Peculiar Damsge Suit.

Murderer O'Connor, a life convict in the Minnesota Penitentiary, has sued ex-Goyernor Merriam for $25,000 damages. After O'Conner began his sentence he was released on the strength of a new law which provided that the life convicts might be released on a promise to quit the State for ever. O'Conner returned to visit his wife, who was on her deathbed, and was rearrested and tent to the penitentiary. The courts have decided that the second arrest was illegal and O'Connor will be released.

The report made by Bradstreets states that all the larger Eastern cities, except Pittsburg, where general trade is satisfactory, report there has been no improvement within a week.

Bradstreets also states that the failure of the Pennsylvania Steel Company causes much depression and makes it harder for other iron concerns to obtain accommodations, especially in the rail business, because it is doubted whether the receivers can renew the compact of nakers, which expires July 1.

Friday was a magnificent spectacle. The weather was perfect and the enthusiastic thousands who lined the route of march were more than delighted, as was evidenced by the cheering welcome that greeted every flag and every platoon.

The procession was quickly formed and then the superb line swung into Broadway. With muskets at their shoulders and small arms by their sides, the invading foreigners—grim, fierce looking Russian, sturdy Britons, Germans, Frenchmen, and darkvisaged Italians—marched file after file with their own officers commanding and with their own bands playing the airs they love best. Our marines and blue jackets preceded them, and our National Guardsman followed in their rear. The arts of peace had superceded the strategy of war, and the armed forces of nations marched as though our country and theirs were one, and we were brothers.

At 1:50 o'clock the last of the column passed and admirals and officers of the visiting fleets entered their carriages and were driven to the Waldorf, where they were the guests of the city at luncheon.

The Desert Burro Superseded.

A prospector now in Yuma, and who made the trip here from Durango, Col., with two horses, says that the time honored burro, whose ancestry is inseparably mixed up with Mexican history, is not as good an animal for desert travel as the ordinary mustang horse. It has always been considered that the burro had the advantage of the horse in his capacity for endurance on a slim diet. This, the gentleman states, is not so great as is generally considered, although he once had a burro who ate a pair of gum boots and a Navajo blanket one afternoon. This was done merely to show off and was not considered to be a nutritious meal even by the jackass himself, who was of French descent, and merely wished to put on style to humiliate a band of scrub mustang horses with whom he was forced to associate. The gentleman who has had experience with both classes of animals prefers horses to the slow burro and says that although the latter will live a day longer without food or water, yet the distance covered by the horse in a given time is so much in his favor as to render him the superior of the immobile burro.—Yuma (Arizona) Times.
