County Superintendent Derr says there will be no night lectures. His experience a couple of years ago when he lost heavily was not of a sort to inspire him with much confidence in the outcome of night lectures. Nevertheless conditions have changed considerably since the last trial and a good many persons are inclined to think that the right kind of talent would attract a paying audience during institute week. It would certainly add an attraction that would be appreciated by the teachers and others.

The rural schools are now open and are pretty well attended considering that owing to the scarcity of hands many farmers' children are detained at home to assist in doing the fall work. ## The Hadley Pictures.

Edwin J. Hadley's moving pictures, unquestionably the best, are to be seen at Armory Hall Saturday night under the auspices of Company F. A feature of the Hadley exhibitions is the steadi ness of the views shown. Instead of dancing and jerking and thus tiring the eye to gaze upon them, the Hadley views are practically flutterless. This alone is a great recommendation, but there are so many other superior features that the Hadley exhibition practically stands alone in a class all by
