before the mistake should be found out. But it was not long before the ele-phant began to develop symptoms of intoxication. The attention of other keepers was attracted by peculiar noises, the like of which they had never heard before. They hastened to the tent to find the buge bruts rocking from side to side with a peculiar light in its little eyes. One of the men took an elephant hook and endeavored to calm the excited beast, but the medi ine was not of a soothing nature, and Babe became very angry. With a remarkably quick motion the keeper was seized by the elephant's truck, and after being held aloft fully a minute was vio-lently thrown about twenty-five feet, fortunately striking against the side of the tent and narrowly missing a pole.

of the tent and narrowly missing a pole. With a single mighty effort the shans were broken and Babe was free. Staggering from side to side, the animal commenced a wild ram-page through the menagerie. The other elephants were panle-stricken, and the caged animals made mad efforts to free themselves. The tank of the rippopotanus was in the path of the reling elephant, and with oud trumpetings it commenced an attack which would have shortly de-molished the cage had not the keep-rs succeeded in entangling the legs of the elephant in ropes in such a manner that it was rendered help-less. In two hours the effects of the whisky had passed off, and Babe was as peaceable as eyer and free from aramps. as peace cramps.
