Major General Gobin has approve the site, which has been plotted by Lieutenant Colonel W. F. Richardson, livision quartermaster. Inasmuch as it will be the first State encampment in which General Gobin will be the commanding officer, he is doing his atmost to make Camp Robert M. Henderson, as it will be called, a great success. Lieutenant Colonel Richardson has gone to Gettysburg to arrange the final details of the encampment. The troops will be located in the vicinity of the division encampment of two years ago, but the locations of the various organizations will be changed somewhat so as to expedite the manouvers according to the experience gained at the last division encampuse of the river bridge.

SLANG IN SCHOOLS.

Several of our exchanges note the education has taken a decided stand against the use of slang in schools ary and into current speech because they really represent something that could not be so pointedly expressed in any other way. But the school author-ities of Philadelphia are clearly right. There may be a place for slang, but it from Harrisburg to Sunbury and from attention to the race between the dam good language and to avoid vulgar Sunbury to Williamsport and Renovo and the saw mill, and in about 30 and ill-bred expressions.
