

The Higginbotham Burglars.
It was 3 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Higginbotham shook her husband.
"Ugh," he responded unconsciously.
"Hiram! Hiram!" she exclaimed in a whisper.
"Ugh," he observed.
She gave him another shake.
"Hiram," she whispered, "there's robbers down stairs."
"Ugh?" he ventured again, this time with a rising inflection indicating that he was gradually absorbing the idea that something was wrong. She gave him a tremendous shake.
"Ugh," he almost shouted, sitting straight up, "what in thunder's the row, Maria?"
She clapped her hand over her mouth.
"Sh—sh—," she whispered, "there's burglars down stairs."
"Aw," he growled, "we ought to be thankful they are not up-stairs. Go to sleep," and he fell back to the pillow.
"Hiram, I tell you," she insisted with another shake, "there's burglars down stairs. I heard them. You go down and see what they want."
"Maria," he protested, "I'll do nothing of the sort. If they don't see what they want they can ask for it. That's business."
"But you shall go down, Hiram, and see," she urged and pleaded at the same time.
"I won't, I tell you, Maria. Because your father owns a dry goods store is no sign that I believe it is no trouble to show goods, and I repeat, madam, if those burglars want anything they've got to wait on themselves. It's after business hours all night. You must think we run an all-night place. Go to sleep, I tell you."
Mrs. Higginbotham gave a sudden clutch at his arm.
"There," she nearly screamed, "I hear them coming up-stairs, now."
"Well, dear," he said soothingly, "you'd better jump up and put on a dress. It will never do in the world for you to receive strange gentlemen in your present attire."
"Well, I'll be murdered in our beds," she wailed.
"Do you really think you will?" he inquired with some interest.
"I'm sure of it, Hiram," she sobbed.
"Suppose you get out and lie on the floor, Maria, and then you won't be," he suggested heartily. "I'm willing to take mine right here in bed, where it's warm."
Mrs. H. began to cry.
"What's the matter, Maria?" Mr. H. asked as if he had just that moment discovered her grief.
"You're a mean, horrid man, Hiram Higginbotham," she said in her natural voice, and she began to get out of bed.
"Where are you going, Maria?" he inquired, uneasily.
"Down stairs," she answered heroically. "As between you up-stairs and the burglars down stairs, I prefer the burglars," and down stairs she went, and the black cat in the preserve closet upset four jars of her finest quinces in its mad effort to escape.
She screamed, but Hiram Higginbotham made no sign, he knew he had forgotten to put the cat in the cellar when he shut the house up for the night and reported to his wife that everything was all right.—Free Press.

An English medical paper says that sickness, not due to previous disease or exciting causes, can be prevented, or at least modified, if people would take a few sensible precautions. A head covering should be used as little as possible, and never indoors, in trains, or in closed carriages, in summer and still weather straw hats are best; in winter light felt, ventilated and unlined. Too constant washing of the hair is unnecessary, as well as harmful. Once a week is quite enough for cleanliness as well as for maintaining the strength of the hair. The same remark applies to constant brushing; continual brushing, especially with hard brushes, should be avoided. There is a common notion that greasing the hair is vulgar, and it is now regarded as "bad form." The consequence is that many people fall into the other extreme, and never apply any pomade at all. After the hair has been washed it is quite beneficial to apply a moderate quantity of some form of simple grease or oil.

Deserved to Lose It.
A Camden, N. J., lady deposited her purse containing $257 in a lamp-post letter box Wednesday instead of the letter. It was restored to her by Postmaster Browning.

Mrs. William Lohr.
Of Freeport, Ill., began to fall rapidly, lost an appetite and got into a serious condition from Dyspepsia. She could not eat vegetables or meat, and even toast distressed her. Had to give up housework. In a week after taking Hood's Sarsaparilla she felt a little better. Could keep more food on her stomach and grew stronger. She took 3 bottles, has a good appetite, gained 22 lbs., does her work easily, is now in perfect health.

KANSAS DEADLY CYCLONE.

TWENTY BODIES RECOVERED AT WELLINGTON, AND MANY PEOPLE STILL MISSING.

Wellington, Kan., June 1.—It is now known to a certainty that 20 lives were lost in Friday night's cyclone in this city, and the fatally injured list is adding hourly to the list of dead. The Phillips House register cannot be found, and the clerk, Henry Adams, is unconscious from injuries, so that he cannot tell who were in the building and not now accounted for. Following is a list of the dead so far as identified: Adamson Leonard, Jesse Bowers, Thomas N. Cornwall, Frank Campbell, Mattida Carson, Caroline Dillard, French, James Hastie, James Harrison, James Hendricks, Henry James, Ida Jones, William Jones, Wharton Mason, James Mayer, J. K. Sasher, a bride of three months, burned to death; her husband is insane from grief, and was placed under restraint; Mamie Strand, sister of Mrs. Sasher, burned to death; X. Silva, Hart Upson, James Weaver.

The injured, many of them fatally, so far recorded are as follows:
Charles Adamson, Miss Bishop, Jesse Brown, wife and child, Guy Colby, child; Mrs. Henry Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. East, Edward Forsythe, E. J. Forsythe, child; Silva Forsythe, Walter Forsythe, Lieutenant William French, Salvation Army; Mrs. J. J. Hanna, Mattie Edges, child; Mrs. Robert Millard, Carrie Mitchell, child; Mrs. Robert Murphy, Ralph Katekin, child; Mrs. Charles Stoner, child; Mrs. W. H. Tucker, Richard Weaver, child.

A TERRIBLE TWO MINUTES.
The cyclone was not exceeding two minutes in accomplishing its terrible work of destruction and death. The resident portion of the city that was in the line of the storm, which was about two and a half blocks wide, is laid low. Its path was located among the best residences in the city, as well as hundreds of small homes, and their occupants from a wandering army of homeless, homeless citizens.

Every house left standing is a hospital for the reception of the injured.
Many incidents of the storm are remarkable. The ball that was in progress at the Phillips House had just begun. The music had scarcely struck up when the storm came. Ladies in evening dress fled terror-stricken into the streets. Strange to say, not one of those who thus ran out of the hotel was killed, although nearly all were injured to some extent. Where the ball room stood is now a pile of brick and timber 12 feet high.

Another strange freak of the cyclone was its method of handling the infant child of Henry Bower. The Bower's home was unroofed, and the baby taken from the cradle, carried four blocks and laid on the green grass in the Mayor's yard where it was found crying in the heavy rain storm early Saturday morning, unharmed. It did not even have a cold, and did not seem hurt from its all night exposure on the wet ground, with a wind blowing a regular tornado until daybreak.

Twenty freight cars were standing in the Rock Island yards. Ten of them were taken in one direction and ten another, the two bunches being found a mile apart smashed to smithereens. The electric light dynamo and a ponderous Westinghouse engine were picked up like shingles and carried over the town and deposited not far from the Phillips house ruins.

Another freak of the storm was the manner in which a plate glass was taken from the elegant spicery block and carried several yards, set up against a frame house, and from losing a few chips around the edge, was not broken. Trees torn from their roots and houses were turned right-about-face. Groves were lifted until they flung limbs in the upper floors of the ruins. How this was done is beyond explanation, but it is a fact, nevertheless. In one instance a horse was actually taken from his stable and landed on top of a two-story building. The Lutheran Church, a massive frame building, one of the most substantial of its kind in the city, was taken up, turned completely over, and now stands with the floor upward, as solid apparently, as if it had been built that way. The old church house, a solid, two-story stone structure, was completely demolished and reduced to gravel and splinters. A light frame office, that a pair of donkeys could drag from its foundations, was left standing intact by the side of the ruins of the old church house.

MANY KILLED AT HARPER.
HARPER, Kan.—The cyclone that devastated the city of Wellington Friday night struck this town about three hours later. The depot was blown away and all electric communication with the outer world cut off. At present 12 people are dead and many more not accounted for. The list of known dead here is as follows: Mrs. F. A. Beatty and child, Mrs. James B. Gallagher and child, house fell on them; Mrs. J. A. Strahan, William Stevenson, Mrs. John M. Tomlin, baby and child. Mrs. Tomlin died from apoplexy caused by fright. There are scores of injured, and at least 50 people are missing.

The scene in the devastated town is one of ruin and destruction. Hardly a building remains in the entire town except the depot, and the place is strewn with debris from end to end. The force of the cyclone was inestimable. It took a locomotive that stood near a creek half a mile away. Hundreds of families are homeless and without food or shelter.

HOMELESS PEOPLE DRENCHED.
WELLINGTON, Kan., June 1.—The most terrific rain storm that ever visited this section fell between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock this morning. The water came down in torrents and the streets were running rivers within ten minutes and unroofed stores and residences were flooded, greatly adding to the misery and distress caused by the tornado. The homeless need immediate help. They are suffering for the absolute necessities of life. Contributions sent to Mayor Thompson will be judiciously distributed. Each hour adds to the number of the injured, and many are not only destitute but ill from exposure.

A GREAT FLOOD IS COMING.
The Biggest in 50 Years predicted. The Missouri and Mississippi Rivers Raising.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 4.—The Missouri river is still slowly raising at this place, and the indications point to a repetition of the great flood of 1844. Reports from all points up the river as far as South Dakota say that the rise is coming, and this is taken as evidence that it is snow water which is on its way down.

If this is the case then there will be the biggest flood that has been seen on the lower rivers in almost half a century.
The Visible Supply of Grain.
The visible supply of grain on May 28, as compiled by the New York produce exchange: Wheat, 27,448,000 bushels, decrease 1,150,000 bushels; corn, 8,868,000 bushels, increase 924,000 bushels; oats, 3,175,000 bushels, increase 313,000 bushels; rye, 613,000 bushels, decrease 108,000 bushels; barley, 871,000 bushels, decrease 22,000 bushels.

IMPORTANT POLITICAL CONVENTIONS.

The Iowa Prohibition State Convention convened at Des Moines and a complete State ticket was nominated.

The Illinois Prohibition State Convention met at Springfield and nominated R. L. Link, a farmer, for Governor, and a full State ticket. The platform declared against the liquor traffic and denounces high license, sustains the present compulsory education law of Illinois, declares in favor of woman suffrage, against alien ownership of land or mines, and in favor of free coinage. A resolution was adopted in favor of closing the World's Fair on Sunday, and against the sale of liquors on the fair grounds.

SCRANTON, Pa.—The Prohibition State convention met here. A. A. Mullen, of Cumberland county, was chosen temporary chairman, and Judge S. J. Hanna, of Scranton, permanent chairman. There were 900 delegates and 200 alternates present, together with about 1,000 spectators, and the convention opened with song and prayer. The convention nominated Hon. Amos Briggs, of Philadelphia, for Judge of the Supreme Court, and the Hon. J. W. McKeigh, of Pittsburg, and S. E. Chase of Northampton county.

A resolution was adopted opposing the opening of the World's fair on Sunday. The usual resolutions concerning the liquor traffic were adopted. The other resolutions follow:

That our circulating medium whether gold, silver or paper, should be of equal value and sufficient to meet the demands of business. Its issue in payment of the obligations of State and national debt, and to the people and not through individuals or corporations.

Our tariff should be so levied as to furnish adequate revenue for the needs of the government economically administered, relieving necessities used by the mass of the people and for the benefit of labor by protecting American productions and manufacturing against the competition of foreign nations. The details of our tariff laws having become the foothold of the party politics to the great disturbance and damage of our productive industries and commerce, we believe that such details could be better adjusted by a tariff commission to recommend to congress duties to meet the wants of the government so graduated as to protect American skill and labor against the competition of the world.

Producing, transporting and communicating public corporations being created for the common good should be under the control of the State and not a strict exercise of the powers and privileges conferred, which while securing to them a just return for skill and capital employed, would protect the people from extortion and monopoly which may be imposed by unscrupulous managers.

That foreign immigration has become a serious burden on the industry, and is a chief factor in depressing wages and causing discontent and demands revision of our immigration laws, especially excluding criminals, paupers and those physically and mentally disqualified for self support.

That all men should be protected by law in their right of one day's rest in seven. Our common school system free of all interference by or division of public funds to sectarian uses, and the equal right of property. Our present system bears most heavily upon farmers and owners of homes and should be changed so that equal rights should be secured to each citizen according to his ability to pay.

Equal labor should receive equal wages without regard to sex, and no citizen should be denied the right to vote on account of sex.

All officials should be paid by salary and all fees should be paid into the public treasury.

The alarming growth of monopolistic combinations, the control of the great wealth in the hands of the few, and the increasing poverty of the masses, the depression of agricultural and other industrial pursuits, the lessening of wages, the oppression of wage earners and the prevalent political corruption, have become matters of grave political concern and loudly call for reform. These evils require growing out of special and general legislation, and reform which will secure to every citizen, rich or poor, equal rights, equal protection and equal opportunities.

HIGH-WATER MARK TABLE

DEDICATED AT GETTYSBURG, PA.

A Memorial to the "Brave Men Who Met There in Mortal Combat."

At Gettysburg, Pa., under a cloudless sky and in the presence of thousands of spectators, the "high-water-mark" tablet at the "Copee of Trees" was dedicated on Thursday. The exercises were in keeping with the character of the memorial whose consecration services they were.

Col. J. B. Batchelder, government historian of the field and the originator of the present occasion, then briefly pictured the result of the first and second-day fight, and in describing the battle of the third day told about the "Copee of Trees" why called the "High-Water Mark." Mr. Swope of Gettysburg presented the tablet to the Battlefield Memorial association. At the close a gun boomed, a bugle sounded and the flag fell from the tablet. The crowd cheered and then John M. Vanderville, on behalf of the Memorial association, accepted the monument. Ex-Governor Beecher delivered the oration, and James Jeffrey Roche of Boston read the poem. Short addresses were also made by Generals Schofield, Slocum, Webb and Veazy. The Marine band played the "Star Spangled Banner," and the Rev. R. W. McKnight, D. D., pronounced the benediction.

The monument stands about midway of the federal lines on July 3, 1863—that is midway between Round Top and Cemetery Heights and is just in the rear of the "clump of trees" which were pointed out by General Lee to General Pickett as the objective point of the federal line, which it was hoped the flower of the Virginia infantry would break through, while Stewart's rebel cavalry attacked the same point from the rear.

An open bronze book surmounts the monument. It weighs 372 pounds and is supported by a pyramid of cannon balls. The left page bears a legend describing the assault and that on the right tells of the repulse. The whole rests on a highly polished granite with a massive water table of Gettysburg granite. A wall of granolithic cement, supported by dressed granite curbing and approached by hammered granite steps, surrounds the monument. In the center of each space on the stone stand 12-pounder Napoleonic guns, with pyramids of cannon balls. Three bronze tablets on the plinth of the monument tell an interesting story. On the south side are the names of all the regiments that marched in the charging column, while on the north side are the names of the regiments and batteries which met or assisted to repulse the assault. In front of a tablet containing the names of the States that made appropriations to erect the monument.

A REVIEW OF TRADE.
Business Generally Has Improved to Some Extent.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The tone of commercial reports from various parts of the country indicate that business has to some extent improved. Collections throughout the country are better, and excepting the bursting of a speculative corner at Chicago, there has been no special excitement of any kind in business. The fictitious prices established for corn at Chicago lasted just long enough to bring into that market enough of the actual grain, to bury the speculators, and the corner broke with great losses, not merely to the operators, but also to the brokers. Wheat has declined half a cent, the western receipts being unusually large, though the exports from the eastern ports have also been quite large. Oats are a shade lower, pork products unchanged, and oil a little lower. The stock of cotton in the country continues far beyond the record of previous years, and there is every reason to believe that even a great reduction in the yield will scarcely reduce the aggregate supply for the year below the quantity usually required for consumption.

At Boston business is more active. At Philadelphia there is an increase in sales of iron and hardware is quite active, while the drygoods trade has improved with the weather and wool is strong. Trade at Baltimore is generally good, with some improvement in retail business and increase in the export trade in cattle. At Pittsburg finished products of iron and steel are in good demand, their prices are the lowest ever known and the glass trade is fairly active. The drygoods trade at Cleveland is excellent and other trades fairly active except on iron and ore. At Cincinnati tobacco sales are unusually large, and whiskey is active.

General business at Chicago is greatly in excess of last year's record, and while retail prices are relatively low, the relatively small, there is great increase in wheat and flour, cured meats, dressed beef, lard and cattle.

The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 207, as compared with totals of 188 last week. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 221.

ENORMOUS FLOOD LOSSES.
Millions Washed Away by the High Water in Southern States.

St. Louis, June 4.—A careful estimate of the losses by the floods in the South shows a total of $29,300,000, divided as follows: Missouri—Wheat and corn destroyed 500,000 acres, $10,000,000; homes ruined, $1,000,000; cattle drowned, $50,000; railroad property destroyed, $150,000. Total, $11,000,000.

Tennessee—Cotton loss, $600,000; wheat loss, $1,200,000; homes and cattle, $100,000. Total, $1,900,000.

Arkansas—Farms inundated, 9,333; loss as follows: Corn, $2,500,000; cotton, $5,000,000; other products, $2,500,000. Total, $10,000,000.

Mississippi—Loss, $1,000,000.

Louisiana—Loss, $3,000,000.

Kentucky—Loss, $200,000.

This estimate does not include stagnation in business. A conservative estimate of the amount of damage from the high water from Kansas City to New Orleans will reach the enormous figure of $50,000,000.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., June 1.—The two-story frame house of James Sullivan was demolished by a cyclone.

CALCUTTA, June 1.—The cholera epidemic at Seringar, in the Vale of Cashmere, continues its terrible course. In the last four days, out of 1,731 persons attacked, 896 have died.

How Different Now.

In former time it was esteemed highly improper for single or unmarried persons to wear rings, "unless they were judges, doctors or senators." For all but these dignitaries such an unwarranted ornament was considered an evidence of "vanity, lasciviousness and pride," and was looked upon as a great piece of presumption on the part of the wearer.
