IMMIGRANTS AS' FARM HANDS

If the experience of Mrs. Kate Maus Jones, of Valley township, is to be taken as a criterion, then there is a method in sight by which the farmers townsman and former congressman. the section may be able to solve until a few days ago. Leaders of the the perplexing problem of help, which Republican party and many of the best with each succeeding year of late has Democrats in the four counties have grown to be a more serious one.

The immigrants have proven themselves good workers, although they labor under a handicap of not being familiar with the methods of American farmers and not being able to master the English language.

Mrs. Jones, who conducts a dairy farm near Mausdale, was the first in this section to apply to the immigra tion bureau. As usual in such mat ters there was a good deal of formal-ity to comply with, but the applicant was successful in obtaining first class help, consisting of flusband, wife and child.

During an interview yesterday Mrs. Jones explained how she had proceed-ed in order to obtain immigrants as help. First of all, one has to understand that it will be necessary to comply with instructions to the very letter.

The rules require that the person applying for help fill out "information him, and his work as a congressmar, blanks," which are supplied by the were such as to entitle him to the ungovernment forwarding the same to the chief of the division, using ad-''It is not our purpose, at dressed envelopes, which are enclosed with the blanks.

The Nearest Star.

Sir Robert Ball, writing in the Home Messenger, said that if a row of tele-graph posts 25,000 miles long were and a wire were stretched upon these posts for a circuit of 25,000 miles and that then the wire be wound no fewer than seven times completely about this great globe we should then find an electric signal, sent into the wire at one end, would accomplish the seven circuits in one second of time. To telegraph, however, to the nearest star it would take four years before the electricity would reach its destination.
