Despite the fact that the law states that a burgess shall not succeed himself, the re-election of James K. P. Fenner, of Ashley, was upheld at Wilkes-Barre. This is his third term. After he had served his first term he was re-elected and his tenure of office was not disputed. He was elected for the third term last year and the case was taken to the courts. Judge Fuller, who dissents with the opinion of the other three judges, calls the decision a "grotesque result of the law."

Sight has been restored to the eyes of Mrs. Anna T. Paschall, an aged Quakeress, of Concord, after having been denied to her for ten years. She declares that she feels as if she had been born again and that she is at least thirty years younger. A Chester specialist restored her sight by means of his knife.

Waynesboro people have advantage over the residents of other towns in that some of the snowballs that are thrown at them have steel cores. In the ruins of the fire destroyed Victor Tool company's shops there are many little balls, made for ball bearings. The boys of the town have started to mold snow balls around the balls and the sensation of being struck by them is declared not to be exactly pleasant. In school the lads roll the balls over the floors and the teachers cannot tell whence they come.

To be bound and gagged, then to have her face and body slashed by a sharp knife in the hands of two men who had been rooming in her house and who wanted loot, was the horrible experience of Mrs. Rebecca Sachs, of Philadelphia. She was threatened with hot irons until she revealed the hiding place of the family jewels, worth more than $2,000. She was forced at the point of a knife to go to the safe which held them and her torturers stopped their cowardly work only when she fainted. No valuables were obtained, as the safe was not opened. She managed to let a neighbor know of her plight by crawling into the street. She probably will die. The woman was alone in her kitchen when the men came in and offered to pay their rooming bill. She turned to get change for a bill they tendered to her when they drew a towel over her face. A fierce struggle followed and she was bound and gagged. Then the other torture began.

Plans are being laid by the civic division of the Woman's club, of Reading, for the purchase of a public playground and athletic field. Efforts are being made to raise funds and the women are receiving encouragement from leading citizens.

WILL INSPECT WATER SUPPLY

Chief Burgess Amesbury appeared before council Friday eve urging that the borough enter upon a thorough investigation to determine to what extent our water supply is polluted by the effluent from the sewage disposal plant at the hospital for the insane.

It was suggested that a chemist be employed to make tests on three different occasions, the sample of effluent each time to be taken from the stream just where it issues from the purification plant and that, if the showing be bad, a committee be appointed to wait upon Dr. Dixon, acquainting him with the exact conditions here and urging his cooperation in seeking relief.

The above suggestion was adopted and on motion the president of council was ordered to appoint a committee to interview Dr. Dixon, in case conditions are found bad. The president accordingly appointed Ira Everhart, J. B. Cleaver and Robert B. Pursel as members of the above committee, which will be accompanied by Harrisburg by Chief Burgess A. C. Amesbury.

J. B. Cleaver of the committee on streets and bridges reported that the plans and specifications for the paving and curbing on East Market street had been prepared by Borough Engineer G. F. Keefe and were in the committee's hands. The plans and specifications, which are very voluminous, covering twelve type-written pages, were handed over to the secretary. It was the sense of the members that intelligent action could not be taken on the plans and specifications without going into the subject a little more deeply than they would be able to do upon hearing them read for the first time. On motion of Mr. Cleaver it was ordered that action be postponed until the next meeting, the members meanwhile to take especial pains to familiarize themselves with the plans and specifications.

Mr. Iles reported that residents on East Market street above Beaver street, are complaining of the amount of snow that is thrown upon the sidewalk by the snow plow used by the Danville & Sunbury Transit company. He moved that the company be requested that in removing the snow from the inside of the track along that section hereafter it employ some other device.

Borough Electrician Newton Smith presented his report for February, which on motion was ordered accepted and filed. Cost of materials for renewals and repairs, was given as $56.92; labor in electrical department, $112.50. Ninety-one tons of coal, at $2.50 per ton, were consumed. The total cost of operation for the month was $296.92. The plant was in operation 410 hours during the month.

On motion it was ordered that the local board of health be authorized to make the necessary investigations and to collect the annual license of milkmen according to the provisions of the borough ordinance.

TWO OUT OF FORTY

The selecting of the jury for the trial of Henry Fisher at Sunbury still drags on. The original panel of 70 was exhausted on Tuesday. Yesterday morning a special venire of forty men, summoned by the sheriff, were in court. These were gone over and two jurors were secured, making ten in all. The jurors secured yesterday are Henry Schroyer, mail carrier, of Shamokin and Frank Stine, merchant, of Mt. Carmel.

At noon the special venire of forty were exhausted and the case was adjourned until this morning when the sheriff will have another special venire of forty on hand.

Industry is the secret of individual success.

A DEPARTURE IN THE SCHOOLS

A departure has been planned in the public schools of Danville, this year, relating to the observance of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays, both of which occur in February.

Previously some confusion was occasioned in the schools by the separate observance of these two birthdays, which occur only a little over a week apart. It has been decided to select altogether a different date, February 18th, to be known as "Washington-Lincoln Day and Parent Day." On this occasion the memory of Washington and Lincoln will be honored and the parents invited to inspect the work done by the pupils. Thus the regular school work will be interrupted on only one day, Friday.

The exercises—to be held in the afternoon—will be appropriate to the occasion and will consist of singing, recitations and readings, the selections all having reference to Washington and Lincoln. In order to give the patrons an opportunity to judge as to the kind of work done, in some of the schools the exercises will take the form of regular class drill. In none of the grades, however, will special work be omitted.

In the past the patrons of the schools were present on special occasions. This year, "parents' day" will be a special feature in connection with the celebration of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. Work done by the pupils during the term will be open for inspection. A general invitation is extended and all those who have children in attendance or feel an interest in the schools are expected to be present.

THE TRAMP QUESTION

There was not a single tramp in the lock-up Tuesday night. There would be nothing remarkable in this, if it were not for the fact that every night previously for months a half a dozen or upwards applied for and were given lodging in the bastle. During January eighty-one of the Willies came this way and, with the exception of Tuesday seven to nine have been the quota nightly during the present month.

The subject of hoboes was discussed at length at the last meeting of council, but no action was taken. A couple of councilmen advocated hauling out the ball and chain and making an example of a few. The experience of a woman in town was cited to show what the average tramp is like. Finding an objectionable-looking fellow at the door who wanted food, she explained that she was "out of bread." "I suppose you are waiting for the bread wagon," the hobo remarked. The woman intimated that she might have use for the baker later on, whereupon the fellow added: "I judged that you were too lazy to bake." The remark offensive as it was, was rendered more so by being punctuated with profanity.

Naturally the councilmen do not like the idea of furnishing such men with shelter. At the same time it is a question with most people whether the town is not safer with the hoboes in the lock-up than if they were at large. The tramp problem is a difficult one and Danville is not the only town that would like to find a satisfactory solution of it.

WASTE OF WATER

Owing to the rise in temperature the pumps at the water works have not been obliged to work so hard during the last twenty-four hours as in the early part of the week when zero weather prevailed.

In order to prevent the pipes from freezing water takers have a habit of letting the hydrants open all night. In this way an enormous quantity of water goes to waste and the pumps are kept working up to nearly their full capacity to keep the mains filled.

A similar waste occurs during the summer, whenever a dry spell occurs, as the hydrants are then drawn upon to furnish water for sprinkling purposes.

The borough has forbidden the wasting of water in this way, either summer or winter, but it has not succeeded in breaking up the practice.

LAI'D TO REST

The funeral of Miss Ellie O'Brien, whose death occurred in Philadelphia, Saturday, took place from St. Joseph's Catholic church this city, at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, the Rev. Father McCann officiating.

The pall bearers were: J. F. Tooley, Nicholas Hayden, Thomas Gill, Sr., James Powers, Sr., James Finnigan and Lawrence Connelley. Interment was made in St. Joseph's cemetery.

DANVILLE BOY'S DEADLY PERIL

Raymond Sinton, the twelve-year-old son of Martin Sinton, formerly of this city, narrowly escaped freezing to death while driving from Shamokin to Danville on Sunday evening. The lad had fallen into a stupor and was unable to stand.

The following account of the affair is given by Horace Baker, of Rush township, to whose residence the boy was carried and where he was finally revived. Raymond was accompanied by two older brothers. They were snugly tucked away in the sleigh, but robes and clothing were no proof against the bitter cold, the thermometer at that hour registering near zero.

It was about half past six o'clock when the boys were in the neighborhood of John Bowden's, that the little fellow began to complain bitterly of the cold. Soon after he lapsed into silence and on investigation the brothers found that he had fallen in a sort of a stupor. They took him out of the sleigh and tried to get him to walk. He was too numb to stand, however. Realizing that the case was desperate the brothers put the boy into the sleigh and started at high speed for the nearest farm house, which happened to be the home of Mr. Baker.

The boy was helpless and unable to answer any questions when brought into the house. He was given wine; his hands were placed in cold water and such other remedies were applied as suggested themselves. It required an hour's hard work to bring him back to a normal condition.

The above illustrates that if an inmate cannot be relied upon to resist extreme cold, that the sleigh rides in zero weather are to be attended with danger.

GUNNING FOR CONSTABLES

Columbia county constables were treated to surprises in court at Bloomsburg this week when, in returning the stereotyped reports that all was well in their bailiwicks, Presiding Judge Evans produced evidence to the contrary.

He announced that it had come to his attention that a "poker joint" was being conducted in one of the principal buildings on Bloomsburg's main business street. He also showed a knowledge of conditions in Benton, saying it had come to his attention that gambling and selling of liquor on Sundays were being tolerated at the McHenry House, in that borough, his informant being a wife whose husband was spending all his money there Sundays. The constable stated he had received similar information, but that he had not yet secured sufficient information to have the hotel returned. He was told to get busy.

Constable Parvis Groh, of West Berwick, returned Alexander Brothers, wholesalers in West Berwick, for having furnished one West Berwick wedding party with three half, twelve quarter barrels and eight cases of beer and three gallons of whiskey, which, the constable stated, was sold upon solicitation by the firm's driver, a practice that President Judge Evans has condemned at license court. District Attorney Small was notified to take up the matter.

CASH FOR HEARTACHE

The breach-of-promise suit of Miss Bessie Hummel, a young music teacher of Rathpho township, Northumberland county, against Aaron H. Kessler, of Mount Carmel, in which Miss Hummel was awarded $2500 for her injured affections, was brought to an end Tuesday, when Kessler's property was knocked down under the sheriff's hammer.

There were several bidders for the property, which was finally sold for $750 above the mortgage, which amounted to $1400, making a total of $2150. Miss Hummel will receive most of the $2150.

Kessler was a building contractor, and some years ago was introduced to Miss Hummel. He was especially pleased with her musical ability. He paid her such ardent attention that, as Miss Hummel told the jury during her suit, she was sure he would some day make her his wife. When he didn't she felt heart broken, and resolved to get some of his money in order to ease the ache.

CUTTING ICE RESUMED

THROWN UNDER MOVING TRAIN

Dr. Edward M. Schultz, son of the late Dr. S. S. Schultz, was painfully injured in an accident at Southern Pines, N. C., on Friday morning and is at present confined to his room, under the care of a physician and nurse.

Dr. Schultz along with his mother and some other relatives were visiting at the home of James Boyd at Weymouth, Southern Pines. They were leaving Friday morning for Washington when the accident occurred.

The following account of the affair is copied from the "Southern Pines Tourist," of Friday:

"As No. 66, the fast train for Washington, was pulling out this morning Dr. Edward M. Schultz, a guest of Mr. James Boyd, attempted to board the train after it was in motion. He was thrown under the cars and had a most remarkable escape from a horrible death or at least from serious maiming."

"As the Tourist gets the incident Dr. Schultz at the last moment either stepped off the train to secure a grip, which he had forgotten, or was obliged to go down the platform to get it after the train had started. At any rate he tried to enter the pullman after the train had started considerable headway, and the porter had closed the door. He then attempted to board another car but missed his footing and fell in front of the wheels, fortunately being able to grasp some part of the undergear, thus preventing his body from being ground beneath the wheels, although he was dragged about one hundred feet along the rail before the train could be stopped. The injured man was taken to the waiting room where Drs. Gladstone and Blair made a hasty examination and ministered to his immediate needs. As soon as possible he was taken to the residence of Mr. Boyd and the family physician, Dr. Mullgett, summoned."

"Those who saw Dr. Schultz fall under the train thought his death inevitable. The first examination satisfied the physicians that while there were several painful bruises no bones were broken and no injuries were apparent from which he will not recover."

One Case in Columbia County. Criminal court in Columbia county ended on Tuesday morning, after one case had been heard. It is the shortest term on record in that county. Northumberland is priding itself on having but fifty cases for the current term.

WATER QUESTION IS PARAMOUNT

The subject of water, involving the question of purity, continues to be paramount about town. Many persons might be accused of being unduly apprehensive, while it is a fact that others—and a goodly number, too—recklessly drink the river water without boiling it.

The fact has been discovered that river water, after being boiled the required length of time, is a highly unpalatable product, which few people would care to drink unless tortured with thirst. In this connection a health authority of town calls attention to the fact that drinking boiled water alone will not protect a person from typhoid fever and similar ailments, if the germs are in the water. All the water employed in preparing foods must be boiled the required time. Even the water used in cleansing the teeth must be sterilized in the same manner.

All these precautions are necessary in the present emergency. If they are observed there is no ground for fear. All can afford to wait until a report is received on the series of further tests ordered by the Borough council at its last meeting.

Many theories are advanced as to how the borough might obtain pure water, or at least that which is not contaminated with sewage from the hospital. One plan, which finds favor with a few of the councilmen, is that pipe be laid in the bottom of the river from a point above the hospital to the intake of the water works.

Another plan, advocated by some of the most learned people of town, is that an artesian well be sunk in the neighborhood of the water works. By this means, it is claimed, water of undoubted purity could be obtained for a relatively small outlay of public money.

FATAL BLAZE AT JERSEY SHORE

ALMOST prostrated is the town of Jersey Shore after the worst fire in the borough's history, in which this morning three lives were lost and three fine brick business buildings were completely destroyed.

Additional horror is added to the catastrophe by the fact that two of the fire victims, an aged man and his wife who were visiting in Jersey Shore, died within view of the crowds which gathered to view the fire.

The dead are:

A. L. Dravenstadt, 60 years old, of Williamsport.

Mrs. A. L. Dravenstadt, 62 years old, of Williamsport.

William O'Connor, 3 years old, of Jersey Shore.

The fire started at 1:30 o'clock this morning on the second floor of the Jersey Shore National bank building, on Allegheny street, the town's main business thoroughfare. Before the firemen arrived on the scene the entire building was in flames. The banking rooms occupied the first floor and on the second and third floor were two flats. The third floor flat was occupied by the Crowe family, where Mr. and Mrs. Dravenstadt, were visiting their daughter, Mrs. Crowe.

When the fire was at its height, Mrs. Dravenstadt appeared on a balcony at the third floor of the flame enraptured building, begging for aid. The longest ladders could not reach her, and before the eyes of the crowd she burned to death. His wife dead, Mr. Dravenstadt, all other means of escape failing, jumped into the street, sustaining injuries that caused his death, a few minutes after his wife had succumbed.

Adjoining the bank building on the west was the William Fearor building, a three story brick structure, which also fell a prey to the flames. Like the bank building, this also had flats on the second and third floor, the third being occupied by the O'Connor family. All the occupants of this building reached the street in safety except the little three-year-old son, William. Mr. O'Connor had the lad in his arms carrying him to safety, but lost him before he reached the open air. The body has not been recovered.

Adjoining on the west was another brick building of two stories, occupied by Undertaker Kelechner, which was also burned.

Next came the residence and offices of Captain P. D. Bricker, a widely known lawyer and Burgess of the town. While his property was not burned, much of his furniture was damaged by water.

The total loss will reach $50,000, which is partly covered by insurance. The bank building, which was the most pretentious, was totally gutted, and the walls fell shortly after the fire. All that remains is the vault, which can not be opened for several days. The bank opened for business this morning in the electric light office, just opposite its burned quarters.

MORRIS J. LOEB

Morris J. Loeb, a former resident of Danville, died at his home in Philadelphia about 12 o'clock Tuesday night.

He was aged 46 years and 5 months and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Josie Loeb; one brother, Harry J. Loeb, of Punxsutawney; and three sisters, Mrs. Dreifuss of this city and Mrs. Weinberg and Mrs. H. F. Fishman of Baltimore, Md.

The funeral will take place in Philadelphia tomorrow.

The contract for the erection of the new building for the ice plant at Sunbury has been awarded to D. J. Rogers, Danville. The work will be started immediately and rapidly pushed to completion. Mr. Rogers is the father of E. C. Rogers, the well known marble and granite dealer of this city.
