WOULD HAVE A STALLION PARADE

Dr. J. J. Kline, of this town, is in receipt of a communication from Carl W. Gay, who is in charge of horse breeding division of the State Live Stock sanitary board. The letter which is self explanatory, follows:

It is proposed to hold a stallion parade in each of the horse breeding districts of Pennsylvania this spring, as a special feature of the work now being conducted by the State department of agriculture to encourage horse breeding.

First: To stimulate interest in horse production on the part of the farmers and at the same time attract the attention of the buyer.

Second: To correct and improve the ideal in the minds of the breeders.

Third: To afford a means of discrimination between the desirable and the undesirable sires in a given community and incidentally of awarding the special certification of approval provided for by the law recently enacted in this State to regulate stallion service.

It is believed that these objects could be best secured by an organization of those concerned in each locality, such organizations to be provided with a constitution and a uniform classification of horses based upon market and breed standards, prepared for that purpose by the State department of agriculture.

AS EXPLAINED BY SECRETARY SHULTZ

A number of our dairymen Saturday took out a license at the office of Dr. Shultz, secretary of the local board of health, and this morning will comply with the new rules and regulations adopted, which provide that beginning with March 1st each dairyman will have to display in his wagon or store a license, certifying to certain facts establishing the purity of the milk and cream vended.

There were certain facts relating to the new rules and regulations which were not generally understood by the public, and especially among the dairymen, for awhile occasioned much controversy. These points were all made clear to the dairymen on Saturday.

First as to the authority. The act of May 1893, establishing boards of health in boroughs, and that of May 29 1907, establishing the same in townships, impart to the boards of health power, and imposes it upon them as their duty, to make and enforce all needed rules and regulations to prevent the introduction and spread of infectious and contagious diseases.

To assist the boroughs and townships in availing themselves of the provisions of the above laws the department of health at Harrisburg has drafted "model rules and regulations" and sent them out to the various local boards of health throughout the State.

While all the local boards of health are advised by Dr. Dixon to act upon the "model rules and regulations" he is especially solicitous that Danville should adopt them—especially those in reference to production of milk and cream—in view of the recent outbreak of typhoid fever, which could not be traced directly to the water and which under the circumstances probably originated in the milk.

The local board of health acting under the authority with which it is invested, in adopting the model rules and regulations takes the matter of milk license entirely out of the borough's hands. It seems to be no longer a matter of ordinance and the provision of the latter under which dealers who sell milk of their own production only heretofore escaped payment of license, Secretary Shultz states, is no longer of force in the premises.

THREE YEARS FOR JOHN SNYDER

Chicken stealing in this vicinity received a severe setback Saturday morning, when Judge Evans sentenced John ("Coony") Snyder to three years in the Eastern penitentiary for robbing hen roosts.

Snyder's exploits are fresh on the minds of our readers. He was arrested on three different occasions for chicken stealing last week, on two of them pleading guilty when arraigned before the justice of the peace.

As a matter of three months intervene between the present and the next term of court Snyder decided to take advantage of the act of April 15th, 1907, entering a plea of guilty and receiving sentence without a bill of indictment going before the grand jury.

The district attorney read the three indictments—one for stealing chickens from Newton N. Smith, another from Horace Bennett and another from Mrs. Anna Bennett—to all three of which the defendant pleaded guilty.

In answer to a question from the court Snyder said he was fifty-eight years old and that he was employed at the big mill. Judge Evans said that he was determined to break up the practice of chicken stealing in Montour county. He informed Snyder that he could send him to the penitentiary for three years on each indictment, making nine years in all.

Knocked by Horse. Oliver Billmeyer, son of Hower Billmeyer, Anthony township, while hitching a horse Saturday afternoon was knocked by the animal in the thigh. The injury was very painful but it is thought that no bones are broken.

COLD WEATHER AFFECTS BRIDGE

The effect of natural temperature on metals is well illustrated by the condition of the heavy iron railing on the east side of the river bridge, which as the result of contraction due to cold weather has pulled apart, leaving a section of the fence or railing without support.

The breach occurs about midway on the bridge. The upper railing of the guard or fence is pulled completely out of the socket in the iron post, which it no longer reaches within an inch, and lacking support swings outward offering the sidewalk very poor protection.

Of course when warm weather occurs again the iron work will expand and the rail if properly guided will re-enter the socket in the post. To make the sidewalk safe in the interim the county commissioners yesterday caused the railing that had sprung loose to be securely bound to the post by heavy wire.

The guard or fence is properly constructed and the railing at each post has sufficient play in the socket to allow for contraction and expansion. For some reason, probably because the rails locked at a few of the joints, the theory did not work out rightly and the condition of affairs described above has occurred.

Report of the Local Registrar. The local registrar's report for February shows that five cases of typhoid fever were reported during the month as against four cases for January. One death occurred from typhoid fever in February.

GIVING LIQUOR TO MINORS

John Seitz, whose arrest in connection with the mysterious death of John Mowrer, was noted in our last issue, was released from custody about 11 o'clock Thursday forenoon, there not being sufficient evidence on which to hold him. He was arrested again last evening on the charge of giving liquor to minors.

In view of the verdict of the coroner's jury it was pretty clear that the defendant could not be held for causing young Mowrer's death and he was released without the formality of a hearing.

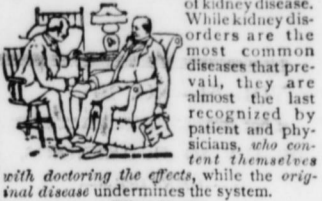

During the afternoon Harry G. Mowrer father of John Mowrer, who lost his life Monday evening, swore out a warrant for the arrest of John Seitz, charging him with giving liquor to John Mowrer, Edward Gibson, Mont Gibson and Gottlieb Gearhart, minors.

He was immediately arraigned before Justice of the Peace Dalton, where he waived a hearing and entered bail in $200 for his appearance at court.

The borough is installing a Cochran feed water heater and purifier at the light plant to take the place of the closed or tube heater, which has done service for some years, the change being one that is rendered advisable in view of the early installation of the new light unit.
