Dreams of the Blind.

Dreams of the Blind. In my dreams I have sensations, odors, tastes and ideas which I do not remember to have had in reality. Perhaps they are the glimpses which my mind catches through the vell of sleep of my earliest babyhood. I have heard "the trampling of many waters." Sometimes a wonderful light visits mo Sometimes a wonderful light visits me in sleep. Such a flash and glory as it is! I gaze and gaze until it vanishes. I smell and taste much as in my wak-ing hours, but the sense of touch plays a less inportant part. In sleep I al-most never grope. No one guides me. Even in a crowded street I am self sufficient, and I enjoy an independ-ence quite foreign to my physical life. ence quite foreign to my physical life. Now I seldom spell on my fingers, and it is still rarer for others to spell into my hand. My mind acts independent of my physical organs. I am delight-ed to be thus endowed, if only in sleep, for then my soul dons its winged sandals and joyfully joins the throng of happy beings who dwell be-yond the reaches of bodily sense.— Helen Keller in Century.

Her Own Doctor.

Her Own Doctor. A Washington woman recently hired a negress. Going to the kitchen one day, she was amazed to find the ne-gress sitting on the floor, with her hair standing out from her head like hair standing out from her head like a black nimbus. The girl was pull-ing one curly lock and then another in such a way as to suggest that she had suddenly lost her reason. "What on earth are you doing. Mary?" gasped the lady of the house. "Nawthin', ma'am; only I has sot a sore throat an' was jest tryin' to find de lock dat would pull mah palate up on' roleve de tickle"."New York Heran' relieve de tickle."-New York Herald.
