MARIETTA HAS OLDEST HARVEST.—Marietta lays claim to the veteran harvester of the state. He is Franklin Hipple, who has just returned from his son's farm near Phoenixville, where he helped him harvest his crops. Mr. Hipple cradled oats with ease, and made his son hustle. TRACED BY DREAM

Son Missing Fifteen Years Found in Western City.

CATASAUQUA, Oct. 5.—A mother's dream resulted in the finding of a long-lost son who, through neglect, had failed to make known his whereabouts for fifteen years. When Sergeant Edward Trine, of this place, was honorably discharged from the United States Cavalry in San Francisco on September 18 he had a few days before received a letter from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Trine, that his mother had dreamed that his brother William could be found in a city surrounded by mountains.

Coming east Sergeant Trine stopped at Denver and with little difficulty located his brother, who had left Catasauqua in 1895, and had not been heard of since. He is prospering in business in Denver, and promised to pay a visit to the parental home soon.

DR. RENDALL'S STRONG ADDRESS

The 125th anniversary of the Mahoning Presbyterian church opened with a sermon by the Rev. Isaac N. Rendall, D. D., President Emeritus of Lincoln university, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

A very large congregation was present. The Rev. Dr. Rendall is one of the most able men in the Presbyterian ministry. Although in his eighty-sixth year he spoke with all the vigor and enthusiasm of a man sixty years of age, while the thought advanced bore evidence of a keen mind that has kept pace with the progress of events. The text was taken from Revelations 2:7: "He that hath ears, let him hear, etc." The sermon had as its theme, "Interpreting one Hundred and Twenty-five Years of Church Life in Central Pennsylvania."

The special service in the interest of Sunday school work, which took place in the lecture room yesterday afternoon was well attended. The speaker on the occasion was the Rev. Alexander Henry, D. D., of Philadelphia, secretary of Sunday school work under the care of the Presbyterian General assembly.

His address which was very practical, was embraced under three heads: First, An enlarged conception of the Sunday school in its relation to the community.

Second, A wider vision of the Sunday school as a real school.

Third, An enlarged idea of the use we can make of the Sunday school in encouraging church work.

At present the Sunday schools are mainly composed of boys and girls and youths. We should endeavor, the speaker said, to bring in adults. The organization of adult classes should be promoted. At the last annual State convention held at Harrisburg seven thousand men marched in the Sunday school parade.

Many persons attend Sunday school but do not carry away facts and knowledge as would be done from public schools and colleges. We should have trained teachers and every Sunday school should have a teachers' training class. The schools should be graded and the new graded lesson should be used.

The Sunday school is the best field for evangelistic effort. Seventy per cent. of our church members come up through the Sunday school, which should be a training school for future church members, instructing them in history, doctrine and work of the church.

The Sunday schools should be used by the church to reach the homes of the community. The outlook is hopeful and better work is being done in the Sunday school today than at any time in the past.

The Mountain Ash Male Choir, of Wales, which gave a concert here in February last year, will return to the Danville Opera House, Monday evening, October 17th. T. Glyndwr Richards, the incomparable leader, and John Webber, accompanist, are still with the choir, as are also the favorite soloists, D. Cyron Evans, Anthony Jones, Godfrey Price, D. Penar Williams and a new star tenor Moggs Edwards.

As before, they will render a program that is sure to satisfy every variety of an audience's desires. Two numbers alone being worth the price of admission—"The Tyrol," with electrical effects and "Blue Danube Waltz." Another number, new this time, is "The Reveille," by Elgar which will be received by the audience with great enthusiasm. Further particulars will be announced in due time.

TREES NOT IN THE WAY

As the work of setting the curb in connection with paving progresses on East Market street it is found that comparatively few of the thriving shade trees that prove such an ornament need to be sacrificed.

The large tree in front of the residence of Mrs. George M. Gearhart was in the way and had to be cut down. It was being removed yesterday along with the stump. In order that no accident might result either to property or pedestrians the tree was removed piecemeal. One by one the limbs were sawed off and lowered to the ground until nothing but the big trunk remained. The latter was then sawed up into sections and removed.

Two trees in front of the residence of F. C. Angle, Esq., and one at the residence of Dr. Oglesby were removed last week to make way for paving.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Trumbower have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Florence Elizabeth to Mr. Andrew Hamilton Cannon, of Philadelphia.

FRIENDS HONOR RETIRING RECTOR

The universal high esteem in which the Rev. Edward J. Haughton, rector of Christ Episcopal church, is held, is strikingly attested on the eve of his departure for a new field after a seven years pastorate in Danville. There is scarcely a day but some token arises bearing testimony that he has not labored in vain. The culmination of it all occurred Saturday night, when he was presented with a solid gold seven-teen-jeweled Howard watch by his friends in Danville.

The presentation took place at the home of A. H. Woolley, West Market street. Mr. Haughton had no idea of what was in store and when the magnificent token accompanied with a beautiful sentiment was placed in his hands he was overcome with emotion.

In responding he showed his high appreciation of the gift and the value he places upon the esteem and support of so many kind and loyal friends.

On the watch were engraved the rector's initials "E. J. H." On the inside case neatly executed by Carl Ruckle are the words, "Edward J. Haughton, October 1, 1910. Presented by his friends." Along with the watch the following testimonial beautifully engrossed by C. P. Harder, Esq., was presented to Mr. Haughton:

To the Rev. Edward J. Haughton, Dear Sir:—The undersigned friends who admire you for your sterling character, broad Democratic spirit, good natured and sympathetic disposition, find it difficult to express in words their sorrow at your removal from their midst, where in the past seven years they have learned to know and respect you.

We shall miss your cheerful smile so often in evidence and the cordial greeting it is your custom to extend to all irrespective of class or station. We feel that in your departure our city is losing one of its best men and one who has at all times had the welfare of the community at heart and labored for its betterment and advancement, and the many homes which have been favored with your visitations and cheered and helped thereby realize that they are losing a good friend, a wise counsellor and often a practical helper.

We know, however, that what is to be our loss is to be your gain through your entrance into a larger sphere of usefulness and wish you Godspeed on your journey to your new home, the richest blessings on your labors in your new field and long life, health and prosperity, to you and yours.

AN ADDRESS BY REV. STEWART

The services at the Mahoning Presbyterian church last night held in connection with the 125th anniversary were attended by a large congregation.

A most interesting address was delivered by the Rev. Robert Laird Stewart, D. D., former pastor on "Some Noteworthy Features in the Annals of the Mahoning Presbyterian Church."

Mr. Stewart, who was pastor of the Mahoning church between the years 1880 and 1890, is well qualified to speak on the above subject. Very eloquently he traced the growth of the church from its beginning in 1785 down through its long succession of pastors to the present, noting the constant increase of membership, the zeal shown both in the pulpit and among the laity, the growth of the Sunday school and the missionary movement; the beginning of the Christian Endeavor and the many other activities of the church.

He described the old log house, which sufficed as a place of worship until 1818; the brick church which succeeded it upon the same site and finally in 1854, the erection of the commodious house of worship on a new site, in which the congregation now meets, incidentally touching upon the establishment of the Grove church by a minority who preferred the old site.

Hon. Henry M. Hinckley delivered an address on "The Sons of Mahoning in the Gospel Ministry." Included in the list are the following: Revs. W. B. Montgomery, Samuel Montgomery, John Montgomery, Edward D. Yeomans, D. D., Isaac A. Cornelison, D. D., Alfred Yeomans, D. D., John Boyd Grier, D. D., George VanAllen, James C. Russell, D. D., Robert Bonner Jack, John Essington Miles, Raymond H. Wilson.

Miss Ella Belle Everitt, M. D., of Philadelphia, dwelt upon the subject, "The Daughters of the Mahoning Church."

The Rev. William Kerr McKinney, pastor of the Grove Presbyterian church, brought fraternal greetings from that congregation.

The Rev. John D. Cook, D. D., of Renovo, conveyed greetings from the Northumberland presbytery.

A BIG BLACKSNAKE

Reptile Three and a Half Feet Long Killed on East Market Street Yesterday.

A big black snake made its appearance on East Market street at noon yesterday and paid the penalty with its life. At a point near the Trinity Lutheran church it crossed the street leaving a trail in the soft sand on the paving. On the south side of the street it attracted the attention of several persons and was killed by Thomas Evans.

The snake measured three feet six inches in length. For several years past it has been no unusual thing to see snakes in town. It is believed that they come from the bed of the abandoned canal.

A MERCHANT VICTIMIZED

E. F. Cohen, the clothier, yesterday morning was victimized by a bogus check artist to the tune of $9.50.

It was scarcely 8 o'clock when a stranger entered Mr. Cohen's store and purchased a pair of shoes for $2.50 tendering in payment what purported to be a check of Haney & Frazier the south side milling firm, for $9.50.

The man seemed perfectly natural and at ease during the transaction, and Mr. Cohen unsuspecting, accepted the check, handing over to the man the seven dollars change. With a pleasant remark the stranger left the store taking with him the shoes.

Upon reflecting upon the matter Mr. Cohen decided to call up Haney & Frazier and inquire concerning the check. The south side firm soon made it plain to Mr. Cohen that he had been victimized—that it had made no such a check and had no knowledge of the individual who presented it.

Mr. Cohen immediately notified Chief-of-Police Mincecroyer of what had occurred, and the officer instituted a vigorous search about town, but was unable to obtain a clue, although less than half an hour had elapsed since the man had left Mr. Cohen's place of business. It is supposed that he lost no time in getting out of town taking the first trolley car for Bloomsburg.

He is described as a man about middle life, 5 feet, 8 inches tall. He was dressed in a light suit with hat of the same color, the band being of a lighter shade than the hat. The man had a very prominent "Adams apple," a characteristic, which impressed Mr. Cohen strongly.

An interesting wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Vastine, West Market street, last evening, when their granddaughter, Miss Jessie Marie Kimerer, became the wife of Mr. Elmer, Dwight Harshbarger of Pittsburg.

The ceremony took place at 6 o'clock and was performed by the Rev. James Wollaston Kirk, pastor of the Mahoning Presbyterian church.

The bride wore a handsome gown of cream messaline trimmed with Spanish lace, which had adorned the wedding dress of her mother. Mrs. Blanche Sechler Irey of Lewisburg, was matron of honor, who wore a gown of lavender crepe de chine. The bridesmaids were Miss Catherine Gearhart and Miss Catherine Vastine, of this city, who were attired in blue messaline. FARMER SHOT BY OWN GUN

He Had Weapon at Door as Trap For a Thief.

SHENANDOAH, Oct. 5.—A victim of his own thief trap, Daniel Van Horn, 61 years old, a Civil war veteran and prosperous farmer of Brandonville, close by, lies at his home seriously shot.

Van Horn has been robbed on several occasions of farm produce, and only early last week the thieves made a big haul. Determined to capture his tormentors, he set a trap in his barn—a loaded gun so fixed that upon the first person entering the door the gun would discharge.

Van Horn forgot about the trap, and early yesterday morning attempted to open the barn door. He received the full charge in the right leg above the knee. Amputation may be necessary.

True saints never groan over the growing pains of grace.

A GALA TIME IS IN STORE

By this evening our town will have assumed a gala appearance, the streets presenting a spectacle strongly suggestive of a fireman's convention. As announced previously, on this date the Friendship Steam Fire Engine Company No. 4 of Reading, on its annual tour will arrive at Danville on the 8:17 Pennsylvania train.

PLENTY OF MUSIC

There will be plenty of music in Danville during the evening. In addition to the famous Ringgold band of Reading, accompanying the visiting firemen, the Catawissa band and Calhoun's band of Northumberland have been employed to aid in the demonstration. Each of the latter will reach town early and pending the arrival of the firemen will render concerts on the streets.

The Reading fire fighters some 80 in number will be quartered in several different hotels on Mill street. While in Danville they will be guests of the Friendship Fire company, which about 8 o'clock in a body will march over the river to the Pennsylvania station to meet the visitors. The Reading firemen will be escorted to their hotels where they will be given half an hour to prepare for the evening's festivities.

THE PARADE

Meanwhile the members of the Friendship fire company of this city will assemble at the engine house, which will be brightly illuminated for the occasion. When all is ready a committee of the Friendship company accompanied by a band, will march down to the hotels and escort the Reading firemen to the engine house.

Here the parade will form, the Friendship boys of Danville being in two divisions each with a band—one division being uniformed and the other ununiformed. The Reading Firemen will be headed by the Ringgold band.

The parade will march southward on Ferry street to Front street—thence to Mill street—northward on Mill to the plant of the Danville Milling Company. Countermarching the parade will march back over the route as far as the court house, where again countermarching it will proceed to the armory, where a banquet will be held.

THE BANQUET

In honor of the visitors citizens along the route of parade are requested to illuminate their dwellings and business places.

The banquet at the armory will be a notable event. W. L. Sider, Esq., will make an address for the citizens of Danville, and the following members of the company will also speak: Rev. Edward Haughton, Chief Burgess Arthur C. Amesbury, Prothonotary Thomas G. Vincent, Ralph Kisner, Esq., and others. Arrangements are being made to entertain two hundred persons at the banquet.

BURGLARS AT MUNCY

Safe Blown Up at Pennsy Station But Nothing Missing.

An attempt to blow the safe in the Pennsylvania railroad station at Muncy was made shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday morning, but the safe blowers were frightened away before completing the job. Two suspects have been placed under arrest. One of them has been released but the other will be held pending further investigation.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Trackwalker Geo. Phillips, found the outer door at the Muncy station standing open and the room filled with smoke. An investigation revealed that the door on the safe had been bent and cracked by an explosion and a small piece at the lower right-hand corner blown out, but the burglars had failed to gain access to the contents. Nothing was missing. The supposition is that the job had been done only a few minutes before the trackwalker arrived and made the discovery.

A report of the attempted safe-blowing was at once sent to the headquarters of the Pennsylvania railroad police in Williamsport and officers soon began a search for clues. Two tramps were picked up during yesterday morning. One had slept in the cattle yard near the station during the night but the other was unable to give any satisfactory explanation of his movements.
