A Sig Stating Theater.

In the Star Theater, one night during the week, says a New York Presswriter, I sat alongside of a lady who was very much annoyed because a lady in front of her had an enormously large hat, she was sitting back in her chair. The big hat, however, was seldom where the lady in the rear could see over it, and at last in flerce despair I heard her say savagely to the lady in front: "You must either take off your hat or sit back in your seat; I cannot see otherwise." The obstructionist never moved a muscle of her face or body, but cool and stinging as a whiplash came these quick works of reply: "Why didn't won but the whole house?" Whew!

EASTERN newspapers are gravely discussing the propriety of asking legislative intervention to prevent the playing of foot ball. Statistics are adduced to show that not one man gives up his life in the twenty-four-foot ring where a score are killed in the rush line. The conclusion reached is that if the brutal side of human nature must be indulged, it is reached is that if the brutal side of human nature must be indulged, it is better to gratify it in the comparatively cheerful and exhibitanting pastime of prize fighting. It is indorsed as less demoralizing and less brutal than the game that now attracts in its stead, the tendency of which, it is claimed, is toward the days of bull fights and gladiatorial contests.

CURIOSITY becomes a vice when it is only an itching to learn what is amiss respecting others.

Parls—In this city and in Germany, Austria and Belgium, the grip is steadily increasing. Many members of the lunatic asylum at Gheli, in the province of Antwerp, have died, and the disease still rages with great violence.

died, and the disease still rages with great violence.

Massillon, O—Three members of the family of Philip Dothelmer, living two miles west, have died since last Friday from the grip. A son, a young man, was buried Sunday, Mrs. Dothelmer died Wednesday and a daughter, aged 25, died Thursday, Mr. Dothelmer and a daughter, aged 25, died Thursday, Mr. Dothelmer and a daughter, aged 15, are also lying dangerously ill with the same disease. The number occeeds the aggregate for each of each of the three preceding weeks. The mumber exceeds the aggregate for each of each of the three preceding weeks. The mortality from diseases of the respiratory organs is unusually heavy. He victims of influenza have been for the most part persons between the ages of sixty and eighty and have included very few youthful persons.

DIED OF NEGLECT.

Sensational Testimony by the Surgeona of the Baltimore.

Vallejo, Cal., Jan. 14—A genuine sensation was developed in the Baltimore investigation, a thing entirely unexpected at this stage of the proceedings. The case had dragged along slowly in the morning session, a number of sailors being recalled to testify as to the soberness of Riggin, Turnbull and Davidton before and during the riot. After testifying to the wounds of the members of the Baltimore's crew, they declared that the death of Turnbull was directly caused by neglect in the hospital where he was carried by the police. The Chilians refused to allow the Baltimore's surgeons to treat their men, and declined to do it themselves except in a very superficial way. For four days the surgeons vainly begged Judge of Crimes Foster to allow them to remove the sailors to the Baltimore, but not until it became probable that Turnbull would die would he grant them permission. The men were taken to the ship, but it was too late for Turnbull. Blood poisoning had set in, and Turnbull died five days later. The surgeons were positive death resulted from neglect and imperfect treatment in the hospital. The Sisters of Charity who had charge seemed to regret their inability to help the surgeons it appears that as result of the mob two sailors of the Baltimore were killed, five were seriously wounded, being disabled from 100 to 44 days, and 12 received elighter wounds, being disabled from two to eight days. It further appears that if Riggin not been shot he would probably have recovered, as his knife wounds were not very serious.

For example, upon the top of one of the mountains of the moon, the photograph shows a luminous white spot that looks like snow. If that is show, and if it was not there before, the presence of an atmosphere is indicated. It has been believed that the moon has no atmosphere, and, therefore, is uninhabitable; but, if it should be demonstrated that snow falls upon the surface of the satellite, the accepted theory would be upset, and astronomers would begin to study the moon with new and greater interest. If the moon were inhabited, it is very likely the works of man would have been seen there before now.

It is very likely the works of man would have been seen there before now.

The growing and harvesting of crops would produce changes of appearance easily distinguishable by the aid of such a glass as the Lick telescope. Objects upon the moon are detected by their shadows, and a projection or eminence fifty feet high casts a shadow large enough to be seen through the Lick telescope. If Professor Holden, studying his series of photographs, should discover, some day, a new shadow where none had been cast before when the moon was in the same position, under the same light, he would know that there had been a change upon the surface, either part of the crust upheaved by some internal movement or a building up of living creatures. The shape of the shadow might tell the nature of the projection.

Professor Holden does not expect to find any traces of man's work on the moon, but he may ascertain if any changes have taken place there within thirty years.—Great Divide.

The Ear of Dienysius.

Of old, Syracuse was the most important city in the Island of Sicilly, and in the early part of the fourth century before Christ it was governed by Dionysius the Elder. He is commonly called the Tyrant of Syracuse—that is to say, a ruler who had usurped power, not a legitimate ruler who governed brutally, which is the sense in which we nowadays use the word "tyrant." Near the city there are several vast caves, formed by the action of water in the limestone rocks, and one of these is known as the Ear of Dionysius. This cavern is really a long tunnel. For a distance of nearly two hundred yards it is about seventy feet high, and then the roof begins to descend. At the further end of the high arch, and at some sixty feet from the floor, is a small hidden chamber hollowed in the rock. Here, so the story goes, Dionysius used to listen to the talk of the prisoners confined below, who whispered among themselves of their plots and plans. It is said to be the fact that a slight whisper if uttered near one of the walls, can be heard in this chamber at a distance of fully 200 feet.

Meaning of "Drawback."

"Drawback" in commerce signifies the paying back on the exportation of goods the duty levied on them when imported. For instance, certain goods come into this country and duty is paid on it; if the same goods be afterward sent away out of the country, the duty previously paid upon it is returned, and this duty returned is called "drawback."

woman's suffering and woman's weakness. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription puts a stop to it. It's a remedy for all the delicate derangements and disorders that make her suffer, and a cure for all the diseases and disturbances that make her weak. It's a legitimate medicine, that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nervine that soothes and strengthens. For bearing-down pains, displacements, all the functional irregularities peculiar to the sex, it's a safe and certain remedy. Other medicines claim to cure? That's true.
