AFTER THE GRIP

"I was very weak and run down and did not gain strength, like so many after that prostrating disease. Seeing Hood's Sarsaparilla highly recommended, I began to take it, and was more than pleased with the way it built me up. I think it has made me better than before I was sick. There also been delighted with HOOD'S PILLS, and always prefer them to any other kind now. They do not gripe or weaken. I am glad to recommend two such fine preparations."

THE OLDEST LEGISLATOR.

HON. JOHN YARYAN, Senator for the county of Wayne, in the Indiana Legislature, is, without doubt, the oldest Legislator in the world. He passed his 90th birthday November 27, 1892. He is 14 years older than the State, and is older than its present boundary-line, if not of the Territory formed in 1800, which included everything west of the Ohio. At the time of his birth his parents were living in Blount county, Tenn. The elder Yaryan had married a Miss Freshour, in Chambersburg, Pa., whither four generations back the family had immigrated from its ancestral home in Germany. The name is, therefore, of German origin.

It was one of Senator Yaryan's sons, Homer T., who, as chief of the internal revenue agents in Grant's second term, discovered and exposed the whiskey ring. For his part in this President Grant, true to his friends who had abused his confidence to enrich themselves, removed Yaryan from his position. Secretary Bristow, who was a candidate for the Presidency, promptly notified the President that if Yaryan was removed, he would himself resign. Grant did not want this to promote Bristow's chances for the nomination and so allowed Yaryan to serve out his commission. Bristow made a mistake," said Senator Yaryan. "If he should have allowed Grant to remove Homer, and should then have resigned, he would have attracted the public attention and sympathy to him, and his nomination and election to the Presidency would have followed the Cincinnati convention, and Grant, with all his popularity, could not have prevented such a result."

In the future following the exposure, Homer T. Yaryan's name was prominently before the public for many months. Senator Yaryan, the subject of this sketch, has an interesting personality at 90 years of age. He is tall, broad-shouldered, very slightly stooped, and walks rapidly, with a firm step. His mind is vigorous, his senses acute and his nerves strong. He shows no sign of breaking down. In personal appearance he is said to resemble the late President Johnson. His face shows no more wrinkles than most men of 50. His features are even and plump, hiding the angles. He enlisted in the army, and served in the war of 1812. Few men now living have voted for 18 Presidential candidates, as he has done. It has only been two years since he retired from the practice of law, but he keeps busy as an executor of estates, etc., and as the Secretary of the Odd Fellows' Provident Association. He has no bad habits, and is regular in everything. His present wife is his second wife, to whom he was married in 1847.

GENERAL HAYES LAID TO REST.

Ohio's Illustrious Son Shown Solemn and Impressive Honors in His Burial.

On the crest of a snow-clothed slope, by the side of his beloved wife, the bier surrounded by his children, a President-elect, the members of President Harrison's Cabinet, representatives of the Army and Navy of the United States, delegates from both Houses of Congress, the Governor of Ohio, members of the legislative bodies and masses of military commands, the ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes was laid to rest at Fremont, Ohio, on Friday.

General Hayes's remains were viewed by thousands previous to the funeral services. Across his breast were the tri-colored ribbon of the Loyal Legion, with the insignia of the same, while on his breast was the badge of the Army of West Virginia. A spray of graceful palms alone rested on the casket, while on a flag-covered table were the many floral emblems which arrived from every part of the country.

It was 11 o'clock when the special car "Grassmere," bearing President-elect Cleveland reached the station. The meeting between the President-elect and the late President Hayes's family was impressive in the extreme. The sons of the late President and his daughter, Miss Fannie, received him in the large heavy, and Mr. Cleveland clasped each of them fervently by the hand, and remained with bowed head. The two ex-Presidents had been closer friends than the public knew for many years.

The funeral services were extremely simple. Dr. James W. Bashford, president of the Ohio Wesleyan University, and the Rev. J. L. Albright, pastor of the Methodist church of this city, officiated. The remains were carried to the hearse by members of the Twenty-third Ohio Infantry Regiment. The honorary pall bearers were Secretary Foster, Governor McKinley, General Wagner, Governor New York; Brigadier General Joseph C. Breckinridge, United States Army; Captain Howell, United States Navy; Congressman Haynes, Dr. Culver and General Jacob D. Cox, of Cincinnati. Following them came President-elect Cleveland and Mr. William Henry Smith, as a special representative of the family.

The ceremonies at the grave were brief. Commander Green, of Eugene-Rawson, G. A. R. Post No. 32, of this city, read the soldiers' burial service from the ritual of that order.

Silent and motionless the troops stood at parade rest as the remains of the ex-President were lowered to his last resting place beside that companion, who had been closest and dearest to him in life, whose meeting smile had wooed him across death's dark river into lands of everlasting bliss.

THE COLD AFFECTS TRADE.

A General Shrinkage in the Volume of Business.

R. G. Dun & Co's "Weekly Review of Trade" says:

Severe weather appears to account in part for a somewhat general shrinkage in business in many branches and checking purchasing, output and deliveries in others. Yet, owing to the same influence, stocks of winter goods have been extensively cleared off and resulting orders for spring goods have been more liberal. The volume of domestic trade continues larger than last year, but exports are decidedly smaller, from New York in three weeks of January being $8,592,831 below the same weeks last year. As imports are meanwhile very heavy, for the two weeks of January $3,019,130 more than last year, the prospect of further gold exports causes no surprise.

There is much hesitation regarding the action of Congress on various measures. The uncertainty about the silver purchase repeal, the prospects of the Anti-Under bill and the defeat of the pooling amendment of the Interstate Commerce act all influence markets and trade to some extent. There is also a somewhat general increase in complaints about collections, although money at nearly all markets is comparatively easy and in supply adequate for legitimate demands.

Wheat is weaker, with large receipts and small exports, and it is still noteworthy that the Western deliveries are not consistent with reports of the last crop. Corn is lower and oats are higher. Cotton fell 1c, but recovered a shade with large sales, anti-option reports affecting the trading more than the changes in actual supplies. Pork products are somewhat stronger.

The stock market has been strong. Money has fallen 2 1/2 c. The confidence regarding the future of business is in all parts of the country remarkably strong and general, especially in view of the interest taken in pending measures in Congress. The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number 230. For the corresponding week of last year the figure was 245.

HUGH DEMPSEY CONVICTED.

The Poisoner of Homestead Non-Unionists Found Guilty as Indicted.

At Pittsburg, Hugh F. Dempsey, master workman of District Assembly No. 3 of the Knights of Labor, was found guilty as indicted, on the charge of administering, or causing to be administered poison, with intent to commit murder, to Wm. E. Griffiths, a waiter in the Homestead mills. It was the seventh and last day of the trial, and to the defendant it was one of all importance. He arose before the bar, when the jury filed in their place after three hours' deliberations. His face wore the same obdurate expression as throughout the trial, and he leaned with both hands on the railing in front of him. The verdict felt like a thunderbolt upon him and his counsel. It was unexpected. The defendant's head fell for a second, but the surprise was only momentary. His countenance brightened immediately.

To all appearances he fully realized the gravity of his position. He was the first of the wholesale poisoning conspirators to be convicted. He had been indicted as Judge Stove put it, the originator of the plot secretly ordained to break the Homestead strike. "If they tell the truth," said Judge Stove in his charge, referring to the testimony of Gallagher and Davidson, "Dempsey was the originator and principal in the poisoning plot. The jury sustained the evidence of these two men as to the commission, as the judge said, by Dempsey himself."

The verdict in the case is a peculiar one in criminal practice occurring in a case where the charge was other than that of murder. The fatal results of the use of poison are not found elsewhere than in a murder case, and the finding is somewhat of a novelty in judging a person guilty unless charged with murder. The maximum penalty for the offense is a fine of $1,000 and separate or solitary confinement. It is a charge of exceeding seven years. The added instruction to the jury striking out the third and fourth counts of the indictment left two, which would make it impossible for the court to commit Dempsey for fourteen years, with the fines prescribed.

The cases of Beatty, Gallagher and Davidson are next on the trial list, but it is likely they will be postponed until the motion for a new trial in Dempsey's case is disposed of.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

Falling Off in Both Lines on Manufactured Goods.

The importation of manufactures of iron and steel during the year 1892 amounted to only a trifle above $50,000,000, while in 1891 they amounted to over $40,000,000. This falling off is due partly to the reduction in tin plate, of which there was imported during 1892 but about 600,000 against 700,000 pounds in 1891. In iron ore the importations during 1892 amounted to 685,000 tons, against 775,000 tons in 1891, the value in 1892 being $1,750,000, against $2,400,000 in 1891. The importation of cutlery for 1892 amounted to $1,400,000 in value, in 1892 to $1,000,000 in value. There was also an increase in the importation of taggers' iron or steel. The importations for 1892 amounted to 55,000,000 pounds, against 28,000,000 pounds in 1891. Perhaps the most marked increase of importations of 1892 over 1891 was in the case of balmy purposes, the importations for 1892 amounted to over $60,000 worth, while those of 1891 amounted to but $6,455 in value.

In glassware the importations amounted to about $8,500,000 in value, against $8,000,000 in the preceding year. The largest item in the transportation of glass came under the head of "cylinder, crown and common window glass, unpolished," which amounted to 70,000,000 pounds, against a trifle over 60,000,000 in the preceding year.

In exportations there was a slight falling off in the value of articles manufactured from iron and steel. In wire and cut nails there was a marked increase in the exportations. There was a marked falling off in the exportation of "ingots, bars and rods of steel." The exportation of machinery in 1892 was a little greater than in 1891, except in the matter of engines, in which there was a general falling off.

A Brilliant Thought.

There may be more ways than one to kill a cat, but I learned of a novel way to protect that animal from the mischievous youngster the other day.

It happened that I was stopping at a summer boarding house up in the Catskills for a few days where an old maid boarder had located herself and her three cats for the season. The children in the house, from the youngest to the oldest, had led the three cats such a dance that the felines were justified in wishing during their waking moments that they were dead.

It had kept the old lady on the jump to keep her cats out of the children's hands during the day and to protect them at night they had to be locked up in her room. Thus stood affairs until a few weeks ago the old lady happened to think of a scheme whereby her own and her pets' troubles would be ended. She organized a juvenile society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

It was a thought that entered her head at 1 o'clock in the morning as she lay awake trying to devise a method to relieve the cats of trouble. The next morning every child in the boarding house was corralled in the old lady's room, and she instilled into the young hearts love for everything that wall-crawled, flew or crawled, including babies.

The children, little comprehending the sport they were sacrificing, or the deep motive of the old lady, all took a pledge to live up to her teachings, and not only this but to get every new boarder's children to join the society, too. For fear the novelty would wear off and the children would forget their pledge, the old lady sent to the city and obtained little badges for the children to wear.

The result is that all the children in the house strut about like miniature policemen; the cats are recovering their composure, besides patches of new fur, and the old lady can do her knitting without fear of being disturbed to rescue her pets from all but sudden death.—New York Herald.

Smoking a Prehistoric Habit.

The habit of smoking dried herbs in pipes is evidently of enormous antiquity, for both in the British Islands and in many parts of Europe and Asia, to say nothing of America, the supposed native land of smoking, pipes of scapstone and red clay, which could not have been used for any other purpose than the burning of some form of fragrant weed, have been discovered in graves and tumuli which date far beyond the dawn of history. With regard to these islands, Pearson's Weekly thinks there is not the slightest doubt that smoking was practiced long before tobacco was introduced by Hawkins and Raleigh. In the Historie of Plantes, published in 1578, occurs the passage: "The perfume of the dried leaves of coltsfoot, layed upon quicks, coles taken into the mouth of a funnell or tunnell helpech such as are troubled with shortness of winde and fetch theyre breath thicke and often." This points only to the medicinal use of the practice, but if there were any doubt as to the antiquity of smoking for pleasure among our ancestors, it would be disposed of by the following statement of Dr. Petrie, one of the most learned of Irish antiquarians. He says: "Smoking pipes of bronze are frequently found in our Irish tumuli or sepulchral mounds of the most remote antiquity. On the monument of Donough O'Brien, King of Thomond, who was killed in 1267 and interred in the Abbey of Corcomroe, in the County of Clare, he is represented in the usual recumbent posture with the short pipe or huddeen in his mouth."

The Vatican Vintage.

Between 3,000 and 4,000 litres of wine is made every year from grapes grown in the gardens of the Vatican. This wine is used almost exclusively in administering the sacraments at mass. The Pope also assists at the harvesting, and this is one of his annual occupations to which he looks forward with great pleasure. Here, before his Holiness has every year, in October, found amusement in shooting certain kinds of small birds which are plentiful in the gardens, but this year this pastime was discontinued, owing it is said, to the fact that last year several French journalists, half jokingly, half seriously, said that it was beneath the dignity of so illustrious an old man as the Pope to hunt birds, to say nothing of being rough on the birds. —New York World.

The Farmer and the Grocer.

A grocer would not pay a farmer the price of a ten-pound turkey for one that weighed but seven pounds.

Why should a farmer pay a grocer the price of the Royal Baking Powder for a baking powder with 27 per cent. less leavening strength?

The Royal Baking Powder is proven by actual tests to be 27 per cent. stronger than any other brand on the market. Better not buy the others, for they mostly contain alum, lime and sulphuric acid; but if they are forced upon you, see that you are charged a correspondingly lower price for them.
