REMOVING A

Contractor W. A. Shepperson has that still marks the site of the bessemer blast furnace, dismantled last spring and he promises that the whole unsightly mass shall be carted away before winter.

Mr. Shepperson just now is engaged in removing the big Heine boiler, which was used in connection with the blast furnace. It was installed within comparatively recent years and was considered too valuable to break up into scrap when the furnace was dismantled, but was left on the ground. It has quite recently been purchased by the firm of Evenden & Bros., florists and nurserymen of Williamsport.

The boiler is a monstrous mechanism weighing some fifteen tons. Mr. Shep person is a genius in handling heavy weights and he proposes to move the big boiler with its attachments intact all the way from the furnace site down to the cars, a distance, allowing for the circuitous course that will have to be pursued, of at least 300 yards.

He already has the whole mass blocked up considerably higher than its former foundation. The boiler, too heavy for handling in any other way, will be moved on rollers, a plan which seems perfectly feasible, as the entire distance to be covered is down grade. er will be loaded, the yard is several was Miss Bessie Nevins, of Philadel- A very pleasant party was tendered make it a very easy matter to get the boiler on to an open car.

The borough is probably doing the best it can under the circumstances. The intention is, we are informed, to use the ten ton roller on the street, after it has been given a top course of finer material. Unless this is done the street will be a poor apology for a thoroughfare in a progressive town. It is hoped, however, that there will be no unnecessary delay, as those who use the street are not altogether unreasonable in protesting against things as they are at present.

Presbyterian Statistics.

The Presbyterian church in the United States has 1.158,662 members, according to a report issued by Rev. Dr. William Henry Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian General Assembly. This does not include 185,212 members of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, recently united with the northern body. The Presbyterian church has 34 synods, 246 presbyteries, 8,118 churches, 7,848 ministers, 20,880 elders, 11,100 deacons and 1,098,521 Sabbath school members. The contributions last year to all benevolent institutions to the church amounted to $19,993,308.
