CONDENSED NEWS.

Good coal burning weather.
The primaries come on apace.
Don't forget to write it 1905.
Have you learned to write it 1905?
Be careful there, don't make it a 4.
The fishers have organized a Knockers' Association.
The harvesters are beginning to have forebodings.
The Legislature is now a part of our daily affairs.
Danville made commendable progress last year. Let us hope for even better results this year.
Jury Commissioners Curtis Cook
and Boyd Moore will fill the jury wheel this week for the year 1905.
Two of Barnum and Bailey's camels one of them it is said, 67 years old,
died at Kleinfeltersville, Berks county,
where they were in winter quarters.
The fellow with a New Year's resolu-

Talking about weather! The new year made a peculiar start.
The time is here to look around for the very best men to fill the offices at the February election.
One of the best resolves for young men is to become members of the "water wagon" crew for the year.
Stick resolutely by your good resolutions.
Miners are looking forward to a prosperous year in 1905. The demand for coal at present is enormous, and there is every indication that the colliers will be kept hard at work for some time.

PREPARING FOR RELIEF WORK

The Woman's Benevolent Association of Danville will hold their first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. S. Y. Thompson this afternoon at 3 o'clock.
It is customary to devote this first meeting of the season entirely to plans for a busy season's work. The officers at present are Mrs. S. Y. Thompson, president, Miss Helen T. Magill, secretary, and Mrs. I. A. Persing, treasurer. The vice presidents are: Mrs. Mary Kline, Miss Penina Bright, Mrs. R. K. Polk, Mrs. J. B. Gearhart, Mrs. George M. Gearhart and Miss Maggie Murray.
At the meeting today officers for the ensuing year will be elected, and two managers from each church in Danville appointed to represent that congregation in the relief work during the year.
This annual meeting will be followed by regular meetings held every three weeks throughout the rest of the winter in the rooms of the Woman's Benevolent Association in the third story of the Thomas Beaver Free Library. These meetings last all day and the time is spent in sewing for the poor. The ladies try not only to supply immediate demands in the way of bedding and wearing apparel, but endeavor to create a surplus of the same which will be available during the early part of the following winter before the Association gets down to work.
Already during this winter there have been appeals to the Association for help, to which the ladies of the Association have responded. The Woman's Benevolent Association has been in existence a number of years, and at all times has been ready to lend a helping hand to the deserving poor. One during dull times the Association maintained a store room from which the necessities of life were dispensed. After the great food of last winter, when many families were left destitute, the aid given by this organization kept starvation and probably death from many a home. Many widows, who are supporting families are helped by the donations of coal, bedding and provisions. During last year the lives of many sick persons were saved, but for the supplies received from the Benevolent Association, would have died.
The field in which these ladies are working, and the benefit that accrues from their labors can hardly be reckoned, but still they are handicapped and are not able to do good to the extent that is possible in this community. The lack of funds curtails greatly the amount of good that might be done here. The Wolf Fund of $1200 a year, the offering at the Union Thanksgiving service and the 25 cents that each member pays are the only means that come regularly into the treasury.
Under the method of choosing managers of each church in town the Association is able to keep in touch with the deserving poor, and is in a position to determine at short notice the worthiness or unworthiness of every case that comes up, and thus is an agency that can be prevented by a lack of resources only, from accomplishing unlimited good.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER

The week of prayer is being generally observed in the churches in this city, and the Lutheran and Reformed denominations will close the latter part of the week, with preparatory services preceding the celebration of Holy Communion, Sunday morning.
At the Shiloh Reformed church the Rev. George E. Limbert opened a series of meetings on Monday of last week. Services were held every evening during the week, the regular pastor being assisted by other ministers of that denomination. Last Monday evening the meetings were diverged into the week of prayer services, Mr. Limbert conducting them alone and preaching every night. They will close Friday evening with a preparatory service, and Holy Communion will be celebrated Sunday morning.
The Grove Presbyterian church is having a very successful week of prayer, from 125 to 150 being in attendance every night. The Brookfield singing and responsive reading service is being used, followed by a short talk by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. McCormick. The subject last night was, "The Suffering Savior," picturing the scenes in the Garden of Gethsemane on the night before the crucifixion. The services commence at 7:45, and close at 8:30. They will be concluded Friday evening.
Evangelistic services are being held in the United Evangelical church, this week and the attendance is large each evening.
At the Pine Street Lutheran church the week of prayer services will close Friday evening, with the preparatory service. Holy Communion on Sunday morning.

BOROUGH COUNCIL
HEARS REPORTS

The Borough Council Saturday evening held a special meeting for the purpose of paying bills and hearing the reports required to wind up municipal affairs for the past year besides transacting any other business that might come up for consideration.
The following members were in their places: Messrs. Davis, Reifsynder, Vastine, Swank, Boyer, Goesser, Dietrich, Lloyd and Joseph Gibson. President Davis presided.
The annual report of Chief of Police Mincey was presented. During the year numerous arrests had been made and fines imposed amounting to $168.00 for the following violations of the law. Drunkenness, disorderly conduct, profanity, fast driving, shooting fire works, selling bad meat, nuisance and card playing. The report showed that 211 tramps had been furnished lodging in the lock-up. On motion the report was accepted and ordered spread upon the minutes.
The report of John Sherwood, Chief Engineer of the Fire Department was then presented. This report contained a detailed inventory of the entire equipment of the department, by companies, as well as a record of all fires which occurred during the year, with a statement of loss, also the amount of insurance on each building. Below we give the fire report:
March 10, Thomas Tully loss $157.14, insured.

Italians are Paid Off.
The action brought several weeks ago by the Polish Brewing Company against Charles Battaglia, which resulted in an attachment being issued, attaching money in the hands of Sweigard & Company, garnishee, contractors for the Asylum sewer and presumed to be due Battaglia for goods and merchandise furnished the laborers and by agreement held out of the wages of Sweigard & Company's employees, having been adjusted between the parties involved in the proceedings, the Italians who were refused their two weeks pay on Saturday last, were given the money due them yesterday afternoon.
They were paid off at the Hotel Oliver, and for over an hour a large gang of them stood at the front entrance of the hotel awaiting the opening of the door and the calling out of the number by which each was known. Only one was permitted to enter the cashier's room at a time, consequently there was quite an interval between the cashing off of the first and last. When all had received their money they took their departure quietly and apparently much happier than they had been since being refused their pay, on account of their money being attached.
Every day since Saturday they had been calling in crowds at the office of Squire Dalton, trying to persuade that magistrate to start proceedings. They became quite frenzied at times, and made many remarks that bordered closely on threats.
Entertained at Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. George Leighow entertained the following guests at dinner on Friday: Mr. and Mrs. William Leighow of Jerseytown; Mrs. Samuel Wilcox and son Byron, Scranton; Mrs. F. C. Hunt, son Clarence and Miss Mildred Hunt, of Williamsport; Charles Leighow, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pentz, Mrs. Charles Askins, Miss Lucinda Leighow, Mrs. Charles Rishel and Harold Pentz, of Danville.

LEG CUT OFF
BY TRAIN

William Books, the 16-years-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Books, of West Mahoning street, while attempting to alight from the 4:33 D. L. & W. passenger train near the Mill street crossing on Monday afternoon was thrown under the wheels, receiving injuries that necessitated the amputation of the right leg below the knee.
Young Books was at one time a Morning News carrier. Lately he has been the agent for the New York Journal in Danville. His papers came on the 4:33 D. L. & W. and it has been his custom to board the train and sell papers to the passengers, alighting at Mill street, when the train reduces speed for the crossing. On account of an extra coach having been added to the train on Monday he was unable to go entirely through the train before reaching Mill street.
Books attempted to alight from the rear platform of the next to the last car, but in doing so he held onto the railing too long and lost his balance. His body was thrown under the wheels, and his right leg crushed.
Notwithstanding, however, the extent of his injuries, he laid stated on Monday night that he felt no pain, and did not realize how badly he was hurt. His first thought after falling was that his clothing would be too much soiled to appear on the streets and deliver his papers.
He was taken to Dr. Paules' drug store where the leg was amputated below the knee by Dr. Corry, assisted by D. S. Stock, Wintersteen, Paules and Newbaker.
The condition of William Books, whose right leg was amputated on Monday as a result of injuries received from falling under the wheels of a D. L. & W. passenger train, was more serious last night than at any time since the accident.
The lad had been steadily improving since Monday evening and on Tuesday evening was pronounced out of danger. Yesterday morning, however, a gangrenous condition of the wound, due to obstructed circulation in one of the arteries, developed.
This development is very serious, and may make it necessary to operate again on the leg. The doctors will hold a consultation upon the case this morning.

ELEMENTS
INTERFERED

The Mummies had a very successful parade Monday afternoon, considering the way they were handicapped by the elements. Notwithstanding the pleasant weather of Sunday and that the bureau had predicted a continuance of the same, a great change occurred during the night. A torrent of rain was falling in the morning, with no indications of a let up. It continued all day and until late Monday night.
The enthusiasm which Mummies and all others interested in the success of the event had felt the day before was somewhat lessened at the outlook. Undaunted, however, the management prepared to do the best they could, hoping against hope that the storm clouds would scatter, and the rain cease to fall by noon, at least. In that they were disappointed, as it was raining as freely as it had at any time since commencing. The streets were in a deplorable condition for marching. Slush, mud and water prevailed everywhere. They were a hard proposition to tackle viewed from every standpoint.
But there were only two ways to overcome the obstacles. They had either to be encountered, or the parade called off, and as the latter would have been too great a disappointment to the many people lining the sidewalks to witness the pageantry, the former was decided upon. Previous to that word had been sent to headquarters that eight floats would not appear in line, because of the fabric with which they were trimmed being too delicate to stand the rain. Similar disappointing announcements came from other quarters. The South Side delegation could not get here, and many residing at Berwick, Bloomsburg, Catawissa, Milton and Sunbury who expected to participate in the parade, gave up the trip on account of the weather. The venture in the face of all these difficulties was finally made.
The parade formed on Market street, at the Washington Engine house, and moved at 1:30 o'clock. The rain was still falling, but the masqueraders moved along to the music in advance apparently as well satisfied as though the sun was shining. The spectators was better than was expected, the few in line making a fine appearance and causing much amusement to the crowds on the sidewalks along the route of the parade.
Chief Marshal Ralph Kiser and his aids were followed by a squad of firemen as a guard of honor. Then came the Mechanic's band, rendering a lively rag time air for the benefit of the fantastic division directly in their rear. The majority of the costumes and make-ups of the mummies, while amusing were not of the unusual. Others, though were the reverse, revealing the face and study the designers had given them in order to attract special attention, and to receive the applause of the spectators and, perhaps, some of the prizes offered by the committee.
The Washington Drum Corps came next and behind it a division composed of floats and wagons, the latter appropriately trimmed and decorated.
Among the most amusing and interesting features of the parade were the following:
A miniature electric light plant on a float. On one side of the wagon was the inscription: "16 to 1" on the other "Danville Municipal Electric Light Plant," and at the rear, "Keep your hands off the Engine and Dynamo." A tribe of Indians on horseback and in costume and native war paint was not only an amusing, but an interesting feature.
A large road wagon filled with a lot of rural looking people and representing a delegation of farmers coming to town, attracted its share of attention.
Miller's junk wagon was elaborately decorated with gum shoes, rubber boots, rags and paper bags.
Charles Johnson in the garb of a hunter, gained many complimentary remarks as he moved along the streets, loaded with a rifle and a lot of game.
Two business floats were much admired. That of the Stem Shoe Company was prettily trimmed, containing samples of the goods made by the firm and bore the inscription: "Encourage Home Industry."
DeLoamp's ice wagon was another pretty turnout. It was appropriately trimmed.
John Hollister personated a double man. His upright hands encased in shoes and an imitation of a head suspended downward between his knees, gave him an unique and comical appearance.
Little Donald McClure, the 7 year old son of W. L. McClure, cashier of the First National Bank, took the role of Mrs. Chadwick and did his part well. With satchels and placards in his hands and suspended from his person, he informed the public who he was and that he had in his possession cash, bonds and mortgages to burn.
A. C. Amesbury with his hand organ and goat attracted his share of attention.
A giraffe with neck towering high above everything else in the parade, attracted a lot of attention. Its propelling powers were furnished by three boys, Frank and William Baker and C. Lake, and it was a unique advertising scheme devised by Cleaver, the dry goods dealer.
The parade was reviewed by the judges at three different places, who after the disbandment, decided to whom the prizes should be awarded and turned the list over to the committee so that the latter could distribute them to the proper persons.

DEATH OF PROMI-NENT CITIZEN

Captain George Lovett, one of Danville's best known citizens, died at his home, 212 Vine street, at about 7 o'clock Sunday evening.
After suffering with a severe cold and pleurisy, Mr. Lovett recovered and had been out and around town for two weeks previous to Wednesday, when he was taken with a severe chill which was the beginning of the end. During the time he was able to come down street, he visited the office of the AMERICAN. In his death Danville has lost a useful citizen, and thereby a kind husband and a loving father.
He was 69 years of age, being born in Ireland in 1836. In 1858 he came to America, and located in Philadelphia. A year later he located in this city. He first worked in a rolling mill, where he remained for several years. Later he served for a term as assistant Superintendent of the Waterman & Beaver mills, now the Reading Iron Company. In 1863 he enlisted in Company A, 132nd Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry; was made quartermaster sergeant and took part in the engagement at South Mountains, Antietam and Fredericksburg. He was wounded at Antietam but served the enlistment and was discharged in 1863. He re-enlisted after being at home for a short time and became a member of the First Battalion, P. V. I. He was elected Captain of Company D, and when the regiment was consolidated into the 187th P. V. I., he was made Captain of Company K, and entered the Army of the Potomac at Bowling Green. He was in the battle of Cold Harbor, the first engagement in front of Petersburg and led his Company when they charged Fort Hill, where 8 of his men were killed and many wounded. In the next engagement while on the skirmish line, he was severely wounded in the arm, and returning home on a furlough. He remained three months. At the end of that time he rejoined his regiment and was discharged in 1865. After his return from the service he was employed in the rolling mill, but after the organization of the Danville Store Works he was engaged with that Company.
Mr. Lovett served two terms as member of the School Board, six years as a member of Borough Council and four years as clerk of that body. In 1877 he was a candidate on the Republican ticket for member of Assembly and his opponent, the late Jesse Ammerman, only defeated him by three votes. He was a member of the Independent Order of Red Men, and passed all the chairs; also a member of the Trinity M. E. church, the G. A. R., and was several times a delegate to the Republican County and State Conventions. He was married in 1878 to Miss Kate Herr, who with the following children, survive him—Walter S., Jennie M., Margaret H., and Frank W.
The funeral of the late Captain George Lovett, whose death occurred Sunday evening, took place from the family residence, 212 Vine street, yesterday afternoon. Impressive services were held at 2 o'clock, the Rev. N. E. Cleaver, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, officiating. Goodrich Post, No. 22, G. A. R. attended the obsequies in a body, being present at the house and accompanying the casket to the cemetery, where the beautiful burial service that organization was used and the customary salute fired over the grave.
Two of Mr. Lovett's former comrades in arms from out of town, were among the Grand Army men who gathered around the casket containing all that was mortal of the man with whom they stood, shoulder to shoulder, on many hotly contended battle fields during the dark days of the great rebellion. They were Edward W. Roderick, of Canal Dover, Ohio, who is visiting his son in this city at the present time, and Daniel J. Newman, of Scranton. The latter was a member of the 132nd Regiment, P. V. I., and the present secretary of the Regimental Association, of which Mr. Lovett was president at the time of his death.
The last reunion of the Association was held at Antietam, September 17, 1904, the anniversary of the battle in which the deceased was wounded. A regimental monument was unveiled at that reunion, and the officers for the ensuing year elected, Mr. Lovett being honored with the presidency of the Association.
Six comrades served as pall bearers, three from the 132nd Regiment and three from the 187th. The former was represented by Hon. James Foster, Hon. F. G. Blee and O. B. Sweitzer, and the latter by John Sechler, G. W. Jackson and E. B. Brown. Interment was made in the Episcopal cemetery.
Mr. Morgan's Boat Ride.
The second trip across the river since the ice moved, and the first passage from the South side to Danville was made on Saturday morning by Galen Morgan, construction superintendent of the bridge work.
Mr. Morgan used the boat that Daniel Ross made the first trip in last Friday. He started at the ferry landing, and although the ice in the river was still running thickly, he came straight across the river, landing above the bridge.
His purpose in making the trip was to go to Red Point and look into the condition of the fifth work that was swept from the fifth span when the ice moved. The lumber lies imbedded in the ice alongside the shore at that place.

Nuss-Smith.
Walter D. Nuss, of South Danville, and Miss Anna C. Smith, of Sunbury, were united in marriage on Saturday evening, December 31, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young 919 East Market street, this city. Rev. E. B. Dana, pastor of the United Evangelical church, tied the nuptial knot.

Now a Bank Clerk.
Ralph Bard, a former Riverside boy, has received the appointment of clerk in the office of the Sunbury Trust and Safe Deposit Company.

New Year's Eve Dance.
Miss Sara E. DeLong entertained a number of friends at her home, Blue Springs farm, Saturday evening. A dance was enjoyed at the DeLong club house and the New Year was ushered in with a fine display of fireworks.
The guests included: Mrs. W. C. Farnsworth and daughter, Miss Margaret Farnsworth, of Harrisburg, Miss Lavina Hutchinson, of Philadelphia, Miss Elizabeth Trexler, of Sunbury, Miss Kathleen TenEyck Brown, of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Charles DeLong, Miss Blanche DeLong, Miss Mary Yorks, Frank E. DeLong, T. M. Merryweather, F. Pursel Angle, Theodore R. Angle and Jack Boyer, of Catawissa.
