THE BOAST OF HEALTH.

It Often Precedes Serious if Not Ail doctors know that just before death the patient often experiences what is called a "rally," nature making apparently her last stand against the symptoms which we call death, and it is quite likely that the feeling which induces men to boast of health is of the same kind-an effort of nature to protect us against the coming sickness which the body has recognized, though the mind has not. The phenomenon occurs every day in the cases of consumptive patients, who brighten up and grow hopeful just when the disease is about to strike its hardest blows, and it is quite possible that it is more frequent than has yet been recognized that the approach of fever, for example, is signaled by an unusual consciousness of health. "I have never felt so well in my life," says the patient, who twenty-four hours after is lying prostrate and whose friends quote his statement as illustrating once more sthe ancient and depressing belief. The boast had nothing to do with the illness, but it preceded it, and men, attracted by the violent contrast, almost instinctively link the two together as In some way and to some extent cause and effect. Next time those who heard it, if they feel that rush of health in their veins, will avoid boasting of it, and the relation of the two will escape attention. Moreover, it must not be forgotten that boasting is of itself a sign of weakness, either temporary or permanent, and that consequently failure follows boasting more frequently than it follows silence. The perfect driver says he is perfect just when he le most careless and the resulting spill is remembered when the thousand and one escapes due to the same driver's skill and hardihood are clean forgotten.-London Spectator.

LAMPS THAT ARE CLOCKS. They Were Commonly Used In the

Seventeenth Century. Of the various examples that have been given of early specimens of the clockmaker's art not the least interesting are the several types of lamp clocks. One of these was of a kind quite common in the seventeenth century and consisted of a lamp burner placed at the base of a glass oil receptacle mounted vertically on a suitable standard. The oil reservoir had attached to it a scale, facing the burner and showing the hours, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the lamp was to be lighted in winter, and ending at 7 o'clock in the morning. The lamp being lighted, the gradually descending level of the oil, as combustion proceeded, marked the hours.

The other device, of later origin, dating back to the beginning of the present century, utilized the same principle. It consisted of two communicating oil chambers, superposed by a clock dial. In one of the chambers was placed a in the other was suspended a float from a cord which passed around a small pulley. The latter was mounted on a horizontal axis ending in the center of the dial. The float of course descended as the oil was consumed and carried the index hand along with it. thus making the hours precisely as in the case already cited. At their best these timepieces could have had only an indifferent degree of accuracy, yet they probably served their purpose well and certainly are interesting at the present time as illustrating some Magazine

Power of Ningara. What makes Niagara falls' power possible is the fact that Lake Superior, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron and Lake Erie, with a combined area of 90,000 square miles, representing the reservoirs of some 250,000 square miles of ter falling over the vast territory flows on its natural course to the Atlantic ocean with but a slight descent until it is brought into the narrow Niagara river, when, in the rapids just above the falls, it declines fifty-five feet and then, with a single plunge, drops into the abyes 165 feet below. Eminent engineers have computed that 275,000 cubic feet of water pass over the falls every second, representing in theoretical energy over 6,000,000 horsepower.

Hard to Please.

Nobody outside the journalistic profession has any idea how difficult it is the matter of his toilet, a paper aunounced, "Mr. Maguire will wash himself before he assumes the office of town clerk." This made Maguire furious, and he demanded a retraction, which appeared thus: "Mr. Maguire requests us to deny that he will wash himself before he assumes the office of town clerk." Oddly enough, this only enraged Magnire the more. San Fran-

MONTOUR AMERIGAN TROLLEY WAR WAG- MINOR MATTERS ED AT BERWICK

The first actual battle in the trolley war at Berwick was fought out Tues lay evening before the Town Council, its intensity proving that the engage ments heretofore were mere skirmishes The town hall where the meeting wa neld was filled to overflowing with itizens interested in the outome. A. W. Duy and Grant Herring, of Blooms burg, addressed the Council on behalf of the Columbia and Montour Com pany, while Messers. A. C. Sickles and Eastman spoke for the new Berwick Suberban and Nescopeck Railway Each of these companies have secured charters to operate a trolley line in Berwick and the outskirts of that place, as well as in Nescopeck. The fight, therefore, is as to which company the Berwick Council will grant the privilege of using the streets.

The contentions of the C, & M. were nostly along the line that they by right deserved the privilege, as they were the pioneer trolley company in this section, that they were not a pap er company as was their rival, and that as they were all local people they would do more for Berwick than out iders who were only interested in the town as a place of investment. Mr. Duy said he has the written consent of the Commissioners to run his line across the new bridge from Berwick to Nescopeck. If granted the ordin ance transfer could be made from their present line to the new extension with out extra charge.

On the other hand Mr. Sickles claimed that Berwick was now his home, and shout of the little ones for hours that he had a large amount of capital at a time tell how much they enjoy Author of "The Shame of the Cities" invested there, and that his company the fun. had at heart the best interests of the growing town of Berwick, and were in a position to do more for the town than the C. & M. company could do. ### LAWFUL TO FISH THROUGH ICE

Now that the streams in this section are being frozen up, the question of night lamp to illuminate this dial, and fishing through the ice is once more attracting attention. This is a matter that a great many do not rightly un derstand. Suckers and mullets are quite plentiful in the Fishing creek and many people up that valley have been wondering the last few day if it would be lawful to catch these fis through the ice with a hook and line.

H. G. Eshelman, the fish and game warden for this section, stated yesterday that suckers and mullets are not embraced by the game laws, and that of the expedients adopted by mechani- it is perfectly lawful to catch them clans of an earlier period.-Cassier's through the ice. regular session in 1907.

STROUDSBURG, Jan. 9.—The ountain scenery is not to be further destroyed at the Delaware Water Gap, and the hotel men at the resort are happy and jubilent over the victory. Judge Staples handed down his opinion in the action brought by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against the D. L. & W. Railroad Company to cause the latter to remove the stone crusher at the Gap. The court orders a continuance of the injunction. This means that the crusher must go, but the case will be appealed. The fight against the huge stone crusher, which was built by the Lackawanna Railroad at a cost of $100,000 to crush stone to ballast the road, has been stubbornly fought by former Judge Wilton A. Erdman. Attorney General Hampton L. Carson assisted Judge Erdman when the case was finally argued.
