ADVANCE TIPS ON WINTER

With winter approaching the chiefs of the United States weather Bureau are stirring themselves to ascertain if possible, whether a severe and stormy season may be expected. In conjunction with the American meteorologists, those of France and England are making experiments. Up to the present India is the only country in the world in which seasonal or long distance predictions have been successfully made...

First—What extra percentage of heat is the earth receiving from the cyclonic disturbances in the 2,000,000 square miles of the photosphere of the sun that are commonly known as sun spots?

Second—By means of kites and observations at various altitudes it is being attempted to determine the variations in barometric pressure and of temperature in the various air planes.

But while scientists are investigating, farmers and mariners have other guides that have been tested from time immemorial. The homely woodpecker knows instinctively what is in store for it. When he leaves for the south cold weather is assured. When he pecks low on trees the farmer says we will have a warm winter. But when the ivory-billed woodpecker begins to peck low on the trees and pecks all the way to the top, taking all the bark off, look for a hard winter and deep snow, say our agricultural friends.

REVIEW OF TRADE BY R. G. DUN & CO.

A session of court was held Saturday forenoon for the purpose of argument. His Honor Judge Evans and Associates Elee and Wagner were on the bench.

Nearly the whole of the forenoon was consumed in argument. The first case taken up was an argument on the exceptions filed against the report of the peace Ogleby a couple of weeks ago. The matter was very fully and ably argued Saturday by Hon. H. M. Hineckley for the petitioners and James Scarlett and R. S. Ammerman for the township. Judge Evans took the papers and will render a decision later.

The license at Tittel's hotel was transferred from Elizabeth Tittel to James Tooley. The court wanted full information relating to the matter and on request several witnesses were called to testify to the good character of the applicant and his general fitness to conduct a hotel.

Will Abolish Clerical Tickets. The New York Sun of Saturday morning is the authority for a statement that will work a partial hardship on ministers as it reports that one of the actions of the meeting of the Central passenger association which is composed of all the general passenger agents of the trunk lines was to abolish the clerical tickets after January 1, 1907.

This action on the part of the central association comes as a complete surprise, as for years ministers have paid but half fares when traveling and there had been no inkling that this custom was to be discontinued by the big railroads.

The meeting also decided to issue interchangeable mileage books good for any person at a flat two cent rate basis.

Alley Paved With Vitriol Brick. The street commissioner has finished laying the vitriol brick pavement in Sweeney's alley, leading from Mill street toward Mahoning creek. This is a much-needed improvement and one that was long deferred.

The case presented complications, the alley being undoubtedly a private one, although used by the public and one, which under the peculiar conditions existing, was indispensable. There was a good deal of heavy hauling through the alley and for years Mr. Swatek protested, claiming that the deep ruts worn were damaging the foundation walls of the two buildings abutting on the narrow passage. He did not object to the use of the alley, but he insisted that the borough protect his buildings by paving the alleyway or repairing it in some other manner that would resist wear and tear. The matter has claimed attention for years and council after council has taken up the matter only to defer action indefinitely.

The present council it seems was the first to take the circumstances seem to demand and to proceed to have the alley paved. The work was authorized last month. It was completed with little outlay of effort at a total cost of less than a hundred dollars.

24-inch Pipe Being Laid. The councilman committee on streets and bridges has decided upon a twenty-four inch terra cotta pipe for the big drain on Church street, designed to carry the surface water of Bloom street. The arched waterway on Church street was tapped and several joints of the big pipe were placed in position yesterday. The depth attained there was a trifle over ten feet, while the excavating, which is nearly all the way through a deposit of slag, is pronounced by P. J. Keifer, superintendent of sewers, to be the hardest digging yet encountered in the borough. The work necessarily progresses slowly although the trench required will not be so deep further up Church street.

Found Dead at Berwick. Reports of another murder at Berwick emanated in a man being found dead along the D. L. & W. tracks at that place, in the rear of the Berwick water works Tuesday morning.

The man was James Dolan of Hazleton, aged about 30 years, and somewhat known in this section. At first some mystery surrounded the death, but an examination by Deputy Coroner Sutton and Dr. Hensel cleared up the matter, and death was found to have been caused by asphyxiation due to the sulphur fumes from the warm ashes from the pumping station to which he had evidently laid down to sleep.

Dolan came to Berwick from Hazleton on Friday to secure work, and being unsuccessful, went to Wilkes-Barre, returning to Berwick Monday. With a friend, he had been about town all day drinking, and the men parted in the evening at the D. L. & W. station. Dolan going down the track toward the water works. The ashes from the boiler on the building on a bank in the rear of the building and as the warm ashes offered an inviting spot to rest, the man evidently laid down here and fell asleep, the sulphur fumes from the ashes then getting in their deadly work.

When Robert Edwards, the day engineer, came on duty Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock, he came across what he supposed was a sleeping hobo, but efforts to arouse the man showed he was dead. A big crowd quickly gathered and the doctor pronounced him dead several hours. The whole side of the body was scorched from the heat of the ashes. A coroner's jury was impaneled, and declared death was due to asphyxiation. The body was taken to an undertaker and Tuesday afternoon relatives came from Hazleton and took the body home for burial. A mother, several brothers and sisters live at that place.

NEW FORM OF AMUSEMENT. The Monessen Daily Independent informs us that "the children of Monessen have buckled onto a new form of amusement." It turns out that they have taken to the sling shot an invention that was not even new in the days when the young shepherd of Bethlehem slew the giant champion of the enemy of the people with a smooth stone from the brook. From that day to this the sling shot has been a menace not only to Philistines but also to the most amiable men and women. A "new form of amusement" hardly too new.
