Stephen went on until he came to a great lake. Upon the bank of this two fishermen were quarreling.

Stephen approached and said: "Sell the fish to me, then you can divide the money."

The fishermen consented and Stephen gave them all the money he had for the fish, which he then threw back into the water.

Stephen presented himself before the sovereign of the island and requested the hand of the princess of the golden locks for his master, the old king.

Stephen searched the field from morning till noon. "Ah!" he cried, "if my ants were only here!"

HOW IT WORKED. "Good morning, Jack! why I haven't seen you for a month past.

"Well, Phil, I have. Don't you remember the last time I saw you, how miserable I was? Sick and blue, and in that sort of mood a man gets sometimes when he feels the most noble thing in life is to go straight to the devil."

"Not so bad as that, I hope; at all events you didn't go that way, you are looking far too happy and hearty."

"I believe it is; in fact, I have heard that I was first vexed and then half convinced."

"I remember it perfectly, and you needn't say another word upon the subject; your looks tell me that you took the medicine."

"Well, how did you like it?" "You told me your wife preferred this new style, I believe, well, I must say I agree with her."

"I should recommend the new style." "I never go back on the old style."

"Well, they can pay their money and take their choice, for both kinds work admirably."
