EDITORIAL REMARKS.

THE dark horses in the political stakes are beginning to get restive.

TODAY it looks like Cleveland and Harrison; next week it may look entirely different.

It is questionable whether the discovery of dynamite and other powerful explosives has been beneficial to the human race.

It may in time become the proper thing for presidential candidates to go through the same course of training that prize-fighters do.

MR. BLAINE must expect to do some hard hitting before long, or he would not have gone to William Muldoon for points on physical culture.

SENATOR CHANDLER, of New Hampshire, is opposed to the election of Senators by the people. Does he doubt his ability to carry his state?

"SHALL we annex Canada?" asks an exchange in a long and learned editorial. Certainly we shall, when the proper time comes. Ask us something hard.

MR. BLAINE SAYS it would be "constructive suicide" for him to attempt to do the work which devolves upon the President of the United States. Next!

SENATOR GORMAN appears to think that the road to the Democratic nomination lies through the Cleveland pasture, hence the "taffy" he has been giving Cleveland.

A NOTED Chicago divine recently preached a sermon on "The Devil's Harvest Time." That time must be when preachers indulge in heated theological discussions.

ACCORDING to Mexican testimony the military officers of the United States caused more trouble in Mexico than Garza, the alleged revolutionist, did. This is serious, if true.

NEW YORK City is going through one of its periodical shake-ups in connection with the erection of the Grant monument. Everything goes up in New York, but the monument.

THE donkey is said to live longer than any other domestic animal. If true, this accounts for the occasional turning up of politicians whom everyone supposed to have died years ago.

THE Indian celebrates the return of spring by engaging in the "Bear Dance," the white man by holding primary elections and nominating conventions. Viewed from the Indian's standpoint, the white man is the fool.

THE Chinese Exclusion Bill may be as unwise a measure as its opponents say it is; but the methods of its opponents to create public sentiment against the bill have not been such as to earn for them the reputation of being wise.

LONDON, Paris, Madrid, and now Vienna has a visitation of the Anarchist with a grievance and a bomb or can of oil. Happily for them they have no Somerset county moonshiners, and their lot is not so sore as it might be.—Pittsburg Times.

SENATOR SHERMAN'S recent speech on the character and public services of his brother, the late Gen. Sherman, has reopened the controversy, which raged in 1865, concerning the terms offered by Gen. Sherman to Gen. Joseph E. Johnston.

If one may believe Washington advices, the free coinage of silver is dead again; but when death has been so often announced, and as often followed by a vigorous kicking on the part of the alleged dead "critter," one becomes a little suspicious.

ONE of the funny things of the day is the chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Convention congratulating that body that "the danger of the passage of a free coinage bill seems for the present averted." Isn't that a little like thanking God at being delivered from themselves?—Pittsburg Times.

THE Duke of Portland must have heard that the late Senator Plumb attributed much of his political success to his having for years subscribed to all the papers published in Kansas, for the Duke subscribes to every paper published in England. By and by, when England becomes a republic, the Duke of Portland may be elected President.

THE Meyersdale Commercial gives it out flat that the Garrett county silver mine is a fraud. Bro. Smith will be made to see his error later on, and when he is thoroughly convinced that the said mine is all "O. K.," then you will see long articles in the Commercial every week about the Meyersdale silver mining region.

HERE'S political profundity for you: The New York Herald says of the Presidential election: "If the Democrats put up the right man on the right platform, Rhode Island is more than likely to wheel into line." The same might be truthfully said of all the states. The only difficulty about any party carrying any state is the selection of the right man and the making of the right platform.

THE STAR is creditably informed that the Garrett county silver mine is not "salted," the Meyersdale Commercial to the contrary notwithstanding. If Meyersdale does not get a move on herself, Salisbury will have electric connections with the silver mines before that town gets done dreaming about her proposed electric road to Salisbury. No, the silver mine is not "salted." There is good silver ore there in abundance and it is being worked with much profit. Garrett county has a right to feel very proud of her silver mine.

SINCE the murder of old Hochstetler, the whiskey business is being discussed in all its phases. A good many of our exchanges are of the opinion that the whiskey tax should be abolished, and THE STAR is of the same opinion. There is no reason why the government should put the traffic into the hands of a few men. If it is a legitimate business no man should be required to pay a tax to go into the business. Years ago when there was no tax on the stuff, there were no moonshiners, and should the whiskey tax be abolished, the moonshiner's occupation would be gone. This would do away with lots of murders and other high crime, which the whiskey tax is directly responsible for. The train of evils resulting from taxed liquor is far greater than could possibly result from free whiskey. The world would be far better off without any liquor at all, but if we must have it, there is no good reason why it should be taxed. When whiskey was made at nearly every farm house, years ago, there was no need of adulteration to make up for the revenue, no desperate bands of moonshiners, and there was less drunkenness and crime resulting from the traffic than now.

What the Rhode Island Victory Means.

There are one or two features of the Rhode Island election of special interest. For years the Democratic stock assertion was that a large majority of those citizens who were deterred from voting by the provisions of the State Constitution were Democrats, and that many of those who did vote, being largely employed in the manufacturing industries, were practically coerced by their employers into voting the Republican ticket, and had little, if any, more rights at the polls than Republicans claimed were accorded the negroes in the South. When all the former class were enfranchised by the recent changes in the law, and the Australian ballot system was adopted, they confidentially proclaimed the downfall of Republicanism in Rhode Island.

Wednesday's election shows how unfounded were either their assertions or their hopes. With a secret ballot and 10,000 new voters, the Republicans won, gaining over 6,000 adherents to the Democrats' 3,000. Could anything prove more conclusively how woefully the latter under-estimated both the independence and intelligence of the voters of Rhode Island?

There are some Democrats, too, who are trying to place the responsibility of their defeat upon Grover Cleveland, while his friends claim that had he not dropped a couple of tons of his eloquence and argument into the contest, the result would have been even worse than it is, rejoicing with the joy of the celebrated young doctor who had both the mother and the child die on his hands, but "pulled the old man through." There is nothing in either position. The result in Rhode Island was not the defeat of any man, but the defeat of a party and a policy. Democracy and Free Trade were alike repudiated and no humiliation attaches to Mr. Cleveland in which his party has not its share. Nor could the Democrats, much as they tried to do so, hide the free silver issue, or cloak it with Mr. Cleveland's presence; for more significant and more potential than his letter against free coinage was the vote of his party in Congress but a few days before. The Democracy cannot belittle the result in Rhode Island, nor dodge its significance. Their party and its policy on protection and finance were on trial there, and the verdict was against them.—Pittsburg Times.

An exchange says: Masked "bugging parties" are coming in vogue again in some localities and are drawing cards for church socials. By paying 15 cents a man is allowed to hug a girl, but he is first blindfolded. It is pleasant for the company to see how mad a married man gets when, on removing the bandage from his eyes he finds that he has been hugging his wife and 15 cents gone for nothing except as revenue to the church.
