OWEN McCAFFREY PASSES AWAY

Owen McCaffrey, for many years watchman at the Reading iron works, died at his home on West Centre street, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

On Tuesday night of last week, while alone, he sustained a stroke of paraly sis and lay out of doors all night The next morning he was found un-

Everything possible was done for him, but as time wore on he revealed no signs of improvement. On a couple of occasions he became conscious and recognized friends, but a short time afterward he relapsed into insensibil-

Mr. McCaffrey was most highly esteemed. He was a conscientious man. As watchman he was faithful to his post of duty, yet he was never inconsiderate and disrespectful toward others. The deceased was sixty-four years of age. He was born in Ireland, but came to this country when quite young.

He was a widower, his wife dying about three years ago. He is survived by four sons. Patrick, Peter and Thomas, of this city, and John of South Dakota; also one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Rush, of this city.

Due notice of the funeral will be given.

MEMBERS OF G. A. R. WERE PALL BEARERS

A. F. Spitler, of South Danville, whose death occurred Monday, was consigned to the grave in the Episcopal cemetery yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place from the late residence at 1 o'clock.

The services were conducted by the Rev. L. D. Ulrich, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church. The choir of St Peter's M. E. church of Riverside rendered two fine selections. The pall bearers were six members of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The following persons from out of town attended the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nields, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nields, Mrs. Walter Reese and Miss Margaret Nields, of Shamokin; A. J. Spitler, New Berlin; Mrs. John Ricketts Wilkes-Barre: Charles Smith, Catawissa: Mrs. Fred Hottenstein, Mrs. William Hottenstein of Sunbury; Miss Margaret Hopewell, Northumberland.

FIRST CROP OF ICE HARVESTED

For a couple of days past there has been nothing doing among the ice harvesters.

When the breakup occurred, last week, the ice passed off Mahoning creek and a second crop has not yet matured. On the ponds at Castle Grove the ice remained intact and a day or so after the rain the cutting of ice there was resumed.

By Tuesday, however, the ponds were cleared of ice. So that since that time the work of harvesting ice in Danville has been suspended. Just how long it may take for a second crop to form on the ponds and on Mahoning creek will depend entirely on the weather. On Mahoning creek yesterday the ice was nearly six inches

A. M. Peters, who is filling his large ice house from Mahoning creek, has stored away about 800 tons. He still has room for some 500 tons, which will be harvested as soon as the ice on the creek becomes of sufficient thickness. J. L. Kline, along with Charles Lyons and others has filled his ice house from the ponds at Castle Grove.

It is quite unusual for so much ice to be stored away thus early in the season. The dealers see fair prospects with a new sand strewing wagon con-ahead and expect to have all their structed by Hermann Fricke of that buildings packed with ice to the roof.

COULD STOP AN INVASION.

Whole Building Can Be Flooded With Superheated Vapor In a Few Minutes - System Installed as Great Vault's Protection In New Home.

Blasts of steam, superheated and kept under such pressure as to flood the entire building in a few minutes, will be the main scheme in a deadly system of defense that the National City bank of New York, the largest financial institution in America, relies upon to make its new home in Wall street the most impregnable financial fortress in the world and into which it recently moved.

Wall street for years has fortified itself against a possible invasion by a mob or a concentrated attack from hundreds of burglars, and all its strong rooms and safes have been built of the most thief proof material at hand, but the National City bank is the first to adopt steam as a method of defense, says the New York Herald. Around the bank's great safe, which is of the usual burglar proof construction—tons of armored steel, re-enforced concrete iron rails and meshes of sensitive alarm wires—is a system of steam pipes that, should all other means fail to frustrate robbers, would snuff out the lives of scores of burglars should they continue to work near the safe or would stand off hundreds of men for an indefinite length of time if it did not suffocate them before they could escape from the building. The great safe, or strong room, which weighs 300 tons, is twenty feet high, twenty-four feet long and about fif-teen feet deep. It is built in two stories, the upper section rising from the center of the main floor and the lower section extending into the basement, where it rests on wide marble legs like where it rests on wide marble legs like some gloomy sarcophagus. These legs are about five feet high and allow from the basement at all times a full view under the safe.

Looming up from the center of a great square of bronze lied cages and small rooms the safe, finished in dull gray, looks like a section of a warship to bettle solve acceptance. warship in battle paint among a fleet of brass railed and brass trimmed yachts, and entering one of its doors gives the impression of stepping into a turret of one of the great battle-ships, a huge steel hinge much like a miniature crane swinging the sixteen ton doors instead of an ammunition hoist. Highly polished steel crossbars on the outside of the circular doors make them look like the breeches of thirteen inch guns.

The armament of the vault is about foot and a half thick, first a half inch plate of steel, then half an inch of wire mesh made up of sensitive wires that stretch off in a score of dif-ferent directions to alarm stations. After the wire mesh there is a half inch plate of steel, then eight inches of rallroad iron and concrete and last five inches of armor plate.

Running around the middle of the vault directly under the bank floor, which is provided with a grating to allow of a perfect draft from underneath, is the system of steam pipes which the bank officials depend upon to do final execution should all other protection fail. These pipes are four inches in diameter, perforated with wide valves at intervals of about twelve inches, and are connected with mains that lead to the boilers. Should a burglar or any number of them pen-etrate the first layer of steel and then the wire mesh without giving an alarm all the valves can be opened by a single turn of a wheel in any of a dozen places throughout the building, sending out a flood of steam that will completely envelop the safe in less than half a minute. Should a sudden invasion from an underground passage be made simultaunderground passage be made simultaneously with the entry from the street of hundreds of men, all the valves would be kept wide open until the stiffing, burning vapor filled the entre basement and the banking chamber clear to the top of its seventy-two foot dome killing all those numble to make dome, killing all those unable to make their escape.

Taking a Mean Advantage. Once a thrifty Scotch physician was called to a case where a woman had dislocated her jaw. He very soon put the right. The woman asked how much was to pay. The doctor named his fee. The patient thought it too much. He, however, would not take less, and as the woman refused to give him the fee he began to yawn. Yawn-ing, as every one knows, is infectious. The young woman in turn yawned. Her jaw again went out of joint, and the dector triumphantly said, "Now, until you hand me over my fee your jaw can remain as it is." Needless to say, the money was promptly paid.

SPIRIT PRIZE TEST, BLOCK SYSTEM

Physician Will Seek $5,000 Offered For Counting Oranges.

HAS TWO GIRL MEDIUMS.

Believes He Can Fulfill Requirements of Contest With Young Women of Remarkable Powers-One Who Never Saw Greenwich Described Fire There

If two young women patients of Dr. A. J. Fox of New York are the mediums he says they are, it is time for the Metropolitan Psychical society of New York to begin counting out the $5,000 it has offered to one who could tell the number of oranges pilled on a table behind him or her. The doctor has been treating patients for hypnotic suggestion for the past four years, and so much success has he had in making Miss Emma Monroe and Miss Margaret Marx do the "mentally supernor mal" that he is convinced it will be a shame to take the money.

The test is expected to prove wheth er there is such a thing as communication with the spirit world. Here it is, as announced by the officers of the Metropolitan Psychical society:

Metropolitan Psychical society:

When a medium announces that a spirit is in the room that can see we will noise-lessly spill a few oranges upon a table behind the medium, so that she cannot see them. We will also keep our own eyes in another direction, so that we do not see them, thus eliminating the question of telepathy. But the spirit, who is in the room and sees the oranges, can communicate the number to the medium. If the spirit does this often enough to render coincidence improbable, the medium will be presented with the money.

"She described the streets, houses and certain familiar figures in the town. Up to that point it was possi-ble that she was telling what was in my mind. I know the town well. But suddenly she exclaimed that there was a fire in Greenwich and described it. I thought her mind had wandered, but that afternoon I read in the news-papers that a big fire had broken out in Greenwich at the very time I was

There has been a modification of the block system on the Pennsylvania railroad on the south side of the river and this week the trains are running under the new arrangement.

The distance from South Danville to Bluff-six and a half miles-formerly comprised one block. This block, however, was found too long for conveni-ence and it was decided to remove the telegraph station from the depot at South Danville to a point a mile and a half below the depot and to cut the intervening distance into two blocks. A fine modern tower was erected at the point designated below the station and another tower at Boyd's, midway between the South Danville tower and Bluff. The block between South Danville and Wolverton, will be an electric block and will afford an illustration of the safest and most modern method of operating trains. In the tower at Boyd's telephones are installed, which will be the sole means the operators on duty will have of communicating with South Danville or Bluff. All orders from Sunbury to Boyd's tower will be sent by way of South Danville, where they will be taken off the wire and telephoned.

On Monday telephone operators were installed in the tower at Boyd's and the trains passed over the block for The telegraph station at South Dauville has not yet been transferred to the tower, but orders for the removal are expected every day.
