The explosion of a boiler in the Dilworth Paper company plant, which is located near New Castle, cost Tony Salarki, an Italian laborer, employed in the plant, his life.

M. W. Kifer, aged 60, employed at the Standard steel plant at Butler, was crushed to death by a trolley car, Thursday evening. He leaves a widow and two children.

Frederick Flinchbaugh, 85 years of age, of Felton, York county, was found dead in his bed Thursday and his relatives are supposed to believe that disappointment over the poor entertainment furnished by Halley's comet hastened the end.

William Parry, an air brake inspector, aged 20 years, was seized with giddiness while mounting a ladder at the car shops of the Reading Railroad company at Palo Alto, and fell, landing on his head. His skull was fractured and he sustained other injuries to such an extent that he died shortly after the accident.

Dependent because his family was broken up by illness, Alfred Crow, of Reading, cut his throat from ear to ear and was taken to a hospital, where it is thought he will die.

Their ladder falling while they were repairing a barn, Samuel Whitmer and Allen Sissler, of near Marietta, were so badly injured that Sissler is but semi-conscious and Whitmer may not recover.

Alberta, 4-year-old daughter of Albert L. Guldin, mysteriously disappeared from her home in Reading Saturday night. A searching party was organized and the body was found in a creek early Sunday morning.

Six hundred representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of the Reading system, held their fifth week Sunday convention in Reading. Reports show that in five months the membership has increased from 1,550 to 2,100.

Irate spectators at a circus showing at Rural Valley, Armstrong county, because of the poor performance, cleared the tent, carried out the lights so as to prevent fire and then cut the outside ropes and let the big tent fall.

Mrs. Sarah Rice, of Philadelphia, some days ago was taking down lace curtains at her home, when she scratched her knee on a rusty nail. She paid little attention to the injury, but tetanus developed and she died in one of the hospitals of that city on Sunday.

As a result of the withdrawal, several years ago, of a number of the wealthy members of another church, the Fifth Street Methodist Episcopal congregation of Pottstown, with which they then identified themselves, is to have a new $30,000 structure, built after plans made by Joseph Huston, of State Capitol fame.

Coming from Russia, a distance of over 4,000 miles, Michael Arhovich arrived at Minersville Saturday expecting to see his son whom he had not seen for ten years. John Gilfillan, a commercial traveler, has complained that it cost him sixty cents to ride from Stroudsburg to Bushkill and that he had to use the ticket the same day for return or purchase a new one. The road is a branch of the Delaware Valley Railroad company. The matter is to be taken up by the State railroad commission.

James Tounghty, of Pottsville, was the owner of a new automobile, and was coming up one of the streets of that city which is crossed by a railroad. It is said that a coming locomotive gave warning it was on the track but Tounghty apparently thought he had as much right to the crossing as the engine. He has another guess, for the auto was struck and demolished and he was badly injured.

THE INVESTMENT OF A LIFE

The thirtieth annual commencement and class day exercises of the Danville high school were held in the Opera House Friday. A large audience was present at both exercises.

THE DECORATIONS.
The decorations, although less elaborate than on some occasions in the past, yet were very tasteful and appropriate. The stage represented a rustic scene. Just behind the footlights was a row of ferns and flowers. Overhead hung a festoon of Japanese lanterns interspersed with the high school pennants.

The graduating class, along with the speakers, and the high school faculty, occupied the stage and were seated upon rustic chairs and settees, which comported with the scheme of decorations. The school board was assigned to a place in the parquet.

THE ADDRESS.
The address to the graduating class by the Rev. George S. Womer was bristling full of good points, constituting a sound and vigorous appeal to the young. Following is a brief synopsis:
The old conception of learning was a failure. It fitted men for the eternal life rather than for the duties of this world.

The new learning began when men began to observe and think. It was the stirrings of thought that caused men to find themselves and made them dare to resist kings and assert the principle of individual liberty.

And here it is that the new learning has been developed into a more perfect system than in any other country on the face of the earth. And yet it is not true that the true object, the real purpose of the new learning has ever yet been positively stated.

The educator may say that we are trying to develop good, true honest men and yet we have to confess with shame that he is not doing it. We dare scarcely open a paper for dread of the revelations that may stare us in the face of some new and hideous civic crime. In one city after another and in one state after another, even up to the general government scandal follows scandal—not honest men united in public service but dishonest men united in public plunder.

The cry has been given us something practical. We Yankees are a shrewd people and we have learned that education has a commercial value, that men can make more money with their brains than they can with their hands and so we have sacrificed our religious and moral ideals for commercial profit.

I come to you tonight to make an appeal that you will take your young life and all the education you have gained and invest it. If you are to be a physician let your object be the public health and forget the fee that is your due. If you are to be a lawyer, let your object be the maintenance of justice. Invest your life for good.

Someone asked Quintin Hogg if it cost much to build the institute Polytechnic. Oh no; said he: Only a life. It will cost you your life if you do anything worth while in this world.

The York county farmers got a jolt the other day when Professor Franklin Menges, before a meeting of the York and Adams county granges, held at Dover, declared there were 200 farms within a radius of six miles of York that are 100-acre tracts, where no less than 5,000 steers and from 4,000 to 5,000 hogs could easily be raised.

DANVILLE WON MEET ON POINTS

Danville and Berwick divided honors in the third annual track and field meet held in this city under the auspices of the Danville high school and the Danville Y. M. C. A. The most important event of the afternoon, the mile relay, was won by the crack Berwick team. The entire meet was won on points by Danville, 49 to 40.

The weather man was kind to the promoters of the meet and altered the disagreeable program of the previous few days with ideal weather Saturday. A large crowd gathered to watch the different events, and the contestants were loudly cheered for their efforts.

The Catawissa high school which had made a number of entries for the different events, failed to send their men, and the Danville and Berwick athletes held the field alone. Berwick had seven men here, all fine athletes, who contested in a manly manner and won their points on merit.

Out of the nine events Berwick took four firsts—the 100 yard dash, the 220 yard dash, the one mile run and the relay. The firsts going to Danville were the 120 yard hurdles, the five mile Marathon, shot put, hammer throw, running high jump and running broad jump.

The event of greatest interest was the mile relay in which five men ran for each school. Here Danville was up against an extremely hard proposition. Berwick's team are all veterans, trained and tried in a number of previous meets won this season. It was Berwick's race from the start each runner increasing the lead, the last man being between 50 and 75 feet in advance of Danville at the finish. This being Berwick's third successive win in the relay the Price cup now remains permanently in their possession.

A pretty event was the high jump in which Woolridge, West and Jacobs, for Danville; and Taylor and Eshleman, for Berwick, entered. Jacobs dropped out at 4 feet 4 inches, West dropped out at 4 feet 10 inches; Taylor left it to Woolridge and Eshleman at 5 feet. Eshleman went out at 5 feet 4, which Woolridge easily cleared. Woolridge then jumped five feet six inches as an exhibition.

In the hammer throw Tom Ryan won first on 119 feet 2 inches and then threw 136 feet 10 inches as an exhibition. The broad jump Woolridge won easily, his first jump not being equalled.

“One of the most interesting happenings of the day was ‘Bum’ Purpur's Marathon. After the runners in this fatiguing race had made several of the 25 laps required for the distance, a little bare footed boy started to follow, setting a swift pace and keeping right behind the contestants. Lap after lap he reeled off, until he became the center of interest, and each time he passed the grand stand he was greeted with cheers. As the race neared an end an enterprising rooster passed the hat and raised nearly three dollars for the little fellow. When he finished with the runners he was raised on the shoulders of the crowd and given three cheers. Then grasping his collection tightly he made off home, and the last seen of him he was streaking it across the cinder tip followed by about a hundred admiring kids.

The councils of Wilkes-Barre and Mayor Kniffen are at loggerheads. The mayor recently vetoed some contracts and the councils promptly passed them over the veto.

FORTY SECOND MEMORIAL DAY

The forty-second memorial day, which was observed throughout the length and breadth of the Republic Monday, in Danville was marked with the usual impressive ceremonies. In the early morning the veterans laid their floral offerings on the graves of their departed comrades; in the afternoon there was the usual march to the cemetery along with an inspiring address at the G. A. R. plot.

In proceeding to the cemetery the veterans took a trolley car, leaving town about 2:15 o'clock. In the parade were the sons of veterans, the P. O. S. of A., and the commandery of the K. G. E., the P. O. S. of A. drum corps furnishing music for the march. For the first time in several years the school children were not in the parade and their absence from the line of march was especially noticeable.

There was a large crowd at the cemetery awaiting the arrival of the veterans. In addition to the special car kept at this end of the line to convey people backwards and forwards between town and the cemetery, all the regular cars during the early part of the afternoon were crowded.

The exercises at the G. A. R. plot were very impressive, a feature being the eloquent and patriotic address by the Rev. A. J. Irely, pastor of the First Baptist church. The music by the male quartette was inspiring, while the salute by the firing squad and the sounding of taps constituted a fitting conclusion and helped to add to the impressiveness of the whole.

The subject of Mr. Irely's address was, “Some Present National Forces, Conflicts and Issues.” It was listened to with intense interest and made a deep impression. We have space for only a few extracts:

“Not peace but a sword is what I came to bring,” declared the Inaugurator of final campaigns; the Challenger to final conflicts; the Declarer of final destinies. Again we hear this mighty Captain in humanity's conflicts commanding, “Put up thy sword into its sheath.”

The advent of Jesus Christ into the world has set at each other's throats as never before the forces of good and evil. Final conflicts are to be waged in the realms of mind and spirit, where the armies of the Lord are to fight, win their victories and earn their crowns through the use of other than physical weapons of war.

This explains why the human race, the world over can truly be said to be today in a state of unusual unrest and struggle, though we listen in vain for the roar of artillery, and the clash of sword and sabre. Nor is the conflict the less fatal nor the less strenuous, or the less fatal or the less final, on this account. Charge and counter charge, wounds and suffering the shout of the victor and the moan of the enemy vanquished are now before our eyes and in our ears, if not indeed in the very soul of us.

There are in the final analysis just two camps the world over—those of God and Satan—of righteousness and unrighteousness—of life and death.

The speaker then dwelt upon the alignment of the forces in the great battle, which is now on; the questions that are up for settlement. In conclusion he said:

“Your example of heroic devotion and your continued presence with us, help to keep us true in the momentous struggle of today and assure our hearts that the victories yet to be won for our country's good and glory shall be ours, if we press forward with courage, zeal and self sacrificing devotion. We of the younger generation would remind you, too, that discharge from this war comes only with our translation. We ask that you remain true to loftiest ideals that you and we together may settle fully upon the fair brow of our beloved country the crown of a character, pre-eminent for national righteousness and liberty, the crown of which wicked hands are now striving to despoil her.”

After returning from the cemetery the Sons of Veterans, the commandery of the K. G. E. and the drum corps went out on the river bridge where flowers were cast on the water by children in honor of the naval heroes, the sailors and marines who lost their lives in battle and went down to watery graves. On the bridge a salute was fired and taps were sounded, which brought the day's exercises to a close.

G. A. R. PICNIC

The G. A. R. picnic of the Susquehanna district will be held at Edgewood park, Shamokin, on Thursday, August 11. On the occasion a special train will be run on the P. & R. Railway at the same rate as former years. Arrangements as above were made at a meeting of the G. A. R. Picnic association held at the Cameron House, Lewisburg, on Tuesday. Goodrich post, No. 22, G. A. R., of this city, was represented at the meeting by W. M. Heddens, president of the association, and John H. Hunt, delegate.

IN the two-all-around program of Memorial day Danville again demonstrated her general base ball superiority, by defeating Nescopeck in a brace of contests—there in the morning and here in the afternoon—and put another tack in our hold on first position. Shickshinny and Berwick helped Danville tighten her hold on the top of the column by breaking even. Danville has now rounded out one-fifth of the Susquehanna league season without losing a game. Benton, Alden, Shickshinny and Nescopeck have each been defeated twice. Next!

MORNING GAME.

The morning game at Nescopeck was easily won. “Peek” Rowe pitched fine ball for Danville, allowing but three hits, one of which was coupled with an error in the first innings and was converted into a tally. After that Nescopeck faced a stone wall and failed to score another run.

Danville started in the second when Wagner scored after his single was followed by a wild pitch, a base on balls and a sacrifice.

Again in the fourth, Nipple got life on the short stop's error and Wagner hit over the right field fence for a home run. In the fifth two errors, a sacrifice and Umlauf's hit scored two more. After that Madera tightened and prevented further scoring.

But the details of this game are rather superfluous for Secretary Ralph Kismet, ever watchful guardian of the interests of the Danville team, had Nescopeck's goat before the game began. Mr. Kismet persuaded the custodian of that important animal to hire his Nannyship for the morning and he was lead, life-size and kicking into the grand stand to sit among the Danville rooters during Nescopeck's obsequies.

AFTERNOON GAME.

The afternoon game came nearer to slipping into the lost column than did the morning contest, but Danville, displaying greater base ball generalship than their opponents managed to score eight runs on four hits while Nescopeck with 10 safeties, three of which were for extra bases, counted but five times.

Both teams used two pitchers. Ainsworth began the work on the slab for Danville, but was in the throes of an off day, and although he was in perfect control of the ball and had them breaking to suit, the Nescopeck batters just naturally seemed to find whatever he sent up. They totaled nine hits off his delivery in the first four innings and scored their five runs.

Brannen then relieved Ainsworth, and in the five innings during which he did the tossing, Nescopeck made but one safe connection and no counts came after the fourth.

MAY'S LOW DEATH RATE

The death rate during the month of May was lower than for any time since the bureau of vital statistics was established. Fifteen deaths, four of which occurred at the hospital for the insane, were reported in this district. In April seventeen deaths along with twenty-four births were reported. The highest death rate in this district since 1906, was noted in March when forty-four deaths, thirteen of which took place at the hospital for the insane, were reported by the local registrar. Even last summer, during July and August, the number of deaths reported were respectively twenty-three and twenty-six. In view of these figures the death rate for May was phenomenally low and might be hard to account for.

During the month there were no deaths of contagious diseases. Of the latter there were reported: typhoid fever, three cases; diphtheria, four cases; erysipelas, one case; measles, three cases; pneumonia, one case. During April no cases were reported of either diphtheria or scarlet fever, diseases which had been lurking in the district for many months previously. It was thought that both had been effectually stamped out, but as shown by the report for May diphtheria has again made its appearance.

The general health, however, is all that could be desired and conditions are favorable for a prolongation of the low mortality reported for May.

MILTON MAN SUICIDES

Charles E. Gartman, a well known tobaccoist of Milton, and assessor of the Third ward of that town, committed suicide about four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, by shooting himself in the right temple. The deed was committed on the third pier of the river bridge. The Reading call boy was passing nearby and heard the shot. He looked back and saw the body of Mr. Gartman. He at once gave the alarm. The deceased was a single man who has resided in Milton for upwards of twenty-five years. He kept a cigar store near the corner of Broadway and Front streets until last month, when he vacated the place to make room for the new building now being erected there. No cause can be assigned for his act. He had his revolver repaired Tuesday morning and about an hour before committing the rash act had conversed with several friends in his accustomed happy mood.

Vernon-Brady.

Miss Myrtle Brady and William Vernon, both of this city, were united in matrimony yesterday afternoon. The nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. Edward Haughton, at the home of the bride, Montour row, at 2:30 o'clock.

Long-Hogendobler.
Frank A. Long and Miss Bertha Hogendobler, both of this city, were married on Tuesday at the parsonage of the United Evangelical church by the pastor, Rev. C. D. Moore.

to do the twirling for Nescopeck and his relief arrived in the midst of the third innings, but Madera's substitution did not prevent Danville from scoring three runs in that innings.

With Madera in the box what at first promised to be a swat fest was averted. While Madera allowed but one hit after the third, sundry passed balls, wild pitches, errors and bases on balls were converted into the three winning runs.

One of the largest crowds ever on the Danville field witnessed the afternoon game here, there being 1130 paid admissions.

COURT CONVENES NEXT WEEK

Court for the June term will convene next Monday, the 6th inst. There will probably be a full week of court.

There are only some half a dozen Commonwealth cases, with one person in jail awaiting trial; but it seems to be understood that several important civil cases continued from term to term will be tried next week. Among the latter is the case against the Reading Iron Co., in which Blanche E. Pursell is the substituted plaintiff, and which was carried over from the last term owing to the illness of one of the principal witnesses, W. S. Lawrence, of Maudsle. In granting a continuance it was made plain that the case would have to be tried the coming term. In addition to Mr. Lawrence, who has recovered, there will be an enormous array of witnesses on both sides. The full civil list is as follows:

William R. Pursell, surviving administrator of Daniel Pursell, deceased, now Blanche E. Pursell, substituted plaintiff, vs. The Reading Iron Company. Trespass. Baldy, Davis and Johnson for the plaintiff and Scarlet and Kiser for the defendant.

Dennis Bright vs. Franklin B. Maus, et al. Ejectment. Hincley for plaintiff and R. S. Ammerman for defendant.

H. E. Mordan vs. County of Montour. Trespass. Chrisman for plaintiff and R. S. Ammerman for defendant.

Albert H. Deeter vs. County of Montour. Trespass. E. S. Gearhart for plaintiff and R. S. Ammerman for defendant.

John C. Zauer vs. The Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company. Trespass. E. S. Gearhart for plaintiff and Wolvorton for defendant.

Kate E. Watson vs. Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company. Trespass. Baldy and Hincley for plaintiff and Wolvorton for defendant.

O. L. Muffley et al. vs. C. Yagle. Appeal. Hincley for plaintiff and R.
