

FIGURES SHOW THRIFT INCREASE

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 1. Figures quoted by State Commissioner of Banking William H. Smith in his annual report, which was sent to Governor Edwin S. Stuart a few days ago, show that last year institutions doing a general banking business under the supervision of the State Department of Banking held 1,669,379 deposit accounts.

These figures, taken with data previously published showing the immense resources of Pennsylvania's financial institutions, in addition to national banks, are indicative of the thrift of the Pennsylvanian, be he capitalist, salaried man or wage earner.

An encouraging feature of the figures referring to the number of individual deposits is that almost one-third are in savings institutions, such deposits usually being made by men and women who can lay by only small amounts at one time, and who never accumulate a very large deposit.

Commissioner Smith's figures show that trust companies on November 6, 1909, just three weeks before the end of the fiscal year covered by the report, had 785,368 deposit accounts; savings institutions had 456,540, and banks had 427,471.

Some attention in the report is devoted to the reviewing of conditions generally, and especially to pointing out the forward strides which have been made by trust companies since the creation of the State Department of Banking in 1892.

TOWN WITHOUT A PAPER

How many country newspapers, daily or weekly, are there that could live six months if they had to depend upon the income derived from subscriptions? Very few of them could make expenses. They must depend upon their advertising and job work. Yet some people are unreasonable enough to complain that there are too many advertisements in the paper, and others care so little for the welfare of the local papers as to send their job printing out of town. What is a local newspaper? It is a board of trade, a trumpet of the town's advantages, a history. It is a policeman, a chaperon, a defender of your rights and a board of health. It is an honest advisor, if in the hands of an honest man. It warns you against frauds. It rejoices with you when you are glad and mourns with you when you need a comforter. It is the guardian angel of your moral, intellectual and physical health. It sticketh closer than a brother.

Do you help to support your home newspaper?

Printers' Marks.

The interrogation mark or "point" (?) was originally a "q" and an "o," the latter placed under the former. They were simply the first and last letters of the Latin word "questio." So, too, with the sign of exclamation or interjection (!). In its original purity it was a combination of "i" and "o," the latter underneath, as in the question mark. The two stood for "io," the Latin exclamation of joy. The paragraph mark is a Greek "p," the initial of the word paragraph. The early printers employed a dagger to show that a word or sentence was objectionable and should be cut out.

A Silent Man.

Jorkins—There's Perkins—you know Perkins—entered into an agreement with his wife soon after their marriage, twenty years ago, that whenever either lost temper or stormed the other was to keep silence. Bob—And the scheme worked? Jorkins—Admirably. Perkins has kept silence for twenty years.

Take Your Choice.

From Sir John Lubbock we take this enlightening thought: "You may see in a shallow pool either the mud lying at the bottom or the image of the blue sky above."

A Powerful Weapon.

They were examining an old fashioned shotgun of murderous build. It looked as if it would be an effective weapon against anything short of an elephant, and its owner was boasting with that scorn of fact which is allowed the successful hunter of its power. "Doesn't it kick like anything?" asked one.

"Oh, yes, it kicks some," said the proprietor, "but that's the beauty of it. Why, once I shot at a grizzly that was charging me. I missed him, and on he came. If it had not been that the gun kicked me so far back that I had time to reload I shouldn't have been here to tell the story."—Youth's Companion.

GRANGE HALL IS DEDICATED

The new hall built by Valley grange at Pensternmacher's corner was dedicated yesterday. The occasion was one that appealed to followers of agricultural pursuits and nearly the entire countryside turned out. There were several hundred people in attendance the most of whom took dinner, which was served on the ground floor of the hall by the ladies of Valley grange.

Pomona grange, No. 31, comprising the counties of Montour and Northumberland, held a meeting in the new hall. During the session reports were presented by the various granges of the two counties, which on the whole were encouraging, showing an increase in both interest and membership.

The dedicatory exercises were held in the afternoon and were in charge of State Grange Master William T. Creasy, who was assisted by State Grange Lecturer E. B. Dorsett, of Mansfield, Tioga county. The dedicatory ceremony is very interesting and under the two high officials yesterday was rendered with due effect.

The address of Professor Agee of State college, proved to be one of great interest to farmers. He spoke mainly on organization, picturing the ideal conditions that would prevail in every farming community if the grange idea were carried out and there were perfect co-operation along all lines.

State Grange Master William T. Creasy spoke at length, dwelling mainly on "Legislation," explaining what laws are necessary to prevent monopolists from getting hold of the farms and to conserve the interests of the common people generally.

State Lecturer Dorsett delivered a very entertaining address, dwelling principally upon the growth of the grange in Pennsylvania. The new hall is a most complete building, 24x40 feet and two stories high. It is a frame structure with metal roof and siding. It is very nicely finished on the inside, being plastered and artistically painted. The floor is carpeted, which adds much to the coziness of the hall.

The officers of Valley grange are as follows: Master, J. A. Merrill; secretary, Mrs. Augusta Merrill; treasurer, E. E. Renn; chaplain, Frank Pensternmacher; overseer, Enoch Williams; steward, Richard Rogers. Mrs. Richard Rogers is Ceres; Mrs. Enoch Williams, Pomona, and Mrs. Frank Pensternmacher, Flora.

SCAFFOLDING CITY HALL

Price & McCloskey yesterday began the work of scaffolding City hall preparatory to repairing and painting the brickwork. At a meeting of council tonight the bids invited for the painting of the building will be opened and in all probability the contract for the work will be awarded.

The contract for the scaffolding was awarded to Price & McCloskey at the last meeting of council for one hundred and forty dollars. The contractors will retain ownership of the material and when the repairing and painting of the building is completed they will take down the scaffolding and use the timber for other purposes.

To scaffold a building like City hall so as to make it safe and convenient for workmen is no easy task. Before it is accepted by council the scaffold will be inspected by the committee on public safety.

STABBING ENDS IN VICTIM'S DEATH

Henry Lichtenleitner, who was stabbed Tuesday morning at Shamokin by Anthony Rizzi, died from peritonitis at 2 o'clock yesterday morning at the Ashland hospital.

Sergeant Weismund, of the Shamokin detail of State Constabulary, went to Sunbury yesterday morning and took the prisoner from the county jail back to Shamokin. The Italian suspected what had happened and prayed when he saw the policeman. He was afraid to go back to Shamokin.

He was given a hearing before Justice McCormick at Shamokin. When asked why he stabbed Lichtenleitner, he said that he had laughed at him.

Charles Lichtenleitner, nephew of the deceased, and August Bombazine, the two men who were with him at the time he was stabbed, testified that they were talking to him when Rizzi suddenly came from behind a tree, slashed him across the abdomen and ran. When captured, the bloody knife, six inches long and very rusty was found on his person.

The deceased while he was being taken to the hospital said that he had seen the Italian, who lived within a block of him but did not know him and had never paid any attention to him.

Rizzi was taken back to jail at Sunbury yesterday afternoon, being held without bail. Counsel will likely be appointed for him by the court and he will be tried for murder at the September session.

An African Cannibal Race.

One of the queer customs of the Baamba race in Africa is cannibalism of a particularly loathsome form, according to a writer in the Geographical Journal. Families exchange their young children, who are then eaten. He continues that the Baamba in many cases file their teeth, but this practice is not quite general. They are jovial despite these singular characteristics. The Bunyoros, another tribe, have an unpleasant custom of extracting the four lower incisors, which causes the upper teeth to grow forward, imparting to their mouths a most unbecoming rabbit-like appearance. The Bahima, he says again, believe vaguely in an all powerful diety, who is associated mainly with rain, thunder and other weather phenomena. They endeavor to propitiate various devils, most of whom are connected with the prevalent diseases, by erecting joss houses in which food and beer are placed. They invariably carry round the neck wooden charms or small goats' horns which have been invested with magical power by the medicine men and usually wear wire bracelets and anklets.

Not Troubled.

Irate Tenant—I asked you when I rented this place if you had ever been troubled by chicken thieves, and you said no. Every one of my chickens was stolen last night, and I am told that the neighborhood has been infested with chicken thieves for years. Suburban Agent—I never keep chickens.

ROBBINS' CIRCUS HERE TOMORROW

F. A. Robbins' Shows will give two performances here tomorrow afternoon and evening. The shows are the best of any kind that have ever visited Danville. The program embraces many new and novel acts, and everything is kept moving with the utmost precision. The climax of the program is the great bicycle act called "The Leap to the Moon," in which Herr, the rider, rushes down a steep incline on his wheel and leaps thirty feet across an open gap, the bicycle going into a net and the rider catching the hands of a trapeze performer suspended in the air. The clowns are funny and amuse the children with many new witty acts.

Mr. Robbins has been in the circus business for 39 consecutive years, and has around him a well trained corps of experts in caring for every detail. The big tents are erected and taken down with great speed, and system is evident throughout the manipulation of everything connected with the shows. There are no disorderly characters connected with Mr. Robbins' enterprises.

The following are among the principal features on the program: The Holmes family of wire walkers, including May, four years of age, and Clara, aged seven; Roy Dee, contortionist and slack wire artist; Miss Hocum, principal bareback riding act; Charles Hocum, bareback riding; the Gregory family of acrobats; Harry Koster, aerial performer; Gowest's performing ponies; Miss Howard and Miss Allen, trapeze artists; Miacco sisters, contortionists; Morley brothers, feats of balancing; Charles Gregory, barrel and table tossing; William Mars, premier clown, assisted by three others; Rose Elyth, premier toe dancer, and her troupe of ballet dancers concluding with the feature act, "The Leap to the Moon," by "Dare-devil Herr."

GRIER MORGAN INJURED

Grier Morgan, an employe of the Danville Rolling mill, met with an accident yesterday, in which he was painfully injured.

He was engaged in wheeling brick up a plank. When near the top he lost his balance and, along with the wheelbarrow, fell to the ground, a distance of some eight feet. The brick with which the barrow was loaded fell on top of him, rendering him partly unconscious.

He was removed to his home on East Market street where he was attended by Drs. Stock and Paules. It was discovered that no bones were broken, although he was painfully bruised and suffered from the effects of the shock. He will recover in a few days.

Not an Earthquake.

Mrs. Houser (hearing tremendous noise in the kitchen)—Great goodness, Jane, what was that, an earthquake shock? Jane (calmly picking up the pieces of glass)—No, mum; only a little jar.

She Repudiated the Charge.

At the men's service in a Yorkshire parish the vicar tried to convey the lesson that the truest heroes and heroines are those who do noble deeds in the secret corner of the home, where none can see or applaud.

"Few of you seem to think," he concluded, "that your wives staying at home uncomplainingly to mind the children and prepare the meals are heroines, and yet their touching devotion to duty proves them to be so." It certainly hadn't struck one old farmer in this way before, and as soon as he got home he promptly told his wife that the vicar had called her a heroine.

"Whatever does that mean?" asked the good lady. "Oh, it means a woman who stays in 't' house instead of goin' out to show herself," explained the farmer vaguely. "Then I'm not a heroine, an' I'll thank 't' vicar to mind what he's sayin'," snapped the wife. "I go to his church as much as 't' other women do, an' he must be blind if he can't see me. Why, I'd five different colors in 't' bonnet I wore last Sunday!"—London Spectator.

An Unsafe Bird.

"How did the new parrot turn out?" "Oh, he's a fine talker, but I'm awfully afraid I can't keep him."

"Why not?" "He used to live in a medical college, and the students taught him a whole lot of professional terms. I was so mortified the other night. That rich Miss Morris was calling on us, and somebody asked her to sing. You know what a voice she has! Well, she sang a long French ballad for us, and the instant she finished the last word that dreadful bird screeched 'chloroform her!'"
