HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE

Troubles have multiplied thick and fast in the little household of Lloyd Lamberson. On Saturday morning the home was burned to the ground. The wife and children, homeless, sought shelter among friends, while the husband and father, intoxicated, was arrested and spent the day in the lock-up.

The Lamberson home was situated between the canal and the wagon road about half a mile below Lovers' Leap on the Northumberland road. It was a two-story building containing four rooms and a back kitchen and had just been painted. Although occupied by Lloyd Lamberson, his wife and two children, it was owned by Wilson Lamberson, a son of Lamberson's by a former marriage, who resides at Berwick.

The fire broke out about half past two o'clock Saturday morning. The house was alone at the time of the fire. Lamberson had been drinking and it is alleged made dire threats against the family so that Mrs. Lamberson Friday evening taking her two children fled to this city and spent the night at John Lamberson's, another son of Lloyd's, on North Mill street.

On Friday evening Mrs. Lamberson swore out a warrant for her husband's arrest. Notwithstanding the alleged threats the charge preferred was for drunkenness only. The officers could not lay their hands on him Friday evening and he remained at large during the night. Saturday morning still intoxicated, he was found lying on the door step of the dwelling occupied by his son John and in which his wife and children were sheltered. When Chief Minceomey appeared to take him into custody he was inclined to resist, but he was finally lodged in the lock-up, where he spent the day.

Learning that the house had been destroyed Mrs. Lamberson went down the river to view the ruins of her home. Nothing remained to mark where the house stood but a heap of ashes and a few pieces of charred wood. The fire was seen from town, but it is doubtful if any one down the river, kindly disposed, saw the fire or was near to attempt to save a single article. At all events everything burned, household furniture, clothing and all. A single outbuilding was left standing.

Lamberson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Oglesby at 7 o'clock Saturday evening. His wife, the complainant in the case, was the principal witness. She told how abuse and hardships had been heaped upon her and how she lived in constant dread because of her husband's threats when he was intoxicated. She wept as she told how the last blow had deprived her of her home and that now she or her children had not a stitch of clothing that they could call their own except what wore at that moment. All the furniture in the house, with the exception of two or three pieces, of small value, were her own. Much of it was purchased with money earned by washing for families in this city and she explained how she had carried or assisted to carry clothing washed back and forth from Danville. Now the fruit of all her hard work was taken from her. As she sat with her weeping babe on her lap, tearfully telling her story she presented a really pathetic picture and general sympathy was aroused.

Lamberson seemed penitent enough. On several points he said he had no recollection of what occurred. He was finally permitted to go free by raising the money needed to pay fine and costs.

ARREST BRINGS GOOD RESULTS

Canal street, Danville, which has been in disfavor for some time past by reason of "loud and unseemly noises" nightly emitted from one of the residences there, promises to redeem all short comings and in the future to be at least as far as apartment at night is concerned one of the most model and circumspect avenues in the borough. It has all come to pass as the result of an arrest made Saturday.

The residence that was the cause of complaint is presided over by LeRoy Williams. Now, the worst that could be said against LeRoy even at the hearing, was that he "was too good natured" and that others with no idea of propriety took advantage of his hospitality and imposed on him. They came often and they stayed late. The means they employed of killing time might have passed muster in a mining camp, but they were too noisy to suit the ideas of the staid people who reside within an earshot of Canal street.

Complaint was of daily occurrence and night after night while elsewhere the town was wrapped in silence the chief of police made a weary pilgrimage to Canal street urging modern amenities among the merry-makers. At length the monotony began to wear on the officer and he decided to try some other plan.

Accordingly he lodged information before Justice Oglesby Saturday, charging LeRoy Williams with maintaining a nuisance, specifying that "loud and unseemly noises" were kept up nightly disturbing the neighbors and causing complaint. A warrant was placed in the hands of Constable W. E. Young, who in due time appeared with LeRoy.

The case was soon disposed of. No one regretted the matter more than the man arrested, who explained to the justice what he was up against. He was wholly in the hands of his friends and it was through no wish of his that his house came to have the reputation for "loud and unseemly" noises at night.

Chief Minceomey said that he would withdraw the charge if the defendant would get rid of his noisy guests and permit no disturbance on any occasion. "Of course it was understood the man arrested was to pay the costs. The defendant readily agreed. Since through their indiscretions he had been subjected to the indignity of an arrest he was in a position to make sweeping demands of his erstwhile guests and there was grim determination on his face as he promised that henceforth Canal street would be a quiet place. So it was settled; the defendant plunked down the costs—a trifling over two dollars—and withdrew thanking the chief of police for exercising so much leniency.

Canal street since has been as quiet as a country church yard. Sweet sleep has fallen to all and there has been no complaint nor cause for complaint.

Wedded at High Noon. The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Angle, Cherry street, was the scene of an interesting wedding yesterday when their daughter, Miss Anna L. Angle, became the bride of Henry S. Howell, of East Stroudsburg.

The ceremony was performed at high noon by the Rev. J. E. Guy, pastor of Shiloh Reformed church, before a small assemblage of invited guests, representing the immediate families and a few of the most intimate friends. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride was attired in white crepe de chine.

After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The following guests were present: Mr. and Mrs. George Leightow, Mrs. Henrietta Angle, Mrs. Fred M. Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rishel, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell, Mrs. Baylor, Miss Myra Brown, Charles Angle, Roy and Oliver Angle, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Lanterman, the two latter being from East Stroudsburg.

The bride, who is a most popular and highly esteemed young lady, received a large number of useful and handsome presents. The groom, a native of this locality for some years past, for some time has resided at East Stroudsburg, where he is employed on the "East Stroudsburg News," his brother-in-law, William Lanterman, being editor and proprietor of the paper.

The newly wedded couple left on the 2:21 D. L. & W. train for East Stroudsburg, where a furnished house awaited them.

Attempt to Wreck B. & S. Train. An attempt to wreck a passenger train on the Bloomsburg and Sullivan railroad near Benton Tuesday evening was frustrated by Edward Karns, who happened to pass the scene of the attempted wreck.

A pile of steel rails had been placed across the track. They were discovered by Karns just a few minutes before the evening passenger arrived at that point, which was a short distance above Forks. He ran to the obstruction and succeeded in pushing it off the track just as the train approached around the sharp curve, only a few yards distant. After the train had passed he heard some one run over the bank from the railroad tracks and upon an investigation he discovered foot prints. Evidently the miscreant had been waiting to witness the result of his work.

NEW HISTORY AND DICTIONARY

Montgomery's American History was adopted for use in the borough schools Monday at a joint meeting of teachers and directors, which took place just prior to the regular session.

The following members of the board were present: Burns, Orth, Swartz, Porsel, Fish, Fischer, Lutz, Trumbower, Heiss and Grone. Miss Bennett, Miss Pritchard, Miss James and Miss Gallagher representing the sixth grade were also present.

Mr. Porsel reported that the committee on text books had examined Barnes', Montgomery's and McMaster's Histories and found points of merit about each. He suggested that the teachers present express their views concerning the relative merits of the books. In accordance with his request each of the teachers indulged in a few remarks, unanimously recommending Montgomery's History, specifying in what respects it excels the other two books.

On motion of Mr. Fischer it was decided to order one hundred copies of Montgomery's American History for use in the sixth grade of the schools. On motion the joint meeting adjourned. The teachers retired and the board went into regular session, after which Dr. Harpel joined the school board.

Mr. Fischer of the building and repair committee reported the repairs on the borough schools as progressing nicely. A few additional repairs were recommended, among them being a general overhauling of the desks and the seats in Miss Bennett's room in the third ward.

On motion of Mr. Orth the supply committee was authorized to purchase supplies to the value of about forty dollars for use in the chemical department, taught by Mr. D. N. Dieffenbacher.

The matter of lead pencil sharpeners, brought up before the board at the previous meeting, came up again for further consideration. A lead pencil sharpener was on hand at the meeting for examination. It was given a trial and fully considered when it seemed to be the consensus of opinion among the directors that, while a useful device for an office, a lead pencil sharpener is hardly practicable in the public school and that among several hundred pupils it would be very apt to become a nuisance. No action was taken in the matter.

On motion of Mr. Orth it was ordered that the text book committee be authorized to purchase five Imperial dictionaries for use in the schools.

Applications were received from Miss Verna M. Reed and Miss Emma Youngman for positions as pupil teachers. Superintendent Gonyer recommended both the young ladies, Miss Reed being a graduate of the local high school and Miss Youngman a graduate of Park College. On motion of Mr. Porsel Miss Reed and Miss Youngman were elected pupil teachers of the borough.

The following bills were approved for payment: William W. Mottern $109.75; J. & F. Henrie 3.00; U. L. Gorly 2.74; W. H. Orth 1.31; Freight and drayage 8.15; Mrs. Frank Shellenbarger 40.00; Mrs. Nancy Litterer 15.00; Mrs. Alice Miller 19.75; Mrs. Mary Romsley 23.00; Mrs. Anna Anderson 4.00.

A Handsome Mausoleum. During the next few months another costly mausoleum will take its place among the handsome pieces of cemetery work in Old Fellows' cemetery. The mausoleum will be erected by the Charles Johnson estate, the builders being T. L. Evans, sons, this city.

The site of the vault will be scarcely a hundred yards from Mrs. Geisinger's mausoleum, further down the hill toward the entrance of the cemetery. The Johnson family is one of the oldest in this section and its members were numbered among the pioneers of this section. Charles Johnson, a man of affairs and of considerable wealth, died about twenty years ago; his wife survived until about one year ago. Both are buried in Old Fellows' cemetery. The general effect of the mausoleum will be that of massiveness rather than ornamentation. The cost will be five thousand dollars.

Odd Fellows' Picnic. A good sized crowd of Danville people yesterday attended the Odd Fellows' picnic at D-W-W park. Music was furnished for dancing during the afternoon and evening by Fetterman's orchestra. The base ball game between the Danville Merchants and the Bloomsburg team resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 10-5.

SUSTAINS A BROKEN NOSE

Henry Koehler, an employe of the Structural Tubing works, met with a serious accident Tuesday forenoon. There was consternation among the employes of the mill pending the arrival of a doctor, as it was thought the man would bleed to death.

Mr. Koehler, who is an elderly man, was working at the shears, which were being employed to cut up a lot of old iron rails. He was standing close by when one of the severed lengths in some way getting foul in the shears flew up with terrific force, striking the man upon the face. He fell backwards under the force of the blow while the blood gushed out of his nose in a stream.

A physician was quickly called up over the phone. Meanwhile every effort was made to stop the flow of blood, but in vain. By the time Dr. Newbaker arrived, which was scarcely more than ten minutes after the call, the injured man had lost at least a quart of blood and was very weak.

Mr. Koehler was struck by the iron squarely across the bridge of the nose and it required only a slight examination to convince the doctor that the nose was broken. The lead hemorrhage was due solely to the fracture of the bones. It required only a minute's work under the physician's deft manipulation to adjust the broken bone, after which the hemorrhage ceased.

The injured man was removed to his home on Grand street, where at last accounts he was doing very well. A broken nose while serious enough is not the sort of an injury to keep a man confined very long.

Fine Array of Speakers. The arrangements for the men's Sunday afternoon meetings at the Y. M. C. A. for September and October have been completed, and a phenomenally fine list of speakers and musical numbers is announced.

Small Crowd at Grangers' Picnic. Rather a disappointingly small number of people gathered at Milton park yesterday on the occasion of the annual picnic of Pomona grange, No. 31. It is estimated that between 400 and 500 people were on the grounds.

The small attendance is attributed to other events that conflicted with the grangers' outing. A large number of the farmers are at Williams Grove this week, others are desirous of attending the Lutheran reunion at Island park, Sunbury, today, and not wishing to lose two days in succession, decided to forego the Milton event.

The program was carried out as announced. A recitation by Miss Cordelia Hostenstein, a declamation by Fred Schreiner and several musical selections were followed by the speech making. Hon. W. L. Nesbitt, of Milton, was present and delivered a fine address. Hon. A. L. Martin, deputy secretary of agriculture and Sheriff Edward B. Dorsett, of Tioga county followed with interesting talks. Hon. W. T. Cressy spoke of the important issues of the present campaign that effect the farmers. Rev. Jordan a returned missionary from Persia also spoke.

The arrangements for the picnic were in charge of Turbot grange.

UNEQUAL TAXATION. The Pittston Gazette charges that the backward state of the public roads in the coal regions, as well as the lack of other improvements, is due to the parsimony of the coal companies. It says: "It is not a very enviable distinction for corporation officials to be lined up against good roads, but experience in the coal region has proved that the coal companies are against any public improvement that tends to increase their taxes, notwithstanding the fact that every man who knows anything about taxation in the coal region is convinced that our wealth of coal does not bear its proper proportion of the public expense."

C. T. A. UNION OPENS CONVENTION
