A Fine Structure.

The Johnson Co., of Moxham have about completed their office, which is a fine and beautiful addition to the prosperous little town, and we venture to say in course of a year Moxham will be the nicest suburb Johnstown has. Not stopping at this as there are other fine buildings going up, and judging from the out-side appearance they are all substantia as most-of them are brick.

A Premature Colt.

Mr. William Bloch, who has a livery table on the rear part of his lot on Railcoad street, has a gray mare which has neen noticed by people generally who ay any attention to horses. A few days ago the mare dropped a premature colt after having been with feal only about our months. The colt was perfectly ormed, the legs, hoofs, eyes, and all arts in fact of the animal appearing to e all right. It is about as large as a good sized cat and was alive, but has It is a remarkable looking animal, and a great many persons, Mr. Bloch informed us, has called at his stable to see it. It has been placed in alcohol and can be seen at Mr. Emmit Lamberd's saloon on Washington street. For many people it is a great curiosity. and would be a great wonder in a Dime

A State of Things. Johnstown, Pa., October 2, 1889.

To the Editor of the Johnstown Democ In the name of justice how long have we to wait for the money due us for labor performed. We have been discharged for three days and are being charged for our board at one of the most filthy camps ever pitched. The treatment we are receiving is a disgrace to the Captain Hamilton puts the blame on the Governor, but we do not believe he ordered the discharge of the men with out providing the means to pay them, nor do we believe that he will sanction the free use of the bayonet upon the men for demanding their pay. Every man who is here is not a tramp, and some of them were as well raised as those who are at the head of the business. We have asked for nothing but our dues. We know that if those, or at least some of them who had the making out of the roll to pay, had been soher men we could have had our money on Monday instead of being compelled to wait till Thursday as they now say, We respectfully ask you to give your views on the subject, as you are in the habit of doing. W. P. FREDERICK, Chester county.

CAMP HAMILTON.

Presentation of Swords to Capt. Nesbit and Lieuts. Wible and Wallace. In accordance with the order from

Brigadier-General John A. Wiley, relieving Capt. J. W. Nesbit and his men from duty at Johnstown, and ordering them home, the soldier boys began pack-ing their knapsacks for their departure, and as a fitting finale to their long sojourn here, they assembled on Tuesday evening, and to the well-known music of their drums, marched upon the fortress of Capt. Georgo C. Hamilton, which they took by storm, and after penetrating to its innermost recesses, they captured the gallant Captain himself, whom they took prisoner and escorted to the main hall, where he was given his parole upon condition that he make a speech, and he be gan.

Captain Nesbit, Options and Men.
Your long and arduous duties here are about to close, and during your stay you have made many friends among people who lost their all in the disastrous flood of May 31, 1889, which date will pass down to posterity as marking the time upon which the darkest calamity of modern ages befell this beautiful valley of the Conemaugh, and I can truly say they are sorroy to have you go, but realizing that you must, as good soldiers, obey the commands of your superior; officers they bid you Godspeed and Farewell. Capt. Nesbit, Lieuts. Wible and Wallace turning from the ever sad farewell to the pleasant and joyous one of doing good, I take great pleasure as the representative of the friends whom you have made while in the performance of your duties here, and the members of your command who are now gathered around you as a slight testimonial of their love, esteem, and good will, present you with these beautiful swords, and may you ever wear them as an honor conferred by those who know you well, and may they never be unsheathed save in the defense of your country and her glornous institutions.

Capt. Nesbit was so completely taken by surprise that for a moment or two he

Capt. Nesbit was so completely taken by surprise that for a moment or two he unable to make a reply, and then stated he thought he had been called upon to participate in the presentation of swords to the Lieutenants, never dreaming that he was to be a recipient himself, and all he could say for this beautiful sword was to tender his heartfelt thanks for an appreciation of the gift, and the sight of it would always recall the many pleasant hours spent with the donors.

Licutenants Wible and Wallace, said they could but echo the sentiments expressed by their Captain, and again say thank you.

This as all supposed concluded the sur-prises, but another was in store for them, when Capt. Nesbit, addressing Capt. Hamilton, said:

Hamilton, said:

Capt. Hamilton.

I have been delegated by the members of Company C and others attached to and connected with us in a military capacity, to perform what to me is a very pleasant duty. During our service here your relations with the boys of Company C have been uniformly courteous. Your kind attention to their wants and comfort has been marked, and they have appreciated and attempted to return your kindness by a disposition to assist you by any and every means in their power in your work and labor here. In a service and work such as we have been attempting to perform and carry out in this Valley, following such a terrible loss of life and destruction of property, in our intercourse with the remaining citizens of the flooded districts. Your course and advise has done much to smooth the line that exists between civil and military life. Your council and example has always been such as to discourage acts of feeling and violence between the two classes, and to you we feel that We owe much in the prevention of such scenes as often occur, where a military force is stationed. In addition to this your course and example as a military force is stationed. In addition to this your course and example as a military force is stationed. In addition to this your course and example as a military man, an officer in the staff of our Brigade Commander, has been of service to us as members of the National Guard. Your presence with us, your kind advice and suggestions on military matters, and the interest you have taken in the individual well-fare and military proficiency of each and every member of the Company has been felt and noticed.

Then as a further mark fo our appreciation of your interests in us, I have been noticed.

Then as a further mark fo our appreciation of your interests in us, I have been requested as the representative of the Company, knowing you to be an accomplished horseman, and believing that so long as you are living and able to mount a horse, you will continue to indulge in that accomplishment, to present to you this "pair of spurs," beliving further, that when you have occasion to use this testimonial, their use will recall to your memory the pleasant days we to your memory the pleasant days we have spent together at "Camp Hamilton."

At the conclusion of the ceremonies all adjourned to the Headquarters Mess where a banquet had been spread by the members of the Company, and the usual banquet exercises took place.
