

MONTEUR AMERICAN

FRANK C. ANGLE, Proprietor.

Danville, Pa., July 20, 1905.

Republican State Ticket.

TREASURER.

J. Lee Plummer, Hollidaysburg.

JUDGES OF SUPERIOR COURT.

Charles E. Rice, Wilkes-Barre.

James A. Beaver, Bellefonte.

George B. Orndy, Huntingdon.

Republican County Ticket.

ASSOCIATE JUDGE.

Thomas J. Price.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY.

Ralph Kiser.

COMMISSIONERS.

Charles W. Cook.

Geo. Ridy Schell.

AUDITOR.

J. H. Woodside.

FINE PARTY FERVOR

Gratifying Result of Republican Canvass of the State.

THE COUNTY CHAIRMEN REPORT

Predictions That the Majority Will Be the Largest Ever Given in an "Off Year" Campaign.

(Special Correspondence.)

Harrisburg, July 13.

A canvass of the state has just been completed through the chairman of the Republican county committees, and it shows a very gratifying condition of affairs from a Republican standpoint.

The party is united and harmonious, and there is a splendid feeling manifested among the rank and file of the organization. That Pennsylvania will make a very creditable showing at the coming election is apparent from reports that come from the several counties in order that at the very outset of the canvass there might be definite data on hand regarding the feeling in the different sections of the state, Chairman Wesley R. Andrews, of the Republican state committee, sent to each of the county chairmen a letter soliciting detailed information as to conditions and sentiment in their respective localities.

In this letter Chairman Andrews said that he fully realized that the phenomenal Republican majority polled in Pennsylvania last fall was largely due to the great issues then pending before the American people, and the fact that both national and state candidates were running.

A letter of inquiry.

Continuing, Chairman Andrews said: "There being no national or congressional ticket in the field this year, it can scarcely be expected that the majority will be as large as last; nevertheless it is exceedingly desirable that the full vote be gotten out, particularly in view of the fact that a noticeable decrease in the majority would invite the criticism of our opponents who would try to make it appear that the Republicans in Pennsylvania were no longer in accord with the policies of the national administration.

"Again, a large falling off in the Republican vote this year would inspire the opposition to make strenuous efforts to win the congressional districts in 1906, in the hope of reducing the Republican representation from Pennsylvania in the national house of representatives, and which, if successful, might imperil the election of a Republican speaker, and thereby seriously embarrass the administration of President Roosevelt."

In view of the difficulties that might be occasioned by the failure to get out the Republican vote in November next I am led to thus early address you, and to urge the necessity of your perfecting the organization in your county at the earliest possible date, and of conducting thereafter an energetic campaign until the curtain rings down on Tuesday, November 7."

Republicans Standing True.

The chairman supplemented this with a request for a report regarding the political outlook and inquiring whether it would be reasonable to expect that a full vote can be polled.

In response to this letter, Chairman Andrews has received answers from every Republican county chairman in the state and he is more than delighted with the information that Pennsylvania is standing true to their party colors and that they will be heard from in no uncertain tones in November next as loyally supporting the entire Republican ticket.

Many of the letters gave not only the opinions of the county chairmen, but the latter quoted other leading Republicans in their respective counties, endorsing their statements as to the feeling among the voters.

People Contented and Happy.

"Our county is standing steadfast in the Republican column," wrote one of the chairmen. "We will give a large majority this year in an off-year campaign. Our people are contented and happy. They believe in Roosevelt and they propose that the Republican party of Pennsylvania shall herald to the nation in November next that the Keystone state is not faltering in its loyalty to the national administration, and will be found next year electing a solid Republican delegation to congress to support the president in his progressive American policies."

"Inauguration and magnanimity have no foothold in the county," reported another of the chairmen. "We are all in line for the whole Republican ticket. While we may not get out as many votes as we did for President Roosevelt, we will more than hold our own for a state election, and our majority will be above the average of years of the absolutely no division, and on the other hand, there is an ardent and aggressive Republican spirit evinced by the young men of this section."

From one of the northern tier of counties the chairman sent this message: "Put our county down for fully as large a majority as we polled at the

MINOR MATTERS OF INTEREST

Why they will never break the bank at Monte Carlo.

The percentage is always against the player, and the maximum limit nullifies the only safe scheme, that of Progressive Betting.

A truly "hope springs eternal in the human breast." How many inventors have gone to Monte Carlo with infallible systems. It is impossible to say, but probably they are to be numbered by millions, and not one of them has returned the victor. It is the ambition doubtless of every visitor to the fascinating tables of Monte Carlo to "break the bank," to come away with an extraordinary run of good luck and the nerve to press it to "break the bank," as the expression is commonly understood, but no one will ever "break the bank" at Monte Carlo in the true sense of the phrase.

All the gaming rooms there are not one, but many tables at which players may stake. Each table starts play for the day with a capital of 100,000 francs, and when that sum is exhausted the bank at that particular table is broken, and play is suspended until a fresh supply of money comes.

But to break the bank in the true sense would be to exhaust the entire capital of the casino, and that will never happen, for three simple reasons.

The first is that the bank lays an infinitesimal profit on every bet. This will nullify as simply as possible.

At roulette, the most popular form of gambling, there are thirty-seven numbers—from 1 to 36 inclusive and 0, or zero. It is plain that the fair odds against a player correctly picking one of the thirty-seven numbers are 36 to 1. But the bank only lays 35 to 1.

Hence the bank has always, roughly speaking, a 3 per cent advantage over the player. To put it another way, if a player backs the same number thirty-seven times he ought, according to the fair odds, to win his original stake 1,372,637 times, but at Monte Carlo he cannot do so. He will lose a point.

This advantage of the bank applies to all the other chances besides the numbers on which the player may stake.

Take, for example, the so-called "red" chance, red or black. Of the thirty-seven numbers eighteen are red, eighteen black, the thirty-eighth, zero, having nominally no color.

It is obvious that if a player backs red there are nineteen chances (eighteen black and one zero) against his bet.

The advantage of the bank does not end here, for when zero turns up the bank takes all stakes except those on zero and the even money chances. The other bets are "en prison" or "prison" is the technical term.

If on the next turn of the wheel the player on these even chances wins his stake is released, and he may pick it up, but he wins nothing.

To win he must stake again, and thus he is one against a player on an "even money" chance.

The second reason why the bank must always win in the long run is the existence of the "maximum."

The maximum (5,000 francs, or £240) is the highest amount a player may stake on any one chance. If a player with unlimited resources could go on playing "double or quits" with the casino indefinitely he would eventually break the bank in the full sense of the term. But you cannot play "double or quits."

Starting with the minimum stake allowed—viz, 5 francs—and doubling your stakes each time, your eleventh stake, supposing you to win or lose consecutively, would be over 5,000 francs, and you could double no longer.

In other words, you would have come to the maximum, and could not on one turn of the wheel either double your winnings or recoup all your losses.

All systems are designed to nullify the effects of zero and the maximum. If one could be certain that zero would never turn up, as it ought to turn up, once every 37 chances, it could not be provided against, and the casino, even with the help of the maximum, would be in a bad way.

But no such certainty is possible, and therefore every system splits on this rock.

Perhaps the most fatal systems of all are those based upon the theory that if red has come up a certain number of times running black will follow. To illustrate the folly of this theory, take the following example: If you toss a penny in the air 1,000 times and it falls heads 666 times, of course you only even money on its being tails the next time.

The third reason, if, indeed, another be needed, why the bank must always win is that the human and fallible player is always playing against an infallible machine.

The slightest mistake in calculation, the least inattention, and the system breaks down. And to err is human.

So Monte Carlo flourishes and always will flourish so long as the law allows it to exist.—Pearson's Weekly.

The President's Salute.

The president's salute consists of twenty-one guns, and why this particular number was hit upon has been the cause of much speculation. One solution, more clever than probable, is that when the Revolution took place the nation was considered able to shift for itself, hence twenty-one. Another is that the figures of the year of the Declaration of Independence, 1776, when added together make a total of twenty-one. The royal salute in England is also twenty-one guns, having been originally seven, which number had three times for the three political divisions makes the total.

Mutual Conviction.

Fred—So you are really going to marry that young widow, eh? Joe—Yes. Fred—She tells me you have promised to give up smoking. Joe—Yes; sort of mutual sacrifice, as it were. She agreed to give up her weeds if I would give up mine.

Consolation.

A good deal of the consolation offered in the world is about as soothing as the assurance of the Irishman to his wife when she fell into the river—"You had your mind ground at the bottom, my dear."

The Best Bed.

"Is this the best 'claret,' Murphy?" asked the Irishman of his butler. "It is not, sir," was the answer, "but it's the best 'yeast' yet."—London Outlook.

Carey—Holdren.

George Carey, of Los Angeles, California, and Miss May Holdren, of White Hall, were married at the home of the bride, Wednesday, July 12th. Rev. C. Munro performed the ceremony.

Not Found.

A letter arrived at the New York postoffice the other day bearing the following address: "To Any Respectable Lawyer, New York City, N. Y." The carrier to whose hands it fell for delivery returned it marked in blue pencil, "Not Found."—New York Press.

GAMBLING SYSTEMS.

Why they will never break the bank at Monte Carlo.

The percentage is always against the player, and the maximum limit nullifies the only safe scheme, that of Progressive Betting.

A truly "hope springs eternal in the human breast." How many inventors have gone to Monte Carlo with infallible systems. It is impossible to say, but probably they are to be numbered by millions, and not one of them has returned the victor. It is the ambition doubtless of every visitor to the fascinating tables of Monte Carlo to "break the bank," to come away with an extraordinary run of good luck and the nerve to press it to "break the bank," as the expression is commonly understood, but no one will ever "break the bank" at Monte Carlo in the true sense of the phrase.

All the gaming rooms there are not one, but many tables at which players may stake. Each table starts play for the day with a capital of 100,000 francs, and when that sum is exhausted the bank at that particular table is broken, and play is suspended until a fresh supply of money comes.

But to break the bank in the true sense would be to exhaust the entire capital of the casino, and that will never happen, for three simple reasons.

The first is that the bank lays an infinitesimal profit on every bet. This will nullify as simply as possible.

At roulette, the most popular form of gambling, there are thirty-seven numbers—from 1 to 36 inclusive and 0, or zero. It is plain that the fair odds against a player correctly picking one of the thirty-seven numbers are 36 to 1. But the bank only lays 35 to 1.

Hence the bank has always, roughly speaking, a 3 per cent advantage over the player. To put it another way, if a player backs the same number thirty-seven times he ought, according to the fair odds, to win his original stake 1,372,637 times, but at Monte Carlo he cannot do so. He will lose a point.

This advantage of the bank applies to all the other chances besides the numbers on which the player may stake.

Take, for example, the so-called "red" chance, red or black. Of the thirty-seven numbers eighteen are red, eighteen black, the thirty-eighth, zero, having nominally no color.

It is obvious that if a player backs red there are nineteen chances (eighteen black and one zero) against his bet.

The advantage of the bank does not end here, for when zero turns up the bank takes all stakes except those on zero and the even money chances. The other bets are "en prison" or "prison" is the technical term.

If on the next turn of the wheel the player on these even chances wins his stake is released, and he may pick it up, but he wins nothing.

To win he must stake again, and thus he is one against a player on an "even money" chance.

The second reason why the bank must always win in the long run is the existence of the "maximum."

The maximum (5,000 francs, or £240) is the highest amount a player may stake on any one chance. If a player with unlimited resources could go on playing "double or quits" with the casino indefinitely he would eventually break the bank in the full sense of the term. But you cannot play "double or quits."

Starting with the minimum stake allowed—viz, 5 francs—and doubling your stakes each time, your eleventh stake, supposing you to win or lose consecutively, would be over 5,000 francs, and you could double no longer.

In other words, you would have come to the maximum, and could not on one turn of the wheel either double your winnings or recoup all your losses.

All systems are designed to nullify the effects of zero and the maximum. If one could be certain that zero would never turn up, as it ought to turn up, once every 37 chances, it could not be provided against, and the casino, even with the help of the maximum, would be in a bad way.

But no such certainty is possible, and therefore every system splits on this rock.

Perhaps the most fatal systems of all are those based upon the theory that if red has come up a certain number of times running black will follow. To illustrate the folly of this theory, take the following example: If you toss a penny in the air 1,000 times and it falls heads 666 times, of course you only even money on its being tails the next time.

The third reason, if, indeed, another be needed, why the bank must always win is that the human and fallible player is always playing against an infallible machine.

The slightest mistake in calculation, the least inattention, and the system breaks down. And to err is human.

So Monte Carlo flourishes and always will flourish so long as the law allows it to exist.—Pearson's Weekly.

The President's Salute.

The president's salute consists of twenty-one guns, and why this particular number was hit upon has been the cause of much speculation. One solution, more clever than probable, is that when the Revolution took place the nation was considered able to shift for itself, hence twenty-one. Another is that the figures of the year of the Declaration of Independence, 1776, when added together make a total of twenty-one. The royal salute in England is also twenty-one guns, having been originally seven, which number had three times for the three political divisions makes the total.

Mutual Conviction.

Fred—So you are really going to marry that young widow, eh? Joe—Yes. Fred—She tells me you have promised to give up smoking. Joe—Yes; sort of mutual sacrifice, as it were. She agreed to give up her weeds if I would give up mine.

Consolation.

A good deal of the consolation offered in the world is about as soothing as the assurance of the Irishman to his wife when she fell into the river—"You had your mind ground at the bottom, my dear."

The Best Bed.

"Is this the best 'claret,' Murphy?" asked the Irishman of his butler. "It is not, sir," was the answer, "but it's the best 'yeast' yet."—London Outlook.

Carey—Holdren.

George Carey, of Los Angeles, California, and Miss May Holdren, of White Hall, were married at the home of the bride, Wednesday, July 12th. Rev. C. Munro performed the ceremony.

Not Found.

A letter arrived at the New York postoffice the other day bearing the following address: "To Any Respectable Lawyer, New York City, N. Y." The carrier to whose hands it fell for delivery returned it marked in blue pencil, "Not Found."—New York Press.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive in its progress. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidneys poisoned the blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away by cell.

Bladder troubles must always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of