WELL-KNOWN COUPLES WED

Two well-known couples of Danville embarked upon the sea of matrimony at very nearly the same hour yesterday forenoon. Followed by congratulations and well-wishes of countless friends a few hours after the ceremony each departed on an extended wedding trip.

Miss Mary A. Pfahler and Calvin E. Keefe were married at 10:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Sarah Pfahler, East Front street, the Rev. Lloyd W. Walter officiating. The wedding was a very quiet affair, no one but the immediate families being present. The newly wedded couple left on the 12:10 Pennsylvania train for a trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Toronto.

The bride is a well-known and popular young lady of our town and for several years past has held the position of teacher in the South Danville school. The groom was formerly a resident of the south side where he held the position of bookkeeper at Hoover Bros.' planing mill. At present he holds the position of county commissioner's clerk at Sunbury. He is a most exemplary young man and has hosts of friends. The newly wedded couple will reside in Sunbury.

EDMONDSON-FOUST.

Miss Elmira Foust and D. Edward Edmondson were united in the bonds of matrimony at 9:30 o'clock yesterday forenoon, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Webster Foust, East Front street. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. L. D. Ulrich, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church.

Only the immediate families were present. The happy couple left on the 11:23 P. & R. train for a trip to Allentown, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

The bride is a highly esteemed young lady with a wide circle of friends. The groom, who is a graduate of the local high school of the class of '07, is also popular and well-known.

Spent Day in Bloomsburg.

A number of Danville ladies enjoyed themselves very much at a birthday party given in honor of Mrs. Isaiah Raber of Bloomsburg Tuesday. Those present were: Mrs. Russell Foust, daughter Imogene, Mrs. Ray Keefe, Mrs. W. J. Williams, Mrs. Esterbrook and daughter Minnie, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. J. N. Pursel, Mrs. Pangh, Mrs. Rishel, Mrs. Geo. Leighow, Mrs. Hale, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. James, Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Albeck, Mrs. Roat, Mrs. Grant Fenstermacher, Mrs. W. H. N. Walker, Mrs. Whapham, Mrs. Swayze, Mrs. Anderson, Miss Lois Williams, Miss Pearl Fenstermacher, Beatrice Marian and Helen Pursel, Sarah Cook, Martha Pangh, Mildred Albeck, Joseph Whapham, Mrs. Gruber of Rupert, and Mrs. Tubbs and daughter Marguerite of Espy.

Few Teachers Applying.

Fewer application for positions as teachers than there have been for years is the report from the School Boards in this section. Danville is among the number and the Board which meets in a few weeks to elect teachers has very few applications except those of last year's faculty. Among the vacancies to be filled in Danville is the principalship of the Third ward schools.

Faculty Re-elected.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Bloomsburg State Normal School the entire faculty of the school was re-elected with the exception of Miss Starr, head of the department of music, who was not an applicant for re-election.

At the meeting a report was received on the matter of the school appropriation bill and the fact was brought out that it is yet in the hands of the Governor.

Children's Day Observed.

Sunday was Children's day, and it was no where more fittingly observed than at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jones, Walnut street, where twins were born, a bouncing boy and a fine little girl.

How Myers Caught a Trout.

The feat of John Myers, who resides in the First ward, Lock Haven, excels anything reported heretofore in the fish line. The fishermen in Cherry Run, Sugar valley, becoming weary of hauling out the speckled beauties, proposed a game of base ball, which was played along the flats close to the stream. Myers was playing first base. A ball was thrown high, which passed over his head and fell into the stream. Myers rushed to the bank and made a dive into the water for the ball. When he again came to the surface his companions saw him holding in one hand the missing ball and in the other a foot long trout. As the ball struck the water the trout mistook it for a minnow or some other food and rushed for it just as Myers reached the ball, so with one hand he grabbed the sphere and with the other the trout.

MANY DOGS ARE UNTAXED

According to the assessors' returns for the present year there are just 195 dogs in the borough of Danville. According to an off-hand estimate made by an observing person after a tour through town there are nearer 500 dogs. There is only one way to account for the discrepancy and that is on the assumption that the assessors are deceived by some tax payers, not over conscientious in the premises, and that many dogs are studiously kept in the background when the assessor calls that ought to go on the list of taxed dogs.

The same condition has existed for years. Some parts of the borough are overrun with dogs. One may see all breeds, all sizes, all ages. While here and there a well-bred dog is in evidence, the vast majority are of the worthless sort. Ill-kept and ill-tempered they go skulking about, darting out and snapping at the pedestrian when he least expects it. The multitude of dogs, an annoyance at any time, become a positive menace when an outbreak of hydrophobia occurs anywhere in the neighborhood as it is pretty sure to do once or twice during the year.

There is only one way of cutting down the number of worthless curs and that is by enforcing the law and making every person who owns a dog pay the tax prescribed. Not only is it known that there is a great deal of dodging in this matter, but individuals are pointed out who are more than suspected of having made false representations to the assessor.

In some of our neighboring towns a remedy is sought in the new law just signed by Governor Stuart, which permits every dog that does not bear on its collar a tax receipt to be shot. The remedy lies in the hands of the councilmen.

According to the assessors' returns the dogs in Danville are distributed throughout the borough as follows: First ward, 70 dogs; second ward, 48 dogs; third ward, 37 dogs; fourth ward, 40 dogs. Last year 188 dogs were assessed.

COMMITTEES ANNOUNCED

The school board of 1907-8 held its first regular meeting Monday night. The schools of the borough being closed for the season, and the date being a little too early to take any action on affairs relating to the coming term the school board had little business of importance on hand.

Chairman Pursel announced committees for the ensuing year as follows:

COMMITTEES.

Finance—W. H. Orth, F. E. Harpel, M. D. Jacob Fischer, Harry H. Redding.

Building and Repairs—Jacob Fischer, Augustus Heiss, W. J. Burns, J. W. Swarts.

Supplies—W. J. Burns, J. H. Cole, W. A. Seehler, W. H. Orth.

Printing—J. W. Swarts, Augustus Heiss, Harry Redding, J. H. Cole.

Grievance—F. E. Harpel, M. D. W. J. Burns, Jacob Fischer, C. Leonard Foulk.

On motion of Mr. Fischer the bond of M. H. Schram, treasurer, for $25,000, was unanimously approved by the school board.

On motion of Mr. Burns it was ordered that a blank receipt book for non-resident pupils be procured for the use of the treasurer of the school district.

On motion it was ordered that 100 committee cards be printed for general use.

The subject of fixing the date of meeting to elect teachers was considered but no action was taken. It was gathered from the proceedings that the election might not be held quite so early this year as has been customary. Borough Superintendent Gordy apprised the board of the fact that there will be at least, two vacancies in the corps of teachers and that he would not be surprised if there were four or five vacancies.

On motion of Mr. Fischer it was ordered that a notice be printed notifying teachers who wish to apply to have their applications in by the evening of June 17.

Want a New Borough Map.

Danville is badly in need of a map, which will show the town as it exists today, and give information on a variety of subjects that will be found very useful, if not indispensable, in the conduct of municipal affairs.

There are several old maps of Danville in existence, but these, while interesting as relics, are without any practical value after the lapse of so many years, during which the town has expanded and changes affecting all departments have occurred.

To be of any value a map should be modern. It should show on clearly defined lines all boundaries, the ward divisions, steam and electric railways, water systems, gas systems, sewer systems, street monuments, river embankments, elevation from low water level in the river, proposed street and alley extensions, along with the names of property owners as assessed when the map was made.

The matter is already being agitated and in a short time council will be asked to authorize the making of a map of the above sort. As a sample of what is needed an up-to-date map of the town of Sunbury has been borrowed and displayed in city hall. The map was made in 1899 and is the work of Borough Surveyor George F. Keefe, of Sunbury, and of Ogden H. Ostrander, C. E., of Riverside. It is a fine specimen of art and at first glance appeals to everyone as just the thing needed. The boundaries of every lot of ground are distinctly shown and the name of the owner is printed on the enclosed space.

Pennsylvania Educators.

The fifty-first session of the Pennsylvania State Educational Association will be held at Greensburg, Westmoreland county, July 2, 3 and 4, 1907. Special efforts have been made to present a program of great worth. The State Teachers' Association is of the highest professional value to teachers. Many school measures found upon our statute books are traceable to the influence of this organization. The enrollment fee, which is $1, may be sent to Professor David S. Keck, treasurer, Kutztown, Pa.

The National Educational Association will meet in Los Angeles, Cal., July 8-12, 1907. Pennsylvania has been honored in the choice of Dr. Nathan O. Schaeffer as president of this association.

JUDGE EVANS
SOUNDS WARNING

The case of Charles Brumbaugh, who was placed in the custody of the sheriff last week as one not having proper care and guardianship, was temporarily disposed of by Judge Evans on Saturday afternoon. The boy was placed in the hands of Chief-of-police Mince-moyer as probation officer. Meanwhile he is permitted to live with his grandmother.

The utter absence of parental control, it will be recalled because manifested through Charles Brumbaugh's indifferent attendance at school and the school board, with a view of improving the boy's condition, through its attorney, Ralph Kiser, brought the case before court.

Charles wept bitterly as he was led into court by the sheriff. He is a bright looking boy and on Saturday was very neatly dressed. Whatever his hardships may have been, whatever his home may lack, it is the only home he has ever known and while detained at the jail he grieved almost constantly. He was the object of much sympathy while in court Saturday. He was intelligent enough to catch the full drift of the proceedings. Whenever the evidence relating to his home associations seemed unfavorable he cried and sobbed most despairingly, but whenever a more encouraging tale was told he was quick to brighten up and strained every nerve to catch the full significance of the testimony.

Borough Superintendent U. L. Gordy and Truant Officer W. E. Young testified as to the boy's attendance at school. He was present but 59 days out of 180 days. Both witnesses agreed that he was a good sort of a boy in school, but the difficulty was to secure his attendance. Both also agreed that no one at home seemed to be in parental control and that the boy was without the proper guardianship and care.

Chief-of-police Mince-moyer and John Grier Voris also testified, after which the boy himself was called to the stand. The little fellow said he lived with his grandmother and aunt and that he had a "pretty good" home; that both grandmother and aunt "tried" to treat him well. He acknowledged that he had not attended school anywhere near regularly but he explained that he was obliged to work. He was furnished with employment by "the Italians," who paid him two dollars per week and food. He had to clothe himself, but a portion of his earnings he gave to his grandmother for medicine.

Following the boy Grandmother Brumbaugh herself, was placed on the stand. She corroborated the boy and after giving some facts as to his parentage took occasion to contradict the police officers in some important testimony. As a result of this mild impeachment the two officers were recalled, when they not only repeated their former testimony with emphasis but added more of like nature, the effect of it all being to show that the child is "dependent and neglected" and that his associations at home are such as to have a demoralizing influence on his life.

After consulting with the two associates Judge Evans announced that he would make no disposition of the boy at present. He would place him in charge of the chief-of-police as probation officer until the next term of court, on the fourth Monday of September. Meanwhile, the boy will be permitted to return to his home.

Before dropping the matter Judge Evans took occasion to define very clearly his position respecting the social evil. Houses of prostitution, he said, will not be tolerated and it is the business of the police to know the nature of such places. He wanted it understood, he said, that a term in jail awaits not only those who conduct such houses, but the inmates as well.

Girl Missing at Trevorton.

Not finding the slightest trace as to the whereabouts of Miss Nora Edwards at Trevorton, a searching party returned from the mountains on Tuesday with the belief that she met death and that her body is probably in a mine breach. She is a young girl and came to Trevorton from Shamokin last Saturday night to visit relatives. Because she did not report earlier in the evening to her relatives after arriving she was reprimanded. She said she would go into the mountains and kill herself and before any one could prevent her she disappeared.

Freight Smashed Auto.

Friday evening at Sunbury as Mrs. Mary Greenough Stevenson with a party of friends in her Franklin touring car was about to cross the Pennsylvania tracks at Market square, the gasoline ran out, stalling the car on the tracks. A freight train was approaching and an attempt was made to flag it. The locomotive with unslackened speed, however, struck the car breaking the dasher. Fortunately the occupants had opportunity to escape.

THE ESCAPE WAS PROVIDENTIAL

Joseph Curry, the seven-year-old son of James Curry, Bank street, was rescued from drowning in Mahoning creek yesterday, after he had sunk for the third time. The rescue was a most remarkable and sensational one.

About 10 o'clock as Patrick McKeever, who had just left the Reading Iron works, was crossing the bridge over Mahoning creek, he noticed an object in the water, that somewhat resembled the top of a child's head. Only the hair was visible. While the man was looking the object sank out of sight. Very much mystified Mr. McKeever waited a short time—while he thinks may have been two minutes or more—for the object to reappear at the surface.

Meanwhile he became impressed with the idea that a child might have fallen in the creek and was drowning and when it became evident that the object had sunk to rise no more he impulsively plunged into the water, which was nearly over his head, and began to search the bottom of the stream.

He was successful in finding the child's body, which he brought to the surface. The boy was unconscious and displayed little sign of life. The man, however, knew what to do in such an emergency and, aided by some women who ran to the spot, in due time he succeeded in removing the water from the body and restoring respiration. It was not until a good while later that the boy recovered consciousness.

It appears that the little fellow was playing along the edge of the stream, where the shore sinks abruptly, and, missing his foothold, fell into the deep water. Had Mr. McKeever been the fraction of a minute later in crossing the bridge he would not have discovered the boy, who was sinking for the last time. There was clearly something providential in the escape.

Heavy Timber Being Sawn.

William H. Dildine, of Exchange, is a busy and enterprising citizen of Anthony township. In addition to his store and planing mill, he is operating a portable saw mill on the farm of Mark Graham, formerly the John R. Bennett farm, where he is sawing some very big timber.

The Graham farm contains a large tract of the finest woodland that is to be found in Montour county. Just now the owner is preparing to build a large barn and wind breaker and it is for the purpose of preparing timber for these structures that Mr. Dildine's saw mill has been installed on the premises.

Among other timber sawed for Mr. Graham are two sticks that are quite noteworthy. One of these was 33 feet long and produced 960 feet of sawed timber; the other was 40 feet long and produced 1002 feet. The latter piece cut one stick, ten by twelve inches and another seven by nine inches, the balance being two inch plank. The timber required for Mr. Graham's barn, all of which will be sawed from trees growing on the farm, will approximate something like 50,000 feet.

Mr. Dildine is erecting a 20-foot annex to his store at Exchange, and has eight men employed on this job. The annex, which stands in front of the building, is practically completed and by Saturday night the owner expects to be selling goods in the new portion.

Taking in his planing mill and all his other operations Mr. Dildine has for some time past had 15 hands employed.

Late Train Will Not Run.

The effort to induce the D. L. & W. railroad company to put a late train on this division to enable business men to make a trip to New York and return the same day has evidently ended in failure.

During a visit yesterday Superintendent Rine stated that no action had as yet been taken in the matter of placing in service a late train from New York. Speaking for the railroad company he said the officials could not see how such a train could be made to pay expenses. The amount of patronage it would receive was very uncertain. He thought it exceedingly doubtful whether any action would be taken in the matter.

It will be recalled that the people of Danville were very much interested in the proposition to secure the late train, while the Chamber of Commerce of Bloomsburg and the board of trade of Berwick sent in numerous signed petitions relating to the matter.

Henry W. Sprague, of South Bethlehem, on Monday took his family and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Zulick, of Easton, out for a spin in his new automobile and while crossing a railroad the auto stalled on the track just as a passenger train came in sight. All leaped from the auto and escaped just a few moments before the locomotive struck it and dashed it into a heap of junk.

FOURTEEN YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

The case of Commonwealth vs. Peter Dietrich, in which a verdict of murder in the second degree was returned at the last term of court, was disposed of Saturday. The defendant for the second time was sentenced by Judge Evans, receiving as at the former trial fourteen years in the eastern penitentiary. It will be recalled that the defense when the verdict was announced moved for an arrest of judgment and a new trial.

The motion for a new trial was argued during the forenoon, Saturday. Hon. Fred Ikeler took up the case for the defense. None of the reasons adduced were new but were those which during the trial formed the grounds for hot contention between the opposing attorneys.

The reason for a new trial emphasized the most was that the court erred when it overruled the defendant's special plea of jeopardy, contending that the latter could not be put on trial the second time on the charge of murder in the first degree. The first verdict secured being that of murder in the second degree the defendant could not afterward be tried for any higher degree of murder. The supreme court did not say go back again and try the defendant on a charge of which he had been acquitted. The point especially emphasized was that, while the Commonwealth explained to the jury that it would "not press" for a verdict of murder in the first degree, the case was sent to the jury on an indictment of murder in the first degree and the jury was left to infer that it was only through the gracious spirit and the leniency of the Commonwealth that it did "not press" for a first degree verdict. The jury should have been informed that the defendant was not charged with "first degree murder" and that the Commonwealth had no right to ask for a first degree verdict.

MR. HINCKLEY'S ARGUMENT.

Hon. H. M. Hinckley in his reply contended that every point involved in the "reasons" advanced, were thrashed out at the last trial. For the most part Mr. Ikeler's argument was merely a criticism of language. To have accepted the defendant's special plea of jeopardy Mr. Hinckley said, would have implied that he could not be tried at all. The action of the supreme court in sending the defendant back for trial on a new venire left no alternative but to try him on the original indictment; it was all the Commonwealth had to proceed upon and, besides it was clearly the intention of the supreme court that the original indictment should be acted upon.

The Commonwealth, Mr. Hinckley said, acted advisedly in the premises and in view of the peculiar circumstances of the case, at the very outset the fact was impressed upon the jury that the Commonwealth would not press for a first degree verdict. This fact was studiously kept before the jury by the attorneys for the Commonwealth and the court in the charge to the jury was careful to emphasize the fact that first degree murder was eliminated and that they could find one of three verdicts—murder in the second degree, voluntary manslaughter or not guilty.

MOTION OVERRULED.

At 11:45 o'clock court adjourned for the forenoon. Judge Evans explained that he would dispose of the case of Commonwealth vs. Peter Dietrich at 2 o'clock, the hour of reconvening. Promptly at the latter hour Judge Evans announced his decision. The motion for arrest of judgment and a new trial was denied. Peter Dietrich was immediately called before court and sentenced. Upon being asked whether he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed upon him he replied:

"Only this, that I am not guilty." The sentence of the court then followed: "That you, Peter Dietrich, undergo an imprisonment in the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia at separate and solitary confinement for a period of fourteen years, to be computed from this date, and you to stand committed until the sentence is complied with, the sheriff to conduct you thence within ten days from this date and to be allowed one assistant."

Immediately following the passing of sentence William Kase West of counsel for the defense arose and asked that the stenographer be requested to write out the evidence, as it was the intention of the defense to appeal the case.

The Dance a Success.

The dance given at DeWitt's Park Tuesday evening was a success in every way. The attendance was large and music furnished by Hower's seven piece orchestra of Bloomsburg was much appreciated by all present. The committee who had the affair in charge were Thos. Foltz and Chas. Hart.

A French invention, consisting of bulb thermometers, predicts at sundown whether there will be frost.
