Many complaints are also made in regard to the corn drying properly. The grains should dry on the cob close together, in order to retain the moisture but in every crop much of the corn is separating and the cob can be easily seen between the rows. This has a tendency to spoil it to some extent and makes an appreciable difference in its sale as feed.

Reifsnyder, Albert Lloyd, Arthur Dietrich and John H. Goeser, comprising the Streets and Bridges Committee and W. F. Pascoe and F. C. Angle, Esq., of the Danville and Bloomsburg Street Railway Company, the site of the proterm of five years under Captain Fred posed A street underground crossing was visited and fully gone over.

The Reading company officials have made a proposition to put in a roadway thirty feet in width running under their tracks at the foot of A street, which will open up that thoroughfare and form a connection with Walnut street. In return the Reading company desires the Borough to close the crossing leading over the tracks between Walnut and Cross streets.

The roadway under the tracks as pro posed, would be plenty wide enough to accommodate the trolley line and all vehicles that would have occasion to use it. The roadway would be accessible from Nicholas avenue and could be used with as much convenience and more safety than the crossing now being used at Cross street. Many people are of the opinion that
