Work of the Legislature Second Ward

There are times when it becomes necessary to urge legislative bodies to get a move on; times when lethargy instead of industry prevails in the halls of legislation, and times when one or both houses are, or appear to Second Ward be, obstructive. And there are other times when insistence upon haste in Fourth Ward legislation is a mistake. How best to Mahoning Twp discriminate between the times for haste and the times for deliberation cannot be governed by any rule yet discovered.

The legislature of Pennsylvania has been in session seven weeks, and because only one measure has been passed finally there is much complaint of slowness of the lawmakers, coupled with demands that somebody take charge of them and see that something be done directly. Nevertheless it is generally understood that the first three weeks of the session, at the close of a gubernatorial term, shall be practically devoid of legislation, and therefore nothing is done until the new governor has been inaugurated. That takes two weeks away from the formidable seven. It is quite true, however that the reform measures promised to the people are moving along slowly.

If there is no intention to bunco the people toward the close of the session with assertion that there is insufficient time for the enactment of all the reform bills, nothing will be lost by reason of deliberation. There is no interest suffering because of slowness on "the hill." There is no necessity for extraordinary haste or for the railroading of legislation. There must be time for debate on every important bill on the calendars. The gag rule must not be invoked, if it takes all summer to dispose of myriads of bills that have First Ward. been or will be introduced.

Mr. Gardner is a man of iron will and constitution A little thing like a fall of twenty feet to him is only an incident and after having his injuries dressed he surprised the spectators by cooly stepping out of the house and 20 resuming his work as though nothing 27 had happened.

INJURED HORSES IN THE STOCKS

A horse belonging to James Good, Toby run hollow, got loose in the .32 stable Sunday night and celebrated his 29 liberty by kicking the other horses, still chained in their stalls, so badly that for awhile it seemed doubtful whether they would recover so as to be of any service to their owner. The animal that broke loose had re cently been shod, his shoes being provided with sharp calks and toe pieces to enable him to get along over the ice. The horse finding that he had the other animals at a disadvantage did not show either of them any mercy 37 In all, three horses were kicked and in-23 jured, the sharpened shoes enabling the kicking horse to do fearful execu-

A gray mare, a faithful farm animal, was the most seriously injured. On the rump, about midway between the spine and the knee of the hind leg a deep incision seven inches long was inflicted, which cut nearly into the bone and tore the skin and the muscle loose, the whole forming an ugly flar 72 of tissue, which hung down attached only by one end. Another horse was lacerated in nearly the same way, while a third kicked on the leg. escaped with a less serious injury.

Veterinarian Kline was called to Mr. Good's farm Monday forenoon. After examining the horses he realize ed that with the injuries in such close proximity to the hind legs it would be hazardous work to attempt to stitch the deep gashes aided by no better facilities than existed on the farm. At this juncture the patent stocks for shoeing horses maintained at Lobach's blacksmith shop on Northum herland street suggested themselves and it was decided that the only practicable course left open was to bring the horses into town and perform the surgical operation with the aid of the stocks.

Accordingly about 1:30 o'clock the three crippled animals, heavily blank eted were led into town and taken to Mr. Lobach's establishment. Each horse in turn was placed in the stocks, swung off his feet and the hind leg to be operated on made perfectly securein all respects as if the animal was to be shod. Instead of the blacksmith, however, the veterinary surgeon was in charge, while to the horse the process was al together a different one from being shod. Painful as the operation was the animals were unable to resist and while the long strips of lacerated flesh were drawn back into place and very many stitches were inserted they were obliged to endure it all and re main perfectly quiet.

A crowd had assembled to witness the unique surgical operation, which was in every way a success. There is healing, purifying elements of the no doubt but that the horses will recover without any ill effects, although | Sold by all druggists for 75c., includ-

THE HOSPITAL

There is a great deal of interest felt by the people of this locality in the act appropriating $389,300 to the hospital for the insane, which passed on its first reading last Thursday. The air is full of conjecture as to what modifications, if any, will be made on the bill on further reading. Its final passage in any shape means a vast amount of work at the hospital for the kidney tro insane in the very near future-probably next summer. The one feature of the bill, which affects Danville as a town is the appropriation of $18,000 for the purpose of providing additional means for the disposal of sewage. The "additional means' is nothing less than the constructing of a sewer in the canal to onnect with the borough's sewer at the aqueduct.

TROLLEY MEN TO LOBBY AT CAPITOL

Opposition to bills now before the egislature affecting electric street railways resulted in the formation of the Temporary Street Railway association, which is composed of more than sixty companies in this State. Committees of the organization were nnounced to meet yesterday in the Arcade building, in Philadelphia, to outline a plan of action. What the street railway men consider one of the most obnoxious measures aimed against them is one providing for an increase in the taxation of electric roads. If this bill passes the legislature, they say, it will bankrupt many of the corporations by imposing upon them hardships which they cannot bear and continue in business. There are bills before the legislature which the organization feels, if adopted, will meet the approval of the electric trolley roads. Among these are the measures providing for the carrying of freight by trolleys, and that conferring upon these roads the right of eminent domain under proper conditions.
