

A ROMANCE IN SIGHT.

Started by the Unmasking of the Pair of Frauds.

Not until boarding houses cease to exist will all their romances be written. Shabby romances, some of them are, like that of the young woman who got so tired of being called "poor thing" because she received no invitations and had to eat all her meals at the boarding house table that she took to eating alone once in awhile at a cheap restaurant and then brazenly lying about the friends who had invited her to dinner.

There was a young man in that house who never went anywhere either. The first night the girl stayed over his desolation nearly overpowered him. "Even that poor little white faced soul has made friends who want her," he said. "Nobody wants me. I'm no good on earth."

Then on rare occasions his place at the table was vacant. "New friends" asked the landlady.

"Yes," lied the young man. One night the man and the girl met in a twenty-five cent restaurant. They flushed; they fended; they finally confessed.

"We're a pair of frauds," said the girl. "It's awful to think that tonight when we go home we will have to swear that we have been dining with friends."

"Well," said the young man, "ain't we?"—New York Press.

SHE WAS AGGRESSIVE.

Lucky For the Little Man He Was Not Her Husband.

The lady in the office corner of the tramcar possessed a truculent air and a discolored eye. "Funny thing any one can't take a penny ride without everybody glaring at 'em," she remarked, fixing a small gentleman wearing gray whiskers and a somewhat rusty top hat with her normal optic.

The small gentleman suddenly became interested in a soap advertisement. "If any one can't 'ave a black eye without Tom, Dick and Harry asking questions things are comin' to a pretty pass," continued the lady.

Silence, allied with soap advertisement study, though eminently discreet, was ineffective.

"You 'm a-talkin' to." The lady prodded the small gentleman's knee with her umbrella. "Bin settin' there this last ten minutes, you 'ave wonderin' if my 'usban' gives it to me. If it'll ease your mind, 'e did. Is there anything else?"

"Madam," the small gentleman commenced, "had I been your husband?"—"I should 'a' got off at 'er cemetery with a wreath instead of goin' ter the 'ospital with a visitor's ticket," snapped the lady, "and the wreath wouldn't 'a' been expensive either."—London Ideas.

A Weary Celebrity.

When Mrs. Roger A. Pryor was a young woman living in Charlottesville, Va., visiting authors seldom reached the beautiful university town. "Thackeray, Dickens and Miss Martineau passed us by," says Mrs. Pryor in her book entitled "My Days—Reminiscences of a Long Life." But Frederika Bremer condescended to spend a night with her compatriot, Baron Schele de Vere of the university faculty, on her way to the south.

Schele de Vere invited a choice company to spend the one evening Miss Bremer granted him. Her works were extremely popular with the university circle, and every one was on tiptoe of pleased anticipation.

While the waiting company eagerly expected her the door opened—not for Miss Bremer, but for her companion, who announced:

"Miss Bremer, she beg excuse. She ver tired and must sleep. If she come she gape in your noses."

Funerals in England.

At the time of Queen Victoria's funeral a writer in the Undertakers' Journal complained that, while royal burials were still conducted in an impressive manner, a sad lack of ceremonial distinguished the funerals of the nobility. "Item after item has been abandoned, idea after idea has been dropped, each meaning a distinct loss to our business. An undertaker in the west end, referring to the recent death of a noble lord, confided to me: 'Forty years ago I buried a member of that family, and the funeral bill came to £1,250 ($6,250). Ten years later I buried another, when it came to just over £700 ($3,500). Fifteen years ago I buried a third, at a cost of £320 ($1,600), but the bill for this one did not reach £75 ($375).'"

Origin of a Famous Saying.

Euclid, who is sometimes called the father of mathematics, taught this subject in the famous school at Alexandria. Being asked one day by the king of Egypt (Ptolemy Soter) whether he could not teach him the science in a shorter way, Euclid answered in words that have been memorable ever since, "Sire, there is no royal road to learning." Not many scraps of conversation have lived, as this reply has, for 2,200 years.

SET HIM THINKING.

The Reason His Wife Gave For Disliking Postponements.

Just when Mrs. Ackroyd had finished packing her trunks and after William Ackroyd had bought railway tickets for her and their two daughters little Bessie came down with a severe case of whooping cough. The doctor positively refused to let the child start on a long journey, and even if he had thought it safe for the little one to leave home he assured Mrs. Ackroyd that she would not be permitted to take the patient into a hotel anywhere.

"Isn't it a shame?" the distressed lady wailed. "Here we are with everything in our trunks, and my husband has even bought our berths in the sleeper."

"It is unfortunate, but I don't know what you can do except sit down and wait four or five days. It may be safe then for you to start away."

When her husband got home that evening Mrs. Ackroyd was weeping. "Don't take it so hard, dear," he said. "It might be a good deal worse. Our little one is likely to get along all right. The doctor says the case isn't an unusually severe one, and when I telephoned him this afternoon he said he thought it might be safe for you to start away by the end of the week."

"I know. He told me the same thing. But I feel that we'll never go. I never postponed anything yet that didn't turn out sadly. I once postponed a wedding, and the marriage never took place."

Half an hour later William Ackroyd was still sitting in a corner stone thinking it over.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Yorkshire Men's Fingers.

A Yorkshire man and a Lancashire man were conversing together the other day. The Lancashire man said to the Yorkshire man, "Well, Bill, do you know the best way to find a Yorkshire man's lost fingers?"

"No," says Bill. "Well, I will tell you what happened at our place the other day. Yorkshire Dan had two of his fingers cut off with a steam saw, and they got lost among the sawdust, and two of my mates were down on their hands and knees looking for them when the foreman came up and asked what they were doing. One of them said: 'We are looking for Dan's fingers.' 'Oh, come out of the road,' said the foreman. 'That's not the way to find a Yorkshire man's fingers,' at the same time taking a shilling out of his pocket and throwing it among the sawdust, when the two fingers at once popped up after it."

"There!" said the foreman. "That's the way to find a Yorkshire man's lost fingers."—Pearsons.

frightened to strike at. But the delightful part of it was that the people in the grandstand were as much mystified as were the batters. Even Umpire Wilson laughed as he acknowledged the shots and twists on McHale's curves were too fast for even him to see.

Not a chance during the game did Bloomsburg have a chance to crowd. From Catcher Mays to Centre Fielder Rankin they played the best they knew, but there was not a position in the field in which Danville did not outshine.

Next to McHale, Livengood and Captain Nipple share second honors. The former's five assists included some of the quickest coups of the contest and he scored a run in the fifth innings after he had beaten out an infield hit; Nipple was never in better form; his sixteen put outs on first constituting a good share of the work, while his single and two bagger added luster to his fame as a stickler.

TOOK ONE IN THE GET AWAY.

Bloomsburg's bright hopes began to grow dim as soon as the game opened, when Umlauf hit right for a single. He scurried to third on Nipple's Texas Leaguer over second. Captain Chester then purloined the second bag, and with things thus Wagner smiled as he drove a clean single just inside of the third bag, which scored "Buck," Nipple being caught at the plate on a close decision. McCarty fled out to right.

The second session records Bloomsburg's only tally. Henry opened with a two bagger over Wagner's head, and remained on second while two men went down. Then Doucien drove a liner over the second bag, which scored Henry. McHale decided that was enough, and promptly struck out Shaukey, just as the Bloomsburg rooters were beginning to think they had Danville started on the toboggan.

The only other time when Bloomsburg became dangerous was in the sixth, when with one down Karl and Rhodomoyer both singled. Henry made a second out and Mays followed with a hit near third base, loading the cushions. With three on and the crowd yelling for runs, Mitchell walked up to the plate. After a few teasers, McHale sent the ball straight for the plate, but before it got there it started getting farther and farther away. When Mitchell struck at it, he was reaching as far as he could and just caught it in the end of his bat for a little roller to Livengood.

After the first, Danville's next tallying was done in the fifth. McHale opened this session with a hot single through the short field. Umlauf was called out for being hit by a batted ball, but Livengood's and Wagner's single and Nipple's double in quick succession completed the damage to the extent of two scores. In the seventh Brennan's and McHale's two baggers were good for one more tally.

In the eighth McCarty doubled to center. Brennan sacrificed him to third but was caught at the plate on Mack's grounder to second. Mack then essayed to steal second. May's bam toss let him to third and he came home while the ball was being relayed in from center field.

In the last innings the rattles were loosened and the bass drum called into play to rattle the invulnerable McHale. The coaches yelled and the crowd hooted, but it was all half-hearted. By that time the most sanguine knew that not even Dr. Munyon could supply any hope.

It was all over in a few minutes. The band struck up a weak toned air and the trick had been turned. Bloomsburg had been taken into camp so completely that they were speechless. But they'll get their voices back—you will hear the yell later.

Proposed Amendments To Penn's Constitution

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION SUBMITTED TO THE CITIZENS OF THIS COMMONWEALTH FOR THEIR APPROVAL OR REJECTION, BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA, AND PUBLISHED BY ORDER OF THE SECRETARY OF THE COMMONWEALTH, IN PURSUANCE OF ARTICLE XVIII OF THE CONSTITUTION.

Number One. A CONCURRENT RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to section twenty-six of article five of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the following amendment to section twenty-six of article five of the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section 26 of Article V., which reads as follows: "Section 26. All laws relating to courts shall be general and of uniform operation, and the organization, jurisdiction, and powers of all courts of the same class or grade, so far as regulated by law, shall be uniform; and the process and judgments of such courts shall be uniform; and the General Assembly is hereby prohibited from creating any court, or vesting the powers vested by this constitution in the judges of the Courts of Common Pleas and Orphans' Courts," be amended so that the same shall read as follows:—

Section 26. All laws relating to courts shall be general and of uniform operation, and the organization, jurisdiction, and powers of all courts of the same class or grade, so far as regulated by law, shall be uniform; and the process and judgments of such courts shall be uniform; and the General Assembly shall have full power to establish new courts, from time to time, as the same may be needed in any city or county, or to increase the number of judges in any court now existing or hereafter created, or to reorganize the same, and to vest in other courts the jurisdiction theretofore exercised by courts not of record, and to abolish the same wherever it may be deemed necessary to do so, and to amend the administration of the courts of justice. A true copy of Resolution No. 1. ROBERT McAFEE, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Number Two. RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to the effect of eliminating the requirement of payment of taxes as a qualification of the right to vote. Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the following amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section one of article eight be amended, by striking out the fourth numbered paragraph thereof, so that the said section shall read as follows:— Section 1. Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections, subject however to such laws requiring and regulating the registration of electors as the General Assembly may enact. First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month. Second. He shall have resided in the State one year (or, if having previously been a qualified elector or native-born citizen, he shall have resided therein six months), immediately preceding the election. Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election. A true copy of Resolution No. 2. ROBERT McAFEE, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Number Three. A JOINT RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so as to consolidate the Courts of Common Pleas of Allegheny County. Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof, be adopted:—

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof, be adopted:— Amendment to Article Nine, Section Eight. Section 2. Amend section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:— "Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in which the same shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same to an amount exceeding, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation," so as to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum upon the assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same to an amount exceeding, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation, except that any debt or debts hereinafter incurred by the city and county of Philadelphia for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes, or for the construction of wharves and docks, as public improvements, owned or to be owned by said city, and incorporated in the city of Philadelphia, shall be excluded from the operation of this section. Provided, That a sinking fund for their cancellation shall be established and maintained. A true copy of Joint Resolution No. 3. ROBERT McAFEE, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

Number Four. A JOINT RESOLUTION Proposing an amendment to section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania. Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof, be adopted:—

That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:— Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal far made the best record for the southpaws in the American league this season, with Ed Plank of the Athletics, Jim Vaughn of New York, Ed Killian of Detroit and Krause of the Athletics following in the order named.

Of the National league southpaws Kroh of Chicago, Webb of Pittsburgh, Burns of Cincinnati, Pfeister of Chicago and Cash of St. Louis have won more than half of their money. Wittke of New York, Rucker of Brooklyn and Foxen of Philadelphia have so far had an even break.

While it is generally admitted that left hand pitchers have something on men who hit from the south side of the plate, the rule is not universal. Willie Keeler could always hit a southpaw better than a right hander. Ty Cobb, Tish Speaker, Easterly and Eddie Collins, left handers who are well up in the American league batting records, are all good against southpaws.

JEFF AND JOHNSON MAY COUNT MONEY AND LAUGH THEMSELVES SICK.

The moving pictures of the heavyweight fight are moving over a rocky road. There are a number of things to detract from their value. First and foremost is the fact that Johnson won. Second is the fact that Johnson stalled, allowing Jeffries to stay until the fifteenth round. Third, the pictures have received a bad impression through the fact that a number of cities have already barred them.

However, the fate of the pictures need not worry the fighters. Jeffries is in California and Johnson is in the east, and both are still busy counting their money. The negro is now reputed to be worth a quarter of a million dollars. Jeff's assets are not far from that.

The Real Need.

In negro households, especially in communities where negroes form a large portion of the population, it frequently happens that the woman is the head of the family, being not only the breadwinner, but also the disciplinarian, and in that capacity on occasions she regards her putative lord and master as subject to her will. This at least was the assumption of the colored woman who was a party to a little scene enacted in the office of a justice of the peace.

A man had been arrested on the charge of beating and cruelly mistreating his wife. After hearing the charge against the prisoner the justice turned to the first witness.

"Madam," he said, "if this man were your husband and had given you a beating would you call in the police?" The woman addressed, a veritable amazon in size and aggressiveness, turned a smiling countenance toward the justice and answered:

"No, judge. If he was mah husband an' he treated me lak he did 'is wife Ah wouldn't call no policeman. No, sah; Ah'd call de undertaker."—Youth's Companion.

Flexibility of English.

English is not only, as Richard Jeffries asserted, the most expressive and flexible of tongues, but also, in Swinburne's opinion, the most musical. He proclaimed the lines—

Muscle that gentler on the spirit lies Than tried eyelids upon tired eyes to be unmatched for melody in any language. And few would venture to contradict such a master of music and tongue. But surely French ranks next on the roll of languages. For clearness of diction it is unrivaled, and, thanks to its abundance of vowels (close on one for every consonant) it flows rhythmically from the tongue. Against Westley's dictum, that French is to German as a bagpipe to an organ, may be cited a saying of another famous divine, Dr. Dollinger, "L'Allemand n'est pas une langue, mais ceux qui parlent ce jargon se comprennent entre eux" (German is not a language, but those who speak this jargon understand one another).—London Chronicle.

Facts About Giants.

That very few of the giants who have ever lived have been healthy or well formed recent researches prove beyond a doubt. All we know about Gollath is that he was very tall, but in the second book of Kings we read about another giant, who had more fingers than an ordinary human being, and, according to modern scientists, this is invariably a token of degeneracy. Marcel Donal saw at Milan a giant who was so tall that his body filled two beds at night, but whose legs were so weak that he could hardly stand upright. William Evans, the gigantic porter of Charles I., had little strength, and Cromwell's porter, another giant, ended his days in a lunatic asylum. Finally, O'Brien, the Irish giant, has been described as "an enormous sick child who grew up too fast."

INDIA'S CENSUS BIG JOB.

A Million Enumerators Required to Gather Statistics. Nearly 1,000,000 enumerators are required to take the census of India. The Indian census schedule is printed in seventeen different languages and includes, in addition to the ordinary inquiries, questions concerning religion and caste. Some schedules require careful checking.

Devout enumerators occasionally return the village shrines and temples a "occupied houses," the business of the occupant being described as "granth books and blessings," or "subsistence on contributions from tenants."

The Obliging Proprietor.

"Won't you please give me an order?" pleaded the persistent drummer. "Certainly," replied the crusty proprietor. "Get out!"—Lippincott's.

Heaven often smites in mercy, even when the blow is severest.—Baillie.
