TOPICS AND COMMENT.

It will soon be an easy matter to organize a full regiment of Statesmen-out-of-a-job.

FITTING square pegs into round holes is an easy job compared to Presidential cabinet making.

CALIFORNIA will for the first time be represented in the U. S. Senate by a native, when Senator White takes his seat.

THE people of this country will know more about Hawaii in the next few weeks than ever before, and knowledge is always desirable.

THE number of men of whom their friends say "he can go into the cabinet if he wants to" is already larger than the membership of the cabinet.

GAZZA's men must have all been leaders. Another one of the "leaders" has just been captured. Why not corral a follower or two, just for a change?

THE House committee was appointed to get at the facts in the Panama canal scandal, not to suppress them by holding secret sessions. Do you hear, gentlemen?

SENATOR VEST would better go slow in abusing the newspapers. 'Tis a dangerous sport for a public man to engage in, as he may learn to his cost, as others have done.

If the Minnesota legislature passes that bill making it against the law to wear hoop-shirts in that state, every woman in the state will have one as soon as it can be bought.

DEMOCRATS charge Judge Jackson with being a Republican, and the Republicans say he is a Democrat. The Populists have not up to this time expressed any opinion of his politics.

WITH a gigantic type trust already in existence and a paper trust now forming, it would seem that the capitalists will soon be in a position to put the screws on the newspaper publishers.

THE killing of that amateur pugilist in New Orleans might be duplicated many times among both professionals and amateurs, without serious detriment to the welfare of the rising generation.

THERE is danger that the University market may soon be glutted, if the craze for establishing new ones continues. By the way, are any of the existing universities so crowded with students that they have to turn away applicants?

THE Lincoln Call jocosely observes: "What base wretch has the nerve to say the west is not progressive? Look at Kansas. A double-ring legislative circus, with two clowns, two ring masters, any number of trick mules, monkeys and the like, and both going at once."

To what straits may the poor Indians be reduced next? An Indian princess is maid of all work in a Denver family, and she is said to be a good one, too. She doubtless believes it better to hustle for "steen" dollars a month than to attempt to live on royalty and wind.

BOAST as we may of the wonderful stride this country has made in manufactures, in railways, in commercial progress, it is half a century behind in road-making. It is about time that the country should wake up and take some interest in a substantial road-building.—Toledo Commercial.

THE old, old question of whether colleges can turn out ready-made journalists is being revived. At least one American college tried it and acknowledged failure. A college education is a good thing for a newspaper man—or for any other man, or woman either—but a practical newspaper education can never be acquired outside of a newspaper office.

PRESIDENT PALMER, of the World's Fair Commission, has come out in the Detroit Journal in favor of Sunday opening of the exposition, on constitutional as well as on moral grounds. The former will commend themselves to Congress; the latter are commended to the well-meaning zealots who insist upon confounding the moral code with the obsolete Blue laws.—Somerset Vedette.

HON. GEO. V. LAWRENCE, of Washington county, has prepared a bill repealing the "bounty on fox scalps," which cost the counties in the aggregate $40,000 a year. Mr. Lawrence claims that foxes are more beneficial than destructive, from the fact that they kill large numbers of mice, which little animals, he says, do a good deal of harm to the hay and other product of the farmer. On the outside of a fox hole discovered recently he declared 161 dead mice were found, all of which were carried there as food for the young foxes that had inhabited the dwelling place under the ground.

THE Law and Order Society of Pittsburgh having secured the conviction of the publisher of a Sunday paper, under a century-old blue law, announces its intention of preventing the sale and distribution of newspapers on Sunday. What these people need is a taste of their own medicine. Stop the street cars. Close the drug stores. Barricade the fruit and cigar stands. Lock the barber shops. Enjoin the livery stables. Make life on Sunday a misery for everybody who does not want to go to church badly enough to walk. A drastic and equal enforcement of the blue law will soon bring the bigots to terms.—N. Y. World.

THOUGH lying in a Pittsburgh jail and smarting under a sense of being wronged, Hugh O'Donnell had the manliness and courage to send out a letter to workingmen, and this is his honest statement: "A number of alleged champions of our cause, who have been the source of constant injury to us, have been playing the part of the demagogue before the people of the country, pretending that the Home-Steal strike was caused by the tariff. I was always a protectionist. I am a Republican and a Protectionist today, stronger than ever, and although I am in prison tonight, for the sake of myself and my fellow-workingmen who are interested in the cause of American labor, I beg of them not to think for a moment that protection is not the greatest blessing that can be bestowed upon us."

FEW people are aware of the fact that women are eligible in this state to the office of school director, but such is the fact, nevertheless. Nearly every community has some women that would make the best kind of school directors, and in many cases it would be good policy to elect them to the office, especially in places like Salisbury, where the "lords of creation" are always quarreling over school matters. Give the women a chance, for they can not do any worse than the men. The time is coming when they will all have the right to vote, anyway, and may God speed the day. The idea that women are not intelligent enough to vote and to hold office is a delusion. Some of the most competent school directors in the world are women, and they can be found all over the West and states. In school matters the West is far ahead of the East, yet many of their most competent directors and county superintendents out there are women. And, by the way, what class of men usually cry down woman suffrage? Almost invariably the illiterate and uneducated class. There are exceptions, of course, but they are few.

SENDING teachers and preachers to the World's Fair seems to be the latest ad-tising scheme among both city and country newspapers. The Uniontown Standard has determined to send the most popular preacher of Fayette county, and the Genius of Liberty of that place has this to say concerning the purpose of its local contemporary:

The Standard proposes to send the most popular preacher in the county to the World's Fair, free of expense to the preacher, his popularity to be determined by votes. It is too much like "flyin' in the face of Providence" to send a Fayette county preacher alone to Chicago. The editor of the Standard should either go along and take care of him, or else send the preacher's wife with him. Chicago is a dangerous place for a popular preacher to be alone. The Genius would like to do something for the preachers, but isn't especially concerned about the most popular ones, for they are able to go if they want to, and we will take with us, and show him the sights, the poorest, meanest, most unpopular preacher in the county. He doesn't need to get votes. We'll take his word that he fills the bill. If the other papers in the county will look a little after those between these extremes, the preachers will be out of the way and we can give our attention to other unfortunates.

THE Democracy assured the people all through the late presidential campaign, that although they did not believe in the present tariff, nothing would be done to suddenly, or even at all, to disturb the business interests of the country during Mr. Cleveland's administration. We are glad to be assured by a gentleman who is very close to the tariff throne, that this promise has lately, in some way, come to the leading Republicans of the country, in such shape that they are convinced there will be no violent interruption of business or manufactures; and, while Congress will carefully reduce the heavy burden that has been laid on the shoulders of the people, by so-called protection laws, every move made will have regard to the prevention of any thing like panic or distress.—Somerset Vedette.

What dizzy rot the Vedette can get off when it tries! What the Democracy assured the people all through the campaign and in its platform was this: "We denounce Republican protection as a fraud." Many of the big men of the Democratic party declared from the stump that the whole Republican tariff system would be wiped out at one fell swoop, if the people would return their party to power. But now, since Cleveland is elected, Democratic politicians and newspapers are very busy telling the dear people that they are not going to make any radical changes and thereby cripple the business interests of the country. If the Republican protective system was such a great evil before the election, why is it not so now? If it was in order to talk of tearing it out, root and branch, before the election, why is it not in order to talk that way now? Simply because the Democrats have always disbelieved their own doctrine.

Watterson on Lincoln.

From Caesar to Bismarck and Gladstone the world has had soldiers and statesmen who rose to eminence and power, step by step, through series of geometrical progression, as it were, each promotion following in regular order, the whole obedient to well understood law of cause and effect. These were not what we call "men of destiny." They were men of time. They were men whose cause had a beginning, a middle and an end, rounding off life with a history; full, it may be, of interesting and exciting events, but comprehensible and comprehensible, simple, clear and complete. The inspired men are fewer. They rose from shadow and went in mist. They arrived, God's work upon their lips; they did their office, God's mantle about them; and they passed away, God's holy light behind the world and them, leaving behind a memory half mortal and half myth.

TRIED by this standard, and observed in an historic spirit, where shall we find an illustration more impressive than in Abraham Lincoln, whose life, career and death might be chanted by a Greek chorus as at once, the prelude and epilogue of the most imperial theme of modern times? Born as lowly as the son of God, in a hovel, reared in penury, squalor, with no gleam of light nor fair surrounding, it was reserved for this strange being late in life, without name or fame or preparation, to be snatched from obscurity, raised to a supreme command at a supreme moment and intrusted with the destiny of a nation. Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Where did Mozart get his music? Whose hand smote the lyre of the Scottish plowman and staid the life of the German priest? God alone, and as surely as these were raised up by God, inspire by God, was Abraham Lincoln; and a thousand years hence no story, no tragedy, no epic poem, will be filled with greater wonder than that which tells of his life and death. If Lincoln was not inspired by God, then their is no such thing on earth as a special providence or the interposition of divine power in the affairs of men.—Louisville Courier-Journal.
