Seitz was followed on the stand by Sarah Halderman, sister of the defendant, who testified that she saw her brother, Elmer Halderman, in front of Weir's store, Mill street, on the night of July 3rd, about the time the attack was made at Walker's ho-

The court rendered a rather lengthy charge and the case was given to the jury at 3 o'clock. The last case on the list was that of Commonwealth vs. John Sees, Elmer Halderman and David Barrett, the charge being "Attempted Jail Breaking." Sees and Halderman pleaded guilty to the charge. The case with Barrett as defendant went on trial at 3 c'clock.

George Maiers. Sheriff, was called to the stand. He related all the circumstances of the affair, which are well known to the reading public.

The Sheriff was followed by George Crossley who described the plot, which he alleged, was laid by the prisoners, to escape, involving an assault upon the Sheriff, all of which our readers are likewise familiar with.

under false pretenses and that sentence had been suspended; also that he had been a deserter from the United States Army. In regard to the latter offense he asked to explain some extenuating circumstances. He laid the whole matter to his youth and the fact that Army life had been falsely represented to him. He was only sixteen years old, he said, when he enlisted.

Judge Staples told him that he very much disliked to send a young man like him to prison, but as Judge he David Barrett being called to the had a daty to perform, and had to conform with the demands of Justice. present on the night of the hold-up at | He adverted to the fact that the jury Walker's. He was with Halderman had recommended him to the mercy of the Court, but he reminded Halderman that when he was before the Court on the previous occasion clemency had been exercised in his favor but that he fell in with a couple of strangers who had utterly failed to profit by the warning. In the present case Judge Staples informed him that he had failed to establish an alibi and the Court themselves believed him guilty. The jury probably had not been informed of the elemency shown by the Court in his case in the past. At all events as matters stood the recommendation for mercy could avail but little.

The sentence of the Court was: That Elmer Halderman pay the costs of prosecution in the case; a fine of ten dollars to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the use of the County of Montour: that he undergo imprisonment in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia for a period of five years at separate and solitary confinement at labor to be computed from yesterday and to stand committed until the sentence is complied with. Elmer Halderman along with John Sees pleaded guilty on Tuesday to the charge of attempting to break jail. While Halderman remained standing sentence was imposed for that offense.

It was as follows: That Elmer Halderman undergo an mpriscument at separate and solitary confinement at labor in the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia for a term of one year to be computed from the expiration of the sentence above imposed and to stand committed until the sentence is complied with. The Court admonished Haldervan to be careful of his conduct in prison, explaining to him that under the law of commutation good behavior in the penitentiary would bring its own reward and that it was in his power thus to reduce the time for which he was sentenced twenty-three months.

John Sees in whose case on motion of Charles V. Amerman, an indictnent involving the charge of murder was quashed, Tuesday, and who along with Halderman pleaded guilty to ated before the bar for sentence. Julge Staples informed Sees that Mr. Scarlet on behalf of the Monour County bar presented a petition to Court asking that the term of December Court, which convenes on the fourth Monday of the month-Christmas Day-be changed to the second week in January.
