WHEAT NEAR THE DOLLAR MARK

Whatever decline may follow in the price of some commodities as the ultimate result of the business depression it is not probable that flour quotations will take much of a tumble if the present price of wheat is to be taken as a criterion.

It will be of interest to our readers to learn that local dealers are paying ninety-five cents per bushel for wheat and that until a couple of weeks ago the price paid was one dollar per bushel. From the farmer's viewpoint this is better than has frequently occurred at this season, even when the times were considered more prosperous. Evidently the depression has not affected the farmers inimically.

A local miller is authority for the statement that there is still an enormous quantity of last year's wheat stored up in the granaries in this vicinity. In some instances the farmers have been deterred from hauling out wheat by bad roads, but in the main they are holding back for higher prices.

The miller quoted above is authority for the statement that the farmers generally sustained a loss in last year's corn crop, which owing to the fact that it failed to mature before frost is practically unsalable and even produces an inferior article of feed.

After husking, the cob remained soft with the result that the grains could not dry out. Wherever the corn is stored in quantity a process of heating sets in, which results in musty or sour feed deleterious in its effects when fed to cattle. Sixty to sixty-five cents is the price paid by the millers for corn in small quantities. Western corn is mainly depended upon.

EASILY DECIDED.

This Question Should Be Answered Easily by Danville People.

Which is wiser—to have confidence in the opinions of your fellow-citizens or to rely upon the statements of a stranger residing in far-away places? Read the following:

Mrs. George Ricketts, living at 405 Church street, Danville, Pa., says: "It is twelve years since Doan's Kidney Pills were first used in my family and I recommend them just as highly as at this time. Mr. Ricketts had been more or less annoyed with pains through the small of his back which were even more severe when lying down than when at work. There was also a dull heavy ache across his kidney regions accompanied by sharp shooting twinges through his loins. Knowing that a kidney medicine was what his system required, he procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Hunt's drug store. A short use gave him prompt and effective relief, removing the pain and lameness from his back and benefiting him in every way. He has used Doan's Kidney Pills on occasions since and has never failed to obtain satisfactory results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McLarren Co., Buffalo, N.Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Stores Open During Evenings.

The stores of town, which with few exceptions, were closed during evenings between the holidays and spring, are now remaining open until 8 o'clock or a later hour to accommodate the increasing trade. A few of the stores remained open last week. Monday eve a large number of others swung into line, leaving only about a half a dozen closed.

The buildings, brilliantly lighted up, with goods on display and the signs of traffic within, afforded a cheerful and dismal scene presented on Mill street during the evenings for nearly three months past.

STUBBORN FIRE SATURDAY NIGHT

North Mill street was the scene of a stubborn fire Saturday night, which baffled the firemen for nearly an hour and caused much damage to two adjoining properties.

The fire broke out in the residence of Matthew Ryan, the well known blacksmith, and communicated to the residence adjoining owned and occupied by Mrs. S. W. Hartline, the two buildings affected forming the last block on the east side of North Mill street opposite the Danville Milling company's plant.

The fire was discovered about 9:15 o'clock just as it was eating its way through the roof. None of Mr. Ryan's family were at home, which accounts for the fact that the fire had gained considerable headway before it was discovered.

The alarm was sounded by the Continental fire company, which was promptly on the ground, followed by the Goodwill hose company. In response to a general alarm the Friendship fire company rushed to the scene of the fire, but its services were not needed. The Washington hose company got as far as Mill and Bloom streets when it learned it was not needed.

When the firemen arrived the home was filled with a dense volume of smoke, which made it difficult to locate the fire. Finally it was found that the woodwork in the wall or partition between the two houses was burning.

The only way to get at the flames was by using the axes, chopping holes not only into the roof, but also the partition on both sides. Even with this advantage and notwithstanding that the Continental company had two streams on the fire and the Goodwill company had one it seemed to be impossible to make much headway in subduing the flames, which were slowly devouring the woodwork in the innermost recesses of the wall between the two houses and sent out a billowing volume of black smoke, which threatened to suffocate the firemen. It was half past ten o'clock before the firemen felt convinced that they had the fire under control, although for nearly an hour afterward an immense volume of smoke continued to pour from the roof indicating the presence of fire.

Aside from the damage done to the two buildings the furniture especially in Mr. Ryan's residence, was badly damaged by the smoke and the water. He carried an insurance of five hundred dollars on the dwelling and two hundred dollars on the furniture. Mrs. Hartline also carried insurance. Mrs. Fedroff, who occupies rooms at the rear of Mrs. Hartline's apartments, escaped loss. The most of her goods were carried out of the house, when the fire seemed to threaten the building.

Mrs. Ryan, who returned home soon after the fire was discovered, stated that on leaving home she left a lamp burning low in the kitchen. A story soon gained currency to the effect that the fire was caused by the lamp exploding. This theory, however, was disproved by the firemen, who stated that when they entered the house the lamp was still burning. The fire is supposed to have originated in a fire.

PREPARATORY TO FILLING UP CANAL

Preparatory to the work of filling up the canal and of reclaiming the area of land embraced the authorities at the hospital for the insane have cut down the long row of willow trees growing along the tow path between the hospital entrance and the gas house.

The trees have been cut up into cord wood, which is neatly piled up on the ground, while the stumps have been extracted and rolled over into the bed of the old canal as a contribution toward the filling up of the same.

The eye misses the long-row of willows that has graced the spot for so many years, but the obliteration of the canal, which is now assured, made their removal necessary, if the ground reclaimed is to be reduced to anything like a good state of cultivation.

Already the deep holes caused by the extraction of the stumps have been filled up with earth. The wood will next be hauled away and doubtless long before the canal is leveled over the last trace of the willows will have disappeared.

GYMNASTIC EXHIBITION

A good sized audience gathered at the opera house Friday evening to witness the annual gymnasium exhibition given by the members of the Young Men's Christian Association, of this city. It was the most complete and finished entertainment of its kind ever given in Danville.

The program had been arranged with educational aims in view; the aim being to show just what kind of work is done and what results are obtained by the physical department of the Y. M. C. A., and at the same time present an entertainment that would please the eye. Both of these objects were accomplished in a manner that delighted the audience.

Sixty-five members of the different classes took part in the exhibition, all being dressed in white. The opening tableau, in which the entire cast participated, was a beautiful and inspiring spectacle. In each of the numbers that followed, whether given by the youngest boys and girls or by the more advanced classes, the precision and snap that characterized the exercises indicated clearly careful and diligent work by both instructor and pupil.

Physical Director J. C. Ainsworth is deserving of much praise for the fine showing made by his different classes. All the arrangements and plans for the exhibition were made under his supervision.

Dissatisfied With Life at Poor Farm.

A family consisting of husband, wife and three children, charges upon the Danville and Mahoning poor district, dissatisfied with life at the county farm, stole away from the institution under cover of darkness, Sunday night. The husband and wife are so utterly incapable of taking care of themselves, especially at this season of the year, that the poor board moved by sentiments of humanity decided to bring the family back to the farm. It was not until Tuesday afternoon that the runaways were located near Henry Vincent's farm in Valley township. They were brought back to the poor farm by Overseer of the Poor P. M. Kerns. It was after dark when they were hauled back through town last night. They had tramped as far as Bloomsburg before they turned their footsteps in the direction of Valley township. The family carried with it all its worldly possessions, each member, even the children, being loaded down with bundles.

Minister in Sunbury Jail.

Six months in the Northumberland county prison and $500 fine was the sentence imposed by Judge Archbald in the United States court of this district Thursday on Rev. H. E. Zimmerman, of Omaha, Neb., formerly a Lutheran minister at Dickinson, Cumberland county, this State, for sending obscene pictures through the mails.

Zimmerman, after graduating from the Theological seminary at Gettysburg, became pastor at Dickinson, from which place he sent the pictures to a Carlisle publishing house. The latter turned them over to the government.

Zimmerman's excuse, after pleading guilty, was that he needed the pictures for a magazine article, and one of his letters to his source of supply said: "Send me the hottest going."

SPRING BRINGS OUT THE AUTOMOBILES

This spring is really with us as evidenced Sunday quite as much by the appearance of the streets as by the calendar. Not only was Mill street the scene of a promenade which lasted pretty much all day, but the automobiles put in an appearance lending a touch of color and imparting an air of gaiety to the scene quite in keeping with the spirit of summer.

In all, five automobiles were out, owned respectively by W. G. Pursell, V. V. Haldacher, W. J. Emerick, W. W. Welliver and Harry Cromwell. Few of the automobilists ventured any further than Maudsall owing to the condition of the country roads. The State highway is in excellent condition, however.

Since North Mill street is paved there are few towns that afford any better course for automobiles than Danville. The river bridge and the long stretch of paving in town afford a delightful run in themselves while the State highway adds a couple of miles more, that can be enjoyed regardless of the condition of roads in general. Danville possesses ten automobiles in all and it will probably be only a few days until these have all come out for their initial run. Automobilists in Danville have no doubt a summer of delightful sport ahead of them.

ENGAGEMENT BRACELETS

The newest Parisian fad is the betrothal bracelet. It is not worn on the wrist, but on the upper arm, the left arm, as nearest the heart.

The fashion is said to have been introduced by Princess Marie Bonaparte, who received from Prince George of Greece instead of the traditional ring a double band of gold made to fit about her arm close up to the shoulder.

The two broad rings of which the ornament consists were chased with an antique design and studded with diamonds and sapphires and had a clasp of diamonds.

The engagement bracelet is made in many forms, however, sometimes with bangles of gems and sometimes with little chains of pearls looped from it. Often it is perfectly plain save for a single fine diamond or a small star of brilliants.

Turtle as Watchdog.

There is a new use for turtles, though as yet it has not come into common use. A passenger recently arriving at New York from Savannah, Columbia, was accompanied by a turtle, which appeared to be endowed with more human intelligence than the officers of the ship or officials at the immigration bureau on Ellis Island, where the man remained until he was shipped back to Colombia, gave the animal credit for the turtle appeared to hear and understand everything his master said and at night slept on a mat outside the stateroom door, acting as watchdog. Those who know turtles say that, while the shellfish may not be very active, it has a grip which equals that of a full blooded bulldog.

Penrose's Condition

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.

The condition of United States Senator Penrose, who is seriously ill at his home in this city, was reported today to be unchanged from that of last night when his physicians said the Senator was "extremely ill."

The three attending physicians early today refused to discuss the Senator's illness beyond saying that an authorized bulletin of his condition probably would be issued during the day. Senator Penrose became ill about a week ago with grip, which developed into facial erysipelas, congestion of the lungs and bronchitis. His kidneys are also affected.

TO DECIDE ABOUT TEMPLE

Lodges of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows have been sent invitations to attend the twenty-fourth annual session of the Pennsylvania Odd Fellows' Anniversary association, which will be held at Shamokin on April 28. The eighty-ninth anniversary of the order will also be commemorated at that time.

The session will be held in the hall of Shamokin Lodge, No. 664, I. O. O. F. All lodges, encampments, cantons and Rebekah lodges, members of the association, are entitled to a representative at the session. All organizations will be eligible to participate in the mammoth parade whether a part of the association or not. The parade will be headed by the Fourth regiment of the Second brigade; Patriarchs Militant, I. O. O. F. The anniversary address will be delivered by the grand master, the Rev. B. H. Hart of Harrisburg.

One of the principal subjects discussed will be that of the Odd Fellows' temple in Philadelphia. Grand Master Hart has sent a letter to lodges, in which he says some plan must be adopted in order to save the temple. He states that some decision must be reached, so that representatives now preparing to attend the Grand lodge be instructed for or against the plan suggested.

The Odd Fellows' temple is a ten-story fire-proof building, at Broad and Cherry streets, Philadelphia, and contains the executive offices of the Grand lodge, together with a large auditorium containing a pipe organ, degree rooms, nineteen lodge rooms and over ninety offices.

It was built by the Odd Fellows' Hall association, of the city of Philadelphia, in order to have all city lodges meet under one roof, but the membership objected to going miles to a lodge meeting, hence many dropped out of the order. The association, however, has been unable to keep the building on a paying basis, and now asks the order throughout the State to take it, off its hands, and the question has been a serious one for Odd Fellows.

The total indebtedness on the building is over $1,500,000. The Grand lodge of the state secured admission to the Odd Fellows' Hall association of Philadelphia by taking out 104 shares, this being done to make the temple a monument to the order forever. Many lodges and encampments throughout the state invested their funds in bonds of the temple.
