Coffroth, of Somerset, Pa. Black Aster; g. s. sire, Comet; g. g. sire, Eclipse; g. g. g. sire, St. Giles; g. g. g. g. sire, Wildfire; g. g. g. g. sire, Shoes; dam, Queen Bess; g. dam, British Queen; g. g. dam, Evening Star; g. g. g. dam, Jet, by Fireaway; g. g. g. g. dam, Southwale, by Performer; g. g. g. g. g. dam, Miss Simpson, by Pretender.

The Hackney horses have all along been celebrated for their speed, their power of endurance, and their ability to trot long distances in saddle or harness, keeping up their speed for hundreds of miles in a way not approached by any other breed. CARMO is in the line of descent from Nonpareil, who trotted 100 continuous miles in less than ten hours without showing symptoms of fatigue. If you want a fast trotter, a splendid carriage horse, a gentle family and farm horse, get a Hackney.

CARMO will be in MARYSBURG commencing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 15th, 16th and 17th; BEALIX, Thursday and Friday, May 18th and 19th, and at these places on the same days every other week. SOMERSET, the week commencing on the 8th of May, and every other week and on every Saturday.

TERMS: $25.00, payable when the colt is ten days old. WILLIAM BARNHART, Somerset, Pa., May 10, '93. Keeper.

REV. EDWARD A. WILSON, Brooklyn, New York.

TOPICS AND COMMENT. BOB INGERSOLL recently delivered a lecture entitled "Robert Burns." It has been suggested that the same subject would make a suitable epitaph for Mr. Ingersoll's tombstone.

MORE business failures are now taking place, all over the country, than at any other time for many years. "The good old Democratic days" seem to be returning, just as predicted.

By an act of Congress, the pansy, on May 1st, became the national flower of the United States. The same act declares that the sentiment expressed in connection with this emblem shall be: "Justice, Liberty, Union, Culture and Peace."

SPORTSMEN should acquaint themselves with an act passed by the Legislature, last week, for the protection of game. Among the provisions of the act the killing of quail is prohibited for a period of three years. The season for killing woodcock has been made from October 1 to December 1, instead of July 4 to January 1; and that for grouse from October 1 to December 15, instead of October 1 to January 1.—Somerset Standard.

Very Obstinate. A waggish chap, whose vixen wife, by drowning, lost her precious life, called out his neighbors, all around, and told them that his wife was drowned; and in spite of search, could not be found. He knew, he said, the very nook where she had tumbled in the brook, and he had dragged along the shore, above the place, a mile or more.

"Above the place," the people cried. "Why, what d'ye mean?"

The man replied: "O! course you don't suppose I'd go and waste the time to look below! I've known the woman quite a spell, and learnt her fashions to be well; alive or dead, she'd go, I swear, against the current anyhow!"

WHEN, oh when will old fogyism and nonsensical nonsense in legal forms die out? Some of these old time-worn legal forms and expressions have long ago outlived their usefulness, and when viewed in the light of common sense and 19th century civilization, they appear most disgustingly ridiculous to those who see the folly of a vain repetition of words. The average deed or will contains about ten times as many words as are needed to make the document binding and secure against all contests. A deed, lease or will is usually a senseless jumble and rehash of a large number of words, many of which have the same meaning and intended to answer the identical same purpose. Why all this vain repetition of words? What is the sense and value of it all? The more words of the same meaning that are crowded into a legal document, the harder the document is to understand and the more room there is to pick a flaw and bring about a contest. Then, there is the horde of old time-worn Latin phrases which not one person in five hundred understands, and which should be substituted by good, plain, every-day English. For example, we refer to a Sheriff sale bill which is at present posted up in this town, whereon certain lands in this county are advertised for sale. The document starts out in this wise: "By virtue of sundry writs of fieri facias venditioni exponas levaria facias, issued out of the Court of Common Pleas," etc., etc. Now, how many people who read those bills will know the meaning of one solitary Latin expression contained thereon? The average citizen does not know the difference between a writ of fieri facias venditioni exponas levaria facias and a yellow dog. Why not use English instead of those Latin terms that so few people know the meaning of? In the Western states many of the old Latin terms in law have been done away with. Why not do away with them here? Are we so infernally dead here that we must resort to the dead languages to express that which should be expressed in English? Verily, it looks that way.

Unfortunate. "So politics is lively in your district? What's your candidate's name?"

"Rivers."

"Good name. He ought to run well."

"He ought, but I fear he's to generally damned."

"Yes, darling, we must part. I go west to seek my fortune. When I have found it, I will return and lay it at your dear feet. Farewell!" He went west; he found his fortune; but as he would have had some difficulty in laying it at her feet, he never came back. He had married a rich widow.

Visitor, picking up the baby: "So this is the baby, is it? Bless his little tootsie-wootsies, Kchee! Watch me poke um's rib's." The Boston baby: "Mother, will you kindly inform me whether the deplorable condition of this person is due to permanent dementia or spasmodic and intermittent insanity?"

The Mt. Pleasant Journal says a Laurelville man has improved upon the green-goods game. He takes one of the circulars so plentifully scattered about, to a neighbor, expresses his confidence in the scheme and regrets his inability to invest. Talk of this kind usually ends in the greedy listener proposing to furnish the money. The obliging agent agrees to invest it. After a few days' absence he returns with a doleful story of how he has been robbed by the green-goods swindlers. The enterprising "agent" has netted $1,500 to $2,000 in this way.

A Short time ago we were talking with one of our intelligent school teachers—one who has taught in various parts of the county—and in the course of the conversation he remarked that he had often noticed that pupils who belong to families that read newspapers are brighter and more progressive in their studies than those who are reared without the newspapers. And he added that it was remarkable to see the number of families here and there throughout the county that never think of taking a newspaper of any kind.—Oakland Republican.
