DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS.

When the child changes from girl hood to womanhood and again later i life when the organs of the pelvic re gion cease their work, there is a strain thrown upon the nervous system, that requires outside aid that there may b supplied a proper amount of additional strength and resistive power. Experiments now being made by the P. R. R., indicate an early return to wages by cash instead of by check.

The latter system, after a trial of 35 years has been found to have its disadvantages, and the company is experimenting on certain divisions with payments in cash.

The objections to the check system are varied. In many instances the employes are remote from the banks upon which their checks are drawn, and are put to some inconvenience and expense at times in securing the money. In other instances employes have absented themselves from their work for days, on plea of having to get a check the part of the company is that the with the Committee that the picnic check system tends to the employes ought to be repeated. This, then was frequenting saloons in order to get their checks cashed. By this practice they lose a discount and are also prone to fall into habits not at all consistent with good railroading.

Victim is Unable to Talk.

The little town of Winfield, about four miles below Lewisburg, has a mystery.

About ten days ago, a well dressed stranger got off the evening train in Winfield. He was accompanied by a young man in a new dark blue suit and a straw hat. The younger of the two was about twenty years old. Proceeding to the Hyman Hotel, the elder man, without registering, secured a room for the young man.

He naid the hill and remarked that the rates were much lower than in in a partially unconscious state for a New York City. He then said that he was going away on the night train but that the young man's sister would be along in the morning and would make arrangements to stay some time at the hotel.

The older man left, and nothing was thought of the matter until the next day when the sister failed to arrive. Attempts to get information from the strange guest failed in eliciting any answer. He seemed to be speechless. After repeated questioning, however, e several times answered "ves" and 'no.'' But nothing definite could be earned from him.

He had several dollars in his pockets and this money he turned over for his board for the next day or two and then indicated that his funds were exhaust-

A large portion of the farming community about Danville was representthese farmers it was decided by the Committee it should be left to settle whether the picnic should be called off or not. The farmers were consulted from one end of market to another ceptions every one was in favor of calling the affair off and of selecting another date.

This measure was accordingly adopted. It was announced that there would be no attempt to hold a picni on that day, but that the event would This, it was thought, settled it, but about the middle of the afternoon news reached Danville that several hundred farmers had assembled at the Park and were having a good time. As was natural the news of the postpone ment had not been heard over more the good old days of the pay car and than a mere fraction of the big territhe payment of employes of monthly tory represented. The farmers simply used their judgment in the matter and when it brightened up during the forenoon some decided to take the risk and started for the picnic. Among those who gathered at th Park were some who had driven many miles. They ate their dinner in the woods and had as good a time as pos sible under the circumstances. Dur ing the showers they crowded in the pavilion. About 3 o'clock the or chestra went over in response to a re quest and some dancing followed.

To say that the picnic bore any semblance to success, however, would be to overstate the fact and there were Probably the strongest objection on probably none present but coincided the unanimous agreement and the an nouncment was made that the picnic will be repeated on Saturday, Septem ber 2nd at DeWitt's Park. Judging by the enthusiasm and the large number that turned out in the face of the unfavorable weather conditions it is believed that had the day been fair the assemblage of people at DeWitt's Park would have broken all past records.

After the Reading Breweries.

For ten days Cleveland capitalists have made an effort to purchase outright the six breweries at Reading, offering in the aggregate $5,000,000 for the plants of the Barbey & Son, Reading, Lauer, Deppen, Muhlenburg, and J. G. Stocker Companies. The Cleveland parties had a representative there and he has left to report his findings. The breweries have an output of nearly 250,000 barrels a year.
