STANLEY AS A FIGHTER.

His Revenge on the Africans For Attacking His Forces.

In the following language Sir Henry M. Stanley describes an attack of natives upon his party during one of his African expeditions: "The leviathan bears down on us with racing speed, its consents on either fluid sangting its consorts on either flank spurting the water into foam and shooting up jets with their sharp prows. A thrill-ing chant from 2,000 throats rises louder and louder on our hearing. Presently the poised spears are launched, and a second later my rifles respond with a ripping, crackling ex-plosion, and the dark bodies of the canoes and paddlers rush past us.

"For a short time the savages are paralyzed, but they soon recover. They find there is death in those flaming tubes in the hands of the strangers, and with possibly greater energy than they advanced they retreat, the pursued becoming the pursuers in hot chase. My blood is up. It is a murderous world, and I have begun to hate the filthy, vulturous shoals who villages. I skirmish in their streets, drive them pellmell into the woods be-yond and level their ivery temples. With frantic haste I fire their huts and end the scene by towing their canoes into midstream and setting them

Louis XIV. could hard-By boast of an appetite as ravenous as Soliman's, but he would eat at a sit-ting four platefuls of different soups, a whole pheasant, a partridge, a plate-ful of salad, mutton hashed with gar-lic, two good sized slices of ham, a dish of pastry and finish this ample repast with fruit and sweetmeats .ondon Saturday Review.

the biggest head among Victorian writers who had the best features? The ers who had the best features? The choice would seem to lie between Tenayson and Henry Taylor. "That man must be a poet," remarked one of his Cambridge contemporaries when he first saw Tennyson come into the hall at Trinity, and another friend describes him in his undergraduate days see the feet here begged chested strong. series him in his undergraduate days as six feet high, broad chested, strong Himbed, his face Shakespearean, with deep eyelids; his forehead ample, crowned with dark wavy hair; his head finely poised, his hand the admiration of sculptors. But time dealt none too gently with Tennyson, whereas Henry Taylor, always a distinct of the strong sterry Taylor, always a distinct of the strong sterry. Taylor, always a distinct of the strong sterry Taylor, always a distinct of the strong sterry. as Henry Taylor, always a distin guished looking man, seems to have grown singularly majestic with years. Grant Duff, meeting him when he was over eighty, notes that "Taylor looks more like Jupiter than ever," and con temporary memoirs are full of references to his Jove-like appearance.— London Standard.

Mazzini said that he did not believe that chance existed in history. "A cause must necessarily underlie every event, although for the moment it may appear as the result of apparently ac cidental circumstances. An Alexander, product of the time and nation from which they spring. It was not Caesar who destroyed the Roman republic. The republic was dead before Caesar came. Sulla, Marius, Catiline, preceded and foreshadowed Caesar, but he, glfted with keener insight and greater genius, snatched the power from them and concentrated it in his own hands For there was no doubt that he was fitter to rule than all the others put together. At the same time, supposing he had appeared 150 years earlier, he would not have succeeded in destroy-ing the republic. When he came the life had already gone out of it, and even Caesar's death could not restore struction which some people will put upon certain passages of Scripture," remarked a clergyman. "I remember the story of one clergyman who went to call on a woman whose husband had recently died. He had expected, quite naturally, to find her heartbroken with the burden of her sorrow and was greatly surprised when she greeted him with a very happy smile and ushered him into the parlor. "'Well-er-sister,' he said at length,

'you have my warmest sympathy.' "Thank you, doctor,' replied the widow casually. 'I did feel very bad, very bad indeed. But I came across a verse of Scripture which com-forted me very much indeed.'
"'And what was the verse, sister?'

inquired the clergyman. 'I don't remember just where to find it,' replied the widow, 'but it was made up of only four words—four helpful words—"Why need I care?"'"

SCARED THE OLD SAVAGE.

Ruse That Saved Dr. Felkin From

King Mtesa of Uganda. When the well known African trav-der Dr. Robert Felkin was staying with the bloodthirsty King Mtesa of treatment, wished to cut off his head. On Dr. Feikin representing that the death the latter granted him a reprieve until he was quite recovered. Then, however, nothing availed, and the execution was determined upon.

Emin Pasha, who was a friend of Dr. Felkin, had instructed him most accurately about the state of affairs in Uganda and the court of King Mtesa and had revealed to him an important state secret—namely, where Mtesa's powder store was hidden. Dr. Felkin remembered this at the right moment and as a last resort threatened that if Mtesa killed him he would bring down a flash of lightning upon his powder store. Mtesa replied incredulously, "Tell me where it is," whereupon Dr. Felkin whispered in his ear, "It is concealed under your harem.'

Mtesa turned pale and allowed Felkin and his companions to live. The "lightning maker's" authority increased when next day a flash of lightning happened to strike near the harem.

University students have long enjoyed a reputation as practical jokers, but there has been nothing quite so successful as the famous sultan of Zanribar hoax of some years ago at Cambridge. One day the mayor of the town received the following wire from one Henry Lucas, Hotel Cecil, London:
"The sultan of Zanzibar will arrive at Cambridge at 4:27 for a short visit Could you arrange to show him buildings of interest and send carriage?" The mayor rose to the occasion, and in due course four dark complexioned gentlemen with turbans and volum nous trousers arrived at Cambridge The mayor and corporation entertain ed them right royally, but to their chargein they discovered a few hour-later that the interesting orientals were simply a quariet of undergraduates who had played an immense practical joke upon the town.—London Spectator.

There was a certain old duke who used to sit up in the left hand gallery with his duchess, believing himself to be incog. One Sunday a too officious steward, on seeing the old nobleman take a back seat, hurried up to him and said, "Will not your grace have a better seat?"

"Come along, Maria!" said the old duke. "We're discovered!" And he immediately walked out with the duchess and never showed his face inside the church again.-London Tatler.

The Great Musician's First Important Engagement in Paris.

Paderewski's first really important engagement as a planist was in Paris. He was engaged to play in the drawing room of a lady famous for her musicales, and his fee, which seemed to him enormous, was $20. He managed to pay him in advance, and when Paderewski had redeemed his dress suit from pawn and paid for shoes, gloves, the and other essentials he had no money left for cab hire, so he was forced to walk to the scene of his engagement.

The music loving audience inspired him. He played with feeling, passion and mastery of his instrument as never before. His success was instant and unmistakable. The poor player had suddenly become the lion of the hour, his dream had become a reality, and fame and fortune were assured him.

At last after disengaging himself from his admirers he turned to leave, when his hostess, remembering with regret the smallness of the fee for so marvelous a performance, offered him her carriage for his return home. But Paderewski's pride came to the rescue. In his courteous yet reserved way he sold with a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so decepted deaths are caused deaths and cause of deaths and cause, pneumonia, heart disease, pneumonia, heart disease, preumonia, detendent deaths asc, preumonia, heart disease, preum cause of its remarkable health restoring properties. An Experience With the Russian Autocrat Marshal Gourko.

Marshal Gourko, the famous Russian general, was a terrible autocrat. On one occasion an impersonator of celebrated men was performing at a theater in Odessa. One overling he precise. ter in Odessa. One evening he received a mysterious message, which read, "Study General Gourko." In Russia it is better not to inquire into matters that one does not understand, and so the artist spent an hour in privately impersonating the autocratic Russian. Just as the evening performance was about to commence an order of arrest signed by Gourko was presented to the Impersonator, and without explanation he was led through the streets to the marshal's palace and into an apart ment where the terrible man was seated. "They tell me that you impersonate celebrated men," he roared. "Impersonate me!"

Giving a hasty look at Gourko, the performer turned to the mirror to "make up." It was an anxious time, for if the marshal should take exception to the representation he had unlimited power to inflict punishment. The impersonator dragged himself to-gether and turned to the marshal a copy of his own face and overbearing manner. Gourko burst into a roar of

Touching Scene That Occurred in the House of Representatives. From a volume by Hon. A. E. Stevenson, "Something of Men I Have Known," is taken this account of an incident which deserves a place in memory: A touching scene occurred in the house of representatives a number of years ago when an aged member from New Jersey arose and for the first time addressed the speaker. All eyes were turned in his direction as he stood calmly awaiting recognition. He was tall, spare and erect. erable appearance and kindly expression, coupled with most courteous manners, at once commanded attention. As in husky tones he again said "Mr. Speaker!" there came from the farthest end of the great hall in a whisper, but distinctly heard by all. whisper, but distinctly heard by an the words, "Sweet Alice, Ben Bolt."

A moment later and from the floor and gallery many voices blended in the familiar refrain, "Don't you remember sweet Alice, Ben Bolt?"

The ovation which immediately followed was such as is rarely witnessed in the great hall. Business was suspended for the moment and the hand of the new member warmly grasped by the chosen representatives of all parties and sections. It was an in spiring tribute, one worthly bestowed The member was Thomas Dunn Eng lish, author of the little poem, sung in palace and cottage, which has found its way into all languages and touched all hearts.

The Man Behind the Gun.

The late Admiral Erben had the good fortune or the merit to originate a world circling phrase, "the man behind the gun." He used it in a speech on the factors of success in naval warfare to emphasize the necessity of having efficiency, preparedness, run through the entire personnel. It was also a reminder that the enlisted men have a good deal more to do with bringing about victory than always appears in history or official reports. The expression was employed in supplementing the views of Captain Ma han and attained circulation at once as epitomizing a whole library of in-struction.—Boston Transcript.

Not Coughing Today?

Yet you may cough tomorrow! Better be prepared for it when it comes. Ask your doctor about keeping Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in the house. Then when the hard cold or cough first appears you have a doctor's medicine at hand. Your doctor's approval of its use will certainly set all doubt at rest. Do as he says. He knows.

No alcohol in this cough medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass. Robust health is a great safeguard against attacks of throat and lung troubles, but constipation will destroy the best of health. Ask your doctor about Ayer's Pills.
