MAN SUICIDES AT TURBOTVILLE

Peter Kisner committed suicide by hanging in the barn of the Eagle hotel at Turbotville probably some time during Sunday morning. His shocking fate was not discovered until his body was found Monday morning by a boy. Kisner was a man about 55 years of age, well known in that section where he has several brothers. He was a lumberman and worked in the lumber camps to the north. About two weeks ago he came to Turbotville to spend a vacation, stopping at the Eagle hotel, of which Frank Ellis, formerly of Exchange, is the proprietor. Kisner was last seen about the place Sunday morning, and seemed to be in his usual health and spirits and in no wise downcast. When he failed to turn up for dinner no attention was paid to his absence as he frequently was away for a time and would return. Monday morning Randall Ellis, son of Landlord Frank Ellis, was at the barn and had occasion to go up stairs to the oat bin. At the door to the bin the gruesome sight of the man's body greeted his eyes, hanging from a rope tied to one of the rafters. The people at Turbotville are at a loss to assign a reason for the rash act. They state that the man had money in the bank, and that no trouble was oppressing him of which they have any knowledge.

Log Drag Testimony.

Appreciating the great help that local Good Roads associations can render the cause of good roads, the Illinois highway commission in their last report devote considerable space to their importance and the work of several Illinois associations. One in particular, the Galva Good Roads Improvement association, is singled out for special mention because of its splendid work encouraging the general use of the split-log drag on the dirt roads leading into Galva. President Miller, of this association, speaking of their work of grading, draining and dragging, recently states: "We have specimens of road where the grade was completed in this manner and drain tile laid where the water line was within one foot of the surface, and through which for many years people waded half deep in mud in the spring, and sometimes in the fall when it rained; but these portions of the road are now as firm and as good as any we have." He also stated that the highway commissioners have made contracts with the farmers to keep their roads dragged for eight dollars a mile and that the cash system of road tax is heartily approved by both the taxpayers and road users. Speaking of the excellence of these roads A. N. Johnson, Illinois state highway engineer, says they "could well serve as model earth roads."

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Danville Citizen is Followed. A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it. Many Danville women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. Peter A. Wilton, living at 309 East Front street, Danville, Pa., says: "I am very grateful for the benefits I derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered for some time from pains across the small of my back which often extended into the region of my kidneys, and were greatly aggravated after a hard day's work. After being on my feet for some time there was an all-gone feeling across my back and kidneys and I had but little ambition. Doan's Kidney Pills, however, which I procured at Hunt's drug store, strengthened and toned up my kidneys and improved my general health. I have never used them persistently enough to obtain a complete cure, but whenever I feel any symptoms of my former troubles returning, I at once appeal to Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to give me beneficial results."

Experimenting to Prevent Dust.

When the State Highway Department reconstructs the "river road," the famous highway leading from Harrisburg to the Rockville gap of the Susquehanna, a patent covering, designed to keep down dust, will be tried. For some time attaches of the State Highway Department have been experimenting with "binders" and other preparations designed to prevent dust, and some of them have passed the experimental stage. The intention is now to use one of these on the stretch of highway along the Susquehanna between the city and the gap. It is claimed that by liberal use of certain substances dust is reduced to a minimum. Similar experiments are being made in other parts of the State.

The Dog Days Have Arrived.

Dog days have arrived. They sneaked quietly in last Saturday. If you don't believe it consult Baer's Lancaster county almanac, the old, reliable authority on all climatic matters. Among the things that mothers are now cautioning their growing sons against are these: Don't go swimming during the 'dog days,' you'll get boils if you do; don't get strange dogs, they're liable to be mad during the 'dog days'; stay out of the heat as much as possible, you're likely to have sun stroke during the dog days; look out for snakes, they're worse than usual during the 'dog days.' And young America will go out about his business just the same as if there were no 'dog days' and he will be no worse for them when they are over.

WORK ON ROAD BED.

The ride will be one of the most picturesque anywhere to be found and four beautiful steel and concrete bridges will be required in the construction of the road. B. and E. Railway and the public road.

Many Out in Spite of Rain.

While the storm of Saturday evening scattered shoppers and pleasure seekers in all directions several times Saturday evening the people were evidently not to be deterred from their pursuits by a little rain. All evening the crowds surged up and down Mill street and overflowed onto the bridge and other thoroughfares. The merchants were almost a unit in reporting a good business for Saturday. The four nickel shows did a record breaking business. They were all open late and were crowded all evening.

Cut Off End of Finger.

Charles Prentiss, a young man employed by Mosler and Summers on the work at the hospital, had the misfortune to sever the end of the third finger on his left hand while at work last Thursday. THE TRUE HAPPINESS

The sick think if they had health nothing else would matter. The hard-working man thinks if he had leisure he would be content. But happiness is not the prerogative of any class of people or station in life. Bernard Shaw says in one of his plays that "the man with the toothache thinks every man happy whose teeth are sound, and the poverty-stricken man makes the same mistake about the rich man."

So it is with most things. One always feels that the thing he doesn't possess or the thing he can't do is the one thing essential to his happiness. But the things which really go to make for happiness are numerous and varied, for no two people think or feel alike. If there is one thing more than all others that helps to smooth the rough places it is temperance. The man or woman who is inclined to look on the bright side, who is confident that clouds have a silver lining, and who realizes that life is only a game to be played to the best of one's ability, is bound to be happier than one who is always expecting the worst, or who, because the sky is clouded, is sure that the sun will never shine again. The important question is: Can the cheerful attitude be acquired or is it one of the gifts of the gods and bestowed on only a favored few? No doubt some are gifted with a happier and more cheerful temperament than others. It seems to be natural for some to be morose, while others are naturally sunny. But this is no reason why the melancholy one can't change his point of view. There are always two ways of looking at every question, and one's point of view as to cheerfulness is largely a matter of habit. It is easy to see the best as it is to see the worst in people. And according to what we habitually see in others, each of us peoples his own world. Joys, woes, successes, failures are real only as they appear to us to be so. So for each of us the world is what we choose to make it.

DIXON'S LETTER TO COUNCIL

in the construction of the sewers and in making the pipe joints tight. SECOND:—On or before July first, nineteen hundred and nine, the borough shall prepare and submit to the Commissioner of Health for consideration a complete plan for sewerage of the whole borough and conveying all of the sewage to one outlet and for the purifying of the sewage before discharging it into the river.

THIRD:—At the close of each season's work the borough shall file a satisfactory plan with the Commissioner of Health of the sewers laid during the year, together with any other information in connection therewith that may be required in order that the State Department of Health may always be advised of the extent of the public sewer system and the use thereof.

FOURTH:—No pathogenic material from any laboratory shall be discharged into the sewer system, the proper authorities shall cause these wastes to be incinerated on the premises.

FIFTH:—If at any time, in the opinion of the Commissioner of Health, the sewer system, or any part thereof, has become a nuisance to public health, then such remedial measures shall be adopted as the Commissioner of Health may advise or approve.

SIXTH:—This permit to discharge sewage into the waters of the State shall cease on July first, nineteen hundred and ten, contingent, however, on the other terms of this permit having been complied with. If the other terms of this permit be complied with, then on said date the Commissioner of Health may extend the time in which sewage may continue to be discharged into the waters of the State provided the interest of the public health requires it.

The Commissioner of Health will notify the owner of the mill from which sewage now goes into the Susquehanna River above the borough water works intake that this practice shall cease immediately. The Commissioner will also notify other property owners in the borough who are now discharging sewage into the waters of the State that this must be discontinued.

The State Department of Health will compel owners of property to act as aforesaid if within a reasonable time the borough were to fail to provide adequate sewerage facilities.

The State Department will make a series of tests of public and private drinking water in the borough and communicate the result to the local board of health. Wells and springs found contaminated should be forthwith abandoned or their use discontinued. The co-operation of the borough authorities is solicited.

The borough council is advised to consider the compelling of sewer connections on every estate more especially where the methods of sewage disposal are unsanitary. This matter in connection with the drinking water question cannot be too strongly urged as a practical health precaution. Typhoid fever is altogether too prevalent in Danville.

This permit before being operative, shall be recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds for Montour County, Pennsylvania.

SAMUEL G. DIXON, Commissioner of Health, Harrisburg, Pa., July 6th, 1908.

WHEAT THRASHING NEARLY DONE

Last week saw the finishing touches put on the housing of a big wheat crop in this section. The cutting of the grain was practically completed during week before last, and last week the farmers were busy with their thrashing.

The majority of the agriculturalists now have their crop safely under roof, and one of the worries of the rural resident is over. The wheat was a big crop in this section this year. The other good crop this summer is the hay, which is now nearly all made.

The same conditions which made for a good yield of wheat and hay—wet in the early part of the season and dry in the latter part—have, been disastrous to the oats and corn. The oats this year will be very short, and as one farmer expressed it Saturday, "About all there is of the corn is the plants."

AN OLD TIME BREAKFAST.

What One Visitor Was Treated to at Washington's Home.

The diary of Manasse Cutler, the founder of Ohio and the author of the ordinance of 1787, gives an account of a visit he made to Mount Vernon two years after General Washington's death. We say "General" Washington, for that was what Mrs. Washington was pleased to call him—a copy for all those good women whose husbands have won them honor on the field of war. Mr. Cutler says it was the desire of their party to arrive at Mount Vernon in time for breakfast (7 o'clock) with Mrs. Washington, but the bad roads and worse horses detained them, so they did not reach there until about 10, which Mrs. Washington regretted, but she said, "Breakfast would be ready in a few minutes." The diary goes on to say: "In a short time she arose and desired us to walk into another room, where a table was elegantly spread with ham, cold corned beef, cold fowl, red herring and cold mutton, the dishes ornamented with sprigs of parsley and other vegetables from the garden. At the head of the table was the tea and coffee equipage, where she seated herself and sent the tea and coffee to the company."

The point of interest is that breakfast menu—five kinds of meat decked with sprigs of parsley and accompanied with divers vegetables. Isn't there an appetizing array and doesn't the heart long for just such a scene? Of course the mere feeders, the fellows that hanker for hot things, may not think so, but the very mention of cold ham, cold chicken, cold mutton and cold corned beef all in the same breath is an appeal to a conscientious appetite that is unresisting. And that was a breakfast of the long ago.

Most generous providers these well to do people in the early days! How good everything must have tasted! That roast chicken and roast mutton and that—great tender clean chunks of it, that he would not dare say which was best, for each was best. Compare it with our latter day breakfast—a roll and an egg and a cup of coffee! Of course we like our way, but that is possibly because these are degenerate days.—Ohio State Journal.

THE REGULARS WERE DRENCHED

The mettle of the regulars in Battery D, Third Field Artillery, who were encamped on the banks of Penn's creek, near Selingsgrove, was tried to the utmost Tuesday evening by the storm which deluged this section of the country for three hours.

In blinding sheets the rain came down on the dog tents pitched on the shores of the stream, and they provided but little protection from the elements.

At daybreak, yesterday morning, however, the artillerymen broke camp, and again took up their journey southward. They fortunately are on a fair stretch of highway now; with their heavy guns, they would be unable to pass over some of the roads in this vicinity in their present condition.

The people of Sunbury were greatly disappointed by the coming of the storm Tuesday evening. Many of them had intended to visit the encampment. A few people went to Selingsgrove in the afternoon, but the great majority waited until evening. Then the heavy rain made travel impossible.

The soldiers were begrimed with dust and dirt when they arrived at Selingsgrove Tuesday. From now on, however, their journey will be less difficult. They are making the trip to Fort Myers, Virginia, in easy stages, and will arrive there in about ten days at their present rate.

SHOOTING TARGET—LAD KILLED

A terrible accident occurred at Sunbury Saturday evening, when twelve-year-old George Hewitt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hewitt, was shot and killed by a companion of about his own age.

A number of the lads were practicing shooting mark with a rifle, when one of the shots hit young Hewitt in the jaw, piercing his spinal cord. He died immediately.

Cornell, Koding Ga., Aug 27, 1906." Sold by Paules & Co.

ENCOURAGED BY TUESDAY'S RAIN

The river has risen slightly and is quite muddy as the result of the heavy rain Tuesday night, which appears to have been general. The farmers are much encouraged, as the rain came just in time to save the corn crop and help along the late potatoes. Other things that will be benefited are buckwheat, pasture and garden truck.

Vegetation was quick to respond to the rain and yesterday seemed to have taken on freshness and a deeper hue of green. The dust, which had been a great nuisance for many weeks, has disappeared from the roads and all nature seems to have assumed an additional charm.

Delay in commencing treatment for a slight irregularity that could have been cured quickly by Foley's Kidney Remedy may result in a serious kidney disease. Foley's Kidney Remedy builds up the worn-out tissues and strengthens these organs. Commence taking it today. Sold by Paules & Co's Pharmacy.
