PAIR OF JAPANESE WERE FOUND DEAD
NEW YORK, May 10.—Side by side in the morgue a Japanese woman and man lie dead today. The man has a bullet wound behind the left ear and the woman has a wound in her breast and another in her head.
The names of the dead pair are unknown but the police are convinced that the man shot and killed the woman and then committed suicide in the Dry Dock hotel where their bodies were found.
They registered there as "Myron Lewis and wife, New York," yesterday morning. In killing the woman the Japanese set the room on fire but extinguished it with his bare hands, burning himself severely. He then ended his own life.
They registered there as "Myron Lewis and wife, New York," yesterday morning. In killing the woman the Japanese set the room on fire but extinguished it with his bare hands, burning himself severely. He then ended his own life.

Poet and philosopher was the Japanese and from verses and quotations from Huxley and Spencer found in his pocket it is believed that he and the woman may be the victims of a love tragedy. Some of the poems were written in English, German and in Japanese.
One of the Japanese poems translated, read as follows: "My darling, I cannot live without thee."
Weep no more, my little darling, I beg thee;
Weep no more, for I'll return to thee,
Dry thy eyes, although the seas divide us,
Sweet words of love shall reach thee
yet from me."
The Jap was handsomely dressed and the woman with him was neatly gowned. The man had the bearing of a soldier. In his pockets was also found a racing card, indicating that he had made several wagers at the race track. One of the quotations of the man's own writing read:
"Woman never cares for a man until he ceases to care for her."
The police are trying to identify the bodies. There are no clues except that the man probably bought his hat in San Francisco, the hat mark bearing the name of that city.

The Busy Man's Garden.
Most busy men leave home early in the morning and get back late in the evening. But they generally have one or two hours of daylight and Saturday afternoons in which they can find health, pleasure and profit, by digging it out of the front and back yards. The only reason more men do not have fine yards and gardens is because they are too lazy. Here are some suggestions for those who desire to work small city lots:
In the front some climbers will be wanted to drape and shade the porch or veranda. For a south side or end the Virginia Creeper will give a dense shade, and there is nothing better for the purpose; on the north east or west, may be planted Clematis paniculata or C. Jackmanii, and Hall's Honeysuckle is very desirable. If the house is a brick or stone the Japan Ampelopsis or Boston Ivy can be planted at the base of the wall and it will quickly furnish a large space with its shining green foliage; if the house is a wooden one the same vine can be planted to run in the foundation wall and be kept restricted to that. This produces a very pleasing effect.

There is no room at the front of the lot for large trees, but near the corner most remote from the house may be planted an Althea or Rose of Sharon, or a Japan Quince. The rest of the front is free—merely the lawn. Opposite the middle of the house and on the far side of the lot near the line may be a little group of flowering shrubs, say, Weigela roses, Spiraea Binardi and Hardy Hydrangeas; these will give bloom from early to late.
On the back lot may be trained some hardy climbing vines, or if not they will be covered by foliage or shrubbery. Around the lines of the back lot, sides and end, make a garden border for hardy shrubs and flowering plants. This border may be a uniform width of four or five feet, but the straight lines will look somewhat stiff, instead of running the line of the border straight, make it waving, running in and out, in easy, gentle curves, making the border from four to seven feet in width and there will be from seventy-five to a hundred feet of it in length, according to the size of the lot. Here are to be planted flowering shrubs and hardy flowering plants. Your nursery man will tell you what is best suited to your climate. The rest of the ground is to be kept an open lawn.

Getting New Business.
The old-fashioned idea that it would be contrary to the ethics of banking for a conservative financial institution to make a public bid for new business through newspaper advertising has been pretty effectively exploded. Bank advertising is almost as common now, as ads for shoes or grocery advertising, and equally effective. The Philadelphia Record cites the experience of the Commercial State Bank of Grand Island, Nebraska, as typical. By four years of dignified publicity it has built up a volume of deposits equal to that which it took a competitor 20 years to accumulate. It is as easy to influence people in the disposition of their savings as it is to guide them in their spending.

SENT ELEVEN TO THE GALLOWES
The death a week ago, of Captain Thomas Alderson, of Devil's Lake, N. D., removed one of the few surviving figures of the bloody Mollie Maguire Rebellion in the anthracite region.
Alderson was chief of the Reading Coal and Iron Police, and in his campaign against the Mollies, he co-operated with James McParlan, the famous detective whose discoveries resulted in six hangings at Pottsville in one day. McParlan, like Alderson, was threatened scores of times with assassination, but he is still living in the West and is hale and prosperous.
Captain Alderson, who held his office until 1887, was credited with having made the suggestion to President Franklin B. Gowen, of the Reading, that Alan Pinkerton be employed to expose the Mollies. It was the result of the calling in of the Pinkerton men that McParlan, who became widely known throughout the anthracite region as "James McKenna," became an actor in the terrible tragedy.
It was in February 1876, that Captain Alderson's most delicate work against the Mollies, was accomplished. By that time, after his long residence in the coal region, suspicion had become aroused as to the identity of McParlan, and it was necessary to guard him with the greatest vigilance for fear he should be murdered and all the results of the investigation during the past years be lost.
The men who had so long carried the affairs of the county with a high hand were now in a state of demoralization. They apparently realized that they were at the end of their career. The prison and the gallows loomed up before them. They were determined to destroy all evidence of their criminal acts. The books and papers of the society were burned and it was resolved to murder McParlan.
A letter was sent to the detective from police headquarters in order to deceive the Mollies. McParlan had all along pretended to be a fugitive from justice, but to be on friendly terms with Alderson and Captain Linden, who were protecting him. This letter advised him to flee. McParlan received and opened the letter in company with a crowd of Mollies.
"I'll not dodge wan single inch to save them all from perdition!" exclaimed McParlan after reading the letter aloud to the crowd of Mollies. "I am innocent. I'll only be arrested anyhow. An' if others stand by, why shouldn't I?"
The Mollies applauded him for this exhibition of mock courage. They would have acted in an entirely different manner had they known that warrants had already been sworn out for their arrests.
But the suspicion against the detective could not be allayed. Plots were laid to kill him and throw his body down a deserted mine shaft, at which hiding place it would never be found. Dennis Dowling, a barly Mollie, was then designated to kill McParlan, but all these plans were frustrated by Captain Alderson.

The summary of the work of Captain Alderson and those who were associated with him, shows that twelve Mollies were found guilty of murder in first degree; four of murder in the second degree; four of being accessory to the murder; six of perjury in establishing the familiar alibi, and many others of assault and battery.
Eleven of these men were hanged. This is a record it is believed few officers of the law can equal.

PEOPLE AND POLICE IN SPANISH RIOT
MADRID, May 10.—A clash between the police and the people occurred in the court of the royal palace yesterday evening, attended with the celebration of the anniversary of the publication of Don Quixote, in which several people were seriously injured and others were more or less hurt.
A concert had been announced to be given in honor of King Alfonso by a number of singing societies from the provinces. An enormous crowd, attracted by the event, gathered in front of the palace. In spite of the efforts of the police the people forced their way into the great court. The police attempted to clear the court and a free fight followed between the officers and the people.

CHICAGO STRIKE WAS VERY QUIET
CHICAGO, May 10.—The visit of President Roosevelt to Chicago today was a diverting feature in the strike situation.
Recognizing the importance of a showing of peaceful conditions the labor leaders made strenuous efforts to prevent their following from being the responsible originators of disturbances. The inclement weather aided materially.
It was the intention to have a committee, headed by President Shea of the Teamsters and President Dohd of the Labor Federation travel westward to meet the President's train and advise the chief executive of labor's side of the controversy but advice from the special train indicated that there was little room there and the trip was abandoned.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.
For many years it has been supposed that the cause of the stomach caused indigestion and diarrhea, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membrane lining the stomach and excite the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.
There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by kidney trouble. It is heart disease, pneumonia, hemorrhage, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.
Kidney troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.
It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures in the most distressing cases.
Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name. Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Nervous Dyspepsia.
A Disease That Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Sulky, Irritable and Despondent.
DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.
(Overwork, the stomach, or subject to the depressing influence of worry, care, or constant excitement, and it becomes necessary to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and like an over-driven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lies heavy, ferments, and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart beats irregularly and nervous, irritability increases. This is a nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.
Mrs. James H. Titus, No. 107 Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says:
"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just what I needed. My stomach, bothered me for twelve years—food digested slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way today—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly cures like mine with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W.
