THE DEAD FISH ARE REMOVED

Pending relief in some form, anticipated as the result of the committee's visit to Harrisburg...

In the first place the fish killed by the acids contained in the sewage from the hospital have nearly all been dragged out of the canal and buried.

The movement of the water, however, is prevented by a dense growth of "cat tails" near Railroad street.

Residents at that part of town state that the members of council are in error in stating that the culvert pipes are anywhere clogged.

IMPROVEMENTS ON SOUTH SIDE

A stroll about the south side reveals a good many improvements there, some on foot and others completed.

The residence of Dr. N. M. Smith, Gearhart street, has been remodeled and repainted.

Elias Woodruff is laying a concrete pavement in front of his residence on Gearhart street.

Jacob Yeager is also laying a concrete pavement in front of his dwelling, Avenue E, Riverside.

Wesley Morrill on the same street is also re-painting his residence.

John Landau has begun work on a new dwelling on Gearhart street.

J. T. McCloghlan and Frederick Moll, Avenue G, have each built a front veranda to his residence.

A concrete walk is being laid at the parsonage of St. Peter's Methodist Episcopal church.

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

WHERE SPRINKLING IS NOT PRACTICED Few people who live in those parts of town where street sprinkling is one of the luxuries indulged in daily can form any adequate idea of what an intolerable nuisance the dust is in other parts of the borough...

At such places there is positively no relief from the dust. It lies several inches deep in the streets. The sidewalks are even powdered with dust and reveal the footprints of pedestrians.

It avals but little if one, or even half a dozen residents on a square, sprinkle in front of their dwellings. Dust knows no boundaries and so long as a spot remains anywhere about that is not regularly sprinkled there will be dust in the air and all will share in it alike.

Born, a Son. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Adam Wagner, Honsymoon street, on Sunday.

The theatrical gentlemen are all very careful on paper.
