TOPICS AND COMMENT.

Gov. GRAY's opponents may have had the most fun, but he has the mission to Mexico.

At this distance Mugwumpery appears to be several laps ahead of Jacksonianism, at Washington.

SECRETARY LAMONT has hired a professional athlete as a "bouncer." Dan, we thought you had more nerve.

MRS. CLEVELAND must be a Mugwump, if it be true, as stated, that she calls herself "a sort of Mr. Cleveland Republican."

The lunch counters at the World's fair will be a mile and a half long, and the cafes in 16 buildings will seat 15,000 persons at once.

ACCORDING to State Senator McCarren, of New York, Roswell P. is not "in it," when it comes to the selection of a National flower.

Who knows what Daniel Webster would think of Hawaiian annexation, were he alive? Hence, the absurdity of quoting his opinions about annexations proposed in his day.

It seems that postoffices are not to be edited under this administration. The mucilage on the stamps is to be made strong enough to stick without the aid of editorial paste.

Why should office-seekers worry? Prof. Totten still insists that the world is going out of business, next September. Totten, however, still charges an admission fee to his lectures.

The California legislature has doubts about the wisdom of allowing so much freedom to the press. Probably it thinks, like some others, that the press should be free to praise but not to blame.

The negro editors of Georgia, representing 12 papers, have issued an address in behalf of the advancement of their race. They recommend that instead of "colored" the word "negro" be used and spelled with a capital letter.

ANY other kind of a tariff than a revenue tariff—one that contains no trace or vestige of protection—if enacted by the Cleveland administration, will stamp the Democratic campaign of 1892 as a gigantic lie. So says the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

AMONG the historical Washington papers is a contract entered into between the Father of the Country and the foreman of his farm. There is a clause in it which provides that the foreman may get drunk a certain number of times each year without suffering the displeasure of his employer.

ESTEEM good roads throughout the country to be as necessary as railroads. In nothing is the United States more behind the times than in its country roads. They should be greatly improved without delay.—U. S. Senator Francis E. Warren, Wyoming, in Memorial to Congress on Road Exhibit at World's Columbian Exposition.

WE have all become familiar by this time with the expression of one of our legislators who, when somewhat confused in the midst of his speech, said, "Mr. Speaker, where am I at?" An Englishman, visiting in this country, heard this phrase quoted several times facetiously, and said to a friend: "The grammar used here in America is very peculiar. I have heard a number of people say, 'Where am I at?' when of course they mean, 'Where is my 'at?'"

THE Bulletin of American Iron and Steel Association says: "The Superintendent of the Bureau of Immigration has been officially advised that the British Government has released a dynamiter named Galla, undergoing an 18 years' sentence, on condition that he will emigrate to the United States. Instructions have been sent to all Commissioners of Immigration to be on the watch for Galla and return him if caught." Let us have more rigid immigration laws.

THE "American woman's suffrage flag" at first glance seems to be an American flag. The stripes are all there, and so is the blue background. But the 44 stars are wanting, and in their place is inscribed on the blue ground the name "Wyoming," and beneath it one large star. It is the suffrage flag, and while thus far only one star recognizes completely the political equality of women, still the association has left space on their flag for other stars as other states fall in line.—Washington Star.

THE great warship "Indiana" was successfully launched from the Cramp's shipyards on the Delaware, February 28, a host of enthusiastic spectators being present. This ship is of over 10,000 tons, the largest size deemed best for best service, its defensive and offensive outfit all American, probably the best in the world. This is prophetic of the coming American merchant marine, safe the world over under such strong naval guardianship.

All hail to a world-wide commerce in our own ships, the result of our solid wealth and varied home industries!

"NO SIR," said a prominent physician recently: "I'm not getting anything like the amount of work that I ought to have at this time of year. Bless me, I had only one new case all of last week. The reason? Why, cholera, of course. The big cities are in better condition now than they have been in years—probably better than they ever were. Old cesspools and vaults have been closed up, sewers cleaned, cellars dried and white-washed and plumbing overhauled, and that has knocked out the usual crop of diphtheria and typhoid disorders. Then, people became more careful in their eating and living than they had been before the Normanna got in, and the result of it all is that they have stopped getting ill and sending for physicians. The cholera was a splendid thing for the cities, but I tell you it has been rough on us doctors!"—New York Recorder.

THE following we clip from the Berlin Record, and we can endorse every word of it. It contains a great deal of good, hard sense and solid food for reflection. The mossbacks that are too niggardly to subscribe for the home paper are not fit to preside over a herd of swine, much less over a public office.

"We have recently been solicited for an editorial send-off for a certain old slow-go who is scratching around to see if he can't get an office of some kind. As he does not possess sufficient enterprise to subscribe for his home paper, we declined to give him a free puff. A man that is too clayish and one-cash to support his local journal would work the office for what there is in it for himself instead of for the public good, if he got it. This is not all. The man who is working for public favor and won't take his home paper is not a very smart politician, and wouldn't know enough to properly conduct a public office if he was elected to fill it. Nor is this all. The man who boycotts his home paper is not a good man to represent the home community in any public position, because he will be influenced by outside papers instead of the home organ and go against home interests in favor of outside interests when questions affecting various sections come up for him to act upon. Newspapers, it must be remembered, are in the nature of public rather than private affairs, and are to be supported more because the community wants and should have a newspaper than because some fellow wants to make a living out of the business. If you find a candidate sneaking around after office, who isn't sufficiently public-spirited to support his home paper, it is a very good plan to just drop him. He is too much of a stick for you to waste your influence and votes on. In fact he belongs to that class of men who usually get left, and you don't want to belong to the 'left' crowd."

Do We Want a Fire Engine? Here is Something Worth Looking After.

We are permitted to publish the following extract from a letter received by R. S. Johns, from his brother Frank of Chambersburg:

"I mail you one of our town papers, which gives an account of the testing of our new steam fire engine. We have a hand engine here that is in good condition, which I will sell very cheap. It throws two streams, but can be made to throw four, by attaching two Siamese couplings to the end of the first section of hose leading from the engine. We have also about 2,000 feet of Catlier hose that is not strong enough for the steam, but very good for any ordinary pressure. We will sell this also at a very low figure.

Now, can't you and THE STAR stir up the people there and form a volunteer fire company, then let the Council send a man here to look at the engine and see it work. With this hand engine you can lift water from any of your wells, also from the river, and for the protection of the town you can build about two cisterns in the central part of town.

This old engine is a very good one for its age, as it has had the very best of care. It was worked by women the time the Rebels burned the town. They stayed the flames and saved thousands of dollars worth of property."

THE STAR would urge our Burgess and Town Council to investigate this matter. It seems to us that this is an excellent opportunity to provide ourselves with fire protection, which is one of the things we have so long needed. Now is the time to act. If fire should break out in any of the large buildings on the west side of Grant street, it would almost wipe out the town, and we would be almost totally helpless to fight the flames. It makes one shudder to think of a fire during our present circumstances. Fire protection would lessen our insurance rates and be a great benefit to our town in many ways. No time should be lost in investigating the proposition made by Mr. Johns, who is well known here as a thoroughly reliable and honorable man. Now then, we are ready for the action of the Burgess and Town Council. Will they act? If not, why not?

A Wonderful Home Library.

The great Encyclopedia Britannica, over 20,500 pages, 10,000 illustrations and 200 maps, large type, good cloth binding, and to be had for only $20, and even that (with $1.00 extra), payable in installments of 5 cents a day, if you want it so—this is certainly wonderful, as true, and ought to make many homes happy, and rich in knowledge at least. See the advertisement elsewhere, and a sample volume at the office of this paper. We are ordering a set; will you join us and save some expense?

How to Get "The Star" Without Money.
