NECESSARY TO INSTALL PUMP

P. J. Keefe, superintendent of construction, with a force of men Tuesday began work on the excavation for the foundation of the Soldiers' monument. The first day sufficed to reveal that the job is going to be a difficult one owing to the presence of water, which has made it necessary to install a pump.

It is a well known fact that the cemetery is a wet and soggy spot, especially in the center, where the site of the monument lies. It was hardly expected, however, that water would be encountered so soon.

Mr. Keefe thinks it will be necessary to sink the excavation, at least ten feet before a solid bottom will be found. Upon attaining a depth of three feet Tuesday water was encountered and before the work could proceed further it was necessary to install a handpump and lay pipe to conduct the water to an intake in the park drain some 80 feet distant.

The accumulation of water will no doubt prove a great annoyance and a hindrance as the work progresses, as it may be necessary to keep the pump in constant operation when a greater depth has been attained.

Many Lives Lost in Coal Mines. Advertising to the many lives lost in our coal mines the Phoenixville Daily Republican says: "The loss of life in the mines in Pennsylvania last year was about one thousand. This blood cost is due almost altogether to the carelessness of the miners and the companies operating the mines. There is nothing to commend mining as a desirable occupation. Lives and health are sacrificed to the darkness, and damp and gloom. No man can live a happy and vigorous life without plenty of God's sunshine and fresh air. But there is no reason why mining should be recorded as a particularly hazardous occupation so far as the probability of accidents is concerned, if reasonable precautions were taken at all times. A human life now and then in the mines attracts little attention. Dangerous walls and roofs are neglected, and gases are ignored until some great disaster draws the attention of the public, but in such cases no one suggests that stringent measures should be taken to prevent another such catastrophe."

A Pleasant Surprise. A number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Baynham, gate house, hospital, Friday evening, at a pleasant surprise given in honor of Mrs. Baynham's birthday. SHIPPING APPLES AND WHEAT

If any person labors under the delusion that the apple crop is not a large one this year he should pay a visit to South Danville, where a car load made up of all varieties is being shipped away each day of the week. As a matter of fact on Saturday four carloads were shipped, while during each day this week at least one car will be placed on the siding to be loaded with apples. It is understood that at least eight cars will be shipped this week.

The apples come from over a wide radius taking in Montour and a large portion of Northumberland counties. No finer specimens of fruit were ever seen than are loaded on the cars at South Danville. All varieties of apples are embraced but those which are exceptionally fine are Rambos, Smokehouse, Baldwins and Greenings. With very few exceptions they are picked apples and are very sound and healthy in appearance.

The firm that is doing the shipping is I. Shafer and Son, of Pittsburg, whose agent buying up apples passed through this section some weeks ago. The price paid is said to be 1 cent per pound or fifty cents per bushel for picked apples and twenty cents per bushel for dropped apples.

The loading of the cars presents a very interesting sight. The apples are loaded in bulk, each car being furnished with bins to hold the different varieties. Each car approximately contains 800 bushels. Of the four car loads shipped Saturday three went to Pittsburg and one to Illinois. It is worthy of note that apples are being shipped from Wolverton, a station this side of Sunbury, in numbers nearly as great as at South Danville.

Charles Mills, who has charge of the freight house at the South Danville station, is literally working over time to take care of the enormous shipment being made over the Penns. not only apples, but also buckwheat, which is an exceptionally heavy crop this year, is helping to vertax the shipping facilities. One shipment of buckwheat alone comprised three cars loaded to the roof.

Almost any day now the siding contains as it were a train of cars receiving and unloading merchandise and is altogether an impressive object lesson to show, not only the agricultural resources of this locality, but also the importance of South Danville as a shipping centre. Incredible as it may seem, the account of cars received and forwarded kept in the freight house show that forty cars and upwards are handled each day at South Danville. The shipment of sand adds very much to the volume of business at this as well as other seasons of the year.

ELY'S CREAM BALM has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine chest among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or snuffling. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

An Aged Lady Passes Away. Mrs. Catherine Miller, wife of Frederick Miller, departed this life at the home of her son-in-law, Wendel Grams, at Mill street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The deceased was a native of Germany. She came to this country in 1852. For many years with her husband, she lived in Wilkes-Barre, and Plymouth, removing to this city two years ago.

Mrs. Miller was 80 years of age and, besides her husband, is survived by one son, Frederick Miller, of Bloomsburg, and two daughters, Mrs. Wendel Grams, of this city, and Mrs. Emma Bressel, of St. Louis, Mo.

The deceased had been in feeble health for some time, but the immediate cause of death was a stroke of paralysis sustained last Tuesday.

DESIGNS FOR THE MONUMENT

Affairs relating to the soldiers' monument are taking tangible form. Plans are on foot, which provide for the construction of a foundation this fall, the completion of the memorial early next summer with unveiling exercises, on July 4th, to be the distinguishing feature of one of the most imposing demonstrations that ever took place in Danville on Independence day.

A meeting of the soldiers' monument committee took place on Friday night. In addition to Hon. James Foster, chairman, and Sam A. McCoy, secretary, there were present Jacob C. Miller, R. W. Eggert, W. L. McClure and Frank G. Schoch.

The object of the meeting was to examine the plans or designs submitted. Of the latter there were less than a dozen but without exception they were beautiful and well adapted to the spot where our monument is to stand; and especially, a stately memorial, much out of the ordinary, in design, appealed to the committee very strongly and no doubt when it comes to a final selection it will have the preference.

It was thought that a design might be selected on Friday night but during the meeting it was decided that haste is not necessary in the premises and that in order to do full justice to the matter the committee had better take plenty of time, obtaining estimates as to the relative cost of the different designs and looking into other matters of importance.

On motion it was decided to proceed at once with the construction of the foundation, the contract being awarded to T. L. Evans' Sons. The excavation, which may be ten feet or more in depth, will be pushed to completion at once, the ground obtained being utilized in grading the park.

The foundation will be of concrete and will be twenty-two feet square. After some two feet of concrete are laid work on the foundation will be suspended until next spring, when something definite will be known as to the kind of memorial to be built and the foundation can be finished to meet the special requirements.

The committee will at once busy itself with the selection of a design and looking after the financial end of the proposition. As soon as a design is selected the contract will be awarded and work on the memorial will be pushed along during the winter and early summer.

The committee is planning to have the monument in all its details completed by July 4th. If able to carry out its plans and a successful issue is in sight, early in the summer the soldiers' monument committee will take the initiative in preparing for a grand Fourth of July celebration, in which the unveiling of the soldiers' monument will be the principal attraction.

The announcement of plans will be made known very early in the summer to the end that the other towns in this section may know what is on foot here for the Fourth and may yield the date to Danville for a monster demonstration.

Thomas A. Edison, the great American inventor says: "Fully eighty per cent of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food; people are inclined to over-indulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly every case. The stomach can do just so much work and no more and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, or the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by Paules & Co.

What Remedy for Wife Desertion. In an article on the many desertion cases, in which a wife and children are left in want and distress, the Chester Morning Republican says: "What the remedy is for this state of affairs is not plain. The State manifestly cannot guarantee any woman that the man she marries shall always have employment, or that having employment, he will devote his earnings to her care and that of their children. However, it does seem possible that men contemplating matrimony could be compelled to show ability to maintain a family at the time of marriage. Even so weak a measure as this would probably lessen the number of improvident and reckless marriages. It is a difficult problem. It will not be solved until some method is found to punish wife deserters by confinement in which they will be forced to work and turn the proceeds over to their families."

Henry E. Jones of Tampa, Fla., writes: "I can thank God for my present health, due to Foley's Kidney Cure. I tried doctors and all kinds of kidney cure, but nothing done me much good till I took Foley's Kidney Cure. Four bottles cured me, and I have no more pain in my back and shoulders. I am 62 years old, and suffered long, but thanks to Foley's Kidney Cure I am well and can walk and enjoy myself. It is a pleasure to recommend it to those needing a kidney medicine." Sold by all dealers.

PASTOR SIMPLY WON'T VACATE

Though he has been repeatedly requested to resign the pastorate, and though the highest tribunal in the church, in conjunction with the lower bodies, has ordered him to vacate the pulpit, the Rev. W. H. Beyer, pastor of the Lutheran church at Trevorton, steadfastly refuses to leave his charge, contending that God alone can make it clear to him whether or not he shall seek other fields and that pending the arrival of the divine summons he will remain in Trevorton and continue his work for the Master. The case is the most interesting in the history of church troubles and the little town wherein the war is being waged on the determined pastor is in a state of excitement.

Rev. Beyer received a call to the Trevorton church six years ago. After five years the people decided that they wanted a new minister, and one year ago they hinted to the reverend gentleman that his presence in their midst was no longer desired. When he failed to take any action, the parishioners held a meeting at which a vote was taken, the result showing that the pastor was wanted by one out of every five members of his flock. Although this showed that the congregation was overwhelmingly against him Rev. Beyer still retained control.

The next step to be taken by the people was to have the church council, composed of five parishioners, pass upon the matter. The council was unanimous in its opinion that the shepherd look for another flock. This decision glanced off, and Rev. Beyer still continued to preach.

Gradually the size of the congregation decreased. Every Sunday the minister appeared and taught the Word, but each time to fewer people. Growing a trifle desperate, the parishioners decided on a move which, they thought, could not help but relieve them of their spiritual guide.

Taking the matter before the annual conference they received a decision from the elders to the effect that Rev. Beyer should vacate. The preacher swallowed this as he had the others and calmly prepared his next Sunday's sermon.

Recently the question received the attention of the synod, the highest tribunal of the church. As in the other instances, the decision went to the people, and in a letter the Rev. Beyer was told that inasmuch as he could not do any good while remaining in Trevorton he should leave at once.

But all the power that man can muster cannot oust this worker in the Master's vineyard. He is there to stay, he says, until the Lord shows him that he has been called to another church.

When the trouble first arose the church council decided to cut down the pastor's salary. This they did, reducing the yearly stipend from $500 to $100. For one year the minister has managed to subsist on this meagre income.

Saturday the council again held a meeting and came to the conclusion that since it seems absolutely impossible to remove the pastor they would resign and let church and pastor take care of themselves.

It will be practically impossible for Rev. Beyer to organize another council, as all but two of the parishioners are lined up against him. Within the last few weeks the attendance at services has dwindled alarmingly an average of 10 people going to the house of worship to listen to the Gospel.

There were several aspirants for the office, but William A. Shultz, won out over his opponents and received the endorsement of the Good Wills. The nomination for assistant chief from the Good Will company was Frank Baker.

In most cases consumption results from a neglected or improperly treated cold. Foley's Honey and Tar cures the most obstinate coughs and prevents serious results. It costs you no more than the unknown preparations and you should insist upon having the genuine in the yellow package. Sold by all dealers.

FRUIT DEALER ARRESTED

S. Palmisano, the Italian fruit dealer on Mill street, was arrested Saturday, charged with purchasing goods in the curbstone market for the purpose of selling them again, in violation of section 5th of the ordinance on market.

The defendant was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Oglesby and pleaded "not guilty." William Motter of Rush township, who sold Palmisano a quantity of tomatoes in market Saturday morning, was a witness in the case. Chief-of-Police Minemoyer, who, it was alleged, purchased the same tomatoes of Palmisano, was also a witness.

Justice Oglesby adjudged the defendant guilty and he was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars, which with the costs amounted to $8.95.

Section 5 of the ordinance makes it unlawful for store keepers or other persons to "buy in market for the purpose of selling again, butter, eggs or other articles or to engage therein during market hours with persons who bring such commodities to market keep and bring or send the same to their stores or places of business after market hours."

It is suspected that the ordinance is very frequently violated in the above respect. It is even charged that dealers from other towns on occasion surreptitiously purchase goods in market here, which they ship and sell again in their stores.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Danville People to Neglect. The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Care the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills.

Henry Collins, builder, of 445 N. 6th street, Bloomsburg, Pa., says: "For years I suffered with kidney complaint, backache and bladder weakness. I used all kinds of remedies but none of them seemed to have any beneficial effect. The secretions from the kidneys gave me constant annoyance and bothered me night and day. My back became so weak and painful around the loins that I could scarcely get about at times. I have had to lay off from work time after time. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in the papers and very highly recommended by people that I know. I obtained a box and used them as directed. I never had anything act so promptly in my life. The first box cured me of the pain and weakness. I kept on taking the remedy until I had used four boxes when the bladder weakness left me. I have had no trouble with the kidney secretion for at least two years. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills worth their weight in gold."

Rabbits Plentiful but Small in Size. Local sportsmen who have been out gunning as well as farmers throughout the county, who have abundant opportunity to observe, seem unanimous in the opinion, that there is no real scarcity of rabbits, although they may not be so plentiful as during some other seasons. They nearly all agree, however that rabbits are small—that is, that they have not yet attained their full growth. The latter could seem to bear out the opinion prevailing in many places that the season as fixed by the present law opens too early.

Wild turkeys seem scarce. None of our local hunters, have as yet, succeeded in bagging one. What is more significant, however, no one yet this season has reported seeing wild turkeys.

Coon hunting is the order of the day among young farmers. Coons are always fairly plentiful but it requires an experienced hunter and a good dog to capture one.

EVERY DOG MUST WEAR BRASS TAG

Every dog in Montour or any other county, outside of this city, will wear a small brass tag on his or her collar as proof to the authorities that their existence is being looked after by some owner and that they had a perfect right to live, according to the law passed by the recent legislature requiring every dog owner in the State to pay to the county tax collector 50 cents for the privilege of ownership.

This law has created a great stir in the country districts and all the canines in the rural districts will soon have new collars and a bright brass tag with the words "Montour county dog tax paid, 1907," with a number stamped on the center of the brass, about their necks. Woe betide any misguided dog who fails to comply with the law.

The act states that each tax collector in the county shall make a return to the county commissioners of every dog in his district and to notify each owner that unless the license price, 50 cents, be not paid in ten days, the constable of that district will be notified and the animal killed. Each 50 cents paid into the county treasury will be placed in a fund from which all damages will be paid in cases where sheep are killed by dogs or where a mad dog bites other cattle, causing death. At the end of each year all money over $200 remaining in the treasury will be divided between the various school districts of the county, while the $200 will be withheld by the commissioners for the dog damage fund.

The law requiring each dog in the county to be taxed, exclusive of the cities of the third class, has been in force for several years, but the wearing of tags on the collar is new. Heretofore when the tax collectors inquired about the ownership of a dog noticed about the premises the animal was said to be a "tramp," as a rule, and as the law did not provide for the killing of all unlicensed dogs at that time very few canines were reported and taxed by the commissioners. But the new act providing for the death of all dogs not licensed has caused many tags to be sold to dog owners.

The act provides for 50 cents to be paid to the constables for each dog killed by them, this to be paid out of the dog damage fund.

Paper Knecks the Masher. The senseless and ungentlemanly masher gets the following notice from the Butler Eagle: "The masher is about the most loathsome creature abroad. He intrudes upon the attention of women and makes himself obnoxious. He can't be sent to jail for staring at ladies who pass in the street, but his offense is worse than many which are punished by a jail sentence. There are no more street gazers in Butler than elsewhere, but every city has its own ills to contend with. It might be well for the chief of police to give the men an order to give the move on signal to the bands of bums on the street."

AN AGED FATHER'S DEVOTION TO SON

A case of devotion which stands alone was brought to light yesterday morning when John Paxo, a Mt. Carmel man aged 77 years, walked to Shamokin, and, half frozen, stopped at a public house and asked that he be allowed to get warmed before continuing his journey to Sunbury, where a sick son awaited him. The proprietor, of a sympathetic nature, questioned the aged man and learned that he intended to walk to the county seat. Pitying the old fellow, he offered him money to buy a ticket, but the man, proud even in his poverty, politely but firmly refused to take it, saying that he would willingly work for the money but that he could not accept it otherwise. The unfortunate then suggested that he be given some wood to chop. Touched by the aged one's devotion Mr. Yozorskie would not hear of such a thing and after much persuasion finally succeeded in having the man take the necessary fund to see him to Sunbury.
