These means are all right for destroying germs, but when it comes to crawling bugs, they are not so satisfactory. There are two methods of destroying bed bugs.

One is to apply thoroughly alcoholic solution of bichloride of mercury or, in other words, corrosive sublimate. This is not only extremely poisonous, but fatal to pests. It kills them whenever it touches them. It can be put into an oil can and injected into the cracks and crevices, if immediately after using it the can is emptied and washed well, rinsed with water, and rate, however. The number of births then oiled or filled with oil to prevent reported in July was sixteen; in June further action of the corrosive material. You can, of course, not keep it in a metal oil can for a very long time, a metal oil can for a very long time, because it will readily corrode the metal and eat its way through. It can be kept in a bottle, and when you wish to use it transfer it to a spring bottom oil can, and inject it where you wish You need not be afraid to use this material freely, even though it is rank poison when taken internally.

IDEAL LABOR UNION

The Rev. J. L. Yonce, pastor of

Man is constituted and fitted for creation, he was led into a field of lab-or, he was placed in a garden and commanded to dress and keep it. And when driven from thence he was not driven from the field of labor, for it was then and there that God ordained for him the great labor law, which says: "In the sweat of thy face shalt

The honest laboring man is an hon orable man. He merits the sympathy and respect of his fellow-beings, has been called and there is truth in it-"The back-bone of the world. The laboring man has various labor unions, which have doubtless served a good purpose, but there is one, which in merit, worth and value transcends all others, and that is the Church of God. This is the Ideal Labor Union. If men truly enter into this union, and obey the command of its leader, Jesus Christ, they can say "We are laborers together with God,"

The best saints of earth have witnessed to the worthiness of this union. Angels of heaven have gladly come to sealed their witness of its worthiness labor with these. He that is not a already increased to 1,500 and are of member of this union loses one of the the homer and Carneux varieties. It greatest opportunities of life.

Jesus, the leader of this union never makes an error. Human leaders may breathe it in the least. It does not injure any fabric, metal, food or other ing at least every two years, for the jure any fabric metal, food or other ing at least every two years, for the faith fixed upon Him, labor with Him are lighted throughout by electricity, and all is well. He tells us plainly what we are to labor for in this life. which endureth unto life eternal. for the necessities of life, but these should be sought, simply as a means to something nobler and better. It is not the main business of life to make a living, to buy and sell, and to enjoy the temporal things in life. main business of life is to live The object or accomplishment in this world it aids or makes the Christian life possible

God's word tells us what the ultimate aim and end of this Christian life is; He says: "Labor that ye may enter into that rest." THE PROBLEM OF HUMANITY

The Rev. Charles Cameron Snavely. pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal

Both of these men are a menace to our Republic. If the "man with a hoe" needs $5.00 per day in order to take care of his family, of ordinary size, and give his children opportunity to become intelligent citizens, then that is robbery and his wife and children are robbed, if he is faithful, and cannot get the money. country is rich enough to take care of the sons of toil without robbing capital. The spirit of the Christ in the heart of the capitalist and in the heart of the laborer will solve their difficult problems and give to our Republic a sublime destiny.

A HARD TASKMASTER

The Rev. A. J. Irey, pastor of the First Baptist church, took as his theme, "God, the Organizer of the World's Labor." The text taken was Genesis 2:15: "And the Lord God took the man and put him in the Garden of Eden to dress and to keep

God early set man to work, well knowing that the bread of idleness is a curse to him that eats it.

Jehovah constituted himself the head employer, nor has he ever resigned his position. No man, no matter how widely he may control, can safely forget that he is, after all, subordinate to God. project. Passengers on the D. L. W. get a good view of the farm as the train passes through Espy.

In one corner of the cold storage plant and working automatically, the machinery starts itself when the temperature rises to a given point, and stops when a certain low point is reached. In this manner an even temperature is secured, and there the poutlry, eggs and produce can be stored until Mr. Markle desires to place it on the market.

Under the direction of Superintendent C. R. Stauffer, formerly of Hazleton, it is to be one of the largest poultry farms in the world. What has been done thus far can be said to be merely preliminary, but 600 chickens, raised from peeps, make a fair sized flock for a start. Nothing but white leghorns, white and black minorcas and Rhode Island reds, hens that lay white shelled eggs, are being raised. Everything is practically in readiness for the hatching of eggs with incubators. All reports to the contrary notwithstanding, Mr. Markle thinks little of the idea of hatching eggs by electricity, and he is installing a mammoth incubator that will hatch 2,400 eggs at a time. Directly connected with the incbuator cellar is a large, modernly designed brooding house for the chicks, while not far distant is the large laying house, 360 feet long and 20 feet deep, facing the south, and separated into 18 compartments.

In another section of the farm the pigeons are fast becoming a small will not be long before some of them will be placed on the market.

The appointments of the farm could not be more complete. The buildings and water is pumped to all parts combining the luxuries of town life. The He says," Labor not for that meat whole farm shows the masterhand be-which perisheth, but for the meat hind the wisely directed dollar. Thousands of fruit trees have been planted. Man must labor for daily bread, and as have carload after carload of chestnut and walnut trees. Mr. Markle has planted with an eye to the future.

SUPPOSED TO BE A WEASEL

Prior to Tuesday night for a week a state of more or less excitement pre-vailed in the premises of B. F. Cohen, the clothier, Church street, caused by a pesky little animal that had found its way into the cellar and domiciled itself in the heating system, which at this season is out of commission. The little animal did not confine itself to the cellar, but took in the whole range of pipe. At one hour of the day it would be heard rattling about the furnace in the cellar; the next day it would produce ghost-like sounds in the walls where the heating pipe is embedded and again it would appear in the upper stories, especially in the bath room, where on more than one occasion it was seen poking its head or paws out through the register.

By last Sunday all were convinced that the animal was a weasel, which had crawled through the air duct into the cellar landing directly into the furnace, whence it proceeded to explore the heatpipe and finding the place to its liking decided to preempt it. In order to dislodge the little intruder Mr. Cohen Sunday built a fire in the furnace, heating the house up to a degree that made it impossible to remain indoors. When the fire went out it was found that the animal was still in the pipe and was as frisky as

At this juncture Police officer John Grier Voris was appealed to and an attack was planned. On Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock a party of men assembled in the cellar of the Cohen residence, among them were George D. Edmondson, proprietor of the house, his son Frank, Harry Hixson and Frank Walker.

The attack was well planned. The heating pipe was taken down. By the light of the lantern far in the pipe, out of reach of a man's arm, the "weasel" could be seen. Expecting something of this sort the party had come provided with a large mill tongs. Seizing these Harry Hixson reached into the pipe and dragged forth the animal. As it fell to the ground Frank Walker with an agile movement, lest it escape, placed his foot upon its head.

Here is where the story ends-it was not a weasel, but an animal of the genus mephitis, commonly ycleped a skunk. Indisputable evidence was furnished by the animal itself promptly and on the spot as it brought into requisition the only means of defense with which it is furnished. The atmosphere was heavy and fetid in the icinity of the cellar for awhile. Mr. Walker out of consideration for the public went home by the more unfrequented streets.
