canton Mutual of Milton, with the Sons of Veterans' drum corps; Watsonville lodge with a band; Montgomery with the West End Drum Corps, of Williamsport, the Muncy Lodge with a band and a large delegation; the Stonewall delegation; the Hagiesville lodge with a band and the donkey which has made the organization famous.

The regular morning train from the South brought the Danville delegation composed of two lodges and the inmates of the Orphans' Home supported by the order of Sunbury. With the Montoursville band they marched to the headquarters of the Daughters of Rebekah. There were sixty-two children in line including a baby cripple, which was carried in the arms of one of the teachers. The children ranged in size from boys of fifteen and sixteen to lads barely able to tramp along with the others. On the same train was the Lewisburg Lodge with a band and a delegation from Shamokin.

Other towns represented were Renovo, Bellefonte, Mill Hill, Lock Haven, Williamsport, Jersey Shore, Oak Mills, Trout Run, Ralston, Roaring Branch and Canton.

The business meeting was held in the lodge rooms at 11:30 a. m. William H. Keiss was re-elected as president and H. B. Eberly as Secretary. The office of Treasurer was filled by the election of A. M. Myers of Williamsport, who succeeds H. T. Kramer.

When the next place of meeting was taken up Sunbury extended an invitation. Danville was placed in nomination by Dr. Jno. Sweisfort, Canton was also named. Sunbury, however, was selected by almost a unanimous vote.

The parade started at 2:25 o'clock and despite the drizzling rain it was a good-sized one, taking twenty minutes to pass a given point. The participants each carried an umbrella. The parade was in charge of the following:

Chief Marshal—J. E. Callahan.
Aids—S. L. Williams, H. P. Keyte, W. C. Bennett, W. H. Dougherty, D. J. Shook and Harry Baker.

FIRST DIVISION.

BRIDGE PLACED ON ABUTMENTS

The new steel plate girder bridge built along side the D. L. & W. track at Mahoning creek was lifted from its position by the two large steam derricks Sunday morning and without a single hitch or mishap placed upon the recently built concrete abutments.

The two steam derricks arrived about 7:30 o'clock, but it was after 8 before they were ready for work. By that time a crowd of some four hundred people had assembled anxious to witness the novel sight. Several cameras were in evidence, the owners seeking vantage points where they would be able to snap a picture of the bridge as it hung suspended under the large derricks.

It was nearly 8:30 o'clock before the steam derricks got in position one opposite each end of the bridge. It was truly an interesting sight. With no apparent effort the bridge all ready to receive the rails and weighing some forty-five tons was picked up bodily and swung over on the track between the two cranes, each of which was attached to a locomotive.

The engines started and with scarcely a jar the new bridge was carried into position immediately over the creek which left the cranes standing one on each shore.

The old bridge was cut loose on Friday and all that remained Sunday was to disconnect the rails and pull out a few of the ties. This accomplished at a signal the men flew to four large crabs that were firmly anchored with ropes and pulleys all connected; it required only a few revolutions before the old bridge was seen to move out of its place and slide southward down over the iron track prepared for it. The calculations were all nicely made; the old bridge left the space clear and the new bridge was dropped upon the abutments, the whole operation from the time the cranes got to work being a trifle over half an hour.

Some twenty men were employed and it was very interesting to watch their movements. Every man knew precisely what to do and when to do it and no matter how many men were swarming around the same spot they had the faculty of working without getting in each other's way. There were no orders given in a loud voice if any were given at all and beyond the puffing of the locomotives there was no noise of any kind to be heard while the work was in progress.

AT TRINITY M. E. CHURCH

Rev. E. S. Bowman, the financial agent of Williamsport Dickinson Seminary, spent Sunday in town, and preached in the morning for Rev. N. E. Cleaver in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church. He told of the work of the school, dwelling especially upon the facilities there afforded for a musical, art, and education training, besides the usual classical and scientific training of such schools. After representing the Seminary, he preached from Ephesians 5:8, 9, "For ye were sometimes in darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of the light, for the fruit of the spirit is in all goodness and righteousness and truth. Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord."

Paul's letter to the Ephesians was intended to incite the Christians there to steadfastness. The inhabitants of Ephesus were half Greek and half Asiatic, and their religion was a superstitious compound of the East and West. Diana was the chief object of worship. The temple of Diana was renowned as one of the seven wonders of the world. But St. Paul tells the people that God can make the temple of their souls far more wonderful and beautiful. The language of the text first looks inward upon the human heart, blending the physical and the spiritual life. "Ye were in darkness."

Ephesus was notorious for its luxury and licentiousness, the outward corruption was the result of the spiritual darkness. Sin is darkness, the sinner and darkness are one, as light and the Christian are one. The transformation of a sinner into a Christian is a change from darkness to light. Saul of Tarsus in his conversion is a marked illustration of this. The light that came into the life of Saul is a symbol of God himself, for God is light and God is love. The language of the text secondly looks outward upon the life. "Walk as children of the light." The Christian life is all activity proceeding from the fruit of goodness or beneficent love. A chaplain on a battlefield offered to read the Bible to a dying soldier. The soldier said that he would rather have a drink of water. The chaplain got it. Then he wanted a pillow, the chaplain got that. Then he wanted a cover for his coat and covered him. Then said the soldier "If that book tells how one man can be good to another who you have been to me, read it to me." When men live lives of practical goodness, sinners will be willing to hear the gospel. The second fruit of the Christian life is righteousness; righteousness toward God and rightness toward men. Rightness toward God may mean the payment of outlawed debts thus producing rightness toward men. The third fruit of a Christian life is truth. Again the language of the text looks upward to God, "Acceptable to the Lord." It is possible to please the heavenly Father just as it is possible to displease him. There is a famous picture in New York City entitled "A Mother's Rejection." It is the casting off from home of a fallen daughter. A picture turned to the wall. A name never mentioned. What must it be for a fallen child of God to be rejected, and to be cast into outer darkness. Live Christian lives and you will not be rejected. Walk as children of the light. Jesus said "I am the light of the world." Let that light shine in all your life. George Lansing Taylor heard the cry, when he was out on the ocean, "A man overboard," his first impulse was to run to the deck and try to help, but just then he thought of his light, and holding it to a window was just in time to throw a beam of light where the drowning man could see the rope thrown out to save him. The light saved him. You may think that you are doing very little to save a ruined world, but light always dispels darkness, and brings hope, and points to that path which grows brighter and brighter upon the perfect day.

THE PROHIBITION CONVENTION

The Montour County Prohibition Convention was held in the Court House here on Saturday afternoon. The convention was called to order by County Chairman F. P. Johnson. Among those present was Edward S. Jones of Philadelphia, brother of State Chairman Jones, who on motion of F. P. Johnson was chosen as temporary chairman.

Rev. E. B. Dunn led in prayer, after which J. M. Kello and R. W. Eggett were chosen as Secretaries.

In the absence of State Chairman Jones Rev. E. B. Dunn was called to the chair.

R. W. Eggett, Levi B. Seehler, and F. P. Johnson were appointed Congressional Conference.

On motion F. P. Johnson and Rev. E. B. Dunn were appointed delegates to the State Convention and were empowered to appoint their alternates. F. P. Johnson was made delegate to the National Convention.

The convention recommended the nomination of General Nelson A. Miles for President.

Cyrus F. Styer of West Hemlock township was nominated for County Treasurer. Thomas W. Mills of this city was the choice for Prothonotary and A. D. Crossley of West Hemlock for Assessor.

The selection of a County Committee was postponed.

There were present several ministers of the gospel, among them being Rev. Mr. Rue of Sunbury, who addressed the convention at some length. Rev. J. H. Hector, who was booked for an address here on Saturday night, was also present at the convention and gave a very acceptable talk.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT COMMITTEE

The Soldiers' Monument Committee concerning which little has been heard since last summer, has again buckled itself down to work and we are promised results commensurate with the importance of the undertaking in a very short time.

In the project to erect a soldiers' monument in Montour county very little progress has been made during several years past. Conditions are considered much more favorable now and the committee believes that if given a little more time it will be able to redeem itself. A considerable sum of money—several thousand dollars—has from time to time been subscribed for the monument.

Montour county is one of the few counties of the State which has no soldiers' monument. In many of the counties the work of erecting a suitable memorial was undertaken at an earlier day following the war when the deeds and heroism of the fallen heroes were still fresh upon the mind of the living, and the patriotism and the gratitude of the masses were more effectively appealed to. Another disadvantage in the present case lies in the fact that Montour county is small and that of the money subscribed nearly the entire amount will have to come from Danville. Hon. James Foster, Chairman of the Committee, is confident, however, that the money needed can be raised and he stated yesterday that a very short time will be required, if the present plans are carried out, to reveal material results.

REV. HECTOR ON LIQUOR QUESTIONS

An audience of several hundred people assembled in the Court House on Saturday evening to hear Rev. J. H. Hector, "The Black Knight," in his attack on the License Law.

Rev. Hector is a witty and original speaker and it is a question whether there was ever a prohibition address delivered in this city that commanded closer interest or was in a general way more effective. The speaker had a this command all the old arguments against the License Law as well as a few new ones. He is a complete master of ridicule and in pointing out the alleged inconsistencies relating to the law and the customs of society he handled a certain class of church members and even the clergy without gloves.

Of the various temperance crusades started on foot by the churches, he said, there was only one which gave the devil much concern and that was the W. C. T. U., which he said, means to the liquor dealer: "Women Continually Tormenting Us." He later qualified his opinion somewhat, stating that Satan by working upon political preachers and weak-kneed and selfish church members has learned how to defeat or neutralize the best efforts of the W. C. T. U., as well as any other temperance organization.

Mr. Hector is a full blooded negro and wholly self-educated. Speaking of the race problem, he said, the negro in the South is not asking for social equality. Social equality exists there, however, contrary to what is supposed and it is worthy of note that it is a condition that was inaugurated by the white man and not by the black man. Such social equality exists in the drinking places where the negro is taught that he is just as good and just as welcome as the white man.

Toussaint upon the numerous wars which have occurred between the whites and blacks, he said it could be shown that racial antipathies had less to do with them than the influence of the liquor evil. He ran over the list of disturbances which have agitated our country of late years and in every instance traced the outbreak to a drunken white man and a drunken negro. He cited facts connected with the Civil war which stand as a tribute to the negro race for its devotion to the white race, its self-sacrifice and its law abiding qualities.

The singing was a very pleasing feature of the evening not only by Madame Lyons, but also by the two ladies who accompanied her. It is said of Madame Lyons that her voice has been heard well nigh round the world. Her singing Saturday night elicited great applause.

FROM SMYRNA TO BEYROUT

To the American—My last letter was mailed to you at Smyrna. We are now on our way to Beyroul. Our visit to Smyrna and Ephesus, though very brief, was nevertheless of the greatest interest to all. Our vessel, owing to its size, could not get into the dock, and was, therefore, compelled to cast anchor far out in the harbor, from whence we proceeded to shore in large boats. Horse cars were in waiting on shore to take us to the station of the Ottoman Railroad, from whence we proceeded fifty-five miles by railroad, to Ephesus. This road is provided with good cars and solid roadbed. Electricity is used for lighting the cars. The country through which we passed in going from Smyrna to Ephesus was of the most picturesque character. Our road ran through a fertile valley, containing well-kept gardens and farms, where oranges, figs, olives, grapes and garden truck were growing in abundance—grapes, olives and figs were not yet in bloom, but everything was green and promising. On both sides of the beautiful valley through which we passed were high mountains, forming a charming background to the general view. Caravans of camels and donkeys were to be seen on the road, and presented a novel sight as they wended their way from place to place. Oxen are used for plowing, and in many places ancient plows are used, though here and there we noticed farming implements of modern make. Everywhere throughout this country shepherds and their sheep were seen which sight reminded us of the Bible story of the Great Shepherd. A peculiar outgrowth is worn by the shepherds, which is made of very thick white felt, and is quite large, somewhat stiffened at the shoulders and serves as a protection from wet and cold weather. We did not notice many song birds, but storks of great size abound and live near the people, and in many instances make their nests on high places, right in the towns. They are particularly numerous about old ruins and disused buildings.

For the first time since we left New York we encountered a disagreeable day. The rain and wind were particularly unpleasant features of part of our trip. The weather was warm and pleasant and gave us opportunity to visit the stores and bazaars in Smyrna.

Smyrna has a beautiful street along the water front, where ships make fast directly opposite the largest business houses. Further up the street are the finest residences of the city. Like other Eastern cities there was a mixed crowd on the dock to meet us and there were also the various cab drivers and sellers of curios and peddlers seeking to sell their wares.

The people seemed glad to see us, and as we rode past their houses, men and women leaned out of their windows to wave their hands at us.

Smyrna is the principal commercial city of the Levant and was founded in 688 B. C. It is one of the cities adorned by John in Rev. 2:8-12. Smyrna produces the finest figs, dates and raisins to be found anywhere. For an English shilling (24 cents) a box containing about 3 pounds of the best figs can be secured. These and other splendid fruit were offered for sale at every turn at reasonable prices.

There are mosques and churches and schools here, also an American college. The streets are narrow, and with the crowds of people of all nationalities and the horses and sheep and mules make their way from place to place. The city contains 335,000 people, is 289 miles from Constantinople and 686 miles from Jaffa.

The most interesting monument in Smyrna is the tomb of Polycarp, one of the most celebrated characters in ancient Christendom, who was Bishop of Smyrna, and had been a disciple of the Apostle John. He suffered martyrdom in 166.

At Ephesus, some on donkeys and horses, others on foot, accompanied by natives, we went by the road, trod by men of old, to visit the Temple of Diana, the Theatre, into which the people rushed and raved against Paul, shouting "Great is Diana of the Ephesians." This theatre seated 25,000 persons. We also visited the Forum and "Church of St. John," which still stands in a partly ruined condition. The "Roman Gate of Persecution," where Christians are supposed to have suffered martyrdom, is also standing, and we passed under its arch.

Leaving Smyrna for Beyroul on our way we passed the Island of Patmos, where John wrote the Apocalypse. We also passed the Islands of Rhodes and Cyprus. These places are of great interest, and from a distance present a most beautiful appearance.

I will write again concerning Beyroul and my trip overland, on horseback, from Caiffa to Califfe and Samaria, which will occupy seven days and a half, and will include the Plain of Esdras to Nazareth, Mt. Tabor and through Galilee to Nazareth, Nain, Samaria, Joseph's Tomb, Jacob's Well, Shiloh and the Fount of the Kings.

Best wishes to all,
WM. D. LAUMASTER.

ANSWER IT HONESTLY.

Are the Statements of Danville Citizens Not More Reliable Than Those of Uter Strangers?

This is a vital question. It is fraught with interest to Danville.

It permits of only one answer. I cannot be evaded or ignored. A Danville citizen speaks here. A citizen's statement is reliable. An utter stranger's doubtful. Home proof is the best proof.

Josiah Williams, of 30 Ash street, barber, says: "I did not have to use a whole box of Doan's Kidney Pills before they cured my back of depressing aching and removed the lameness which had made every moment painful. The lameness centered right over my kidneys, and stooping or lifting sent a sharp twinge through me. When on my feet a dull gnawing pain took all the vim out of me. I gave some to Mr. C. H. Stoes of 217 E. Mahoning St., and as I had no further use for them, he was pleased as I with the positive results obtained."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Why So Bashful?

An exchange prints the following:—Why should a young man and a young woman fear publicity of the fact that they are about to be married? Why are many young couples so anxious to keep the procuring of a marriage license a secret? Some young people, and some not so young, appear to labor under the impression that nobody has any right to know that they are about to enter the matrimonial state. And yet for months and sometimes years these people have been spooning and cooing like turtle doves in public until everybody knew that their ultimate fate would be to be yoked together with the matrimonial noose.

This attempt to keep the public in the dark when a couple seek a marriage license is false modesty or squeamishness. There is nothing to be ashamed of in connection with a wedding, where the ceremony is to be performed in a legal manner. The bride-to-be who, with her future lord, sneaks in to the court house under cover of darkness to get a marriage license, will, after the ceremony has been performed, be angry because the whole world does not know that she is a wife. Her bashfulness will be supplanted with chagrin if the newspapers do not devote half a column of space in describing her debut as a married woman. Why, then, should she play the part of a bashful schoolgirl when applying for a marriage license?

Out Again.

Connimolan D. A. Montgomery, who was confined to his home by illness all winter is able to be out again. On Sunday he took a ride, which was the first that he was out of doors since taken ill on the 16th of November.

M. M. Austin, of Winchester, Ind., knew what to do in the hour of need. His wife had such an unusual case of stomach and liver trouble, physicians could not help her. Former Resident's Advancement.

C. S. Beaver, a former resident of Danville, and a son of the late Jesse Beaver, has been promoted to the position of Assistant Superintendent of railway mails with headquarters in Jacksonville, Florida.

Mr. Beaver was formerly clerk of the railway mail service and the promotion is regarded as a deserved compliment to him as a recognition of his worth and efficiency.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents, drug store, at Paules & Co's. Drug store.

G. A. R. Encampment.

The National Encampment of the Grand Army this year is to be held in Boston, and a greater attendance is predicted than since its organization. It will take place the second week in August. The novel feature of the encampment is to be an automobile parade to Concord, Lexington and other historical places, with an array of 700 automobiles in line. The governor of all the New England States are to join in the demonstration by inviting the old soldier visitors to make an excursion to their respective States.

Twenty-Three Inch Trout.

From up at Almaida comes a fish story that will make even the old fishermen in Danville take a seat, away back in the shade. No doubt they will say it isn't straight, or it was an accident, especially as a young lady happened to be the lucky fisherman. Miss Floesie Trembley, of Almaida, Saturday succeeded in capturing the largest trout of the season. The fine speckled beauty measured just twenty-three and three-quarter inches in length and weighed three and one-half pounds. The fine fellow was caught in one of the pools of water that fills the slopes of the Silver Spring Quarry Company near the former plant of the Almaida Mining Company. Miss Trembley about this time last year succeeded in landing one thirteen inch and one seven-ton inch trout from the same body of water.

The Purchase Exposition.

On Saturday next President Roosevelt will, at his office in Washington, push the electric button that will set in motion the machinery at the great St. Louis Exposition, which commemorates the acquisition of the Louisiana territory by the United States one hundred years ago.

The formal opening will be celebrated with all the pomp that our republican manners permit. The secretary of war will represent the President; the senate and the house of representatives will have committees present, there will be governors of states and commissioners of foreign nations whose citizens are exhibitors at the fair; military guards of honor will attend the chief personages. The chairman of the committee on grounds and buildings will hand the keys to the director of works, who in turn will deliver them to the director of exhibits, there will be addresses by foreign and domestic exhibitors and by the secretary of war.

The St. Louis Exposition will surpass in size and beauty the "white city" at Chicago, and the electrical and other wonders at Buffalo. It will be the largest exposition yet held in this country. The exhibits devoted to the displays of various forms of industry will be larger than those at any earlier fair, and the variety of exhibits greater. Every manifestation of human activity of the great event in history which it commemorates.
