THEN THE CLOCK STRUCK.—Frank Roper, of Canton, O., is in the North Side police station, Pittsburgh. And all because a little clock he had under his coat struck as he was talking to a policeman. John Miller, manager of an East Ohio street jewelry store, notified the authorities that a clock had been stolen from the place by a man who had tried to have a check cashed. Officer John Beck met Roper in the Diamond with his coat bulging and asked for information. "Just a box of candy for my girl," was the answer. But just at that time the little bell began to strike the hour of four and did not stop until it had finished.

TOO MANY TIMES FOR HIM.—Harry Smith, of Shenandoah, has asked the court to annul his marriage on a woman whom he declares had two husbands living and is believed to have married as many as half a dozen men. "Guess he's not badly hurt," he remarked, and boarding his car rapidly drove away.

COURT HELD BRIEF SESSION

Court held a short session Saturday morning with President Judge C. C. Evans and Associates Blee and Welliver on the bench. Several important matters were disposed of.

When the jury returned a verdict for the defendant in the case of John C. Zener vs. the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company, Wednesday, Edward S. Gearhart, counsel for the plaintiff, moved in arrest of judgment and for a new trial, reasons to be filed in ten days. On Saturday Mr. Gearhart addressed the court, explaining that after consideration the plaintiff had decided to abide by the verdict as rendered. Accordingly the rule was discharged.

In re the petition of John J. Ellis, late of Anthony township, praying for a rule upon executor to show cause why $300 should not be advanced to him in accordance with the provisions of will, the rule as prayed for was granted by the court, returnable at next term.

In re. Com. vs. Wm Wintersteen, a habeas corpus proceeding, the court handed down an opinion.

The writ was issued for the purpose of obtaining the custody of Myrtle Appleman, now about six years of age, at the instance of the father, Clyde Appleman.

The opinion sets forth that "Myrtle has the good Christian home and that she will grow up surrounded by Christian influences. Her grand parents are abundantly able to provide for their grand children financially.

"At the same time, if the custody of Myrtle were given to the father, Clyde B. Appleman, she likewise would have a good Christian home surrounded by Christian influences.

"The general rule is that a father has the legal right to the custody of his infant child; but in contests between the father and third parties the court regards the interests of the child as superior to the legal right of the father and this is especially true when by reason of the tender age of the child and other circumstances it would be for the best interest and welfare of the child to remain where it is.

"And now, October 23, 1910, it is ordered that the custody of the child, Myrtle Appleman, be remanded to William Wintersteen, the respondent.

"And it is further ordered that the father, Clyde Appleman and the grand father, and members of the grand father's family, on the father's side, shall be permitted to visit with and see Myrtle Appleman at the home of the respondent at least once every two weeks at suitable times in the day time or the evening up until 8 o'clock until further order of the court. The petitioner and the respondent each to pay half of the record costs, neither the petitioner nor respondent to file a bill of costs for witnesses.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL

The current number of "The Outlook" contains an article on the "Tendencies in Inter-Collegiate Football" written by Donald Grant Herring, son of Hon. Grant Herring of Sunbury.

The article is written at the suggestion of Mr. Francis C. Woodman, head master of Morristown school, who was himself a member of the Harvard team from 1884-87. Visiting England to study football Mr. Woodman called on Mr. Herring, a Princeton man, then at Merton college, Oxford, and discussed the present situation in American football.

Mr. Herring's chief desire is to see football in American colleges played in the spirit of a game for the healthful recreation and enjoyment of the players, and he is further concerned to point out the admittedly dangerous features and urge that they be eliminated.

50 PERISH ON GUNBOAT

PORT AU PRINCE, HAYTI, Oct. 26. A report reached here today that the Haytian gunboat Liberte has been lost off Port de Paix, following an explosion of her boilers. Twenty survivors are reported to have been rescued, but more than fifty others, including a number of high ranking officers of the Haytian army, are believed to have gone down with the vessel.

The Liberte sailed from this port on Monday, having on board a number of army officers, who were proceeding to take command of the military divisions of the northern department, in addition to the regular officers and crew of the gunboat. The cause of the disaster is as yet unknown.

The will of a Montgomery county physician provides that his horse "Billy" shall be well taken care of.

HELD FOR COURT WITHOUT BAIL

Elmer Halderman, John and Mayberry Ernest, whose arrests were noted in a previous issue, were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Guy Jacoby in Bloomsburg Saturday afternoon. They were held for court without bail.

The information was lodged by A. T. Keller and M. M. Tharp, special officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The three men were charged with the burglary of S. R. Dyer's store at Numidia, September 24th last. A large number of witnesses were examined, among whom was S. J. Welliver, Jr., of this city, who identified a chisel found near Numidia after the robbery as one of the kind that he sold Elmer Halderman about two months ago.

District attorney Small conducted the hearing. The defendants were represented by Attorney Wm. Christman, who subjected each of the witnesses to a rigid cross examination.

S. R. Dyer proprietor of the store robbed was the first witness.

Edgar Erdman, who lives near Numidia, identified the chisel offered in evidence as one found by him in his cornfield, about 18 feet from the fence on September 27th.

A. T. Keller, special officer, testified that upon trial he found the chisel to fit in the marks made by the burglars at the store, even the nicks in the tool showing in the wood.

S. J. Welliver, Jr., testified that the chisel, which was new, corresponded in size, make and in all respects—with one that he sold Elmer Halderman about two months ago. The sale was made about 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Halderman purchased two chisels, and the occurrence made an impression on the witness, as the defendant seemed indifferent as to the size.

Frank Williams, who lives three miles from Numidia, about 9 o'clock on the night preceding the burglary saw some one walk up to the door of Dyer's store and try the latch.

Dr. A. B. Karl, of Numidia testified, about 9:15 o'clock on the night preceding the robbery Mayberry Ernest came into his office "to see if he could not get a little whiskey for his mother," who lives about three miles from Numidia. Dr. Karl had frequently prescribed for Ernest's mother, and on this occasion gave him four ounces of whiskey. Ernest had asked for half a pint, but the doctor's excuse was that he did not have any more to spare.

Between seven and eight o'clock on the night the store was robbed Bert Johnson while talking with Wesley Raup in the road about three miles from Numidia saw three men pass in the direction of the latter place, one of whom he identified as Mayberry Ernest. In appearance the other two men corresponded to John Ernest and Halderman, who were made to change hats and stand up. When the three fellows approaching Numidia saw witness and Raup standing in the road they stepped, retraced their steps a short distance and then came on. As they passed, Mayberry "hunched" witness with his elbow.

Jacob Holliday, who lives on a farm about two and a half miles from Roaring creek, about half past 3 o'clock in the morning of the 24th of September saw three men, one of whom carried a satchel, passing that way from Numidia. The men passed within a few feet of the witness and were walking fast. In size they corresponded with the defendants. They also corresponded in appearance with three men that the son of the witness saw walking toward Numidia, the evening before.

Officer A. T. Keller on being recalled testified that when he arrested Mayberry Ernest the latter told him that John Ernest and another fellow, whose name he did not know, on the evening of the 23rd had gone up the road along with him. They all had hats on like the one he was wearing. Mayberry, according to his story, went up to Numidia and returned home about 10 o'clock. He did not know what had become of the other two. At 9 o'clock he went to the store and found it closed.

Officer Keller had a conversation with John Ernest also. The latter declared that he and Halderman that night went out to visit Ernest's mother and denied that they went up the road with Mayberry. On the morning of the 24th they left the home of his mother and went back to Danville.

District Attorney Small said he believed that the Commonwealth had made out a prima facie case, and he asked that the defendants be held for court. Justice Jacoby stated that to say the least the evidence created a "grave suspicion" and he would hold the defendants for trial at December court. The offense involved in the charge is not bailable.

The three men were handcuffed together and taken back to prison.

TRUE CONDITION OF FILTER PLANT

Dr. Dixon's communication to the borough council informing it that the filter plant is working badly and needs overhauling by an expert has had a disquieting effect upon the water takers. Following as it does upon an analysis which revealed the borough water below par as to purity, most people without questioning the matter accept the view of the State health commissioner and think that council should act in the matter forthwith.

The attaches of the water works, however, who are entitled to a hearing, characterize Dr. Dixon's conclusion as hasty and out of all harmony with the facts. They declare that the plant is in as good a condition as the day it was installed and challenge an investigation.

In the first place attention is called to the fact that the Morrison Jewell filter system is the best and most expensive extant; that the owners in installing the plant here took every pains and regard it as a model; that when they wish to demonstrate the efficacy of their system they invariably being prospective purchasers to Danville and show them over the plant here.

The filter beds, which consist of thirty-six inches of crushed quarts, are in precisely the same condition as when installed. The system could deteriorate through carelessness or neglect only, in which event as the result of use the beds of crushed quarts might become foul and dirty.

The attaches of the plant call attention to the fact that not only do they follow all instructions relating to washing and sterilizing but that under certain conditions, as a precaution, they repeat the process when not called for by the rules. Thus, it is explained that while the instructions call for the sterilizing of the filter tubs only once a year, owing to the presence of sewage in the river, it has always been customary to sterilize the tubs here every six months.

The washing of the filter beds, which is a simpler process, takes place daily. Here again, in washing the settling tank, in order to secure the best results, a great deal of extra work is done not hinted at in the rules. The condition of the river water is closely observed and when it becomes muddy the washing of the filter beds is repeated many times daily. It is no unusual thing for the process to be repeated eight times in ten hours.

After each washing the filter beds are free from dirt no matter how muddy the river may be. The sterilizing process is designed to remove the micro organisms or other impurities that may cling to the crushed quartz. Briefly, it consists of placing on each filter bed one hundred pounds of caustic soda and by means of steam boiling the bed for ten hours. Workmen then shovel around the bed of quartz laying bare the flooring of minute screens through which the water finds its way out of the tub. All screens that are found defective are replaced with new ones.

It is hardly claimed for the filter system that it will wholly eliminate bacteria, and if the product of the plant contains micro-organisms it is because the river water abounds in them and not because of any carelessness or neglect on the part of the employees.

A LARGE FUNERAL

The funeral of Augustus Bachinger took place from St. Hubert's Catholic church, at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning and was largely attended.

There was solemn requiem mass, the celebrant being the Rev. Thomas O'Malley, of Plymouth; deacon, the Rev. John Melchoir, of Elizabethtown; sub-deacon, the Rev. A. M. Peeser, chaplain of the Holy Family Convent, this city; Master of ceremonies, the Rev. Jules Poin, rector of St. Hubert's church. In the sanctuary was the Rev. Father McCann, rector of St. Joseph's church. The Rev. Father Poin dwelt most touchingly on the life of the deceased, speaking in both English and German. Andrew Schott, of Sunbury, rendered a solo, "Face to Face."

The pall bearers were: F. C. Sheridan, of Pittston; George Rodenhoffer, Peter Mayan, Thomas Schott, Adolf Boettinger and Jacob Baker, of this city.

The following persons from out of town attended the funeral: J. P. Bachinger, Eugene Doyle, Joseph Brennan and wife, Francis Loge, Ambrose West, Harvey Houghton and Max Keiser, of Plymouth; Mrs. Alexander Zundel, of Reading; John Hertz, Jacob Gilles and wife, Mrs. George Hertz, of Lancaster, and Mrs. Jacob Gearhart, of Millersville.

SHORT SESSION OF SCHOOL BOARD

The school board held a short session Monday night, with W. A. Seebler in the chair. Among other matters presented were: Messrs. Orth, Swartz, Marks, Shultz, Parsel, Fischer, Heiss, Cole and Sidler.

A communication was received from Chief-Engineer Snow of the State department of health in reply to an inquiry from Secretary Orth as to the advisability of sinking wells on the school grounds. Pursuant to action of the school board at its last meeting the secretary wrote the department, explaining that the borough water supply is not always pure—that at times it is so impure that in order to safeguard the health of the pupils the board causes the water to be boiled; also that in order to procure pure water for the schools the board was considering the advisability of boring wells on the school ground to be a hundred feet or more in depth. The object of writing was to determine whether the State department of health would approve of the wells as a source of pure water.

Chief Engineer Snow in his reply explained that deep-drilled wells properly protected from surface drainage make an excellent supply of water but according to his idea such wells should not be necessary when a borough is supporting a filtration plant.

Chief Engineer Snow advised the school board that the department on that date was writing the borough authorities of Danville regarding the condition of the filtration plant, "which is well understood by the department of health and has been looked into at various times."

The department will make analysis of water from wells, if they be dug, free of charge. The water must be collected in outfits furnished by the department.

The following bills were approved for payment:

D. C. Williams	$ 3.33
H. S. Kaufman	2.00
Silver Brudell & Co.	91.53
Washington Fire Co.	.75
American Seating Co.	30.80

TRACK FINISHED

The track of the Danville and Sunbury Transit Company, on East Market street, which has been torn up for several weeks necessitating the transferring of passengers, was connected near the Mill street curve last evening, and today the cars will be able to run over the two squares on which paving is under way.

Excellent progress is being made in the laying of brick. Rain is a factor to be reckoned with at this season, but with anything like fair weather the paving will be completed next week or the week following.

W. H. Lyon, who was awarded the contract for the macadam road, yesterday stated that he had not yet received notification from the State highway department, but he states, assuming that he would hear from it in due course of time, that next week he would be ready to transfer some of his men from the paving job to the road to be macadamized near the hospital.

ARRESTED FOR INCENDIARISM

As a sequel to the burning of the barn of the farm of W. P. Girton, in Montour township, Columbia county, near Grovania, on the night of Sunday, October 16th, Michael Reese was yesterday arrested by Officer Gillingier of the State constabulary, charged with setting the building on fire.

Reese has been working for Frank Yeager on a nearby farm. It is alleged that he was drunk on the night of the fire and that he was seen to enter the barn and leave it just before the fire was discovered.

Reese comes originally from Elmira, New York. He is aged about 26 and is single.

He will be given a hearing today before Justice of the Peace Jacoby at Bloomsburg.

Improving.

Miss Lillian Trumbower, of this city, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Joseph Ratti Hospital, at Bloomsburg, a few days ago, was reported yesterday as improving.

DON'T DO IT.—It is not safe for a squirrel hunter to put his arm around a tree these days. A hunting accident recently occurred near Bradford, as a result Arthur Sink, 14 years old, is at the Bradford hospital with one arm badly shattered. He received the charge from a shotgun in the hands of another hunter. The lad had his arm around the trunk of a tree and it was mistaken for a squirrel. Nearly 100 small pellets were removed from the arm.

FOUR BRIDGES THROWN OPEN

The three new bridges, at Boone's, Watts' and Bitler's, respectively, just completed by the Owego Bridge Co., were inspected by the county commissioners Tuesday; they were approved and immediately thrown open to travel.

The full board of commissioners—Sechler, Ryan and Coleman—along with J. M. Whitley, the company's representative, was present at the inspection. Like the larger bridge over the Chillisquaque at Kelly's completed by the Owego Bridge company about a month ago, each of the new structures was found to come fully up to specifications. A settlement was made with contracting firm yesterday.

The bridge at Watts' farm is 48 feet long; the one at Boone's is 39 feet and the one at Bitler's 24 feet. Each bridge is fifteen feet wide and has a concrete floor.

Montour county is in the bridge building business on an extensive scale. This will appear all the more evident when it is explained that during two years past eleven steel structures have been constructed taking the places of the small wooden bridges, which had become unsafe. Of the new structures the Owego Bridge company built seven. The others were constructed by the Nelson-Merydith company and the United Construction company.

The wooden structures are rapidly yielding to decay and from now on each year several will have to be replaced with steel structures. Three of these primitive bridges are marked for demolition during the coming year. The most important one is the Dieffenbacher bridge over the Chillisquaque creek near Blue Springs farm, which is an old land mark, built prior to the date when Montour county was established. The oldest residents seem to have no traditions as to when or by whom the bridge was built. All agree, however, that it is very old and was built probably a hundred years ago.

The timbers were hewn with the axe, and the bridge throughout is well constructed. It might have met all requirements for some years to come had not the abutments given way. The walls are found to be in such a bad condition as to render the bridge unsafe for heavy hauling. Today notices will be posted warning persons against venturing on the bridge with heavy loads. Traction engines, especially, will be excluded.

Among the other bridges to be replaced during next year will be the covered bridge spanning Mud run on the Danville road near Washingtonville, also a very old structure. The third bridge to be replaced is the one at Leidy's.

"Call of the Wild"

In presenting Louis Evan Shipman's admirable play to the public, the managers of the Danville opera house feel they have been endowed with an especial privilege, so great has been the success of the production and so unqualified the approval it has encountered. Today "The Call of the Wild" stands without a peer among what may be called strong emotional dramas, and it is extremely doubtful if in many years a stronger, more virile presentation has been made upon the stage than this fascinating picture of Western life. In proof of the intensely human quality that imbues the entire dramatic structure it is but necessary to point to the record of three continuous seasons, during which the play has been witnessed by more than 700,000 persons. The entire scenic equipment is new and the cast which is headed by Mr. Franklin Woodruff is one of the strongest that could be secured for the various parts. This attraction is booked for next Monday evening.

And the only way to impress some people is to suppress them.

THIRTY-EIGHT YEARS INSANE

John Arnold, one of the wards of the Danville and Mahoning poor District, died at the hospital for the insane at this place yesterday. He was eighty-two years of age; he was committed in 1873, and of the patients that were confined in the institution when he entered only one survives him.

Arnold was a resident of Danville. He was a working man, and a few still survive that were employed with him on various jobs.

His commitment shows that he was adjudged insane as the result of an alleged assault. He was committed to the hospital just two months after the institution was opened for the reception of patients, January 6, 1873. He was the one hundred and second patient admitted and of that number only one—William Ryan of Wyoming county—now survives. During the long period of nearly thirty-eight years, during which he was a patient of the hospital and a ward of the Danville and Mahoning poor district, 7930 other patients were admitted and treated. George Arnold, who was convicted of an assault on William Keefe in 1905 and sentenced to the eastern penitentiary, was a son of the deceased patient. The son like the father later became insane and was transferred from the penitentiary to the hospital for the insane at Norristown.

PLAYING HOOKY

The attendance officer has plenty to do these autumn days. Some of the boys—even very small ones—find it impossible to resist the lure of the fields and in playing hooky they wonder so far away that the officer cannot get on the trail of them.

It is no uncommon thing for a half a dozen boys and upwards to be out of school at one time at this season, and it is up to the truant officer to round them up and deliver them over to the teacher, who by "precept and example" is expected to teach them that truancy is unprofitable.

Yesterday officer Young brought in four or five truants, but two little fellows, pupils of the primary schools, eluded him, and the officer after a hard day's work had to acknowledge himself beaten. There was no trace of the boys about the borough; neither had anyone seen them leave town, although it is not improbable that they were in the woods.

DEATH OF AGED WOMAN

Mrs. Mary Baylor, widow of the late Daniel Baylor died Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of her brother, Noah Krum, Cooper township. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis sustained several weeks ago.

The deceased was a widely known and highly esteemed woman. She was aged 88 years, 4 months and 14 days. She is survived by three daughters and a son: Harriet (Mrs. Henry Keefe,) of Catawissa; Lydia (Mrs. Daniel Kashner), at home; James Baylor, of Grovania; Catherine (Mrs. Samuel Miller), of Catawissa. Also by three brothers and a sister: Gideon Krum, of Grovania; Noah and Nathan Krum, of Cooper township and Miss Lydia Krum, of Mahoning township. A brother, Charles, died several weeks ago in Ohio.

Mrs. Baylor was a native of Cooper township and lived in this vicinity all her life. She was a member of St. James Reformed church at Ridgeville. The funeral will take place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the home of Noah Krum. Interment will be made at Lazarus cemetery.

Edward Delsite and Herbert Hendricks furnished the music.
