Writing on the Clouds

This much-talked-of-feat has at last been accomplished in England. Capt. Ronald Scott has succeeded in adapt-ing the search-light apparatus to the purpose of advertising. The experiing the search-light apparatus to the purpose of advertising. The experi-ment was made at the Acton Hill Electrical Works. Unfortunately the high was absolutely clear, and there were no clouds at all on which the rays of light could be thrown. How-ever, the practicability of the scheme was fully proved by directing the search-light on a cloud of steam and on other material objects—such as a bank of trees, a house-wall, and the grass lawn—when in each the winds stood out clearly and well de-tined in letters of light. Even at a distance of full half a mile the words the distances. The effect of directing the beam of light on a cloud of steam was very curious, the letters being re-peated again and again, one behind the other, increasing in size as each distance.

Big Frog-Big Story. During the winter of 1886-87 a petrified frog was found in a quarry near Elmira, N. Y., which was two feet eight inches in length and weighed over 100 pounds. This is the largest specimen of fossilized frog yet brought to light.

And All Admire Billy.

At the time Shakspeare wrote his plays there were not in all the world as many English-speaking people as there are now in New York and New Jersey. To-day more than 100,000, 000 people speak English.

Cabbage Stalks Sixteen Feet High

Cabbage Stalls Sixteen Feet High. The manufacture of cabbage walk-ing sticks is quite a trade in the I-le of Jersey, and the enormous size to which these stalks grow regivers their conversion into these useful articles a somewhat casy matter. There is a local song greatly admired by tour-ists containing the words: "Here we grow the cabbage ten feethigh," and, incredible as this may appear, they have even reached a height of six-teen feet. These cabbage walking sticks can be bought in London.— Philadelphia Record. Edward Everet Hale, writing in the Atlantic Monthly the story of his boyhood, says that the members of his father's family, children included, "went to meeting" every Sunday, morning and afternoon, as did all other "respectable people." Any one who had been seen driving out of town on that day would have lost credit in the community. The after-noon service was ten minutes shorter than the morning service, Doctor Hale remembers, though he has never known what occasioned the difference. At the close of the afternoon service Sunday school was held.—''a very dif-ferent thing from what it is now." "You were expected to learn some thing, and you did." Doctor Hale has often said, and still believes it is true, that fully one-half of all he now knows about the facts recorded in the Bible was ac-quired in the Brattle Street Sunday-school before he was 13 years old. "We had little books," he says, "which contained facts on these sub-jects. We had to study these booxs as we did any other school-books, and we recited from them as we recited any other lesson. "I do not thing there was much school agreeable to the children. We were told to go, and we went; we were told to go, and we went; we were told to go and we went; we were told to go and we sup evening service was a thing almost unheard of in Boston—"quite as much an in-novation as calling an Episcopal minister a 'rector' is now to old-fash-ioned Episcopalians." According to the Puritan theory each family is a church, and the father is a priest competent to carry on worship. Any proposal for a Sunday evening service anywhere else except at home was thought to be an interference with the rights and duties of the family. "At this moment," says Doctor Hale, "you will find in old Boston families the habit of going to visit ne another on Sunday evening, but not of going to church. Where the people go to church steadily on Sun-ay evening, you may generally guess that they are not o'old Boston blood."

Is the verdict of every woman who has used Royal Baking Powder. Other baking powders soon deteriorate and lose their strength, owing to the use of inferior ingredients, but Royal Baking Powder is so carefully and accurately compounded from the purest materials that it retains its strength for any length of time, and the last spoonful in the can is as good as the first, which is not true of any other baking powder.

A Testimonial Worth Reading.

MT. STERLING, KY., FEB. 13, 1889.

I desire to make a brief statement for the benefit of the suffering. I had been afflicted with catarrh of the head, throat and nose, and perhaps the bladder for fully twenty-five years. Having tried other remedies without success, I was led by an advertisement in the Sentinel-Democrat to try Hall's Catarrh Cure. I have just finished my fourth bottle, and I believe I am right when I say I am thoroughly restored. I don't believe there is a trace of the disease left.

Respectfully, WM. BRIDGES. Merchant Tailor.

I had been troubled five months I had been troubled five months with Dyspepsia. I had a fullness after eating, and a heavy load in the pit of my stomach. Sometimes a deathly sickness would overtake me. I was working for Thomas McHenry, Druggist, Allegheny City, Pa., in whose employ I had been for seven years. I used August Flower for two weeks. I was relieved of all trouble. I can now eat things I dared not touch before. I have gained twenty pounds since my re-covery. J. D. Cox, Allegheny, Pa. (9) read y made medicine for Coughs, Bronchitis and other diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Like other socalled Patent Medicines, it is well advertised, and having merit it has attained a wide sale under the name of Piso's Cure for Consumption.

It is now a "Nostrum," though at first it was ompounded after a prescription by a regular physician, with no idea that it would ever go on the market as a proprietary medicine. But after compounding that prescription over a thousand times in one year, we named it "Piso" Cure for Consumption," and began advertising it in a small way. A medicine known all over the world is the result.
