TOPICS AND COMMENT.

HAWAII is now pronounced by some people, "Hai wait-ther."

THE Fifty-second Congress was—but why speak ill of the dead?

THE politician recognizes but two classes; the selected and the rejected.

SECRETARY GRESHAM! Do you hear? Ex-President Harrison is going to write a book.

THE Congressional investigations of this session all resulted in the regulation way—talk.

MR. CLEVELAND received no encore from his party for his remarks about civil service reform.

THE who-can-write-the-most-words-on-a-postal-card fiasco is again at large. Johnny, get your gun!

THE crop of pneumonia from the seed planted in Washington, on Inauguration day, promises to be very large.

THE revenues of the government might be considerably increased by putting a tax on the use of the prefix "ex."

THE tanners who have entered a trust need a good tanning, and the public should endeavor to give it to them.

THE monopolies now dictate to the people, but the time will come when an aroused people will do the dictating.

THE new Postmaster General smokes cigarettes. That is the gravest charge ever brought against any member of the new cabinet.

THE tone of the Cabinet comments in some of our exchanges indicates that some editors expected Mr. Cleveland to select a Hill cabinet.

UNLESS all present signs shall fail, silver is going to figure largely in the financial fight that is going to be made in the Fifty-third Congress.

THERE'S much talk about President Cleveland's foolfriends. Wonder if anybody remembers a President who was not troubled with a similar brood.

IF all the boards of health in the world should agree with the one that has denounced kissing, because of its being a spreader of disease, kissing would still go on.

IF it be true that men are governed through their stomachs, Aunt Dolly, the Kentucky negress, who is to be White House cook, ought to have a big pull on this administration.

EVERY patriotic citizen believes in "honest money," but it seems to be almost difficult to reach anything like a unanimous agreement as to what constitutes "honest money."

PROF. DOLBEAR says there is nothing in the nature of things to prevent our exchanging signals with the other planets. True, professor, but how about understanding the signals after they are made?

THERE must be something wrong about the statement giving the number of hogs as 6,900,000 less than we had last year. Railroad men have been of the impression that the hogs were increasing all the time.

THE Iowa preacher who drew such a graphic word-picture of hell and its victims as to drive one of his female hearers insane, might find it profitable to hold a séance with himself on the dangers of an unbridled imagination.

"SENATORIAL courtesy" received a bad wrench when Senator Hill accused Senator Allison of being a conspirator, and was in turn called a blank liar, but mutual apologies restored the trolley to the wire without any casualties.

ONE-FOURTH of the land surface of the globe is in the occupancy of English-speaking people, but the number who speak the English language correctly could be comfortably quartered in a space several million times smaller.

THE Western Union Telegraph Company is said to have decided to compel its employes to leave their labor organizations or give up their situations. Still some people wonder why the sentiment against corporations is on the increase.

GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND ("Gath") is no spring chicken, but we did not suspect how old he was until informed that he had embodied some of his early experiences in a novel, shortly to be published, under the title of "Columbus in Love."

BECAUSE a President is inaugurated amidst the boom of cannon, the blare of brass bands and the cheers of thousands, not one of whom would turn his back on a poor homeless office, it does not necessarily follow that his administration will be long.

WELL, now that we have inaugurated a new President and given his administration a start in its race for the great popularity stakes, we can all devote a few thinks to the World's Fair and the base ball season, both of which will soon be open.

THE editor who widely advertises the fact that his paper will print no silly stories about baby Ruth, ought to acquire a large circulation, but, owing to the extraordinary growth of snobbery in this country, it would be a great risk to give him a guarantee to that effect.

VERY few are aware of the existence of a law requiring that at least once every three years mortgages have entered on the records in the Recorder's office any payments made on the principal, and also payments of interest. The act was passed in 1889.—Greensburg Argus.

GOOD roads have been built in many parts of the country, but no roads ever remained good where taxes were "worked out" in repairing the roads. Some continuous and intelligent, even if not absolutely scientific, supervision of road repairs must be had. Otherwise all the time, labor and money bestowed on building good roads will be thrown away.—New York Sun.

THE Albany Times, a strong Democratic paper, calls attention to the fact that of the 277 electoral votes cast for Mr. Cleveland, 138 were cast by Northern states and 139 by Southern states, and that of the 217 members of the next House of Representatives 108 are from the North and 109 from the South. In selecting three Secretaries from the south, therefore, Mr. Cleveland simply recognizes his obligations to that section.

POOR, pretty little Princess Kaiulani of Hawaii, heir expectant to Liliuokalani's throne, does not take it at all kindly that she is to be stripped of her glory and her expectations and be just a rich young woman in private life, as the United States government and the Hawaiian commissions propose she shall be. She asks, somewhat pathetically, "Have I done anything wrong that this wrong should be done to me?"

Yes, Kaiulani, you have done wrong, and we can tell you what it is. Even you, innocent and sweet as you are, have been guilty of a crime. Your crime is that you believe in the divine right of kings and queens. You believe that by mere virtue of condescending to be born you have the right to rule over a nation, and that its people must maintain you in royal state and utter idleness, giving you every luxury, while they toil daily for bread for you and themselves. You would not give them any equivalent for all you cost them.

No king or queen or royal family ever does give such equivalent. They do not govern, for it is only the representatives of the people who have sense enough to govern. Every king, queen, prince or princess who is thrown out of a job marks one step more in the progress of civilization. That old idea of the hereditary right of kings to rule must be exploded quickly, and the sooner it is done the better for the race. It is an idea that has no right to lurk anywhere in this age of the world. The really royal soul builds its own throne by its own deeds, and none other has any right to a throne.

SINCE the late election, the Berlin Record has come to the conclusion that there is danger of THE STAR turning its end of the county over to the Democrats and Populists. Upon what grounds the Record bases its opinion, is more than we are able to determine. During the late election THE STAR did not work for nor oppose any candidate of any party. It stated in its initial number that it would be a Republican paper so far as state and national politics are concerned, but added that when it came to local or county politics, it reserved the right to work for or oppose any candidate it saw fit to work for or oppose, regardless of the politics of such candidate. And right here we will state that "we will fight it out on this line if it takes all summer." When it comes to borough, township or county offices, our motto is, work and vote for those whom you think will make the best officers, regardless of their politics. So far as local politics are concerned, there is no party principle at stake, and politics should not be considered at borough, township or county elections. The closer the American people live up to this doctrine, the more it will be conducive to good citizenship. No fair-minded or intelligent man can successfully dispute this.

Prior to a borough or township election, each candidate usually runs on a platform of his own construction, and while electioneering usually tells his fellow citizens about what his views are on matters of local interest. If his ideas and theories are popular in the community, of course he will be elected. If unpopular, he will be defeated. Of course, it is well to stick to your party ticket, even in local elections, providing you think it is as good as any other ticket in the field. But if you conscientiously believe that your own party ticket, or any part of it, as the case may be, is not as good as some other ticket, then it becomes your duty as an honest man and a good citizen to vote for whom you consider the best men for the offices. Where is the man who can raise his hand to high heaven and say that he disapproves of this doctrine from pure and honest motives?

When it comes to voting for officers that are strictly political, we can not see how any honest man can split his ticket; for we consider the principles we believe in far greater than the men who sometimes represent them. And on those grounds, gentle reader, we can not go back on the Republican party whenever there are any party principles at stake.

So far as our late borough election is concerned, we can only say that some very good men on both tickets were elected, and some on both tickets equally as good, perhaps better, were defeated. We have lost no sleep over the result and would have lost none had the result been otherwise. But there is no danger of this locality being turned over to the Democrats and Populists. Republicanism always sprouts, buds and blossoms in every fence corner in this locality, whenever party principle is at stake, and it is altogether likely to continue to do so.

Remarkable, Indeed.

We published recently the remarkable literary announcement of an edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, for $20.00, the genuine, illustrated, large type, cloth bound work. A sample volume can now be seen at this office; it is certainly the most astonishing bargain ever offered in the book world. We propose to order a set, and if any of our friends want to join us they can do so and save a little in trouble and expense. See the advertisement elsewhere and come in and see the book. There is an installment plan for securing the work on payment of only five cents a day, or $1.00 every twenty days.

Learn a Trade.

Young man, you can't do it. You can't do it. You can't make your way through this world without work, unless your way is cut very short. Men have tried before you. They have loafed around the street corners, have smoked cigars, and all that, but did not succeed. You are probably no smarter than other boys. Wits alone will not bring success in life; you had better learn a trade of some kind rather than become a chronic, despised loafer, producing nothing for yourself—"nothing to help the world along." The world has little use for boys who have no ambition, and who are not willing to pull off their coats and earn their way to fame and fortune. The good things of this world are not handed to idlers on silver platters.—Ex.

He Knows Anatomy.

Our heart is warmed to deep sympathy for our neighbor, Charles Mayo, who unfortunately received a severe lacerated wound of the thumb and index finger of the left hand, involving the tendons of the extensor primi internodii pollicis, flexor brevis pollicis, abductor pollicis, and abductor pollicis muscles of the first phalanx of the thumb, and the tendons of the first dorsal and the first palmar interosseous muscles of the base of the first phalanx of the index finger. The wound was also complicated by a compound comminuted fracture of the parts.—Leonardtown Beacon.
