For Poor House Director, S. W. MILLER, of Johnstown.

FLIES are so unusually numerous this year that some of them are alighting on Dr. Harrison's Administration.

CLARION county's three delegates to the State Convention are Pattison men. Armstrong county has instructed her three representatives similarly.

"BREAK IN ON THE PHILADELPHIA LINES."—M. S. Q. Significant words. The autocrat knows well the extent to which the party is subservient to him.

The Republican State platform indorses the McKinley bill as it came from the House of Representatives. What about Blaine's reciprocity or the Senate amendments?

If anybody can tell by its recently adopted platform whether the Republican party favors the free coinage of silver or not, we are anxious to hear from him.

HON. A. H. COFFROTH and C. W. Williamson have been elected delegates to the Democratic State Convention, from Somerset county. They go uninstructed.

It is said that the Hastings men were able to out-shout Delamater's friends at Harrisburg. Being able to out-vote them would have been worth much more just at that time.

The triumphant success of the entire (State Republican) ticket at the polls in November is hardly doubtful.—Tribune.

Hardly? That assertion strikes one as being a little weak, doesn't it?

The appearance of yellow fever in Florida thus early in the season looks as if a serious epidemic might be expected, unless more than usually vigorous measures are taken to prevent it.

WHAT a grand the good and true papers of the "yellow old party" would have raised had such a free trade proposal as Secretary Blaine's reciprocity scheme come from the pen of Thos. F. Bayard as Secretary of State.

The Republican Convention at Harrisburg yesterday unreservedly eulogized Quay and his methods. It nominated his man for Governor. In fact it was Quay's Convention. The issue is Quayism. The Democratic party accepts it.

GROVELLING subservency to a party boss never reached a lower depth than in the brazen resolution of the Pennsylvania Republican Convention in respect to Matthew S. Quay. But the Republican party is celebrated for this sort of thing.—N. Y. World.

THERE is no doubt about the result of today's convention at Harrisburg. Delamater said yesterday, "I am just as sure of my nomination as I am that the convention will meet." He will score a point by having control of the permanent organization.

The following remarkable statement has lately appeared in a novel: "At that moment the worthy pastor appeared on the threshold of the manse. His hands were thrust into the pockets of his large, loose coat, while he turned over the leaves of the prayer-book and wiped his spectacles."

CONCERNING the responsibility with which the Republican Convention at Harrisburg to-day is charged, the Pittsburgh Leader of last evening speaks thus: "By the issue of this meeting the citizens of this Commonwealth will be apprised whether or not the reign of Quayism is to be perpetuated, to the suppression of the true principles of self-government."

WHEN the Republican Convention came to where the road forked they took the McKinley branch by indorsing his bill in the form in which it came from the House of Representatives. Blaine, it seems, is to have his branch of the road to himself. By the way, haven't some of the close friends of the Plumed Knight had time to digest his reciprocity scheme sufficiently to let us hear from them on the subject? Speak out, brethren.

WHO SHALL BE PENSIONED?

The Dependent Pension Bill has been passed by the Senate and the House, and will undoubtedly receive the President's signature. It assigns pensions at the rate of eight dollars per month, first, to all men over sixty years of age who served ninety days in the Union army; secondly, to all men who, having so served, are now for any reason disabled; thirdly, to the dependent widows and children of men who shall have belonged to either of the above classes. It will raise the annual appropriation for pensions, according to what seem reasonable estimates, to at least a hundred and fifty million dollars.

Such a demand upon a nation's treasury is unprecedented. The Pension list of Frederick the Great in Prussia, after a series of wars, did not amount, it is said, to a week of our expenditure. The present pension fund of Germany, after her three victorious wars of the last quarter century, is less than nine millions a year. It is worth recalling, too, that General Grant's allowance of what would be warranted for pensions was twenty-seven millions, and President Garfield's, $38,000,000. The sum now granted, in compliance with the persistent demands of that organization which many self-respecting Grand Army veterans are beginning to be ashamed of, is so exorbitant that some journals advocate a wholesale repeal of all existing pension laws, and the appointment of a commission to devise a new plan that shall at once do ample justice to the soldier and avert the ruinous depletion of the national finances.

Meanwhile, there is one question we should like to ask. If the principle is just of pensioning every soldier who served in the war, why has no one ever thought of pensioning the women who served as nurses? If it be objected that they were paid, so were the soldiers. And, in addition to the paid nurses, hundreds of thousands of women volunteered for service. In hospitals, and camps, and on battlefields they did heroic work, and rendered invaluable ministrations and endured untold hardships. It will never be known how many such women have borne ever since in shattered nerves and broken health the marks of that devotion. It will never be known how many have yielded their lives as its price. And yet there is no popular hue and cry about recognizing their services with pecuniary reward, and certainly no one of them has ever asked it. Can it be that they have been ignored because they can't vote?

As a SPECIMEN of monopoly, the trust that fobbed up New York city's supply of ice for the purpose of extorting high prices for the valuable summer article, has rarely an equal. The price of ice went up so high that thousands of people, to whose taste ice water and articles of food kept cool by its use, tasted just as good as they did to their richer neighbors, were obliged to do without the luxury. No monopoly was ever more complete, but it was short-lived. One American citizen, when there are no fetters to bind him, is just about as sharp as any other of his countrymen. It therefore came to pass that some ships laden with the choicest ice arrived from the rocky fiords of Norway, where in the winter there is never a scarcity of ice. This, with the promise of plenty more as it was needed, was brought into competition with the monopolistic home product, with the result that lower prices followed and ice merchants became more obliging. And this competition of the foreign article with the domestic product was in consequence of two things. In the first place there would have been no thought of importing ice had not the limited product been monopolized by a few with a view of making fortunes out of the necessities of the people. And in the second place the foreign article could not have come into competition had there been a high tariff on frozen water as there is on most other things. And who would have profited by the monopoly had its back not been broken? Why, the laborers who cut the ice, of course. And in order that there may be a permanent advancement of the wages of ice cutters, would it not be well to have a duty on foreign ice?

THE prospects for the passage by the Senate of the McKinley bill in anything like its original shape are anything but promising. Many striking reductions have been proposed by the Senate. How the seeming irreconcilable opinions held by the Senate Committee and the House are to be brought to a common agreement is not clear. It is stated that there is a probability of the union of a sufficient number of tariff reform Republicans with the Democrats in the House to bring about a concurrence with the Senate's amendments. Of course the measure would not even then meet the approval of the Democratic members, but they would probably support it as the best that could be done with a Republican majority in both branches of Congress.

THERE is now much discussion as to whether Mr. Harrison is seeking a reelection. The Philadelphia Times thinks it is now a grave problem whether any President can be elected as his own immediate successor unless some overshadowing issue shall carry the administration through. The Times further says: "No such issue seems likely to come to the aid of Harrison. Cleveland clothed an old issue with new importance, but he was in advance of his issue and fell in the conflict. The issue survives, however, and it will need only President Harrison's approval of the McKinley tariff bill, or some like bill, increasing taxes upon the masses for the benefit of the classes, to recall Cleveland to victory in 1892."

KING HUMBERT is about the only monarch who lives within the amount allowed him by the civil list, and occasionally even he crowds the limit.

For instance, last year the royal household was allowed 15,350,000 francs, and the King spent 15,349,999 francs and nine-tenths. This left him a cent and three-quarters to his credit, and it would be a good thing if all kings and queens could do as well.

The fact that the Democratic and semi-Democratic press of the State don't like the republican ticket nominated yesterday is a strong argument in favor of its Republican worth.—Tribune.

Of all the men named for the nomination, Delamater was the man the Democrats wished to see put through, and they also wanted the Convention to indorse Quay and the Harrison administration. They wanted the people to see how the one-man power does things in this State. If the Democrats had been doing the work for the Republicans, it would not have been done differently in one particular. They wanted to see the man that stands as the embodiment of bribery, bossism and boodle "vindicated." They want the people of Pennsylvania to pass opinion on Quayism. No, sir; the whole proceeding suits us.

In concluding its lengthy editorial on Delamater's nomination, the Philadelphia Times says: "The contest of 1890 in this State means everything to contending political parties. If Delamater shall be defeated, the whole State ticket, the Legislature and the majority of the Congressional delegation will be likely to go with him, and it will mean that Pennsylvania is no longer a Republican State. It will mean a revolution against oppressive taxes upon industry and the necessities of life; against increasing taxes while plunging the National Treasury into bankruptcy, and against revolutionary and lawless methods to force legislation and pervert elections. These are the questions which will rise above both Quay and Delamater, and above all candidates in the contest; and they will rule the verdict of the people of Pennsylvania in November next."

THE DEMOCRATIC SKIRMISH.

It is no disparagement to ex-Senator Wallace's abilities or no reflection on his Democracy that he does not find the way clear in his efforts to obtain the gubernatorial nomination. Against his qualifications, his integrity, or his party fidelity no one can say aught. The people of Pennsylvania have too favorable a remembrance of his distinguished services to in any manner detract from his deserved fame. If nominated, he would receive the enthusiastic support of his party. But the wishes of a majority of the party in Pennsylvania undoubtedly favor the nomination of ex-Governor Pattison for reasons which must be patent to every one.

Before engaging in a battle the wise general takes account of the forces and conditions confronting him. The Democratic voters in this State are outnumbered by at least 50,000, and the only means by which we can hope for success is by making a nomination that will draw to its support the independent element of the Republican party. The State cannot be carried by straight out Democratic voters, for the simple reason that they are numerically too weak. There is no doubt about Mr. Pattison's popularity with his party and his acceptability with the independent voters, and in voting for him thousands of them will also vote the Democratic legislative and congressional tickets. His nomination would give strength to every Democratic county ticket in the State. The best politics is the politics that wins, proper means being used. The wisest action of the State Democracy would be to nominate the man who is strongest with the people and about the chances of whose success there is the least doubt. And that man in the opinion of the Cambria County Democracy is Robert Emory Pattison.

Bishop Spalding Makes Another Speech on Woman's Rights.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., June 26.—The radical declarations of Bishop Spalding, of Peoria, in speaking to the faculty and students of Notre Dame University on the position of women, has created a sensation here among Catholics. Last evening, at the commencement of St. Mary's Academy, the Bishop went even further. After having complimented the work of the Sisters of the Congregation of the Holy Cross, he said that the position of women had been the position that the Southern planters gave their slaves. It is no better to-day than it was years ago. They were treated kindly—as the slaves of the men, he knew had been treated, but kept in ignorance. In this country, however, the Bishop said women had emancipated themselves. American women are more intelligent than American men. He demanded the highest education for woman, and declared that she must henceforth work side by side with man for the prizes which men work and win.

The Bishop's words seemed very like a statement of advanced belief in woman's rights. They were applauded again and again.

A California Stage Robbery.

CALISTOGA, Cal., June 26.—On Lawley toll road, about 9 miles from Calistoga, today, three men robbed the Harlem Spring stage, mistaking it for the stage carrying the express and mail. There were nine passengers in the stage. From Mr. Bine the robbers took $245, two gold watches, and from the driver they secured $5 more.

Sport at Roxbury.

At the shooting at live birds yesterday at Roxbury, at ten birds, Hurlingham rules, the following was the result: Otto Nickle, 8; L. B. Holsinger, 8; W. W. Walker, 7.

Nature in Convulsion

A terrific volcanic eruption, cyclones, earthquakes are awfully and tremendously picturesque, but scarcely desirable to emulate in action and effect by the administration of remedies which produce convulsion and agony in the abnormal portion of the human frame. Such is the case with the celebrated Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which happily falling more and more into disuse, and of which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the vehicle and the most effective siccocedaneum. They weakened the stomach, and because it enables, not forces, them to act—a vast and fortunate difference—perpetuates their activity and regularity. The system is beneficially stimulated, as the kidneys also are, by this medicine, which easily conquers, also malaria, nervousness and rheumatism.

A Haunted House.

This body of ours has been likened to a tenement. It often has a haunted apartment—the stomach. It is often the seat of indigestion, flatulency, and other troubles. What can break the spell, what can raise the ban and deliver the unhappy organs? We answer unhesitatingly, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and we are warranted in the response by the recorded testimony of myriads, covering a period of over a half a century. A course of the Bitters, begun in any stage of the affliction, and persistently followed, will terminate in cure. The Bitters restores tone to the epigastric nerve, renews and purifies the juices exuding from the cellular tissue that act upon the stomach, and expels the morbid stomach and the blood, and promotes a regular habit of body. Malaria, kidney complaint, nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia give way to this medicine.

Words of Advice.

To those who require a stimulant. There are many to whom we would recommend you; we think there are just as many to whom we would not. There are dealers in any other class of merchandise, and again we believe that there are many who sell whisky, and other commodities, who are not reliable. We have noticed that our best physicians and superintendents of hospitals have by their testimonials highly recommended Klein's Silver Age Balm, therefore we say this is the place to which we would advise every one to go, to sell six-year-old (cuckener) full quart, or six quarts for $5. Wines, Brandies and Gins, cheap as the cheapest. Send for complete catalogue and price list to Max Klein, 32 Federal street, Allegheny, Pa.

The Disagreeable Winter Gone.

Now that the cold, drizzly rains are transformed to delightful springs, and the sun is to pleasant drives, it would be well to look about and prepare for the lurking disease often coming upon us in the spring. We have a remedy to follow our daily avocations we should be in good health and spirits. No well regulated family is without a supply of some kind. Deception is probably more practiced by unscrupulous dealers in liquors than any other business. Max Klein, 32 Federal street, is a reliable party; to him we point with pleasure. No one who misrepresents, no matter how false colors with him. His Silver Age Balm is positively pure and sold everywhere for 25 cents per quart only. His six-year-old Pennsylvania Balm at $1 each quart, or six quarts for $5, are as represented. His wines, brandies and gins are as good and reasonable as any in the country. Never Neglect a Cold.

Dr. Austin Flint says in the Forum: "It is probable that a person with an inherited tendency to consumption would never develop the disease if he could be protected against the infection with the tubercle bacillus. In the light of modern discoveries consumption can no longer be regarded as an incurable disease. Kemp's Balsam, when taken in time, has saved many from consumption. At all druggists, 50c and $1. Sample free."

Rheumatism Can be Cured.

It has baffled the skill of our best physicians, and there are to-day more men, women and children suffering from this terrible disease than ever before, and the opinion seems to prevail that it is incurable, but this is a mistaken idea for it can be cured by using as directed Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup and strengthening Plasters. Prepared by Hibbard's Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich.; price $1.00 per bottle or six bottles for $5.00; or we will send it to any address for the same price. Biggs and Best.

It is not always true that the best things are contained in the smallest packages. A striking exception to this rule is found in Van Wert's Balm for the Lungs. This remedy which is so remarkably efficacious in the treatment of coughs, hoarseness, incipient asthma, bronchitis and consumption is put up in large bottles which contain the medicine in the most convenient and ordinary form. The Balm is for sale by W. B. Tice, druggist, corner Franklin and Locust streets, Johnstown, Pa. Trial size free.

Special from Ewert, Mich.

G. V. Bruce, Druggist, Ewert, Mich. I want to say to you that Hibbard's Rheumatic Syrup is, in my opinion, the greatest medicine ever put up. You are fully aware how lame and sore I was at the time you advised me to try the remedy, my back and ankles were so sore and lame, and the pain so severe that I could scarcely move about. Three bottles of this remedy cured me when every other medicine I tried failed. It is a valuable medicine.

FRANK W. HANDY.

The above statement is true and it affords me much pleasure to recommend this medicine. G. W. BRUCE. Ask your druggist for it. Prepared only by Hibbard's Syrup Co., Jackson, Mich. For sale at Slater's drug store, corner of Main street and Park Place, Johnstown, Pa.

My mind and eyesight have improved wonderfully. I advise all persons thus afflicted to use this great remedy." J. M. TANEY & CO., druggists, Buffalo, N. Y. They All Failed.

The following letter from Mr. W. A. Thompson, of Columbus, Wis., is peculiarly interesting: "My wife," says he, "has been treated for her nervous system and nervous prostration by three doctors in New York, two in Chicago, one in Philadelphia, one in Cincinnati, and at the large institutes in Buffalo and New York. They all failed. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine helped her wonderfully."
