Too Many Books.

A remarkably clever woman, the wife of a German writer, was constantly urged by her friends and admirers to write, but a smile was her usual reply. She thoroughly appreciated her husband's genius and success, but one day, when asked why she "wasted" so much time knitting, instead of finding some occupation more suited for her brilliant talent, she replied placidly: "I have never heard that there are too many stockings in the world, but I have often heard it said that there are too many books. So it seems to me it is more praiseworthy for me to knit a stocking than to write a book!" That her decision was a wise one facts seem to prove; even eminent authors cannot always dispose of their work. Thoreau was once able to boast that he had on his shelves a library of several hundred volumes, the greater part of which he had written himself. His publishers could not dispose of the first edition of his first book, and thinking it useless to keep the volumes longer, had them sent to their author. James Russell Lowell was rather more fortunate. He brought out his first volumes of poems at his own risk—a modest edition of 500 copies. Small as the edition was, however, it was not small enough, and the young poet was in danger of heavy loss; but fate was kinder than the so-called "reading public." His publisher's warehouse took fire, the books were burned, and they were fully insured! Not only had the poet lost nothing, but he could boast with truth that the first edition of his book was exhausted. He had sold it to the insurance company.

As Large

As a dollar was on my poor little boy, sickening and disgusting. They were especially severe on his legs, back of his ears and on his head. I gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two weeks the sores came off and all over his body and hands by flesh and skin. When he had taken two bottles of HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, he was free from sores. HARRY K. The several hundred workmen of the iron and steel mills in Kensington (Phila.) who went on strike some weeks ago have now decided not to return to work until the strikers of the Carnegie mills do so. They acknowledge they are not in the trouble at Homestead and Pittsburg, and state that they have come to the decision to stay out for a principle.

FACTS ABOUT HOMECIDE.—The census bureau at Washington issued an elaborate bulletin on the subject of homicide in the United States in 1890. It appears that of the 82,329 prisoners in the United States June 1, 1890, the number charged with homicide was 9,386, or 8.97 per cent. Omitting 35 who were charged with double crimes, 6,956 of them, or 94.65 per cent, were men and 333, or 6.35 per cent, were women. As to color, 4,452 were white, 2,739 negroes, 94 Chinese, 1 Japanese, and 92 Indians. As to the nativity of the 4,452 whites, 3,157 were born in the United States, 1,213 were foreign born and the birth place of 55 is unknown. More than one half of the foreign born whites are unaccustomed, and nearly one-fifth are unable to speak the English language.

At West Superior, Wis., the rolling mills of the West Superior Iron and Steel Company were shut down. All men who were supposed to be in any way connected with the Amalgamated or had taken part in the recent demand for the adoption of the scale were discharged. Manager Matties says he will not recognize the association in any event. About 200 men are affected.

At Philadelphia, Hughes & Patterson have posted a notice that they will fill their rolling mills with non-union men. Several hundred of their employes have been out since July 1. Strikers can return if they quit the Amalgamated Association.

Another Pinkerton detective, Edward Spear, a resident of Chicago, died at the West Penn hospital, Pittsburg. This makes a total of 11 deaths that have occurred as a result of the trouble.

The New York bureau of vital statistics report 1,336 deaths in that city during the week ending July 16, the rate being 38.09 per 1,000 inhabitants yearly. This rate is the highest in 30 years, with the exception of the week ending January 11, 1890, during the prevalence of the grip, when there was 1,424 deaths.

All but 20 of the 670 members of the British House of Commons are now elected. They are divided thus: Liberals, 263; Nationalists, 65; Parnellites, 9; Conservatives, 236; Liberal-Unionists, 44. This gives Gladstone a gain of 80 seats in Great Britain. The Conservatives gained 19 and the Unionists 6, leaving a net Liberal gain of 53. Of the remaining 20 seats Gladstone will probably get two, giving him a majority of 45, which he says is sufficient. The Conservative majority when Parliament was dissolved was 68.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS.

MONDAY.—The Senate had a field day of oratory to-day—a two hours and a half speech by Mr. Washburne on the Anti-Opium bill and three hours of the liveliest debate on the bill for the appropriation of the World's Fair appropriation of the Sunday Civil bill. The general trend of the debate indicated a present intention of the World's Fair managers to open the art galleries and the grounds on Sunday but to stop the running of machinery. Also to provide a pavilion for religious services and to have sacred concerts. With respect to a vote on the question of doing more that to elect a strongly marked diversity of views the Senate adjourned.

There were appropriated $250,000 for printing the reports of the eleventh census. Bills were passed to construct a bridge across the Missouri river at Omaha, and to amend the First Methodist Church of Jackson, Tennessee, $4,059 for its use as a hospital during the war. Nothing else of importance was accomplished.

TUESDAY.—The Senate considered the anti-Opium bill and the silver bill, but no decisive action was taken on either.

Mr. Voorhees introduced a labor arbitration bill, indirectly retreating to the Homestead trouble, which under objection was laid over until to-morrow. No conclusion was reached as to the Sunday closing of the World's Fair but it was supposed to take a vote to-morrow and to limit debate to the five-minute rule. Adjourned.

The subject under discussion in the House was the constitutional amendment to elect Senators by a direct vote of the people. Mr. Tucker, of Virginia, made an earnest speech in support of the measure. No vote was reached. The House adjourned.

WEDNESDAY.—The Senate to-day finally disposed of the Chicago Exposition provisions of the Sundry Civil bill. Mr. Quay's amendment, closing the exposition on the "first day of the week," was adopted without a division after a motion to table it had been defeated. Mr. Quay's amendment was further amended by Mr. Pfeiffer to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors on the grounds except for medicinal, mechanical or scientific purposes. With these conditions attached the Senate voted to issue to the World's Fair managers 10,000,000 copies of silver half dollars. The House adjourned.

THURSDAY.—The Senate devoted most of today's session to the Sundry Civil appropriation bill, and passed it before adjournment. The vote of Wednesday in committee of the whole on Mr. Pfeiffer's amendment to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors within the grounds of the Columbian Exposition in Chicago was reversed, and upon its adoption being read, 21 yeas, 29 nays. Mr. Vest's substitute for Mr. Quay's Sunday closing amendment was laid on the table.

Mr. Jones, of Nevada, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, reported a resolution for the appointment of a select committee of seven Senators who should be authorized to investigate and report the facts in relation to the employment of armed men known as Pinkerton men or Pinkerton detectives in connection with the differences between workmen and employers, involving bloodshed and loss of life at Homestead, Pa. The investigation is to include the House of Representatives by a vote of 154 to 136. This kills the bill for this session. The House then passed 60 pension bills and adjourned until to-morrow.

AN ISLAND SWEEP BY FIRE.

12,000 LIVES BELIEVED TO BE LOST.

The Entire Population of Sangier of the Philippine Group Reported Extirpated by a Volcanic Eruption.

SYDNEY, July 18.—Rumors have reached here from Timor that there has been a volcanic eruption on the island of Sangier, one of the Philippine group, and that most of the inhabitants have been killed. A native from the Tatanzi islands, who landed at Selangen four weeks ago, brought a remarkable story to the effect that several other natives had just returned from a voyage near Sangier. They had intended to land on the island, but were prevented by the sight of mountains belching forth smoke and fire.

The natives reported that the "whole island was full," they said, of half burned wreckage, pieces of houses and charred bodies. The whole population, estimated at 12,000, seemed to have been swept in the sea or burned, as no living soul was to be seen. Streams of lava were still flowing toward the shore, showing that the activity of the volcano had not abated.

These reports are partially credited here although they are believed to have been exaggerated. The formation of Sangier is one of the islands known to have threatened activity during the last 10 months.

The Ant as an Egg-Layer.

Some silkworms lay from 1,000 to 2,000 eggs, the wasp 3,000, the ant from 2,000 to 5,000. The number of eggs laid by the queen bee has long been disputed. Butcher says from 5,000 to 6,000, but Spence and Kirby both give several better, each declaring that the queen of average fertility will lay not less than 40,000 and probably as high as 50,000 in one season. The white ant is possessed of the most extraordinary egg-laying propensities of any known creature; she often produces 86,400 eggs in a single day. From the time when the white ant begins to lay until the egg-laying season is over—usually reckoned by entomologists as an exact lunar month—she produces 2,500,000 eggs. In point of fecundity the white ant exceeds all other creatures.

Putting it on a Scientific Basis.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.
