ITEMS CONDENSED.

William Schubert, near Hereford, Berks county, has four acres of his farm planted in cabbage and expects to have 40,000 heads for sale.

Diphtheria has broken out among the children of the Lutheran Orphans' home at Topton, Berks county, and the institution is under quarantine.

Oliver E. Erb, a rural mail carrier in Lancaster county, has sued the supervisors of Martic township, for $500 damages, claiming that he lost two horses because of the bad condition of the roads.

Building Inspector W. D. Colvin, of Scranton, has been removed from office on the charge of having neglected to report the dangerous condition of a fire escape that dropped a weight on a child's head, causing its death, recently.

Water is so scarce about Pottsville that in their desperation a number of people have been securing their water supply from a spring in the Barber cemetery, which the sexton alleges passes beneath the graves. The water is to be tested.

Cornelius O'Connell, of Yardley, Delaware county, who resides across the canal from the Johnson trolley power house, claims that the vibrations caused by the exhaust have moved his cookstove four inches from its proper resting place, and has petitioned the court to have the nuisance removed.

Twenty sunfish caught in twenty minutes with hook and line in Perkiomen creek, is the boasted record of Augustus Kemmerer, of Pennsbury, Montgomery county.

The Rev. David Johnson, of Masontown, Fayette county, is 92 years of age and has preached at the Mennonite church near Masontown for sixty years.

W. H. Berry, a former tax collector of Sunbury, now conducting a restaurant in Shamokin, was arrested on Saturday on a charge of embezzlement brought by several of his bondsmen. He is accused of having appropriated $3,698.67 to his own use of the taxes collected.

Mrs. John T. Windim, wife of a prominent Philadelphia architect who resides at Devon, is the happy possessor of one of the smallest dogs in existence, "Mlle. Atom," bought near Brussels, in Europe. It weighs less than two pounds and the price paid was $1,000, or about $10 per ounce.

Grace Reformed church just completed in Mahanoy City, at a cost of $25,000, was dedicated on Sunday with special services.

Tamaqua citizens are happy over a rumor that the Lehigh Coal & Navigation company will build one hundred houses there in the near future.

Forest fires have been raging for several days on the Blue mountains near Shenandoah and several thousand acres of valuable timber land have been burned.

James McCaffrey, of Uniontown, has been arrested on a charge of having burned all his wife's clothing so she could not appear as a witness before a grand jury against him.

At a meeting of the church council of St. James Lutheran church in Reading, on Saturday, Rev. Dr. M. C. Horins, pastor for twenty-seven years, tendered his resignation and it was accepted.

Zion Lutheran congregation, at Zionville, Lehigh county, celebrated its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary with special services all day on Sunday. Rev. D. C. Kaufman, of Emaus, is the pastor.

Peter Wright, of Erie, aged 17 years, was killed on Sunday as the result of the accidental discharge of a double barreled shot gun, while he was dragging the gun from a boat on the south shore of Presque Isle.

The family of the Rev. James M. Cain, a Methodist Episcopal minister in Waynesburg, Green county, is sorely stricken with typhoid fever. A 15-year-old daughter, Bessie, died from the fever on Sunday morning and Mrs. Cain and three other children are critically ill.

David Wharton, of Philadelphia, made an attempt to steal a ride on a Reading railroad train at Sixth street and Allegheny avenue on Sunday evening but missed the step when trying to get on a car and slipped under the wheels. Before the body was discovered twenty-five cars had passed over it, grinding it into a shapeless mass.

DARING ACT OF HIGHWAYMEN

One of the most daring acts of highwaymen ever perpetrated in this section took place near Maudsalle Friday night, when Thomas Malady, of Milton, was held up by three desperadoes, who in order to accomplish the robbery shot the horse, which fell dead in his tracks. Mr. Malady escaped.

The police in Danville and surrounding towns were at once notified, and railway employes along all the roads were kept on a sharp lookout for the desperadoes. Shortly before midnight a trio answering to their description were located at the Rupert tower on the Reading, where that road crosses the Pennsylvania tracks at the south end of the Rupert bridge, and there one of the men was captured between one and two o'clock Saturday morning.

Thomas Malady, who is associated with his brother, Charles Malady, in the livery business in Milton, drove over to Danville Friday and about 8 o'clock that evening started on the drive homeward. As he was approaching the stone culvert a few hundred yards east of the Mans flouring mill three men suddenly materialized in the road ahead of him. Two of them seized his horse while the third sprang into the buggy and seized him by the throat. A desperate struggle between the highwayman and driver ensued, during which the horse broke loose from the two men who had seized him.

Mr. Malady succeeded in hurling his assailant backward to the ground; the horse had hardly moved a half dozen yards forward when one of the men opened fire on the animal. Three shots were fired, when the horse began to stagger and the next moment fell to the ground and expired.

Just as the horse dropped Mr. Malady leaped out of the buggy in the darkness and escaped from the highwaymen. Nearly overcome with excitement he made his way back to Wise's hotel at Maudsalle, where he telephoned into Danville for the police.

The news of the desperate occurrence created intense excitement on the streets. F. P. Johnson with his automobile volunteered to take the officers out to the scene of the hold-up. His offer was accepted and it was only a few minutes after the word was received that Officers Mincemoyer and Voris, Sheriff Williams and several others were on their road to Maudsalle.

They found the dead body of the horse in the road. Mr. Malady, along with some others, had returned to the scene of the hold-up, where he told the story as related above.

Mr. Malady described the highwaymen as being large, portly men, each wearing a slouch hat.

WHOLE SECTION AROUSED. Returning to Danville the officers at once learned that several freights had passed over the Reading going toward Catawissa after the hold-up, and word was sent up the road to be on the lookout for the men. The operator at the Rupert tower was the first to see them. They materialized near his tower about 11 o'clock and he at once notified the Bloomsburg and Danville officers, meanwhile keeping an eye on their movements.

Officers Mincemoyer and Voris, Sheriff Williams and District Attorney Gearhart secured a team and were on their way to Rupert tower before twelve o'clock. The Bloomsburg police and a posse of half a dozen men divided into two squads, one taking the north and one the south side of the river and moving down toward the tower where the robbers were located.

The Pennsylvania train dispatcher at Sunbury was working in conjunction with the officers and was running trains past the spot where the men were at a fast clip. One train going toward South Danville was sped by them at so fast a pace that they did not attempt to board it. About 1:30 o'clock a freight going toward Wilkes-Barre passed and it was so heavy that sufficient speed could not be gotten up and the men were about to get aboard when the Bloomsburg posse swooped down on them. Two of the men were too slippery for the officers, and boarded the train. The third was captured—the one supposed to be the heaviest of the trio.

A few minutes after the capture the Danville party arrived on the scene and took charge of the prisoner. Chief Mincemoyer feels assured that they have one of the men who perpetrated the hold-up.

FIRST FROST OF THE SEASON. There was a light frost, the first of the season, on Tuesday night. In low places throughout the county the effect was quite marked, the grass being white. Other conditions were favorable, however, and the damage done was slight. In this city mercury went down to 42 degrees.

NINE MONTHS IN PRISON

John W. Snyder was sentenced by Judge Evans to nine months imprisonment in the county jail on Saturday morning.

Saturday was one of the regular dates fixed for argument court. His Honor C. C. Evans and Associates Blee and Elliver were on the bench. Snyder, who had been committed to jail in default of bail, was brought in to court by Sheriff Williams. District Attorney Gearhart presented his case to the court, explaining that Snyder desired to take advantage of the act of 1907 and plead guilty to the indictment.

Mrs. Lucretia Snyder, the victim of the alleged assault, was called to the stand. Her son, she said, has a violent temper and she is afraid of him. Snyder is a cripple, one of his legs being amputated near the hip. He is addicted to drink the mother, explained, and it was found necessary to instruct hotel keepers and others not to sell him any liquor. On Tuesday night he was very angry and accused his mother of "stopping the drinks" on him. The outcome was, according to the testimony, that he violently assaulted his mother knocking one of her teeth out.

After formally pleading to the indictment Snyder was told to stand up for sentence. Judge Evans asked him what he had to say in answer to his mother's testimony. He replied: "I suppose I did it, if she says so; I don't remember it."

Toucing the subject of drink Judge Evans said he would make an order forbidding hotel or saloon keepers to furnish liquor to the defendant under penalty of having their licenses revoked.

The court sentenced Snyder to pay the costs of prosecution, a fine of $1 to the Commonwealth and to undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for a period of nine months.

ACTION IN ASSUMPSIT. The action brought by the sheriff against the commissioners of Montour county to recover board for three prisoners committed for illegal car riding was taken up by County Solicitor E. S. Gearhart.

The county commissioners, Mr. Gearhart explained, allege that the act of 1878, authorizing arrests for illegal car riding, fixes no legal liability on the county of Montour; also that the act is unconstitutional. The act has been the cause of incessant controversy. In some of the counties it is ignored altogether.

Mr. Gearhart acknowledges that Sheriff Williams acted in good faith, that he could not have done otherwise than he did, as he is bound by a legal commitment. There is an understanding between all parties, he said, and it is arranged that whatever the decision may be the outcome shall not affect the sheriff. The object in bringing the case is merely to test the validity of the act.

The action was presented to the court in the form of a case stated. The court took the papers and an opinion will probably be rendered before long.

DEDICATION OF VOUGHT'S CHURCH

St. John's, commonly known as Vought's Lutheran church, in Mayberry township about three miles from Elysburg, will be dedicated on Sunday, September 27th, with appropriate ceremonies.

In the morning at 10 o'clock the dedication services will be held and the congregation will be addressed by Rev. W. E. Fischer, D. D., of Shamokin, president of the Susquehanna synod and by Rev. S. G. Shannon, of Norwood, Pa., father of the pastor of the church. In the evening Rev. U. Myers, D. D. of Catawissa, will preach.

The new church is a fine frame structure of which the congregation had every reason to be proud. It replaces another church on the same site.

FALL ARBOR DAY HAS BEEN NAMED

Superintendent of Public Instruction Schaeffer has designated October 23rd as Arbor day for the public schools of the State, and all connected with the schools are urged "to observe the day by the planting of trees and other suitable exercises." The very best exercises for the day, of course, will be tree planting. It ought to be done by every school in the State where there is opportunity for such a thing. It will be a wise course to instruct the "growing generation" as to the importance not merely of planting trees for ornament but of reforestation and the preservation of the trees that now exist. Arbor day in the school should not be a mere holiday; it should mean business.

FUNERAL OF J. W. FARNSWORTH

The funeral of John W. Farnsworth took place from Mahoning Presbyterian church on Saturday afternoon. The obsequies were very largely attended. The turn out of Freemasons, especially, was very large. There were about 130 members of the fraternity in line comprising the lodges that make up the Masonic district of which the deceased was district deputy grand master.

The services were conducted by the Rev. James Wallston Kirk, pastor of the Mahoning Presbyterian church. After a prayer at the residence of the deceased, West Mahoning street, the funeral proceeded to the church, where the body of Freemasons had assembled.

Interment was made in Fairview cemetery. At the grave following the church service the burial ceremony of the Freemasons was performed. At the invitation of George B. Jacobs, Worshipful Master of Mahoning Lodge No. 516, F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a member, H. M. McKillip of Washington lodge No. 265, of Bloomsburg, officiated as Worshipful master at the grave. Joseph Divil was Senior warden and George B. Jacobs acting junior warden. The Rev. J. Conley Grimes was chaplain. The burial rites of the fraternity were most impressively rendered. The pall bearers were: E. S. Miller, M. G. Youngman, W. G. Pursel, M. H. Schram, W. Kase West and Charles Haney.

It was one of the largest Masonic funerals ever held in Danville and probably surpassed all others in the number of Freemasons that were present from out of town and in the number of different lodges that were represented. The largest contingent and the last to arrive was from Bloomsburg, which reached Danville on the 2:10 trolley car. By this time the lodge room in the opera house block was well filled. All was in readiness for proceeding to the funeral and the Bloomsburg delegation, marching two abreast, proceeded directly from the car to the church.

The following members of Washington lodge No. 265, F. & A. M., of Bloomsburg, were in line: Charles Reice, Harry Savage, Harry Barton, Robert Vanderslice, F. Mont. Smith, Warren H. Eyer, Carlton A. Caswell, Robert O. Young, Eugene F. Carpenter, Willie Law, Frank D. Dentler, J. Lee Harman, Cortez B. Robbins, Albert C. D. Sheppard, William C. Snyder, S. Pierce Hagenbuch, George L. Law, Andrew L. Fritz, William O. Holmes, Isaiah Hagenbuch, Joseph L. Townsend, William J. Hehl, Dr. Henry Bierman, Thomas E. Wildsmith, Harvey A. McKillip.

The following other members of the fraternity accompanied the Bloomsburg contingent: M. Henry Montraville, Lodge 401; Jacob L. Wolverson, Lodge 444; James M. Stover, Lodge 332; J. Guy Sleppy, Lodge 323; Stephen Seiple and John C. Orisman, Lodge 462; W. Graver Leutz, Lodge 355; Jeremiah W. Young, Lodge 86; Indiana; T. Jefferson Vanderslice, and George W. Keiter, sojourners.

Among other Freemasons present from out of town lodges who arrived at an earlier hour were the following: William A. Butt, Oriental lodge, Orangeville; John C. Snyder, Eureka lodge 404, Northumberland; John C. Grimes, Knapp lodge 463, Berwick; P. O. Vannan, Hobasco lodge 716, Ithaca, N. Y.; Ira C. Schoch and Arthur Wallize, Lafayette lodge 194; Selingsrove; Thomas Stetler and Joseph L. Marks, lodge 619, Middleburg; Harry C. Cornelius McClay lodge, 632, Sunbury; J. Daniel Mull, Clarence W. Scott, William E. Hawley, John Morgan, Robert E. Hopkins, David W. A. Belford, lodge 256, Milton; William H. Davis, Oscar P. Kostenbauder, Charles S. Kline, Tobias Berninger, J. H. Geary, lodge 349, Catawissa.

Both Masonic lodges of Danville, lodge No. 224 as well as lodge 516 to which the deceased belonged were well represented at the funeral.

HARRY LATTIMER WAS INJURED

Harry Lattimer, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lattimer, East Market street, was painfully injured Tuesday while riding a horse at the farm of Philip Mettler, Rush township.

Mr. Lattimer was spending the day at the Mettler farm, and during the afternoon a saddle was placed on one of the horses for him to ride. No sooner had the young man gained the seat, than the animal took the bit in his teeth and ran for the barn. As the horse entered the barn door Mr. Lattimer was swept from the horse's back. He was badly shaken up and bruised by the fall and his most serious injury consisted of a cut on his head that required the insertion of three stitches.

It is wrong to be cowardly, but caution is a virtue.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM INSTALLED

J. R. Wallize appeared before the school board Monday eve to report that he had completed the contract for installing the electric fire drill and general fire alarm system in the four school buildings of the borough, insuring the teachers and pupils absolute protection in case of fire. The system installed in the first ward building was tested yesterday and was found to work perfectly. The time occupied in vacating the building at the first trial of the system was one minute and five seconds.

Mr. Fischer reported that the building and repair committee had completed the extensive system of repairs ordered by the school board, with the exception of the railing for the new steps at the third ward.

Mr. Burns reported that the curbing and the grading at the second ward school grounds are completed. The directors of the second ward were complimented by the board on the excellent condition of their school grounds. It was the sense of the members that the grounds of the first ward suffer by comparison and should be improved in like manner. No action was taken.

The question of boiling water came up before the board Monday night. Mr. Burns, who introduced the matter, stated that owing to the condition of the river, he did not think that water from the hydrants should be used for drinking without being boiled. Yet, it is understood that at not none of a school buildings in the borough is the water being boiled at present.

A communication was received from Mr. Savage, who sells crystal water in town, proposing to furnish spring water to each of the school buildings at 25 cents daily.

On motion of Mr. Sechler the matter was referred to the supply committee with power to make contract.

The question of installing an additional typewriter in the commercial department of the high school came up at the school board meeting last night. Three representatives of type writer companies appeared before the board urging the excellence of their respective machines, as follows: J. W. Griffis of the Smith Premier company; George B. Leiter, of L. C. Smith & Brothers' company; George H. Grebe of the Underwood company.

The following members were present: Pursel, Barber, Swarts, Burns, Redding, Fish, Lloyd, Fischer, Sechler, Heiss and Cole.

Treasurer Schram presented a report of finances to date, which showed a cash balance on hand of $3636.37.

Table listing bills for payment: Silver Springs Quarry Co. $58.76, Wilson Ryan 5.25, Standard Gas Co 1.56, E. L. Aten 12.80, W. H. Kocher 2.45, Robert Miller 4.50, Francis Bell 4.50, Elisha Bell 1.50, Norman E. Beyer 1.50, Seth Lormer 2.25, James Dailey 1.50, Emery Shultz 15.95, D. Appleton & Co 16.50, American Book Co 92.46, Remington Typewriter Co 11.68, Roberts & Meek 43.86, Adams Express Co 3.15, Perry Picture Co 4.22, Ginn & Co 20.00, Isaac Pitman Co 17.22, Sadler Rowe & Co 3.63, Danville Sto. & Mfg. Co 40.58, Joseph Lechner 71.70, Trumbower & Werkheiser 78.51, U. S. Express Co 1.70

BOY HELD UP BY RAGGED NEGRO

A terrible experience was that of thirteen year old Atwood Swank, the son of Theodore Swank, who resides at the mouth of Little Roaring creek, when he was held up Sunday about noon by a ragged negro, thrown to the ground, gagged, then left to depart after the man found that his pockets were empty.

Young Swank had been to a festival at Rushtown, and spent the night with friends there. Sunday about noon he was returning to his home on foot. About a half mile from his home he met a negro, who grabbed him and threw him to the ground and placed his knee on the boy's chest. The boy called loudly for help, when the ruffian gagged him with a handkerchief and then went through the boy's pockets. Finding nothing he let young Swank proceed on his way.

The boy ran as fast as he could travel toward his home where he told his mother of his experience. A band of the neighbors at once started on the trail of the negro. They tracked him by foot print in the dust to within a mile and a half of Elysburg, where he took to the fields and no further trace of him could be found.

BURGLARS AT TOOLEY'S STORE

Burglars entered the general store of John F. Tooley, Mill street, Monday night and stole the contents of the cash drawers besides a small quantity of merchandise. There is no clue to the robbers.

The burglary was not discovered until Tuesday morning. When the store was opened it was found that the cash drawers had been rifled, while the wire screen that covered the transom over the back door was torn loose, revealing how the thieves had effected an entrance. Two tags belonging to shirts kept in stock were found lying on the floor indicating that the shirts to which they had been attached were included in the booty carried off by the thieves. Beyond these it is not known whether anything was stolen or not. In one of the cash drawers there were $4.25 in change; in the other were $2. The cash drawer on the dry goods side which was closed with a combination was broken open by the thieves. The cash drawer in the grocery counter was not locked. In the search for money the cash register was also broken open, but the burglars were not rewarded with finding anything inside.

In order to afford ventilation the transom over the rear door according to custom was left open during Monday night. The transom, however, was protected with a wire screen. There is no doubt but that the robbers were familiar with the store and had observed the open transom. All they had to do was to climb to the top of a shed at the rear of the store, the roof of which reached to the transom. None but a small-sized person, however, could have squeezed through the narrow space above the door.

In leaving the burglars passed out through the rear door, which they left standing open. When night watchman Byerly passed on his beat about 3 o'clock he saw the door open and closed it, thinking that the clerks had forgotten to lock it the evening before. This would fix the hour of the robbery about 3 a. m.

DIETRICH TAKEN TO WILKES-BARRE

Under a change of venue the trial of Peter Dietrich for the killing of James A. Jones will take place at Wilkes-Barre next week. Dietrich, who was confined in the jail at this place following his removal from the penitentiary last spring, on Saturday afternoon was removed to the Luzerne county jail by Sheriff D. C. Williams so as to be on hand for the trial.

The Luzerne county court has arranged to have the case attached for the first thing Monday. The case in point of interest will eclipse any murder trial that has taken place in Luzerne county for many a day. It will be the fourth time that Peter Dietrich has been put on trial for the killing of James A. Jones, which fact aside from the circumstances of the killing is a point to make the case remarkable.

In addition, it is regarded as certain that new testimony will be introduced by the Commonwealth. Offsetting this, Peter Dietrich, himself, it is said, will go upon the stand. If this proves true, that will be the first time that the public has ever heard the story of the tragedy from the lips of the defendant.

Former Judge H. M. Hinckley will appear as private counsel for the prosecution and Hon. Grant Herring will represent the defendant. Both attorneys are legal giants and the trial no doubt will be a hotly contested one.

MARCAVITCH MAKES DENIAL

Staney Marcavitch, on being told by his counsel, Attorney J. H. McDevitt, of Sunbury, that the Shamokin Dispatch had published an account of a confession of the murder of Charley Yesalonius, which he was alleged to have made to a county official who called on him recently, denied absolutely having made any such confession. He stated, as he has scores of times before, that what he told in the trial was the truth and the whole truth in the matter. He said that "Pimple Face" Joe struck the fatal blow; that he was not at the cobbler shop when the deed was committed; that he looked in the door just as Joe was about to come out; that he followed Joe to an alley where the guilty man gave him some of the money he stole from the dead man to persuade him to keep quiet. He did not hit the cobbler on the head with a billy, as the county official said he did, nor did Joe then finish the job by striking the cobbler on the head with a hatchet when he saw that he was not dead. Attorney McDevitt felt strongly concerning the alleged confession, as he had had the utmost confidence of his client, and is firmly convinced in his own mind that Staney had nothing to do with the killing of the cobbler.

Bachelor of 85 Weds.

After living alone for eighty-five years, Hugh McCarron, one of the wealthiest men in Armstrong county, Monday married Mrs. Annie B. Fitzgerald, 55 years old, of Pittsburg, at St. Richard's Catholic church in that city. Rev. Father Connor officiating.

Quiet Campaign.

From present indications it would seem that the political campaign in Danville is to be a quiet one. Up to the present no demonstrations have been scheduled by either party.

STATE MAKING OBSERVATIONS

F. E. Langenheim, assistant engineer of the water supply commission of the State, with Roy D. Bridges, an assistant, was in this city yesterday and made a series of observations from the river bridge to ascertain the volume of water passing down the stream. It was learned incidentally that the river is lower than at any time since the station was established at this place.

The station here was established by and was formerly in the hands of the United States geological survey, whose representatives visited Danville periodically and took the records. The local representative was Edward F. Bell, engineer at the water works, who ascertained the height of the river and recorded the same daily.

When the State water supply commission, authorized by the act of May 4, 1905, was organized, the latter assumed charge of the station here. The observations were continued, Mr. Bell remaining in charge as the local representative.

During the visit of Assistant Engineer Langenheim, yesterday the usual tests were made. In order to determine the velocity of the current, which forms the basis for ascertaining the volume of water, a small motor was sunk into the three channels between the piers on the northern half of the river, where water still remains. The apparatus was dropped into the river from the sidewalk of the bridge, by an ingenious device the man in charge being enabled to note the number of revolutions, which showed the velocity of the current. Knowing the depth of the water, from this point on it became a mere matter of arithmetic to ascertain the volume of water passing down the stream.

Of course, in order to reach an average of the water supply during the year observations as to current as well as water levels have to be made at all seasons of the year and at all stages of the river. What adds special interest to the present visit of the assistant engineer is the fact that the river is phenomenally low. Mr. Langenheim yesterday stated that, with the exception of one of the channels, there was hardly any perceptible current, which renders the problem all the more difficult to work out. The river, he says, is abnormally low, surpassing the mark of any preceding season so far as revealed by any data at the station. He finds the same conditions prevailing on every stream in this section.

BLOOMSBURG MAN STRUCK BY BRIDGE

William Smith, a Bloomsburg man, while riding on the top of a house car on his way to this city Tuesday was struck by an overhead bridge at Rupert, sustaining what may prove fatal injuries.

The accident occurred on the D. L. & W. fast freight No. 733. Smith, along with two companions, it seems, boarded the train at Bloomsburg. The bridge at Rupert is too low to permit a man to maintain an upright position, even while sitting, on a house car.

Smith was probably unaware of this and was struck on the head and rendered insensible by the bridge. He fell over and, notwithstanding the constant jar and the swinging motion of the car, he maintained his place on the roof.

At Catawissa the train stopped, when one of the brakemen happened to spy the prostrate form of Smith on top of the car. The companions of the latter, who were on another part of the train, came to his assistance and, still unconscious, the man was placed in the caboos and brought to Danville.

Arriving here at about 11:30 o'clock he was carried into the station and Dr. Cameron Shultz was called. The doctor made a superficial examination, after which it was decided to remove the man to Bloomsburg on the 2:11 passenger train. The probability is that the man's skull is fractured. After arriving here he rallied a little and seemed conscious. By the time the train got here, however, he had relapsed and seemed worse than when he arrived at Danville.

From present indications it would seem that the political campaign in Danville is to be a quiet one. Up to the present no demonstrations have been scheduled by either party.
