BUFFALO FLYER WRECKED AT SUNBURY

Buffalo flyer, westbound, was wrecked in the RF yards at Sunbury about 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Two men were instantly killed, a third fatally hurt, and a score of passengers injured.

The flyer ran into an open switch, and then into a Lewistown freight. None of the crew of the freight were hurt.

The accident happened at the lower end of the yards. The flyer was five minutes late and was running at the rate of sixty miles an hour. The Lewistown freight was just about to pull out of the yards. The express and baggage cars were jammed into each other and splintered almost into kindling wood.

Three of the flyer's crew were killed, and about twenty passengers were hurt.

The dead are:
Fireman Frank Macavilla, Williamsport.
Express Messenger Eyer, of Harrisburg.
Assistant Baggage-master Hunter, of Harrisburg, who died in the hospital.

The injured are:
Edward Stringer, of Northumberland, brakeman on the flyer, slight internal injuries.
A. S. Ringuir, of Lancaster, head cut.
Mrs. William G. Irving, Mendira, N. Y., serious internal injuries.
Miss L. Snyder, of the University hospital, Philadelphia, nose broken.
Joshua Saxe, an invalid from the hospital at Keating summit, nervous shock from which he may not recover.
Minnie Tichy, of Baltimore, head cut.
Mrs. H. M. Bennett, of Takoma Park, Washington, D. C., serious internal injuries.
Mrs. Irons, Bodine N. Y. broken nose and internal injuries.
William Ulmer, engineer on the flyer, serious bruises and internal injuries.

The wreck was caused by an open switch at the lower end of the yard near the bridge across the Shamokin creek. The Lewistown local intended to take the south bound track but was switched upon the track which was being kept clear for the flyer, already overdue. When once upon the track the replaced switch made it impossible to return.

The freight was standing on northbound track and the crew, having ample warning of the approach of the flyer, escaped unhurt. The engineer of the passenger train could not see the freight which was hidden behind a bend in the road, and was almost upon it before he was aware of its presence and could apply the air brakes. In the collision both engines were smashed into twisted heaps of scrap iron, the freight train was totally wrecked, and the baggage car of the flyer was broken to pieces.

Harry Spangler, of Lewistown, fireman on the local and G. P. Miller, of Lewistown, the flagman, made the following statement:
"We jumped from the train and ran ahead to flag the passenger which we could hear whistling around the bend. We tried our best to stop them, but they probably did not see us and ran at full speed straight ahead into the tender of our engine, which was running backwards."
William Ulmer, of Harrisburg, engineer on the flyer, when questioned by a reporter said:
"We were running at 60 miles an hour to make up five minutes back time. I thought the track was clear until we rounded the bend and saw the freight scarcely fifty feet away. I threw on the brakes, but it was too late to jump. My fireman jumped just before the crash. He was killed."
Macavilla, the fireman, jumped an instant before the collision occurred. He was caught between the tender and baggage car. His clothes were torn from him and he was crushed to death.

Eyer, the express messenger, who was on his first trip over the division, was killed in the express car. The floor was forced up against the roof by the car behind and he was crushed between the timbers.

The mail was scattered broadcast, and trunks were torn to pieces and their contents ruined. Many Sunburians joined in the search for missing valuables in the debris, helping guard the trunks from thieves and rendered great aid to the injured.

On the same car and in the same manner, Baggage-master Hunter was mortally hurt, and died about an hour later at the hospital.

An engine and car carried most of the injured to Market street, Sunbury, whence they were removed to the hospital. The ambulance, carriages and automobiles carried many more up to the town.

The wreck crew was called and in about an hour cleared the southbound track for traffic.

RALPH MELLICK IN CUSTODY

Another youthful burglar is in the toils. Justice was swift. The burglary was committed Tuesday afternoon; a clue was soon obtained and the burglar arrested; a full confession followed and the money was restored—all before midnight. By noon yesterday the burglar was in the custody of the sheriff.

The prosecutor in the case was Jesse Beyer, driver of one of the McCormick busses, whose home is on Pine street. Mrs. Beyer was out of town on a visit Tuesday and the dwelling was alone. When Mr. Beyer returned home at evening he found that some one had broken into the house, the rear window shutter having been forced upon and the window raised.

About all that was missing was two children's safes, which contained some five dollars in change. Mr. Beyer at once reported the robbery to the chief of police, who at once set an investigation on foot.

Suspicion pointed to Ralph Mellick, a colored boy about 12 years of age, who had been observed by some of the neighbors acting suspiciously about the rear of Mr. Beyer's residence during the afternoon. About 11 o'clock Tuesday night the officers called Ralph up out of bed and put through the sweating process.

The little fellow strenuously denied all knowledge of the robbery but endeavored to assist the officers in clearing up the affair by explaining that he saw a tramp in the rear of the Beyer dwelling Tuesday afternoon. He finally weakened and reaching into his pocket produced a dollar bill, which he acknowledged was a part of the booty. For awhile he insisted that the dollar bill was all he had, but finally he went up stairs and produced the remainder, which was secreted in a tobacco box. In all $5.25 were recovered from the boy and returned by the officers to Mr. Beyer.

The boy could extract the money from the safes only by breaking them open. After securing the money, according to his own confession, he threw the two safes down into the cesspool.

The booty having been returned it was probably thought that no arrests would be made. Mr. Beyer, however, took the view that a boy capable of such work was a dangerous factor in the community and that the best home for him was some institution where he might be trained into better habits. He accordingly swore out a warrant yesterday morning and shortly after 10 o'clock the lad was arraigned before Justice Oglesby.

Ralph is a bright looking little fellow. He made a clean breast of the whole affair and went through with the recital without the least show of feeling or even indicating that he appreciated that there was anything wrong about it. It had been suggested that he use Mr. Beyer's axe in breaking the window shutter open. This the little fellow denied, but produced a claw hammer, which he said he had used, and taking it in his hands applied it very dexterously to one of the doors in the Justice's office to demonstrate what a useful tool a hammer is in forcing open window shutters. He had no desire to shield himself at all and while about it took occasion to confess that he recently stole three half dollars from behind the counter at G. Shoop Hunt's drug store.

The youthful defendant stated that his mother lives in Pittsburg and that he has his home with his grandmother in this city. The Justice decided that the boy would have to be held in order to give the court an opportunity to act on his case. He fixed bail at one hundred dollars, but no bondsman appearing he placed the boy in custody of the sheriff.

"Brown's" Career Is Cut Short.
Brown is dead. For the enlightenment of those who did not know Brown we would state that he was the tan-colored bull dog adopted by our police force.

Brown was a familiar figure. In early life he was a fighter but as he advanced in years he departed from such vanities and began to take life seriously. Brown was old, as dogs go, and he looked like a patriarch. Thirteen or fifteen years was probably the limit he had reached. One half of the time he sat in drowsy mood, apparently asleep. At other times he sat in silent meditation; occasionally, especially at night, he howled. His bark had a weird and muffled sound that was altogether out of place in this world.

Up to two years ago Brown belonged to Block and Benzach and he was a good watch dog. He then began traveling out at night and fell in with the policemen. This led him to city hall, which he seemed to prefer to the "pant's factory." From that date on he slept in the hall way of the city building and took his meals at the back door of the City hotel, where the supply was always abundant.

Sunday evening the end occurred. Brown was in front of the hotel, when a dog from the country happened to pass. There must have been a strong challenge of some sort for Brown's fighting instincts were aroused and full of grit he made a dash for the strange dog.

The exertion was too much for him. He had nearly reached his antagonist when he suddenly paused. He made a circular movement as if endeavoring to catch his tail and fell dead on the spot, a victim of "heart failure."

IN SEARCH OF RUNAWAY DAUGHTER

Isaiah Bingaman of Middleburg, Snyder county, was in this city Monday in search of his daughter, who left home on Saturday June 22nd and who is believed to be located in Danville or other nearby locality.

Mr. Bingaman in company with the chief of police visited the different industries of town where girls are employed. He found no trace of his daughter and is convinced that unless the girl is employed in some private family she is not in Danville. The father appeared at the News office yesterday and gave a description of the girl and the circumstances of her leaving home.

The name of the missing girl is Ida May Bingaman. She is eighteen years of age and is about five feet in height. She has light hair and blue eyes and speaks with a slight German accent. She is intelligent and good looking and is most likely to be dressed in a blue waist with black or white skirt.

While Mr. Bingaman lives at Middleburg, with a couple of his sons he operates a saw mill at Lewistown. During the spring the daughter, Ida May, was most of the time with her father and brothers cooking for them. During the week before last she was home with her mother and on Saturday, the 22nd inst., left the parental home ostensibly to return to her father. It occurred that on this date one of the brothers came home and when he returned to the saw mill on Monday he was surprised to find that the girl had not arrived.

Thus it was discovered that the girl had left for parts unknown. On Monday the 24th she was traced to Sunbury where she bought a ticket to Milton. The father, however, has some doubt about her going to Milton, but failing to find her in Northumberland was inclined to the belief that she may have gone to Danville or possibly on to Bloomsburg or Berwick. There is also a probability that she was attracted by the larger city of Williamsport or some other town in the West Branch valley.

Mr. Bingaman says that he and his wife are very much distressed over their daughter's disappearance. She has never been away from home before. She was well treated and being a good girl few restrictions were placed upon her, all of which makes her conduct in leaving home inexplicable.

Mr. Bingaman feels confident that if the newspapers in the towns named above will aid him he will succeed in finding his daughter. Should she be identified at any place he will regard it as a favor if the police will take her into custody and hold her until the parents can be notified.

RUNAWAY ON NORTH MILL STREET

Charles and Warren Johnson, sons of F. P. Johnson, Valley township, while driving into town on Saturday afternoon, met with an exciting runaway and were thrown out of the buggy, which was badly wrecked.

It happened during the rain, about 4 o'clock. The young men had just crossed the P. & R. track, when the loud puffing of a passing locomotive caused the horse to take fright. The animal gave a spring and broke the bridleband strap. As a result of this the harness dropped about the animal's hind legs, which caused him to kick. This quick and unexpected movement on the part of the horse disconcerted the driver and caused him to drop the lines.

The horse, unchecked and still very much frightened, ran a short distance further, when the wheels on one side of the buggy dropped into a declivity some two feet deep, which had been excavated in preparing for the reconstruction of the street. The vehicle careened and the two young men were gracefully dumped out landing unhurt on the opposite bank, while the buggy quickly righted itself.

From this point the horse ran southward on North Mill street. The empty buggy bounced about at a lively rate as it traversed the several squares where excavation is in progress, but it managed to keep right side up until it reached a point opposite the Continental engine house, where it collided with a telegraph post and upset. Dragging the overturned buggy, at Mill and Centre streets the horse slipped on the paving and fell to the ground.

Before he could regain his feet some one was thoughtful enough to throw his weight upon the animal's neck holding him down until he was unhitched. The horse, like the occupants of the buggy, escaped unhurt. The buggy top, however, and one wheel was badly wrecked.

U. L. GORDY HAS RESIGNED

Borough superintendent of schools U. L. Gordy has tendered his resignation to the school board to take effect on September 1st. Mr. Gordy has accepted the position of superintendent of schools at Mt. Pleasant near Pittsburg at a substantial advance of salary.

The news of Mr. Gordy's resignation will cause general regret. Not only is he an able and conscientious instructor and superintendent, under whom our schools have attained a very high standard of efficiency, but he possesses all the elements of character that win and hold respect and impart to his life an influence uplifting in its nature. A man of brilliant attainments he becomes a congenial companion for all those who are climbing upward on the road to learning but so strongly is the social and sympathetic side of his nature developed that the innumerable friendships formed which shine upon his life, are not restricted to any class of people or to any walk of life.

Mr. Gordy came to Danville in 1900. After one year as principal of the high school he was elected borough superintendent, succeeding J. C. Houser. On September 1st he will have completed six years as borough superintendent. During this period on Mr. Gordy's recommendation vocal music has been introduced into the schools, the commercial course has been established, and the laboratories in the high school have been equipped.

A Four Years' Pastorate.
At the Grove Presbyterian church just before giving out the final hymn Sunday night Rev. Dr. McCormack, the pastor, announced that with Sunday he closed the fourth year of his pastorate.

The fruits of the four year's work have been most gratifying to the pastor and congregation alike. During the year just closed the efforts have been chiefly spent upon the men and church erhood has been organized and the general renovation of the church edifice was provided for that was outlined in these columns last week.

On a recent occasion Dr. McCormack remarked that never during any pastorate was he and his family happier or more comfortably situated than at Danville, all of which is most gratifying news to the congregation, which finds in Dr. McCormack a man admirably suited to their tastes. It would be difficult to recall a time when there was a man in charge of the Grove church, who was more popular as a pastor, whose services were better attended, whose general qualifications were of a higher order or who was governed by higher moral and Christian standards.

The Presbyterian Brotherhood at its last meeting showed its appreciation of Dr. McCormack by presenting him with a "Wilmore's New Analytical Reference Bible." It is of flexible cover, superb in binding with the name of the pastor in gilt letters on the outside cover.

Clam Bake at Roaring Creek.
A jolly company of townsmen enjoyed a clam bake at Roaring Creek Tuesday. It was an annual affair and the occasion brought the usual full measure of enjoyment.

Among those present were the following: W. A. Seehler, C. P. Hancock, W. G. Parsel, Harry Ellenbogen, A. J. Leiniger, F. C. Angle, John Brugler, W. J. Rogers, W. K. West, W. L. Sidler, Major C. P. Gearhart, John Eisenhart, W. E. Gosh, T. J. Price, Ralph Kiser, J. C. Peifer, Thomas G. Vincent, J. H. Cole and Henry Divel.

Horse Thief in the Toils.
Calvin Gray, of this place, was arrested yesterday at West Milton, charged with horse stealing. He was brought to this place and in default of bail was taken to the county jail. It will be remembered that some time ago Gray and an accomplice, named Hulziser, stole a rig belonging to a young man named Burke, that was hitched at the rear of the Schreyer store, on Elm street. Several days later Officer Scott recovered the horse and outfit at Trevorton, but the thieves were gone. Since that time Gray has not showed up in these parts, and when he did it was not long before he was in the hands of the law.—Milton Standard.

Some of the Prices.
The Springfield Republican says: "One small tomato, 80 cents; one moderate luncheon for two, $10; a shave and face massage, $1.25; one trunk hauled to exposition grounds, $7. These are the last prices at Jamestown." The management of the exposition will be wondering after a while, why there are no big crowds at the fair, and why there is such a big financial deficit.

Little Tot Has Narrow Escape.

Residents near the corner of Pine and Front streets Monday night beheld a thrilling sight, when a little tot about a year old came within an ace of being killed by a runaway horse.

About half past five o'clock a horse belonging to Herbert Myerly and hitched to a scraper escaped from the driver and ran up Pine street.

The faster the horse ran, owing to the presence of the scraper bouncing along behind, the more terrified and frenzied he seemed to become. Reaching Front street he turned the corner springing upon the sidewalk.

In front of one of the residences a short distance from the corner a little child of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Wilson, was seated on the pavement in a small rocking chair. There seemed to be no help for the child as the horse dashed along and everyone thought that the tot would be trampled underfoot.

It escaped the horse, however, only to be struck by the scraper. There was a cry of dismay from those near enough to see, but too far away to render assistance, as the little rocking chair was violently thrown in one direction and the child rolled in another.

Half a dozen persons ran to the little one and found that it was practically unharmed. The scraper luckily did not strike the child but came in contact with the chair alone.

The horse was caught later.

Concrete Pavement.

In line with the public improvements in the city, the trustees of the Baptist church, are preparing to lay a concrete pavement in front of the church on Pine street. This necessitated the removal of the three maple trees bordering the street at this point, and yesterday saw the last one fall. No doubt the trees with their abundant shade, will be missed for a time, but it was necessary that they give way in the march of improvement.

Operation Successful.

George Hunt, son of D. C. Hunt, West Mahoning street, has returned from Philadelphia where he underwent an operation for the removal of adenoids in the back part of the nasal passages. The operation was a complete success.

Geiger-Foust.

Miss Mabel Foust and John Geiger were married at Strawberry Ridge yesterday. The ceremony was performed at high noon by the Rev. Wilbur Kohler at the residence of M. Whipple, a relative of the bride. The newly wedded couple left on a trip.

Family of Nineteen Children.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCaffrey, Ash street, this city, have been married forty-four years and are the parents of nineteen children, eight girls and eleven boys. In their family there have been five pairs of twins. Ten of the children have grown to manhood and womanhood. The eldest is 42 years of age and the youngest is 23.

A Visitor from South Wales.

William Jones, of the home of John D. Evans, East Market street. It is Mr. Jones' first visit to America and that he finds plenty to interest him during his visit goes without saying. He is very favorably impressed with our country, its prosperity and its institutions. On the completion of his visit he will return to Wales.

Mr. Jones on his visit to Danville is accompanied by Richard Handley, of Edwarsville. Mr. Handley and himself as well as Mr. Evans, at whose home they are guests, are married to sisters.

Excellent State of Public Health.

The report of the local registrar to the bureau of vital statistics for June comes very near giving Danville a clean bill of health.

There was not a single case of pneumonia nor of typhoid fever reported during the month of June. There was one case of diphtheria, one case of scarlet fever and four cases of measles. No deaths resulted from contagious diseases.

In the district, there were twenty-one deaths, five occurring at the hospital for the insane. In May there were twenty deaths. During the last named month the deaths were more than counter balanced by twenty-five births. From the view point of the statistician it is interesting to note that the birth rate in our district is uniformly slightly above the death rate.

The practical immunity from typhoid fever which we enjoy is also very gratifying. While there was one case of this disease, in May, in April as in June there was not a case of this disease reported.

Will Furnish Brick To Orphanage.

John Keim has sold 300,000 brick to the Odd Fellows' orphanage near Sunbury. The work of shipping began Tuesday.

Mr. Keim is operating all four of his yards, the combined product being 15,000 brick daily. He has thirty-four men employed.

Mr. Keim's brick are hand made, which seems to be preferred over the machine made brick which are a little too rough to suit the tastes of many people. The only disadvantage which Mr. Keim suffers is the advance in freight rates, which cuts into his profits considerably.

Returned from Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis on Saturday returned home from their wedding trip to Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Richmond, Jamestown Exposition and other points of interest in Virginia and West Virginia.

On Saturday evening the couple were tendered a reception by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Kindt, Maudsalle.

Principal at Sunbury.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education held on Monday evening, Professor John A. Young of Kane, was elected to serve as the Principal of the high school at Sunbury to succeed Professor H. N. Conser, resigned.

The New Chapel at East End.

At the patriotic service held at the East End mission Sunday afternoon four hundred and twenty six dollars were pledged for the new chapel which is to be built near the Ammerman building. A site has already been purchased and work on the new building will probably commence in the course of a few months.

A year old child of Walter J. Harvey, of Pomeroy, Chester county, was drowned on Saturday night by falling into a tub of water.
