From Harper's Bazar, Every one knows of the noble and tragic death of Hetty Ogle, but few have watched the consistent and well-ordered course of her life.

Hetty Earl was born in the beautiful mountain village of Somerset, Pennsylvania, and there she grew to be a cheerful, helpful, happy, pleasant-faced young

Her father was for many years Recorder of the courts there. He died a poor man There were few educational advantages in Somerset, and though Hetty had a strong, well-balanced mind, it had little school After her father's death she married Charles Ogle, a young member of the family so distinguished in Pennsylvania politics. He was one of the first to enlist as a soldier in the civil war, and was killed in the Wilderness at the battle of Gaines Mill. His body was never recovered. Mrs. Ogle was left with three little children to support, and she went to work calmly and bravely to do it. The telegraph office in Somerset was in a room also occupied as a store, and where the rough men of the town cougre-gated to gossip and quarrel; but she undertook to learn that business, and she did it thoroughly. never getting a disrespectful word from anyone, the hardes part of her task being that she left her babies at home to take care of each other as best they could. She soon became wonderfully proficient, and was given an office of her own in Somerset. From that she gained the confidence of the Telegraph Company so entirely that at the time of her death she had charge of three telegraph lines in Johnstown. two boys grew to be fine fellows, shaped by her strong will and good example. Her daughter was always frail in health, and was only kept alive by the tender care of her mother. Their home was the most perfectly ordered that can be imagined. It was seldom invaded by a servant, but was kept exquisitely neat by the skillful and deft hands of the mistress. Everything that came upon her table was of the daintiest, and she shared what she had with rich and poor. Her friends always said Hetty's coffee-pot was inexhausgirls telegraphy for nothing, and helped them to find situations. At the time of her death two young girls were gratuitously sharing her home and earning good wages in telegraph offices from the benefit of her instruction. They died with their benefactress. She even found time to do beautiful fancy-work with her wonderful quick fingers. She was one of the sort of whom people say, " How does she find time to accomplish all she does? She was a member of the Christian Church. Her religion was certainly most practical. She embodied the golden She had at one time to endure a terrible surgical operation. After it was over, and she was just regaining consciousness, she saw her son, to whom she had taugh telegraphy, standing by her side. He saw her fingers move, although she could not speak, and he unders god that she was telegraphing on the bed-spread, "it is over; I am safe," to a distant and anx ious friend. She was entirely unselfish during every conscious moment of h r useful life. While this illness was progressing, the telegraph company to whom she was so faithful a servant, sent a man at their own expense, to take her place in their offices. All the mill whistles in the region were hushed by a positive order from the owners while she was in a crit kal condition, and buelletins were regu larly issued to the anxious town, where she commanded general love and respect

The company which she served had just repaired and put in perfect order the house which she occupied, and the world never looked brighter nor fairer to Hetty Ogle, than upon the morning of the day that she gave up her life in the effort to save her fellow-creatures.

Not a trace of her drowned, burned maimed, scattered body has ! een discovered. ered by the agonized searchers, but we, who believe in the reward of the faithful servant, are confident that Hetty Ogic in heard from the Master, "Well done; enter thou into the joy of the Lord."

MARY BLACK CLAYTON.

A Mountain Murder.

A terrible tragedy, veiled in the deepest mystery, occurred in Saltlick township, Fayette county. Sunday. Samuel R. Cramer, whose home was on the banks of Champion creek, and about two miles west of the village of Davistown, on the road leading from Davistown, to Donegal, was murdered and his body thrown into a well. Cramer lived alone. In his rude log cabin he kept a small stock of groceries with which he supplied the residents of that neighborhood. He kept a shop in connection with his grocery and performed odd jobs of work for his neighbors, such as mend ing shoes, and the like.

The discovery of his body was accidental. On Monday morning Frank Chris ner went to Cramer's shop to have a pa of shoes mended. The front door of Cramer's house was shut and fastene with a padlock. This was the usu manner in which Cramer locked his hous when going away, and Christner, suppoing he was at a neighbor's, sat down that his return. He waited for some time, and, becoming thirsty, he went to the rear of the house to get a drink. At the well he noticed pools of blood, which he followed back to the kitchen door, at the rear of the house. On full investigation he found nothing, and he returned to the well and continued his search. His attention was there attracted to the Hetty Ogie, the Heroic Telegrapher of disarranged condition of the boards in the platform covering the well. Pushing the platform covering the well. Pushing aside one of the planks he looked into the well and saw a man's feet protruding above the water.

Christner at once raised an alarm and with the assistance of neighbors, removed the remains from the well.

An examination of the body showed that death had been produced by a pistol shot, the all having penetrated the skull in the right temple.

The crime is yet shrouded in the deepest mystery. It has occasioned great excitement in the neighborhood. No information is yet obtainable that will lead to a possible suspicion of the perpetrators of the crime or the motive impelling them to commit it. Among the residents of the section in which it occurred two theories are projected. One is that Cramer was murdered by a band of roving robbers in the belief that he had money. is that the crime was committed by persons familiar with Cramer and his habits and who were possibly enemies of the old

Will the Gautler Works Go to Cambria The good people of Cambria borough have for some time been offering inducements, in a quiet way, to the Cambria Iron Company to locate a part, at least, of the new Gautier plant in that portion of our city. Their hopes are now in the ascendant, as a party of the Company's officers paid a visit to the ground yesterday. It is understood that the Borough Council, backed by the unanimous sentiment of the people, stand ready to vacate Broad street, below St. Columba's Church, thus throwing the Company's large plot of ground, now cut in twain by that thoroughfare, into one piece, ample to contain the proposed plant.

The citizens of the municipality to the north are in carnest in the matter and fully appreciate the advantages accruing from the locating of this immense establishment within their bounds.

It keeps the hair soft and silken, preserves its color, preventate from falling, and, if the hair has become year or thin, promotes a new growth, at weak or thin, promotes a new growth.

"To restore the original color of my hair, which had turned prematurely gray, I used Aver's Hair Vigor with en-tire success. I cheerfully testify to the gray, I used Ayer's Hair Vigor with entire success. I cheerfully testify to the Efficacy of this preparation."—Mrs. P. R. Davidson, Alexandria, La.

"I was afflicted some three years with scalp disease. My hair was falling out and what remained turned gray. I was induced to try Ayer's Hair Vigor, and in a few weeks the disease in my scalp disappeared and my hair resumed its original color."—(Rev.) S. S. Sims, Pastor U. B. Church, St. Bernice, Ind.
"A few years ago I suffered the entire loss of my hair from the effects of tetter. I hoped that after a time nature would repair the loss, but I walted in vain. Many remedies were suggested, none, however, with such proof of merit as Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I begant to use it. The result was all I could have desired. A growth of hair soon came out all over my head, and grew to be as soft and heavy as I ever had, and of a natural color, and firmly set."—J. H. Pratt, Spofford, Texas.
