ASSASSIN HAS PARTLY CONFESSED

ST. PETERSBURG, July 3.-The assassin of Minister of the Interior M. Von Plehve is said to have made a partial confession, in which he declared that for a long time he was a school teacher in a rural district and was greatly interested in the Zemstvo, for the curtailment of whose powers he blamed the dead minister.

He still absolutely refuses to displose his name. A watch is kept on him day and night, not only in order to prevent his doing himself bodily barm, but in the belief that he may betray himself in his sleep. Thus far he has only muttered two words in sleep-endearing diminutives for Peter and Natalie, probably the names of a comrade and sweetheart.

The police have discovered that a third accomplice was concerned in the morder plot and that he was stationed on a quay on the Neva, where one of the imperial yachts was moored on the chance that the minister might go to Peterhoff that day by boat.

Merry Go Round.

A merry-go-round installed at Washingtonville for a few days past has been doing a land office business. It is a novelty in the way of sport that the juveniles of that borough seldom have an opportunity of indulging in and they naturally are inclined to make the most of it. The hobby horses, which were formerly in commission at Hunter's Park, will leave for Berwick next Monday.

ANTIQUITY OF THE ROSE.

The Flower Goes Back Beyond the Most Ancient Records. The royal rose has a pedigree to shame any other queen, it is so long, so full of enchanting turns and twists pearance and perfume the most tropical of blossoms, she is yet by nativity a flower of north temperate latitudes. Her habitat is bounded north and south, roughly speaking, by the twentieth and the seventieth parallels. She grows wild all over Europe, in Africa through India and in North America to the edge of Mexico.

Most wild roses are single, yet Pliny mentions double ones, among them the hundred leaf, and Herodotus says, 'Macedonia has gardens of Midas, with roses of sixty petals breathing out a delightful perfume." Whoever has read Roman history must recall the roses of Paestum, which bloomed twice a year. Notwithstanding this grees west thirty-one and three-ten-Rome's favorite rose was the Hundred | the perches to a stone; south sixty- gess and the said Town Council for Leaf. rhodon, has the same meaning. So have most rose names in any language. Botanically the flower gives name to the great natural order rosaceae. Artificially it is classed under polygoniae. the many angled. The wild forms have always fleshy, urn or pitcher shaped calyxes, twenty or more stamens, five petals and five sepals. The sepals show a bit of nature's most cunning work. Two of them are bearded at both edges, two without beards and the fifth bearded at one edge and straight along the other. Thus they inclose the bud with a bearded over lap along every seam, good to repel moisture and to put to rout every intrusive creeping thing. Rose culture's beginning goes back beyond records. The flower is mentioned in the earliest Coptic manu scripts. India's traditions take the rose to the times of the gods on earth. Egypt had roses, wild and tame, before the Roman occupation made it in a way Rome's commercial rose garden Yet, curiously enough, there is no reference to the flower in painting, sculpture or hieroglyphics. Japan in our time parallels Egypt. Roses flourish there, but do not serve as a motif for artists. There is this further likeness -neither Egypt nor Japan has a rose song or a love song proper, so it may well be that madam the rose is aveng-ed for the slight. The Jews, returning from the Babylonish captivity, took with them recompense of roses. Semiramis, with the world at her feet, found her chief joy in a bower of roses. Mohammed turned back from Damascus after viewing it encircled with rose gardens "It is too delightful. A man can have but one paradise," said the prophet. Damascus lies in the heart of Syria whose name some geographers derive from seri, meaning a wild rose, and wild roses are abundant there. damask roses of our gardens go back to Damascus.
